Truman has charged repeatedly during his 18,000 miles of campaigning that Eisenhower is responsible for the very troop withdrawal decision in which he joined as a member of the joint chiefs of staff.

In a statement last night making public the hitherto secret document, he declared:

"False and malicious attacks upon the loyalty and judgment of either the military or civilian officials who were involved in these crucial decisions are inexcusable and are extremely damaging to the proper conduct of the government."

Prices Generally Firm On Exchange

Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,258,000 shares.

Western oils traded actively as Peak, Petrol and Scurry added pennies in a turnover of about 25,000 shares each. Central Explorers and Canadian Atlantic slipped.

Senior golds gained strength and interest appeared to switch from secondary issues. Malartic gained pennies in a turnover of about 27,000 shares and Bralorne advanced. Junior producers advanced with some busy trading. Prospects held firm. Holding companies slipped.

Strength in papers, steels and miscellaneous issues buoyed the industrials list although utilities and foods made little headway.

Base metals slipped from an early firm position. Cassiar gained but Hudson Bay and Chromium slipped.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The American dollar was at a discount of 3 15-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Friday's noon rate was 96 9-32 cents. The pound sterling was $2.70 11-16, against $2.70⅞ Friday.

tomorrow's presidential contest is "highly uncertain."

According to the reports, The Times says, neither Republican Dwight Eisenhower nor Democrat Adlai Stevenson "can be regarded as of now as certain of election."

The newspaper's lead story added:

"The reports indicate that the vote in many states might be so close that either candidate could obtain a sizable majority of the electoral votes.

"In other words, a comparatively few thousand votes, placed properly in the seemingly doubtful states, may determine the result of the election."

There are 531 electoral votes, and 266 are necessary to elect a president.

SURVEY RESULTS

The Times, which supports Eisenhower, gives this state-by-state breakdown of the outlook — as recorded by correspondents — with the number of electoral votes in each state:

For Eisenhower — Maine 5, New Hampshire 4, Vermont 3, New Jersey 16, Indiana 13, Nebraska 6, Kansas 8, North Dakota 4, South Dakota 4, Idaho 4, Oregon 6 — total 73.

For Stevenson — Missouri 13, Kentucky 10, West Virginia 8, North Carolina 14, South Carolina 8, Georgia 12, Alabama 11, Mississippi 8, Arkansas 8, Oklahoma 8 —total 100.

Eisenhower leading—New York 45, Pennsylvania 32, Maryland 9, Ohio 25, Michigan 20, Wisconsin 12, Minnesota 11, Virginia 12, Montana 4, Wyoming 3, Colorado 6, New Mexico 4 — total 183.

Stevenson leading — Rhode Island 4, Delaware 3, Illinois 27, Florida 10, Louisiana 10, Tennessee 11 — total 65.

Doubtful — Massachusetts 16, Connecticut 8, Iowa 10, Utah 4, Arizona 4, Nevada 3, Texas 24, California 32, Washington 9 — total 110.

ed" with the work of the volunteer brigade. And he said also that he felt that the Madoc waterworks system, only installed a year, had stood the test in the first emergency.

The pumper, drawing water from the waterworks system, kept a pair of two-and-a-half inch hose lines playing on the leaping flames for five hours. A steady 120-pound pressure was maintained, said Reeve Kincaid.

The biggest loss will be to the building. But valuable machinery on the second floor and the accumulated stock were all destroyed.

NOT SERIOUSLY DAMAGED

A lathe in the basement, and a "clipper" for cutting a specified width of wood, were among the machines that escaped serious damage in the basement. Some veneer wood, though water-soaked, can also probably be salvaged.

The concrete ceiling prevented the top part of the building from collapsing into the basement. It also kept out the flames.

Other Canadian Woodproducts factories are in Beamsville and Grimsby.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Oats and barley prices moved up under modest commercial demand in moderately active trade early today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

The advance, however, was due more to lack of offerings than any aggressive buying.

Industrial interests were on the buying side in flax, sending prices upward. Rye advanced on commission house and outside buying.

11 a.m. grain prices:

Oats: Dec. ⅝ higher 84⅛A; May ⅜ higher 83⅜B; July ¼ higher 79⅝A.

Barley: Dec. 1¾ higher 1.33⅛; May ¾-⅞ higher 1.24⅛; July ¼-⅛ higher 1.17⅝.

Rye: Dec. 1½ higher 1.84B; May 1⅞ higher 1.90⅜B; July, not open.

Flax: Dec. 1½ higher 3.59A; May 1¾ higher 3.62¼A; July, not open.

Joint Townships May Now Elect Deputy Reeve

HAVELOCK (ENS).—Belmont and Methuen Townships have now 1,000 municipal electors, which qualifies them to elect a deputy-reeve for the 1953 county council.

Clerk Grant Dafoe was authorized at a meeting of the council to notify the county clerk to that effect.

There are no records to show that Belmont and Methuen Townships have had a deputy-reeve since 1892, the year that the village of Havelock was incorporated. The reeve at that time was Alexander McAuley and J. L. Aunger was the deputy-reeve.

The section which was incorporated as the village required 750 inhabitants before it could become a village and this amount taken away from the population of the townships reduced their representation in the county council to reeve only.

The following lots were removed from the tax sale of 1952: W½, S½ 9, Concession 3, Methuen; Part 9, Concession 3, Methuen; Part 14, Concession 6, cottage.

The clerk was authorized to advertise in the Peterborough Examiner for tenders for snow plowing in Belmont and Methuen by bulldozer and truck for the winter of 1952-1953, tenders to be in the hands of the clerk by November 30, 1952.

Mrs. W. Smith, the school attendance officer, gave the following report: Actual attendance percentages as follows—S.S. No. 1, 95.09, S.S. No. 2, 90.64; S.S. No. 4, 91.57; S.S. No. 5, 92.21; S.S. No. 6, 88.85; S.S. No. 7, 93.65; S.S. No. 9, 95.11; S.S. No. 12, 96.61; S.S. No. 14, 97.05.

There was an epidemic of jaundice during September.. Victoria School had not reported. Some pupils in S.S. No. 2 were reported to be playing truant. A number of pupils had made transfers from one school to another, while some had moved to Peterborough.

The accounts passed included: Voucher No. 12 for roads, $150.34; E. J. Pollock, part salary, $200; C. Cole, sheep, $45; Hospitalization, $183; Relief, $70.

The nomination meeting to choose the municipal candidates for 1953 will be held on November 28, with December 8 as the election date.

MONTREAL LIVESTOCK

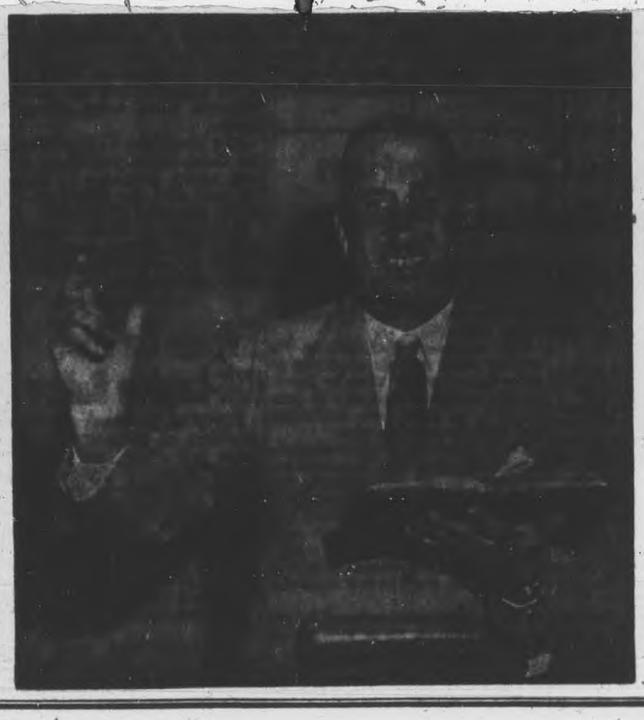
Receipts were 988 cattle, 389 calves, 3,667 sheep and lambs and 1,265 hogs.



Hogs were steady at $26 for grade A, while sows were not established.

Of the sheep offered, 1,100 were held over from last week with no early sales registered.

Vealers moved at about $1 stronger with good quality at $26-27, common and medium $17-25. There were no sales on grassers.

Early trading was slow on slightly lighter cattle receipts, compared with last week. Offerings included a fair proportion of medium to good steers. The few early sales registered brought slightly stronger prices with some medium steers at $17-21, a few good cows at $12-13.

Man Slightly Hurt As Two Cars Crash Head-On

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS)— One man was injured slightly and about $600 damage was suffered by two cars early Sunday morning when they collided head-on on a township road about six miles southeast of this town.

Injured was 28-year-old Bill McAdam of R.R. 3 Stirling, a passenger in a car driven by Maurice Smith 27, of R.R. 5 Campbellford. He received head cuts requiring several stitches to close.

Smith was travelling west on the narrow township roadway and had just come over the top of a hill when he saw the headlights of an approaching car. He applied the brakes but the new model car skidded on the gravel roadway and slid into the front of the other vehicle. The second car was driven by Lorne Anderson, 41, of R.R. 5 Peterborough. He was uninjured.

The front of both vehicles were damaged extensively. Provincial Constable George Rose, who investigated, said no charges would be laid.

The session, possibly the last before a general election, will be opened Nov. 20 by Governor-General Vincent Massey.

The cabinet has been working on a legislative program that is expected to keep the Commons and the Senate busy until late spring. The government hopes to complete the work in time for as many members as possible to attend the coronation of Queen Elizabeth June 2.

Prime Minister St. Laurent hinted several weeks ago there would be no election until after the coronation. However, in the wake of a meeting of the National Liberal Federation last week there has been speculation that the government may decide on a spring election.

But most observers still stick to the fall of 1953 as the most likely time. Life of the present parliament expires Aug. 25, 1954

Government departments have been asked to have their legislation ready for presentation as soon as the session opens so that there will be no delays.

Gold Industry Submits Brief To Government

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian gold mining industry representatives today submitted a brief to the federal government containing recommendations for solution of "critical conditions" in the industry.

The brief, prepared by members of the Canadian Metal Mining Association, is signed by J. A. H. Paterson, association president; H. H. Cox, president of the Quebec Metal Mining Association; H.J. Fraser, president of the Ontario Mining Association; C. F. Caswell, president of the Mid-West Metal Mining Association and M. M. O'Brien, president of the Mining Association of British Columbia.

FOUR SUGGESTIONS

The recommendations:

1. Marketing of fine gold be encouraged by permitting producers selling on the premium markets to sell fine gold.

2. Fine gold be minted in Canada for general purchase and sale in forms suitable to the market, the price to be freely determined between buyer and seller.

3. Foreign purchasers of newly-minted Canadian gold and foreign holders of gold who wish to store it in Canada for safekeeping receive assurance they will be permitted to export such gold when they desire.

4. Cost-aid assistance to those mines electing to receive such aid be increased and made more adequate to the current crisis in the industry.

The brief suggests that an increase in the price of gold is the only permanent solution and recommends that the federal government press for such action, but notes the recent decision of the International Monetary Fund that there should be no immediate increase.

The two principal factors responsible for present conditions, the brief states, are mounting costs and sharply declining revenue.

SHARP DROP IN MINES

The brief says that Canada has 60 producing gold mines compared with 140 producing mines in 1941. "In the last 18 months," it is said, "10 mines have been forced to close and four more are now making plans for the suspension or cessation of operations."

It states that of the estimated 3,700,000 ounces of gold produced this year, 74 per cent is from mines receiving cost-aid and that production may be expected to decline sharply unless that assistance is adequate.

The brief concludes: "We submit that Canada cannot afford to lose its gold mining industry. We are sure it would not be the desire of the government to allow the current crisis to proceed unchecked to the point where the many northern communities dependent on the industry could no longer be maintained."

Residents Clean Debris Of Hallowe'en

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS)— Citizens of the district busied themselves washing soap off store and home windows, locating various pieces of verandah furniture, taking stones out of automobile hubcaps and inflating tires on Saturday after Hallowe'en pranksters turned out in full force on Friday night.

Police are investigating a few reports of more serious damage, most of which has also been blamed on teenagers who exceeded the limits of having fun, and caused considerable expensive damage and inconvenience.

DUCKS TURNED LOOSE

At a home on Bridge St., W., pranksters opened a duck pen and removed six white Northern Quebec ducks, worth about eight dollars each. The birds are domestic and it is not believed they will travel far, but a search of the area by police on Sunday failed to reveal the ducks.

The front seat on a 1952 model car was burned out on Friday night when someone apparently set the upholstery alight. Fred Bennett of Richard Street, parked his car in the driveway of his home about dusk. About an hour later, he looked out to find the inside of the car full of smoke. He grabbed a pail of water and succeeded in putting the flames out, but the seat was burned beyond repair.

A wheel and tire was stolen from the rear of a truck owned by Stuart Donald of Bridge St. The truk was parked and when the owner returned the tire had disappeared. It is still missing.

At the home of the Rev. James McAvoy at Burnbrae, the ignition wires of Mr. McAvoy's car were crossed and the air let out of two tires.

Both Campbellford constables D. M. Duncalfe and acting chief W. E. Cargin patrolled the streets of the town in a car, which probably kept damage as low as it was.

Catches Shark Money Too Late

EASTBOURNE, England—(AP) -It wasn't a whale but a shark that fisherman Vivian Gell caught with his anchor—but it brought him a whale of a lot of trouble.

Gell, by a 1,000,000 to 1 chance, heaved his rowboat anchor so that it hooked into the monster's mouth. He and his friends who helped him land it thought it was a two-ton whale. Dr. F. C. Fraser, British Museum zoology expert, however, pronounced it a 14-foot shark.

The 42-year-old fisherman went home disappointed and weary. He smiled again when a animal dealer offered him £10 for his catch. Rushing back to the beach he found hundreds of persons, seeking meat for their cats and dogs, had hacked the shark to pieces.

"By the time it was dark, I don't think there was a square inch left on the beach and I found myself having to apologize to hundreds of motorists who had come to see the whale. All I've got left is the backbone," Gell said.

Two Arrested Following Crash

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS)— Two men were taken into custody on Saturday evening, and charged with being involved in a hit-and-run accident on Bridge Street West.

A car struck a parked car on Bridge St., then drove away. Witnesses to the crash were able to give police a good description of the wanted car and it was picked up a few minutes later in a dance-hall parking lot with two men in it, by acting-chief W. E. Cargin, who investigated. The men were David Ingram, Campbellford, and Stanley Papke, Belleville, owner of the car.

Ingram is charged with driving while his ability was impaired, and failing to remain at the scene of an accident. Papke is charged under a section of the Highway Traffic Act, with being responsible for damage done by his car while it was knowingly being operated by another person.

Damage to each car amounted to about $40. The pair were held overnight and released on bail Sunday morning.

As The U.S. Goes To The Polls

The Presidential campaign which reaches its grand climax in the United States tomorrow has been described as "the worst mud-slinging, name-calling, character-assassinating political campaign in many a year" by a U.S. news service. Canadians who have been following the campaign with some degree of regularity will be inclined to agree with this opinion. The two Presidential candidates refrained from this sort of campaigning until last week, but many of their followers practised it enthusiastically almost from the outset. General Eisenhower and Governor Stevenson, however, dropped a good deal of their restraint during the closing week, and made bitter charges and countercharges. In this aspect of the campaign the Democratic Party, with President Truman in the lead, is generally conceded a slight edge, despite the effort of such able Republican hatchetmen as Senators McCarthy and Jenner.

* * *

During the opening weeks of the campaign there were many speeches about inflation, taxes, corruption in government, contributions to candidates, states' rights and fair employment practices, tidelands oil and what not. At the beginning of last week, however, Democratic and Republican leaders were agreed that on all these issues the weary-eared people had adopted the somewhat bored attitude "we've heard it before". The leaders were also agreed that the question of what to do about Communism at home and abroad had emerged as the major issue of the campaign. Citizens generally still showed a lively interest in it, and responded to discussions of Communist infiltration at home, the problem of what to do in Korea, and the most important issue of all—relations with Russia. This sustained interest undoubtedly accounts for the overwhelming triumph scored by Senator Joseph McCarthy, despite the fact that his methods are openly criticized in his home state of Wisconsin; the methods were forgiven because the chief target was always Communism.

* * *

The closing week saw both parties show talent for wishful mathematics. Both parties indicated what states they were worried about by campaigning intensively in the following states (electoral votes in brackets): New York (45), Pennsylvania (32), California (32), Illinois (27), Texas (24), Massachusetts (16), and Ohio (25). Both hoped for the big swing in these states, but the Democratic leaders were more emphatically certain and declared that with the 201 votes they could add enough "absolutely certain" states to have the 266 Electoral College votes to nominate the next President. The Republicans countered by referring to the states represented by the twenty-five Republican Governors who helped to nominate General Eisenhower by charging that Senator Taft's backers had tried to engineer a "steal" for Taft in Texas. These states represent 252 electoral votes, and the Republicans feel confident about most of them, some counting on as many as 220 votes.

* * *

The results tomorrow night, or perhaps early Wednesday morning, will show which side has the better mathematicians. Poll takers and political reporters report that their last week findings indicate that General Eisenhower has a slight lead, but they remain [illegible] with all but three seats in the House of Representatives to be filled (Maine has elected its three), victory for General Eisenhower will mean a Republican House, and that victory for Governor Stevenson will mean a Democratic House. But control of the Senate remains uncertain; either winner might find himself facing a hostile body, with the odds seemingly in favour of the Democrats. The present division of the Senate is forty-nine Democrats, forty-six Republicans and one ex-Republican. Thirty-five seats are to be filled this year, with a Republican already elected in Maine. The Republicans must win twenty-four seats altogether to gain control. Most observers feel they cannot do this short of a virtual landslide for General Eisenhower, which would carry some of the weaker Republican candidates into office.

* * *

There is thus a distinct possibility that the next United States Administration, like the last, will find itself unable to control the legislative arm of government. That would be most regrettable, in view of the uneasiness often aroused in Europe during the past four years by Congress refusing to pass Administration legislation unless amended, and sometimes rejecting legislation entirely. Nevertheless, if the views of observers on the eve of the election are to be credited, this division between the administrative and legislative arms is the most predictable result of the voting.

When Does "Relaxed" Mean Unstrung?

The Department of National Health and Welfare has an agency (its Information Services Division) which gives advice to parents. Here is a sample: "Mealtime should be a pleasant, relaxed, period, free from arguments with the children as to whether they should or should not eat foods they don't like. When Junior refuses some item he doesn't want, it is wise to take him at his word and treat the matter casually. He will probably have forgotten his dislike by the next time it is served, especially if no issue is made of his rejection."

The Brantford Expositor has some words of comment on this advice which chime so well with our own thoughts that we can do no better than reprint them here:

A question or two we'd like to ask: If Junior's notions as to what he should have are to be all-prevailing, why not simplify matters and save money and effort by consulting Junior, in advance, about the menu, accepting his instructions and making everyone else conform? Of course, Junior may not be especially up on his dietetics, yet, unless he is a particularly smart boy (but what Junior isn't?); still, we mustn't have any disputes at dinnertime, must we?

Let us, then, carry the proposition a logical step forward. Since every day should be spared all unnecessary unpleasantness, if Junior refuses to go to school, it must be "wise to take him at his word and treat the matter casually," mustn't it? After all, the principle's the same. It should apply, accordingly, to all the bothersome things Junior might otherwise be called upon to do, such as washing behind his ears, running the odd errand (or does nobody do that any more?), and conforming to hampering rules of social conduct.

The Expositor editor is forced to the conclusion that he was wrongly brought up. So were we, but then in our childhood there was no government department to help our parents with the job; they just had to muddle along as best they could. They took the view that a child should eat what its wiser parents had prepared for it; that was the party line and children who strayed from it were—to use a government term—reindoctrinated pretty fast.

Relax! It is the cry of our time. Relaxation will cure anything. But it appears to us that when children begin to dominate the dinner table the family is not relaxed, but utterly unstrung. Families are not democracies.

48 Cents For Defence

There is a lot of pre-election (Canadian) talk about possible tax reductions. We wish to point out that 48 cents of every dollar collected in taxes is earmarked for defence. Unless the need for expanding Canada's defensive (and offensive) strength abates, or unless the money for defence is spent more carefully and parsimoniously, we can see little hope of major tax reductions. A billion dollars a year have to be found out of taxes for social services like the Mothers' Allowance and Old Age Security. It costs other hundreds of millions to run the Government, to pay tens of thousands of civil servants, and to provide for such large projects as the St. Lawrence Seaway.

We believe that Government costs can be reduced, even in Defence spending. Every second week the Defence Production Department issues lists of orders placed. In the past these have included orders for 1,1500,000 neckties, $15,292,241 worth of boots and 14,500 big serving forks (before the hubbub about these, 62,000 had been ordered). Last week's bi-weekly list showed more than eighty contracts. These included $11,036 for paper napkins, $12,731 for more neckties, $500,069 for buses, $133,361 for for boots, $49,228 for shaving brushes, $25,990 for lamps and $20,115 for "nylon taffeta cloth".

Surely the army, navy and air force must be pretty well supplied [illegible] actual fighting equipment have been keeping up with the rate of buying forks, ties, boots, offices furniture and "packaging of plumbing fixtures" (a $147,232 contract named in last week's list), then surely we can expect defence costs to stop rising. If fighting equipment and manpower have been behind schedule, at least the services should need no further approbations for items like coverlets ($20,160) and 1,150,000 neckties for the hundred thousand men enlisted in the services.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A newspaper philosopher says that it is work which gives flavour to life, but he doesn't say what flavour.

A granddaughter of Mussolini has married a descendant of Napoleon. Their offspring, if Fate is unkind, will have Napoleon's bad digestion and Mussolini's bad judgement.

A U.N. despatch states that Pearson may have a key role in behind-scenes talks about an armistice in Korea. We would be even more relieved if Mr. Pearson had a key hole to them.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

ONE OF THE STRANGEST aspects of feminine vanity is the attempt made by so many women to make the world believe that they are younger than they actually are. Not that the male sex is completely immune to this foible; infant prodigies are continually being foisted on the public with two or three years docked from their real age; but it must be admitted that women are particularly addicted to this type of mild deception. When the woman in question reaches the heights of fame her public is naturally interested in knowing as much as they can about its idol, including that last mystery of all, the date of her birth.

In the case of Emma Albani there is a further complication. Most reference books state that the world famed Canadian soprano was born on November 1, 1852, as given in her book of memoirs, Forty Years of Song. Grove's Dictionary, however, in its supplementary volume, published in 1948, casts ungentlemanly doubts on Madame Albani's veracity, stating that she was probably born in 1847. Be that as it may we give her the benefit of the doubt and will assume that she was born in 1852 until the earlier date is proved correct beyond any reasonable measure of doubt. Thus it was a hundred years ago last Saturday that she first saw the light of day in Chambly, near Montreal. Her father was a music teacher who also ran a small music store. At the age of five he undertook her musical education. The child practised four hours every day; this was in addition to her six hours of school work. No wonder that the neighbours protested to her father; if it had happened today she would doubtless have been taken away to a "home". She had no play time, and she often told in later years that she never even possessed a doll. Yet the hard work never became a drudgery to her, and the sound musical training that she received in childhood stood her in good stead later on. She must have possessed a robust constitution, for she lived (according to the more modest calculation) to the age of 78.

AT THE AGE OF seven her mother died, and her father took Emma and her sister to the Sacre Coeur convent near Montreal where he taught music, and the nuns took care of them. When she was fourteen they moved once again; to Albany, in the State of New York, and her voice immediately made a great impression. She was made soprano soloist in the Roman Catholic Cathedral there. Shortly afterwards the organist resigned, and she took his place on the organ bench. It is quite an achievement to reach a fairly important church appointment at the tender age of fifteen, and when one considers the fact that Emma was a newcomer to the city her achievement is the more remarkable. It also demonstrates that she was by no means one of that large company of fundamentally stupid and unmusical people who happen to possess a magnificent vocal equipment: she was a good all-round musician. It soon became evident, however, that she was destined for great fame if only sufficient funds were forthcoming to complete her training. In those days it was necessary to go to Europe, and this cost money. Emma's father could not possibly afford to send his daughter away, but the Bishop was especially interested in her and anxious that she should have a chance. Other friends got together and organized two big concerts. Donations and contributions poured in, and finally there was enough to send her away for a year's training.

FOLLOWING SIX MONTHS in Paris she went on to Italy to study under Lamperti, one of the leading singing masters of the time. The work was hard, but the benefits of her father's rigorous training were of great assistance to her. It was not long, however, before her funds were exhausted and she would either have to return home or earn some money. Under these circumstances Lamperti decided to arrange for her debut, which took place in Messina in 1870, when she sang in La Somnambula. Her appearance was a great success, and from then onwards her career was assured. Incidentally it was for her first appearance that she adopted the name Albani, by which she is now known. Her real surname was Lajeunesse. Her stage name linked her with her friends and admirers in Albany who had made it possible for her to study.

IN 1872 she was engaged to sing at Covent Garden, and this marked the beginning of the highest point in her career. She was on friendly terms with Queen Victoria, who "commanded" her to sing before her several times. On the death of that monarch King Edward asked Albani to sing at her funeral in St. George's Chapel, Windsor. She chose "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth". She was in great demand at large functions of every sort in London, where she had made her home and sang at Covent Garden nearly every season until 1896. She also toured extensively. Her homecoming to Canada is of particular interest to us. The day her ship docked the Mayor of Montreal proclaimed a public holiday. She was greeted by the civic dignitaries and escorted in state to the City Hall. [illegible] were read out to her, after which a great public reception was held. The night of her concert arrived, and she had invited a number of her friends from Chambly. Owing to some oversight tickets had not been issued to them and they were turned away. Albani got to hear of this and insisted that they be accommodated. If there were no more room for them in the hall they must sit on the platform! The manager refused at first, but when Albani issued the ultimatum that if they were not allowed in she would not sing he gave in, and her friends took their places on chairs that had been hurriedly placed on the stage. Some of my readers may perhaps recollect the poem by W. H. Drummond. I will not quote all the twenty-two stanzas but will content myself with a short quotation which would appear to sum up the occasion:

"Ev'ryboddy seem glad w'en dey see her,
come walkin' right down de platform,
An' way dey mak' noise on de han' den, w'y! it's just lak de beeg tonder storm!
I'll never see not'ing lak dat, me, no matter
I travel de worl',
An' Ma-dam, you t'ink it was scare her?
Non, she laugh lak de Chambly girl!"

TIME may add to the fame of composers, but it dims the lustre of performers. We may never know how Albani sang. We are told that her voice was "a rich soprano of remarkably sympathetic quality". There are soprani today with brilliant qualities, but few with a "sympathetic" quality — this attribute is commoner amongst contralti. Her higher registers were of exceptional beauty, and she possessed in perfection the art of singing mezza voce—modern soprani please note.

Regal Chivalry In Church House

(MANCHESTER GUARDIAN)

ONE IS reminded of an opening of Parliament by the Queen's father the like of which is unlikely ever to be seen again. It took place in the Church House when Parliament sat there after the destruction of the Commons Chamber in May, 1941. Incidentally, it is strange how little has been recorded of this Church House episode, one of the strangest in the history of Parliament.

The Commons sat at Church House in what was a replica in miniature of its ruined Chamber. The peers occupied, so to speak, a miniature of a miniature of the House of Lords. It was hardly bigger than a boardroom. There were three rows of improvised green baize benches leading on either side of a narrow aisle to a green baize platform bearing two chairs, one representing the throne, the other for the Queen.

The score of peers and half-score of journalists who witnessed the shorn ceremony will not forget how King George VI (in naval uniform) and his Queen, by their royal bearing and grace, erased all consciousness of this unregal setting.

It would not be difficult, one reflected, in this huddled space for the ceremony to topple over into bathos, but the thought died the instant the King entered leading his consort by the tips of the fingers just like a king from the far days of chivalry. That was sufficient to conjure the little company out of all recollection of green baize.

Letters To The Editor

TOBACCO A LUST OF THE FLESH

Sir: Some time ago an article appeared in the press with the heading "Tobacco habit not regarded as sinful by United Church Commission," and there followed the information "We think the use of tobacco cannot generally be regarded as a matter of conscience." I beg to go on record as opposed to this suggestion.

I have been a practicing physician for many years, and I wish to give you three reasons for my contention that the use of tobacco is sinful.

1. It is sinful because it represents a waste of money. Very few people use tobacco moderately, and very often the immoderate use of the same by a man and wife requires such an investment of money, that their children are deprived of necessities. One constantly hears people saying "I wish I could give up smoking." For anyone sincerely wishing the same may I suggest a weekly reduction of one cigarette per day until a person is smoking only one per day. In my practice I have helped many people with their problem by this simple method.

2. It is sinful because it causes disease. The use of tobacco is suspect by the medical profession as the cause of many cases of cancer of the throat and mouth.

3. It is sinful for a woman who is pregnant to use tobacco because she feeds her developing child (from her own blood) the nicotine which her blood carries. This cannot but help affect the nervous structure of her unborn child.

For these three reasons it is my contention Sir, that no Christian can follow Jesus Christ and use tobacco.

"Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make not provision for the flesh, to fulfil the lusts thereof."

These words of St. Paul in Romans 13:14 seem to settle the matter.

Yours very sincerely,
NANCY RODGER CHENOWETH, M.D.C.M.

EMBITTERED VETERAN

Sir: This talk about Canada needing a larger population is sure a laugh to me. I am a veteran with 2½ years overseas service and I had my health ruined during service and as a result I have an allergy condition which has forced me to leave my home in Bancroft and I am under constant treatment. My only hope to get well again is to live in the city. This of course is on doctor's advice and I am so much better away from the woods, but here is the point—I cannot find a place to live because I am one of those lepers who have three fine young sons, the oldest of which is an honour student in school, but because of this housing shortage I am being forced to send my wife and three fine future citizens of Canada to England to my wife's people. Enough said, bring on your Germans and Polish and all the rest and I'll bet they will have a place to live. Thanks, Canada!

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the Lord spake unto Moses saying, Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them Ye shall be holy: for I the Lord your God am holy . . . Regard not them that have familiar spirits, neither seek after wizards, to be defiled by them: I am the Lord your God. (Lev. 19: 1, 2, 31.)

Sanctify the Lord of hosts himself; and let him be your fear, and let him be your dread . . . And when they shall say unto you, Seek unto them that have familiar spirits, and unto wizards that peep, and that mutter: should not a people seek unto their God? for the living to the dead? To the law and to the testimony: if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them. (Isa. 8: 13, 19, 20.)

◇ ◇ ◇

For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places.

Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all to stand. (Eph. 6: 12, 13.)

Women Keep a Secret

(Hamilton Spectator)

A woman's age is a secret, and another which she keeps well and one that baffles medical scientist is: Why do women outlive men and at an ever-increasing rate?

British figures graphically prove women's supremacy in the field of life itself: Britain's National Assistance Board recently reported that of the 140 centenarians on its books, 130 were women. There were 3,200 women and 1,000 men in the 85-100 group.

The occupation of most women—housewife—coupled with an instinctive knowledge how to take better care of themselves than do men constitute one specialist's reasons for women's greater life-span. Housewives work longer hours than their husbands, but the setting for their work, the home, is more serene and they can take a rest for a few vital minutes now and again. The husband's work in a fiercely competitive world is harder on the human mechanism.

So says that expert—and a woman, too.

Another authority gives a flat and positive answer: Women never retire. W. A. Anderson, organizer of Britain's National Corporation for the Care of Old People, declares women know the world cannot go on without them. That's their incentive to go on living. Men, on the other hand, realize that somewhere in their 60's will come their retirement from office or factory.

Their retirement means that they either admit or are told they are not indispensable. They suffer a sharp break in the routine of nearly a lifetime.

A long time ago, Dr. V. Korenchevsky, of Oxford University, estimated that women's maximum life expectancy was 112 years; man's a mere 100.

He has not yet been proved wrong.

"I hope you enjoyed your game with the major," said the hostess to one of her guests. "He's a very clever at cards, isn't he?"

"He certainly is," replied the guest. "He started by telling my fortune, and now he's counting it."

Australia Begins Development Of Rich Uranium Deposits

By RICK STEVENS

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — A steady cavalcade of men and materials is moving into the heart of Australia's Northern Territory, preparing to exploit what may prove to be the richest radioactive lode yet found anywhere.

Two miles from the uranium field, carpenters are hammering the final touches to the first buildings of a new township on the tip of a huge wartime airstrip.

Rapid exploitation of Rum Jungle is part of the Australian government's top-priority aim of developing the country's uranium deposits as a defence measure and potential big dollar earner.

MINERAL ALREADY TESTED

Shipments of uranium ore have already been sent from Rum Jungle. But experts say it will be another two years before Australia collects any larger dollar return although in the preliminary stages there will be an income of around $5,000,000 a year.

The extent of the deposits at Rum Jungle—determined only this spring—has not been disclosed officially. Newspaper reports that scientists were "staggered" by recent comprehensive surveys met a "no comment" from the Mineral Resources Bureau. The reports said that aerial surveys had convinced geologists that the area between Darwin and Katherine, 80 miles away, is the biggest uranium belt in the world.

Negotiations between the Australian government and the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission for a dollar loan to exploit and develop Rum Jungle have reached the final stages, authoritative sources say.

The loan is expected to be at least £10,000,000 Australian ($22,400,000), repayable in uranium. The full amount of the loan and quantity of uranium to be paid in return are reported still under discussion.

Newspaper reports here say the agreement would be "the most advantageous Australia has ever made with a foreign power" guaranteeing development of the Northern Territory "at a rate hitherto undreamed of" and insuring the defence of Australia's uranium against an aggressor.

Mining and processing the ore will be the task of Consolidated Zinc, Limited. Top-flight geologists and technicians are already on the job.

Osong Battle One Of Most Terrible In War

Editor's Note: Two weeks and more bloody fighting has been swirling about Triangle Hill and Sniper Ridge in Korea. Why have both sides seen fit to sacrifice so many men for these hills? John Randolph, veteran correspondent on the front lines, gives the strategic picture in the following story.

By JOHN RANDOLPH

Below its five great rocky bastions, two long ranges topped by the crests of Triangle Hill and Sniper Ridge stretch to the southeast deep in Allied territory.

To win the commanding heights of Sniper Ridge and Triangle Hill of these two lesser ranges, the Allies have been fighting a savage, swaying battle since Oct. 14—and the end is not yet.

GRIM BATTLE

The losses in this concentrated violence cannot be revealed. But when the numbers are made public, this struggle for the Kumhwa ridges will take its rightful place among the more terrible battles of the Korean War.

It has been one of the major actions of the war, a solid Allied assault against a fortified hill system by the full strength of two divisions, one American and one South Korean.

The losses have been shared almost equally.

To understand this battle, you must see the land in your mind's eye.

Imagine the crouching sphinx of Egypt looking southeast. Its big head and heavy shoulders are reared high. In front stretch two long lean cat legs, ending in curled paws.

FIVE-RIDGE PEAK

Osong is made up of five towering ridges that curve inward to a central crest. Its top rises 3,500 feet. Its Korean name, Osong-San, derives from its five ridges and means "Five in one Mountain."

To the Chinese it is "Five Finger Mountain" and to them it is a Communist Gibraltar. Today, the Allies are on both the southeastern ridges leading up to the sphinx itself and about half way up the legs.

Kumhwa is the eastern anchor of the central Korean plain that is known as the iron triangle. More important, Kumhwa is the Seoul invasion gateway on the northeast.

As long as the enemy holds Osong, Kumhwa is not safe.

If the enemy should hold the sphinx's lower legs, and launch a new general offensive, the two ridges would be natural corridors for the Chinese.

Someday, if the U.N. steers itself to taking Osong in a frontal push, the seizure of the ridgelines now under attack would be a logical preparation. As for taking Osong, it would give the Allies all the advantages for a northern offensive that it now offers the Communists for a southern push.

EYESIGHT FAILING—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera, of the Republic of Ireland, may be forced out of public life because of eye trouble. Specialists in a clinic at Utrecht, Holland, are fighting to save what remains of the 70-year-old Irish leader's sight. Colleagues in his Fianna Fail party doubt he will be able [illegible] minister however the treatment comes out.

LONDON (CP)—The British housewife's meagre ration of home-killed beef under prevailing conditions takes six times longer to reach the family table than it did 20 years ago, says Clement Hignell, a Gloucestershire farmer.

In a letter to the National Farmers' Union urging relief from form-filling and other "red tape," Hignell complains that present-day procedure in delivering an animal to market goes something like this:

The farmer must first notify the grading centre of his shipment, engage a shipper, deliver his stock to the grading centre and formally hand over to the market attendant.

Then the animal goes to the auctioneer's clerk to be numbered, after which it is checked by a farmer-grader, then passed on to a food ministry grader, a superintendent grader, and again in turn to the auctioneer, clerk and market attendant.

It is then conveyed by a trucker to the abattoir, slaughterman, weigher, grader and clerk. The carcass goes to the distributing clerk and then to the butcher shop.

Orfuns Paste The Panthers To Take 15-Point Lead In Intermediate Grid Finals

Driving hard in the final quarter at Morrow Park on Saturday, Peterborough Orfuns piled up the count to sweep through Hamilton Panthers 25-10 before a big crowd of grid fans. It was the first of their two-game O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" final series, and Tony Kotowski's squad will carry a 15-point lead into the return fray in Hamilton next Saturday. After a scoreless first quarter, the Petes took a 7-5 edge at the halfway mark, and were leading 13-10 going into the fourth. They exploded then for 12 more points and had possession just three yards out as the game finished.

PERFECT SETTING

It was an ideal day for football and the autumn classic had a perfect setting before more than 2,000 followers. Two strong squads clashed in a highly important game and they turned in a swell struggle. There was just enough passing to make it interesting, strong hoofing by Jack Matthews of Orfuns, and some great ground attacks in every quarter. Play was rugged enough with each team in turn suffering from penalties. Peterborough had 20 first downs to 12 for Tony Golab's Panthers. The local line came up with a solid display which, along with a couple of Jim Milligan's touchdown passes made the difference.

Rabbit White accounted for two of Orfuns' major scores, Clive Naismith and Bill Huntley getting the other tries. Jack Matthews kicked once to deadline, and Roy Armstrong kept up his brilliant work on converts by kicking all four. Steve Fochuck and Reg Lewington got the unconverted Hamilon touchdowns.

HURT EARLY

Fisher of Panthers limped off the field before the game began, being hurt in practice. A Hamilton player yanked the ball from a rival's hands early in the tilt but the pigskin was awarded to Orfuns on their 46-yard strip. Todd then recovered a local fumble and Reg Burns came off hurt. On a punting exchange Hodson took it on his five, Matthews booting it to Hamilton's 50. Bill Trimm—who played a grand defensive game—stopped Faguy for a loss and it was hoofed to Jensen on his 10. Bus bucked for 10, and Huntley and Army moved the sticks again, but they later kicked. Fochuck bucked nine and Steeves recovered a fumble by Hamilton. Hodson ran back a punt eight to his 25 and Army and Milligan got yards. Jensen and Army made nine more as the quarter ended.

DROVE AGAIN

Jensen's three-yard stab moved the sticks to open the second and Matthews hoisted the leather lemon down 60 yards. Fochuck's kick was short to Lou Nickle on Panthers' 34. Army bucked 12 and Huntley snared a local fumble. Milligan then threw a 20-yard pass to Huntley, who ran 12 more for a major, which Armstrong converted. Panthers drove back on gains by Lewington, Faguy and Dunn, plus a long pass ruled complete by the referee. Lewington on the third play skirted end for 12 to count a touchdown, the convert being blocked by Trimm. Nickle on a handoff gained 20 around end, and he, Armstrong and Milligan moved it up for a lonk kick to deadline by Matthews to make it 7-5.

Bev Groves ran the kick back 10 in the third quarter and Jensen bucked 15 before they had to kick. Morelli bucked for yards and Bartley recovered a Hamilton fumble on their 15. A Panther penalty followed and Armstrong converted. Hamilton started to drive back across and Armstrong converted. Hamilton started to drive back and then Fochuck broke through on a buck and raced hard in zig-zag style down the field for 85 yards in a great touchdown run, which was not converted. Wilde had a 10-yard end run and Jensen took a Milligan pass of 15 yards before the quarter flag fell with Orfuns up 13-10 in a very even game up to this point.

REALLY ROLLED

Fochuck booted to Nickle on Petes' 53-yard chalk in the fourth and the sticks were promptly moved by Army and White. Jensen's dash, a pass to Wilde and a penalty to Hamilton put Orfuns in paydirt again, and Wilde on a Coach Tony Kotowski and his Orfuns kept their promise of winning the game for Don McGillis, injured teammate. They knocked off Hamilton Panthers 25-10 here Saturday for a 15-point lead in O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" finals. Return match is Saturday in Hamilton. Don was brought by ambulance to the game and watched it from a cot near Orfuns' bench. He was given the winning football after the fray by his grid buddies. It was a great win for Peterborough against the 1951 Canadian intermediate "A" champions. They're worthy opponents and the series isn't over yet. But Orfuns had a little edge on the line work, the kicking of Jack Matthews and passing by Jim Milligan.

You don't like to single out stars when there is a fine team effort. That front wall was just about tops Saturday, and Bill Trimm was slightly terrific. Rabbit White got two touchdowns, Bill Huntley one, and Clive Naismith one—almost getting another on a sleeper pass as the game ended. Armstrong continues to convert like a pro, and he's quite a plunger, too. So is Bus Jensen. Lou Nickle is another ground-gainer, but one would have to list practically the whole lineup to give proper credit for this playoff win. A dandy day for the important tilt before a big crowd—and it was a right exciting scrap. Only in the fourth did Orfuns pull away from them. This Steve Fochuck of Panthers is quite a ball player, too. It'll be a real series yet, but we think Orfuns can protect that lead.

"Golden Boy" Tony

Talked for a few minutes before the game with Tony Golab, coach of the Panthers. Reminded the "Golden Boy" of Canadian senior football fame about a 3-2 win over him and the other Sarnia Imps back in '38. The big good-looking guy (his wavy blond hair makes him resemble a movie star) laughed and said: "Heck, some screwballs to this day think we threw that game—and us going after the title!" He inquried innocently if we recalled the score of the return game in Sarnia, adding: "It was 55-0 for us, if I remember rightly, but no one ever mentions that, eh?" Yes, if you twist our arm we will reluctantly recall that one. But it's much easier for us to remember the time the lowly senior squad from here upset the Canadian champs. People are funny, huh?

Junior high school group football schedule concluded on Saturday, with Central of Oshawa the winners. They blanked St. Peter's 27-0 in the Motor City to move into C.O.S.S.A. junior "A" playdowns against Belleville. Saints ran into tough luck on injuries and fumbles, but the Central crew were full value for the win. These teams were tied for top spot before the tussle. Tough luck for the Lynch lads. P.C.V.S. juniors took a 29-27 victory o'er Lindsay here, both teams being out of the race and just playing out the string. Senior P.C.V.S. will probably stage an exhibition here this week-end ere heading into C.O.S.S.A. finals the next week. So, the Saturday tilt could be the last football seen here this year.

Glens Taken To Task

Quinte columnist takes Belleville Glens to task for coming up with a lackadaisical game here Friday. Pointing out the need for some good defencemen on that team, he continues: "The Petes have emerged from the fog of confusion with what happens to be a smart squad. The senior group this season is a tough one. In fact we believe it is the toughest of them all. There is not a pushover in the whole setup, and there should be some thrilling battles before the playoff whistles toot. But it's the same old story, and we repeat, the Belleville squad has got to bolster its defence division if it wants to keep up with the group Jones." The Petes play in Bella Villa this Friday night.

An Osage Indian from out Arizona way, Chief Big Heart, is in the main pro mat bout against rough Lee Henning here next Wednesday eve as the grappling game returns to the Brock. Having travelled through barren and blazing Arizona, we can well understand why a guy would be glad to be free "from" it, and also how he could be a touch gee. It's strictly Indian country, and desert Indians at that. But Chief Big Heart, who has never wrestled up this way before, is reported to be a husky, strong, young mat warrior, scaling well over 200 pounds. He will require all his strength against the unscrupulous Henning, and that's for sure. Lou Plummer meets Jimmy Coffield in the card's semi-windup, as Jack Pethick tackles Dick Raines in the prelim.

McGill Redmen Edge McMaster 14-12

By CRAIG SWAYZE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

McMaster University Marauders Saturday fell but two points short of accomplishing what Senior Intercollegiate Football Union experts have for years been calling impossible. Although failing to gain a win against McGill Redmen, their showing amounted to a moral victory.

The intermediate Maroon and Grey squad from Hamilton, entered in a four-game exhibition schedule in the Rah Rah League, bowed 14-12 before the Redmen at Montreal while the University of Western Ontario Mustangs subdued Queen's Gaels 25-5 in a lacklustre affair at London.

The Western victory moved the Mustangs into a first-place tie with the idle University of Toronto Blues, each team having won three and tied one. Queen's and McGill are deadlocked in the cellar with but a single victory.

MARAUDERS CAN MAKE IT

McMaster's weekend display — although it doesn't count in the standings—was convincing proof that the Marauders are strong enough to hold a permanent berth in the college circuit. Their showing in this year's outings determines their 1953 status.

Fred Wilmot kicked two placements and converted Len Shaw's touchdown for McGill's first 12 points while McMaster's came on majors by Johnny Pellech and Paul Shannon, both converted by Jim Dodds. Geoff Crain and Cam Kenny booted last-quarter singles for McGill.

Don Ball kicked a 31-yard placement and Brian Timmis booted two singles—one 76 yards in the air—to give the Gaels their first-quarter edge.

Jack Fowler, Don Killinger and Doug Nicholl hit for second-quarter touchdowns for Western, all converted by Ray Truant. Don Getty went over in the third with Truant converting and Bill Carroll added a single in the fourth.

Saints Bow To Oshawa In Final Junior Group Game

Oshawa Central Collegiate will represent the lakeshore district in the C.O.S.S.A. playdowns by virtue of a 27-0 victory over St. Peter's High School Saints Saturday in Oshawa. Prior to the game both teams were tied for the league leadership, each with seven wins and a loss, but the Central victory decided the winner; Central will now meet Belleville Collegiate in the C.O.S.S.A. semi-finals. Although the Central team held an edge in both offence and defence over the other district teams, Saints on Saturday were dogged by fumbles and other hard-luck plays as well as injuries to star players. With these players the Saints could have held the score down.

EARLY INJURIES

The injuries and fumbles hit the Saints in the first quarter and Oshawa took advantage of every break given. Star lineman Jim Hull left in the opening minutes of the game, with a spine injury and was rushed to hospital. The remainder of the game, followed by John Hickey, the quarterback, with an aggravated knee injury. Without these key players, the Saints' attack just didn't function properly.

Practically from the kickoff, the Saints' fumbled on their 20-yard line and Oshawa recovered. Held twice, Central scored the first touchdown on the third play as Kocho crossed over. Within minutes, Central again converted a Saints' fumble into a touchdown. After a long Oshawa punt, the Saints' fumbled, this time on their 15. George Goodall ran the ball over on the first play for a second unconverted T.D.

THOSE FUMBLES

A long kick by Central provided another point early in the second quarter. But another fumble by the Saints gave the ball to Oshawa on the Saints' 35. Plunges by Goodall and Kocho brought the ball to the Saints' two-yard line where Richardson finally went over.

A fourth fumble by the Saints on their 45 and Oshawa took the opportunity to add to the score, Proctor scoring and the convert was good for a 22-0 score at the half.

The Oshawa team was held scoreless in the third quarter and in the fourth another fumble, this time on a long punt by Oshawa at the 15-yard line, was fumbled and bounced across the line where lineman Olynik recovered for Oshawa for the final touchdown.

Present Plumb Memorial Cup

GUELPH (CP)—A memorial trophy to the late Ronald Plumb of Guelph Bluebacks Hockey Association junior A series, has been presented to the team by his father, Alfred Plumb of Kingston.

The trophy will be presented each year to the player adjudged by press and radio representatives to be of most value to the team.

Plumb was captain of the Biltmores when they won their first O.H.A. title in 1950. He died last spring after an operation.

He turned pro after the 1950 season and played in the United States Hockey League, the American Hockey League and the Western Hockey League.

Abel Proving A-1 Coach For Chi-Hawks

CHICAGO (AP)—How able is Sid Abel? Newest coach in the National Hockey League, personable old Bootnose has proved more stimulating to Chicago Black Hawks than a gallon of benzedrine.

The man who captained Detroit Red Wings to four straight N.H.L. titles as pivot on the production line with Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay, Abel has produced a minor miracle by lifting the hopeless Hawks of a year ago into strong contention.

How does he do it? Simple, he says. First, the Hawks are hustling for him. Second, he believes the deal with Toronto which put Al Rollins in goal, Gus Mortson on defence and Cal Gardner as centre on the No. 1 line has helped balance the team.

And third, somebody had to apply a monkey wrench to the Hawks' porous defences.

"I had to tighten 'em up," he said. "That was obviously their worst failing in past seasons. They played as individuals. Now they're a team."

University Of Toronto Wins Soccer Game

TORONTO (CP)—The University of Toronto soccer team Saturday kept its title hopes alive by defeating Royal Military College 3-2.

The Blues dominated play in the first half but the Kingston team came back strongly in the second half.

Jose Atucha scored twice for Varsity in the first half and Bob Antoni added the third early in the second. Al Pickering scored a long one for R.M.C. then Tom Peace brought the cadets to within one point.

P.C.V.S. Juniors Take Win From Lindsay

P.C.V.S.' hot and cold junior football team hit a hot streak on Saturday afternoon in their final game with Lindsay Collegiate who had one of the best junior clubs in years this year. With nothing to lose or gain (both were out of the running) the teams concentrated in scoring with the Garnet and Grey ending on top 29-27.

The squads emphasized the offence throughout the game and gave little thought, if any, to defence. Therefore it became a case of whoever had the ball most scored most and won.

A four-touchdown performance by Stewart Brooks, to match Carl Brioux' record set Friday in St. Peter's High-St. Michael's College game, highlighted the afternoon's play. P.C.V.S. found the Lindsay weak spot, the right side of the line, early in the game and kept Brooks and Coit pounding through there.

Meanwhile Terry Roberts, P.C.V.S. quarter who called one of its best games, was playing catch with end Bob McKinney. This passing combination was death to Lindsay and set up several touchdown plays. At the same time McKinney was probably the best P.C.V.S. defensive player, tackling well.

Art Truax set the pace for Lindsay in the running department, contributing two touchdowns while teammates Chapman and Herlihey were also standouts.

SET ONE UP

Two passes, Roberts to McKinney, in the first minutes of the first quarter set up the first P.C.V.S. major score. Brooks netted his first touchdown as he ripped through his right offtackle hole to score. But Lindsay came back off the kickoff and staged a march which was stopped at the five-yrad line where Finley recovered a fumble.

That recovery started P.C.V.S. off again. A pass to McKinney at centre took P.C.V.S. out of trouble. Coit plunged to the 20-yard line and Brooks jogged the remainder, again offtackle, to score. All this scoring was in the first four minutes.

PASS FOR TRY

In the opening minutes of the second Lindsay took the lead when Herlihey snagged a long forward pass down the centre for another converted touchdown. This started a series of Lindsay majors as Pierson on an end run and Chapman on a pass scored two more for a 22-10 score at the half.

The Garnet and Grey came back in the third quarter when a pass to Ken Beck started another march. Two offtackle drives by Brooks and a 22-yard thrust through centre by Coit resulted in another major which was converted by Don Stewart.

But Lindsay's Art Truax grabbed a pass in the flat minutes later for Lindsay's final score, giving them a 27-16 lead.

Brooks brought the Garnet and Grey closer, still in the third, when he tore through right side, offtackle again, scoring with a single point; Lindsay was still ahead 27-23.

McKinney, not satisfied with completing P.C.V.S. passing plays, completed one of Lindsay's for an interception in the fourth. Brooks promptly charged through offtackle for the fourth major score, placing P.C.V.S. up 28-27. The convert attempt, Roberts to McKinney pass, was ruled complete after interference on the receiver for the final point.

Reds Defeat St. Louis 8-5

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Providence Reds are atop the American Hockey League today, five goals in the second period enabling them to defeat St Louis Flyers 8-5 Sunday to turn the trick.

The two teams ended the first period tied 2-2 but the Reds struck for three goals in the first three minutes of the middle session and added two more before the period ended. Each team scored once in the finale.

Zellio Toppazzini paced the Providence attack with three goals and two assists. Joe Gladu got two and the others were split by Chuck Scherza, Barry Sullivan and Pete Kapusta.

Guyle Fielder also scored three times for St. Louis. Steve Hrymnak and Boone got the others.

Tiger Cats Edge Ottawa By 25-23

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The 27,000-odd football fans who razzed Indian Jack Jacobs in the 1950 Grey Cup final for what they figured was a so-so effort, probably will see the 32-year-old signal-caller at the Nov. 29 classic this year. He will have practically the same Winnipeg Blue Bomber cast with him.

That appeared to be opinion today following the Bombers' 28-12 pasting of Edmonton Eskimos in the first game of the best-of-three western finals at Edmonton Saturday. And it was Jacobs, trigger man on the Bomber machine, who spurred the club to its big triumph.

In the east, things settled down to a somewhat-normal atmosphere after a hectic in-and-out season.

ARGOS AND TI-CATS

It is Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats for the Big Four playoffs. That was decided Saturday when Ottawa Rough Riders, defending Grey Cup champions who had only a slight mathematical chance of making the post-season series, bowed out after a tough 25-23 loss to the Tiger-Cats at Hamilton.

Argonauts coasted into the playoffs with a clear-cut 29-18 verdict over the floundering Alouettes at Montreal Sunday. It now is a matter of closing out the 12-game schedule next weekend.

Sarnia Imperials won their second straight Ontario Rugby Football Union championship with a hard-fought 14-10 victory over second-place Toronto Balmy Beach at Sarnia. The Imps and Beaches open a home-and-home total-point final series at Toronto next Sunday, the winner to meet the Big four champions late in the month to decide the East's Grey Cup contender. The second game will be at Sarnia Nov. 15.

The western final drew most of the attention of a heavy football week-end. And the manner in which Bombers knocked over Coach Frank Filchock's Eskimos convinced even the 18,000 partisan fans at Clarke Stadium that the club from the Alberta capital has just about had it for the season.

Eskimos and Bombers meet in Winnipeg next Saturday afternoon and, if Eskimos cross the experts with a win, the deciding game will be played at Winnipeg Tuesday, Nov. 11.

Bombers, with few changes here and there in the line-up that lost out 13-0 to Toronto Argonauts in the 1950 cup final in the mud and slush of Toronto Varsity Stadium, rode roughshod over Eskimos Saturday. And Jacobs, directing an almost-perfect aerial and ground attack, stood out like a beacon.

FIGURED IN POINTS

He bombed from the air for two touchdowns and rounded out his night's work with an eight-point effort on a field goal, three converts and two singles. Tommy Ford native of Toronto, took the two touchdown pitches from the six-foot-one Indian Jack.

Ralph McAllister bulled through the Edmonton line for the other two majors. Vancouver-born Rod Pantages and Rollie Miles divided the two Eskimo touchdowns.

Jacobs had his Bombers going both ways. His line charged both offensive and defensively, he sent his backs around the ends and down the middle and shot them into the clear with strikes that had Eskimos off balance most of the night.

Ottawa Rough Riders tried desperately to keep their playoff chances alive, but a fourth-quarter Hamilton drive that netted seven points whipped Coach Clem Crowe's club. Riders smacked over for two first-quarter touchdowns and appeared well on their way to victory when quarter Tom O'Malley was forced to the sidelines with a wrenched back.

ROBERTS SCORES TWO

Choo-Choo Roberts scored two Ottawa touchdowns and Howie (Touchdown) Turner went over for the other. Buck Rogers kicked two field goals and two converts.

Tiger-Cats' four touchdowns were divided among Bill MackRides, Bernie Custis, Joe Shinn and Cam Fraser. Tip Logan converted three of them and Fraser added a single.

Argonauts went over for two fourth-quarter converted touchdowns to make it 10 losses in 11 starts for the Als.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Perhaps those benevolent gentlemen of hockey, Conn Smythe and Jack Adams, didn't pull such good deals when they discarded their "worn-out" players to Chicago Black Hawks. For five out of the last six years, Chicago has graced the cellar spot in the National Hockey League. As a result Chicago Stadium has played host to only a handful of loyal fans. Even Sunday afternoon matinees failed to revive interest in what once was the hottest stop on the circuit.

But last night a near-capacity crowd of 13,422 trooped in to see the Hawks—a motley assortment more familiar in other uniforms—increase their league leadership to two points.

The Hawks haven't been beaten in five games and so far this season have won six, tied three and lost only two.

BOSTON VICTIMS

Their latest victims, the fifth-place Boston Bruins, suffered a 4-1 defeat last night. In other Sunday games, Toronto downed Detroit 4-2 and New York and Montreal tied 2-2. Saturday night Toronto edged Boston 3-2 while Montreal defeated New York 4-1.

The Hawks showed their home audience a close-checking defensive game with Al Rollins, a former Leaf, turning in a fine goal-tending display, making 28 saves, one more than Boston's Sugar Jim Henry.

Sid Abel's crew spread their goals among as many players showing the former Detroit captain's hope of "making them a team" is coming true.

First-period markers were scored by Jerry Couture and Cal Gardner, another former Toronto player. Jim McFadden notched the third in the second period with Bill Mosienko adding the fourth with less than seven minutes to go. Mosienko, celebrating his 31st birthday, also had an assist. Ed Sanford saved the Bruins from a shutout.

Toronto's victory was their third in a row over Detroit and the first time in 18 games that the Red Wings had been defeated on their home ice, a string stretching back to last Jan. 26.

LEAFS INTO SECOND

The win—Toronto's second during weekend play—put the Leafs in a second-spot tie with Montreal three points ahead of the Wings. Boston is two points behind the Wings with New York trailing the Bruins by four.

Sid Smith, Jim Morrison, Max Bentley and Harry Watson were the Leafs' goal-getters with the old master, Bentley, breaking up a hot duel in the second period when he made it 3-1 for Toronto.

Reliable Gordie Howe scored during a first-period scramble with Marty Pavelich netting the Wing's second with only 40 seconds to go.

At Toronto Saturday night, Bob Hassard, Bentley and Smith were the Leaf marksmen. Boston scorers were Sandford and Mackell.

The largest crowd of the season, 14,977, turned out at Montreal Saturday night, but the game wasn't spectacular. Richard didn't score his 325th goal and the play was often dull. Olmstead, Floyd Curry and Tom Johnson scored for the Canadiens with Jim Conacher netting the New York tally.

Loyola Wallops R.M.C. By 31-0

MONTREAL (CP)—Loyola College defeated Royal Military College of Kingston 31-0 Saturday in a football game that combined Canadian and United States rules.

It was Loyola's annual memorial bowl game and Hon C. G Power, former member of the federal cabinet, kicked off.

The teams borrowed from the American code the regulations providing for unlimited blocking and unlimited substitution. Otherwise Canadian rules—including scoring procedure and three instead of four downs—were adhered to.

Two touchdowns by Sabby Broccolini in the first quarter put Loyola out in front. The first was converted by Jack McMullan, but he missed the second.

Arnie Hannouch scooted over for the third touchdown early in the second quarter. Don Gagnon made the convert. Loyola picked up a single when Sid Lundell of R.M.C. was tackled behind his goal line. Then John Simpson romped 50 yards for an unconverted touchdown and before half time Glyn Osler conceded a safety touch.

The cadets held Loyola scoreless through the third quarter but gave up another touchdown in the last when Hannouch carried over from the five-yard line, McMullan converting.

During the first half someone broke into the cadets' dressing room and stole wallets and watches. Amount of the loss was not known.

Way Of Life To Be Decided By U.S. Voters On Tuesday

By R.J. ANDERSON

The coalition of labor and farmers that for 20 years has been the dominant political power in the country encounters the "great crusade." The one is dedicated to security for all and social progress, the other to opportunity for all—with maintenance and consolidation of the social gains of the last two decades.

Not since the late Franklin D. Roosevelt welded the opposing forces of city and farm into a combination that won five successive presidential elections has the decision depended so much upon one man, General Dwight D. Eisenhower. He seeks to lead the Republican Party out of 20 years in the political wilderness.

Opposing him is the Democratic Party—and Adlai E. Stevenson. Little known six months ago, he now is widely popular, but has not the tremendous appeal of the Second World War hero that could be the deciding factor in a close election. All sides agree that this election will be close.

WAY OF LIFE

At issue is a way of life.

Rightly or wrongly, the Republican party is viewed by many as the party of Big Business. Labor is distrustful of Republican promises that social progress will not be hindered; for 20 years it has been taught that the Republican party is the party of reaction and remembers that it was under the Republicans that the depression of the 1930s hit the United States so cruelly.

The Democrats under Roosevelt beat the depression and went on to establish many measures that improved the lot of the working man. Social - security legislation was enacted against strong opposition and measures were taken to curb what was called Republican policies of "boom and bust."

SEE VICTORY IN IKE

In the 62-year-old victor of Europe, the Republicans think they have their best chance since 1932 of ousting the Democrats Eisenhower is acceptable to many who do not share the Republican Party's theories of government.

The Democrats needed the strongest possible candidate to offset the personal appeal of Eisenhower. They turned to the 52-year-old Governor of Illinois whose political and administrative ability more than outweighed the fact that he had not been heard of nationally.

But whether Eisenhower or Stevenson wins tomorrow, the new president will be at the mercy of the next congress. Much depends upon the make-up of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Thirty-five of the 96 Senate seats —one-third of the membership as called for by the constitution plus three seats now vacant—and all 435 House seats will be voted on. In the present 82nd Congress the Democrats have 49 Senate seats to the Republicans' 47. The count in the house is: Democrats, 230, Republicans, 200, Independents, one, and four vacancies.

CAN HOLD SENATE

Unless there is a landslide which would upset all predictions, the Democrats are expected to keep majority control of the Senate, even if Eisenhower wins.

Of the Senate seats the voters must fill, 21 now are held by Republicans, 14 by Democrats. Five of these Democrats seats are in the south which makes it almost certain that Democrats will be elected to them.

Maine voted in September, electing a Republican senator, three Republican Representatives and a Republican governor. Actually, therefore, only 432 house seats and 34 Senate seats will be filled tomorrow.

The campaign which closes tonight with the opposing parties spending $500,000 for television and radio time to let loose an unprecedented volume of election-eve oratory was one of the most acrimonious of the century. It started on a high plane and ended on a note that all observers could only call "dirty."

As the voters prepared to go to the polls, the one outstanding issue was that of the Korean War. Eisenhower attacked the Democrats for "blundering" into the war and for not having a plan to end it. The Democrats countered that Eisenhower as chief of staff in 1947 helped make the decisions he called "blunders."

IKE HAS OWN IDEAS

The Republican candidate also decried American casualties in the war and demanded that the United States arm the South Koreans and let "Asians fight Asians." His opponents derided the General's "bright idea" and said the United States could not pull out of Korea.

But in the campaign's closing stages Eisenhower proposed dramatically that, if elected president, he would go to Korea himself to try to settle the war. His proposal was termed by the Democrats a "cheap trick" to win votes and "play politics with peace."

Other issues were pushed to the background in the closing stages. These included Republican charges that an administration too long in power had become corrupt and that many government officials were Communist or at least left-wingers. The Republicans promised a clean-up under the slogan: "It's time for a change."

The Democrats countered with the assertion: "You've never had it so good."

EXPENSIVE CAMPAIGN

It has been estimated conservatively that the two major parties spent more than $30,000,000 on the campaign—despite laws which say that each party's national committee may spend no more than $3,000,000.

Each candidate has travelled farther, talked to more people, visited more states and been viewed on television and heard on radio by larger audiences than any preceding presidential aspirant.

Stevenson, President Harry S. Truman and the Democrats' vice-presidential candidate, Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama, travelled more than 85,000 miles and made more than 800 speeches. Eisenhower, his running mate, Senator Richard M. Nixon of California, and Senator Robert A. Taft, whom Eisenhower defeated for the Republican nomination, covered about 105,000 miles and made nearly 650 speeches.

The part that television played in the election of the new president will likely never be determined.

RADIO AND TV

It enabled Stevenson to establish himself as a figure of authentic stature. Through TV Nixon under a cloud for accepting an $18,000 fund from his supporters to run his Senate office, made a comeback when it seemed as though he would have to be dropped from the Republican ticket.

But it had its drawbacks. It saturated the voters to such an extent that late in October, with the campaign oratory rising to a peak, estimates were published that only 10 per cent of the people were listening to radio-TV speeches of the major candidates.

Some of the lustre rubbed off Eisenhower's reputation in the campaign. He was charged with supporting "reactionaries" in his party and for compromising his principles for political expediency.

Nevertheless, there was no doubt that his popularity with the people was extremely high. Crowds in some cities covered the streets with some flowers, grabbed his hand, ruffled his thin hair, pulled at his clothing.

The importance of these demonstrations, however, is difficult to gauge in terms of votes. Election observers today pondered the question: "Does all the excitement mean votes?"

Young Actress In London Becomes Star

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP). — Claire Bloom's sensational emergence as Shakespearean star of the first rank was something many young actresses dream of—and few achieve.

The beautiful brunette leading lady of Charlie Chaplin's new film "limelight" was already known as a promising young light in the theatre, but after the opening of "Romeo and Juliet" at the famed Old Vic theatre in September she captured the hearts of the dramatic critics, and almost everyone else, too.

She infused new life into the for-a-time fading Old Vic where now long queues stand in front of the box office daily and stretch around the corner.

Miss Bloom was not exactly an unknown before she played Juliet to Alan Badel's Romeo. Two years ago she received enthusiastic notices for her part in a play called "Ring 'Round the Moon." She was so outstanding that she stole the attention of the critics and the public from leading stage stars. And she got the leading female role in Chaplin's new film.

On opening night, after she took 16 curtain calls, director Hugh Hunt told the audience. We intend this season to restore the Old Vic to its place in the hearts of the people of London"—and he bowed in gratitude to the little girl.

KEY TO THE CITY—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower displays a king-sized "key to the city" presented to him during a campaign stop in Yonkers, N.Y. The G.O.P. presidential candidate was winding up a whirlwind tour of metropolitan New York. Stooping at left is New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

TORONTO (CP) — Government officials, mining, business and law leaders Saturday attended the funeral of Charles McCrea, 74, former Ontario mines minister who died Thursday. Honorary pallbearers included Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, former prime minister of Canada, and D.. H. A. Bruce, former lieutenant-governor of Ontario.

Taken For Ride

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Robert Dentrey, grocery store truck driver, was taken for a ride by two men Saturday night and robbed of $42.88 city police reported yesterday. The robbery climaxed a two-day crime-wave. Three city business firms were broken into Friday night.

Railway Finally Makes It 40 Years Behind Schedule

By GEORGE FINLAY

AHBAU, B.C. (CP)—The Pacific Great Eastern (or Prince George eventually) finally made it Saturday, 40 years behind schedule.

Butt of a freightload of ancient jokes, (Sample: The P.G.E. isn't as long as the C.P.R. but it's just as wide) the British Columbia-owned railway ran its first passenger train over the new 82-mile, $13,000,000 link from Quesnel to Prince George.

The trainload of cabinet ministers, railroad bigwigs and 50 P.G.E. fans who paid their way halted briefly at this flagstop for a history-making ceremony. Two colorful pioneers of the Cariboo hammered home a silver spike to make the link official.

The pioneers had waited 40 years for this day and smiling John Anderson Fraser, 86, of Quesnel and his helper, L.C. Gunn of Prince George, swung a fast and true sledge hammer to drive the spike.

The P.G.E., one of the few railways in North America with a seaborne division, was started in 1912 as a private concern, but five years later it went bankrupt and was taken over by the government.

CONNECTS WITH C.N.R.

The new link forged today gives it connection with the Canadian National Railways transcontinental line at Prince George, 400 miles north of Vancouver.

One of the most scenic railways in the world, clinging precariously to mountain footholds, the P.G.E. now opens up a land of agricultural and forest wealth.

Beyond the mountains from Quesnel, the rich rangelands stretch for miles, and the cattlemen of the once-famed Cariboo gold country will have wider markets for their stock.

The spot is but a short distance from the age-wrecked flumes of a now-abandoned Chinese gold mine worked by Ah Bau, who sought riches in the north. From him the settlement takes its name.

Mr. Fraser, who came to the Cariboo 61 years ago, is a former member of the British Columbia Legislature, serving two terms as a Progressive Conservative member. Mr. Gunn, a P.G.E. location engineer, came to B.C. in 1907.

EXTENSION PLANS

Still in the future are plans for extension of the railway into the Peace River country and the [illegible] would be a vital defence line for Canada and the United States.

But the P.G.E., long-called the road running from nowhere to nowhere, and the "Please Go Easy," is still without a tail.

Barges move freight 33 miles between Vancouver and Squamish at the head of Howe Sound—the railway's seaborne division.

Common Boil, Chief Ailment With Canadians In Korea

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA (CP)—The common boil and associated skin troubles made up more than one-third of the cases treated by the 37th Canadian Field Ambulance during September.

The field ambulance, commanded by Lt.-Col. Clyde Caswell of Camp Borden, Ont., is the medical "clearing house" for the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade.

While the most severely injured battle casualties usually are evacuated by helicopter direct from the nearest regimental aid post, the rest pass through Caswell's unit. So, too, do the sick being evacuated for protracted treatment.

Of 378 Canadian cases during September, Caswell's unit treated 136 with skin ailments, mainly boils. A decline is expected now that autumn is here.

Medical officers say that the country's highly bacterial dust, landing on a freely-perspiring soldier, has an ideal culture medium. Boils are the result.

Burns seem to be most recurring type of injury now that cooler weather has arrived. They range from battle accidents with phosphorous grenades and accidental spillings of battery acid to the results of tent and bunker fires.

The outfit's busiest day so far happened in September, when a truck-load of Korean laborers spilled over, killing two and injuring 22.

Says Maj. J. H. Watson of Chilliwack, B.C., the second-in-command:

"A truck from the Lord Strathcona's Horse brought them in, piled aboard like cordwood. There were assorted injuries, terrible lacerations, and most of them were [illegible] hours they all had been treated and sent down the line by ambulance to the nearest surgical hospital."

The medical team on duty comprised Captains J. Y. Reid of Quebec and D. A. Cameron of Toronto, and six medical assistants and stretcher-bearers. Maj. J. R. Arsenault of Port Churchill, Man., officer commanding 23rd Canadian Field Dressing Station, happened to be visiting and lent a hand.

Sentiment Of U.S. People Has Changed For Eisenhower

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The presidency could have been Dwight D. Eisenhower's for the asking in 1948.

He had come home from Europe three years before to a respect and admiration—even affection—accorded to few by the American people.

If anything were needed to clinch it, President Truman offered him his support if the White House was what he wanted.

But he turned it down. He said he would never seek to be president.

Four years later, he was the candidate for the Republican Party in a bid to unseat the Democrats who had been in office for 20 years. The campaign was one of the most bitter in modern times.

EMBROILED IN TURMOIL

General of the army, former chief of staff, the man who so successfully led the Allied armies to victory in Europe in the Second World War, immediately became embroiled in the turmoil of an American election campaign. In the wake of the election was the question: Did he regret his decision?

Gen. Eisenhower, 62 [illegible] family characterized by its distaste for militarism. His parents were opposed to war on religious grounds. Yet they did not stand in his way when, at 21, he announced his intention to enter the army.

It was Gen. Eisenhower, as supreme commander, who gave the fateful word that started the Allied invasion of Europe, June 6, 1944. Eleven months later Germany surrendered unconditionally.

SECOND CRUSADE

On his return home, he said he wanted nothing else but to be "turned out too pasture." That was not to be.

He had become president of Columbia University, but before he could adjust himself to his new duties, President Truman called him to Washington to be chief of staff. Then in 1950 the 12 countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization chose him as commander of an international army being formed to keep the peace in Europe. The General entered upon his second "Crusade in Europe."

In 1952 his friends started a movement to get him the Republican nomination. Eisenhower came home and waged a hard, uphill battle over Senator Robert A. Taft. As soon as he was nominated, he resigned from the army he had [illegible] he had shown in winning victory in Europe.

Youth Tossed 50 Feet From Crash

Skull Fractured In Collision Near Maynooth

BANCROFT (ENS). — Harold Bloom, 22, of Maynooth is in Toronto General Hospital with a fractured skull that he sustained when being thrown 50 feet from a car in which he was riding as a passenger.

His condition today is reported as "fair." Wayne Bruce, also of Maynooth, suffered minor injuries.

The accident occurred about Saturday midnight, just north of Maynooth, on the Maynooth-Lake St. Peter road.

TWO IN DITCH

A freakish twist to the accident is being investigated by Constable John Hawkins of Bancroft. Two cars—each containing five people—went out of control and ran into the ditch at almost the same time and only 50 feet apart.

Bloom was a passenger in the southbound car driven by Arthur W. Breach, 26, of R.R. 7, Belleville. The car went out of control and rolled over in the west ditch. Bloom was thrown for about 50 feet, landing on the shoulder of the road, and he was knocked unconscious. Wayne Bruce, also of Maynooth, was slightly injured. Both men were taken to Bancroft Red Cross Hospital and later Bloom was rushed to Toronto.

SHAKEN UP

Mr. and Mrs. Breach, and Bloom's wife Iris were only shaken up.

Only a few feet away another car went out of control and ran into the west ditch, but it did not overturn and nobody was injured. It was driven by Clifford Carmichael, 37, of Belleville; his four passengers were from Belleville and Hybla.

$350,000 Hospital Opened In North

NEW LISKEARD (CP)—A $350,000 district hospital was opened Saturday by Health Minister Phillips of Ontario who, at the same time, announced an additional $20,000 government grant to the building, making the new building free of debt.

The one-storey building, with 40 beds, will serve an area which contains 12,000 persons and replaces the Lady Minto hospital which has served the community since 1907.

More than half of the money needed for the building was raised by the people of New Liskeard and the district of Timiskaming from voluntary contribution. Grants included $50,000 from the federal government and $125,000 from Ontario. The additional grant announced Saturday brings the province's share to $145,000.

Hundreds Of Hunters Arrive 1st Reports Show Poor Shoot

Hundreds of hunters poured into deer camps of the Kawarthas over the weekend from all over southern Ontario. Settlers' homes along Highway 28 had yards full of cars and houses full of men in heavy mackinaw clothing. The weather was of the "bluejay" type on Saturday and continuing balmy conditions on Sunday ended with a sustained electric storm and much rain at night.

Weather turned cooler this morning but not cool enough to keep shot game for any more than a few hours. An indication that the opening morning was poor was the scarcity of carcasses coming south on car fenders. Not more than two or three were noted by noon when on previous opening days hunters were returning with their spoils in small droves.

WET GROUND

Another reason this year for a poor start was the wet ground that made it bad for hounds to trail scent.

The village of Apsley on Sunday afternoon was filled with hunters buying snack meals, colored bush clothing and generally wandering aimlessly about waiting for darkness, a good sleep and an early trek to their watches at dawn today.

Hunters who had not been at their camps since last fall found the current highway work had completely changed the familiar road and soft dirt-filled stub roads bogged down more than one car.

Lands and Forests officials sighed with relief at Sunday night's rain which dampened down the tinder-dry bush considerably. Fire hazard was extremely high before that.

Tolted Off Wagon In Accident Dragged By Team

MARMORA (ENS)—Thrown to the ground when a car struck his horse-drawn wagon Lorne Gawley of Marmora on Saturday afternoon received a broken rib and bruises. He was dragged along the highway for a short distance and was further bruised when kicked by one of the horses in the bolting team.

Gawley had been drawing wood to the village during the afternoon and about 4 p.m. was returning the borrowed wagon and team to their owners. He started down a hill, 1½ miles east of Marmora on Highway 7 and leading to the C.N.R. crossing, when he was involved in the accident.

A 1938-model car, driven by Wilbert Wilson of Deloro, pulled out to the left to pass him. But a second car, also eastbound, tried to pass Wilson at the same time. The heavy, 1948-model car, driven by John Buttle of Toronto, struck Wilson's car and knocked it into the wagon.

Gawley was knocked to the pavement and dragged for a short distance with one of the team kicking at him. The horses, owned by Hugh Forsyth of Marmora township, ran away and were halted a mile down the highway, outside the home of Charles Reid.

The Toronto car also struck the wagon; then skidded to the left of the road and ran into the face of a rock cut, its radiator, grill, two doors and a fender damaged.

The Wilson car was also damaged as was the wagon, owned by Charles Clemens of Marmora township.

Cadet's Funeral On Wednesdav

The body of Flight Cadet Garthorne (Garth) Jopling, who was killed Thursday in an air crash in Alberta, will arrive in Peterborough Wednesday morning by train.

The funeral will be held at 3 p.m. in the afternoon from the Comstock funeral home. The Rev. C. G. Boyd, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

The plane in which Flight Cadet Jopling was taking a training flight from the R.C.A.F. base at Claresholm, Alberta, crashed about 73 miles south of Calgary. Contrary to first reports, it is understood that the plane was badly wrecked.

The 21-year-old fight cadet was the son of Mrs. Madeline Jopling, 380 Armstrong Drive. He was a former student of P.C.V.S. and he joined the R.C.A.F. in March of this year.

Also killed in the crash was [illegible] NATO commitments from France.

Fell In Pasture

Irwin Warner, 31, of Norwood, was injured Saturday afternoon while helping his uncle, John McConnell, round up cattle on the McConnel ranch in Dummer township.

Mr. Warner stumbled and fell backwards, striking his head as he fell. He was admitted to Civic Hospital for treatment of a possible skull fracture. Later his injuries were diagnosed as concussion and his condition is said to be satisfactory today.

Car Crashes Into Rear of Bus 2 Slightly Hurt

Keith Dunning, 22, 332 King St., was injured slightly and a bus passenger was shaken up when the car he was driving collided with the rear of a Colonial Coach Lines bus Sunday evening.

The bus, driven by Cecil Bertrand, 121 Douro St., was travelling east on Charlotte St., and had just stopped, west of Bethune St., for the railway tracks and to let off two passengers, when the collision occurred.

Mrs. Dorothy Dingman, 281 281 McDonnel St., one of the passengers getting off, was standing in the door well when the impact threw her against the front of the bus. She complained of a sore shoulder.

Dunning was thrown forward against the steering wheel of the car and was taken to Civic Hospital for treatment of cuts on his face and left hand and a bruise on his knee.

The front end of the car was damaged considerably, and the rear of the bus where the motor is located was also damaged.

Dog Bites Child On Lip Boy Brought To Civic

APSLEY (ENS)—Bertie Reynolds, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Reynolds, Apsley, was bitten on the lip Sunday by a collie dog and taken to Peterborough Civic Hospital. There his condition today is described as satisfactory.

The lad was playing with his sister, Gail, and Betty Anne Howden, children of O.P.P. Constable Bert Howden. They were throwing a stick for the Howden dog to chase. The children stopped to watch a passing car when the dog suddenly jumped at the Reynolds boy, biting his lip.

The boy was taken to Dr. H. E. Gastle in Lakefield and then to the Civic Hospital.

The dog will be held under observation for two weeks.

500 Workers To Vote On New Agreement

HAMILTON (CP) — More than 500 Hamilton Cotton Company workers will vote tomorrow on a new contract negotiated between the company and the Textile Workers Union of America (C.I.O.)

Balloting, to be supervised by city clerk James F. Berry, will take place at city hall.

for a general increase of seven cents an hour, plus increased life insurance and other benefits.

Workers at the plant went on strike four weeks ago.

Injured Youth, 17 In Critical Condition

GUELPH (CP)—Donald Stewart, 17, of Guelph, one of two youths injured when a car left a road and plunged into a ditch Saturday, was reported in critical condition today.

His companion Robert Pitman, 18, of Kitchener, is making satisfactory progress. Both were taken to hospital in a semi-conscious condition after the accident.

To Reveal Tests

LONDON (AP) — Dr. William Penney, top British atom scientist who directed the Monte Bello A-bomb explosion a month ago, will tell the world as much as security precautions allow about Britain's "big bang" in a BBC broadcast on Friday. The broadcast will go out on seven overseas programs and recordings will be flown to Canada and other Commonwealth countries.

3 Bush Fires Burn In County

100 Acres Swamp Burned Over At Lake Mississauga

Three bush fires were reported burning in the Peterborough district over the weekend by district forester, A. B. Wheatley of Lindsay. The largest, about 100 acres, was under control today while the others were only small spot fires.

The 100-acre fire was in Harvey township, southwest of Mississauga lake, about 35 miles northwest of Peterborough. It was first reported burning Saturday in crown and private property which was mostly marsh land.

Mr. Wheatley described this fire as a "light burn" and said that "a couple of men are still working there today."

Other fires were near Katchacoma lake, just north of Buckhorn, and another small fire, amounting to four acres, in Chandos township.

High fire hazard existing through the Peterborough area has prompted the department of Lands and Forests to extend the fire season into November this year. Usually the season, according to the act, ends October 31.

Mr. Wheatley said that the season will continue until "such time there is no more fire danger." This depends largely upon the amount of rain and snow this month and during the extension people "must not set fires without a permit."

Constable Saves Boy In Pond

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Billy Brigger, 5, of Lynden, near Hamilton, is alive and well today through the efforts of Constable Tom Law, who saved him from drowning Saturday.

The child, visiting his grandmother, Mrs. A. E. MacAuley, with his parents, Lt.-Col. and Mrs. William Brigger, had gone to Harrison Park. He was standing on the bridge over the stream leading to a deep pond, when he apparently lost his balance and fell into the water.

He sank below the surface, rose, and was thrashing the water helplessly when Constable Law saw him. Unable to reach the boy from the bridge, the officer immediately plunged into the stream fully clad in his heavy uniform, boots and leather leggings. The water was level with the constable's chin when he succeeded in grasping the child. He was able to reach up and hold on to the bridge and bring both the boy and himself to safety.

Back on land and recovered from his fright, Billy looked up at his rescuer. "I'm awfully sorry," he said.

Commission Head Dies In Kingston

KINGSTON (CP) — Warren P. Black, 51, manager of the Kingston office of the unemployment insurance commission, died last night.

Born in Kingsville, he lived in Windsor and Detroit before moving to Kingston in 1930. Until 1941 he was in the life insurance business.

He is survived by his widow. A sister, Mrs. J. W. Ayers, and a brother, Stanley Black, live in Windsor.

TRUCK BURNED

A 1951 English model pickup truck, owned by Clarence Russell, of Norham, was completely destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. While Russell attempted to fix a gas line, the truck caught fire on a country road seven miles northwest of Warkworth. He tried to put out the fire but couldn't do anything to prevent it spreading.

Tulip Bulb Thief Discovered Raids Ended

Looting of tulip bulbs from their beds on the lawn of De Laval Company, Park St., and Lansdowne Road, recently began where they left off a year ago. At that time, the pilfering was written off as an unsolved theft.

Fred Ebdon of De Laval, who keeps an eye on the flowers down there, is inclined to revise a general suspicion and direct it to another agency of disregard for property rights. A year ago, the centre of the beds were cleared of new bulbs planted by a professional florist. They vanished without trace or clue.

This season's bid for next spring's bloom was made in the same way last Thursday, and almost immediately evidence of lifting was noticed just as effectively as a year ago, but lacking both mystery and finesse.

LOOTER SPOTTED

From the window of his home across Park St., Mr. Ebdon was casually attracted to a small collection of tulip bulbs, increasing in number gradually day by day. His interest soon changed to concern and a dawning recognition as he watched a black squirrel crossing back and forth from De Laval flower bed to the low roof within sight of Mr Ebdon's living room.

Possibly the industry and enterprise of the squirrel may have been quickened by instinct of a long bleak winter, or it may have been appreciative memory of the convenient store of luscious green stuff that was cadged from the same course twelve months ago. It is an open question at the De Laval office, but the evidence is rather implicative of connection between the two raids.

Quite plain was the path of the squirrel's route, a short run across the street to mix tulip bulbs with nuts gathered from the neighborhood for the winter diet. Since the discovery, chicken wire has been spread over the bulb beds, confronting the squirrel with an impossible problem of trying to manoeuvre a one-inch diameter tulip bulb through a three-eights inch mesh.

Body Of Man Found In Scugog R.

Lindsay Father Missing 2 Days On Fishing Trip

LINDSAY (ENS)—The body of a 36-year-old Lindsay man, father of 11 children, was dragged from the Scugog River, north of here, late Sunday afternoon.

A two-day search was instituted when he failed to return from a trip to his fishing shack on the river on Friday. Irvin Fisher, of Colborne East, an employee of the C.N.R. here, set out on Friday afternoon in a boat to take coal to the fishing shack, situated between lighthouses 4 and 5, on the river.

He was expected to return the same evening. When he did not return, his family began a search for him assisted by some friends. On Saturday at noon his empty boat was found and the provincial police began a search.

After preliminary investigation the O.P.P. called in the Lindsay Fire Department to assist in dragging operations. Constable J. H. Plumbtree was in charge. Darkness ended the search Saturday night and it was started again Sunday morning.

A son of the missing man, Eugene, 16, made the next discovery during the afternoon when assisting with the dragging he found the outboard motor the man had used. A short time later his body was found.

Dr. L. V. Shier, coroner, investigated when the body was returned to Lindsay. According to Constable Kenneth Dennis, of the Lindsay O.P.P., it is not probable that an inquest will be held.

Find Too Many People Blaming Viruses Falsely For Aches, Pains

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—When you blame aches and ills on viruses, you may be making a false accusation.

The trouble may actually be due to some mild bacterial invasion, says Dr. Michael Sigel of the virus diagnostic laboratory of Children's Hospital, Philadelphia.

"THE ALMIGHTY"

Many fevers of unknown origin are glibly laid at the door of "the almighty virus," he told the American Public Health Association.

Too many people, doctors and laymen alike, regard the virus "as some sinister power, an untouchable thing verging on the evil spirit." To them, "everything in the world capable of causing a sore throat or a stomach ache is a virus."

On the other hand, Sigel says, viruses may actually be causing proportionately more infection these days. Not long ago, the main health problems were severe bacterial diseases, causing strep infections, typhoid, diphtheria and whooping cough.

These still occur, but now seem to make up a smaller portion of the total amount of diseases.

SPOT OUTBREAKS

They could also spot unsuspected outbreaks of virus or rickettsial diseases. Diagnosing "Q" fever in one man led to discovery that there had been an outbreak of the fever in a wool-processing plant, and that raw wool or animal hair could transmit the infecting agent.

Only a few states have knowledge of such illnesses as Q fever, psittacosis or parrot fever, rickettsial pox, typhus and encephalitis occurring within their borders, Dr. Sigel said.

The laboratories also could help keep tabs on influenza and help determine when 'flu vaccines should be recommended to control the disease and prevent epidemics.

FIRST STAGE—A huge dark cloud arises from Britain's first atomic weapon explosion, held off the coast of Australia at 8 a.m. (local time) October 3. Immense clouds of smoke, steam and spray burst into the air after the initial orange flash had been enveloped by the great uprush of water.

LATER STAGE—A later stage of Britain's atomic weapon explosion in Australian coastal waters shows the cloud surging into the sky. Southerly winds, varying in speeds at different heights, already are beginning to take effect on the smoke cloud a few minutes after the blast.

FINAL STAGE—A cloud formation 50 miles long arises from Britain's first atomic weapon explosion, held off the coast of Australia. This picture was taken 30 minutes after the morning blast.

Razor Slashers Rule Glasgow Slums

By RANALD MACLURKIN

GLASGOW (Reuters)—A razor scar is a badge of honor in the teeming slums of Glasgow, Britain's toughest city where two murders in three days recently shocked the country.

The crimes jolted public conscience into demanding a clean-up of the big Scottish shipbuilding and industrial city which last year had 14,461 crimes of violence.

Any citizen obliged to walk along a slum street after twilight keeps his eyes cast down. Otherwise, someone with a razor might not like the look of him.

Scarcely a day passes without one or more pedestrians being attacked by knives or razors for no other reason than innocently catching the eye of a "tough."

Razor-slashing is equally a pastime among the hooligans of Glasgow, which has a population of 1,100,000. Sometimes robbery is the motive, but mostly there is no other reason than the thrill of brutality.

PANIC AT GAMES

Until a short time ago the highlight of the Glasgow razorman's year was the annual football match between the city's two great professional soccer teams, Glasgow Rangers and the Celtics.

Almost as soon as the game started there would be panic as rival razor gangs clashed, beer bottles were broken and the jagged stems stabbed into the faces of those innocent by-standers unlucky enough to be in the way.

The meetings of the two clubs have been more peaceful since the authorities threatened that the games would be completely wiped from the sporting calendar.

Though the razor is still a weapon to be dreaded in Glasgow, organized gang warfare has declined in recent years.

The man most responsible is Sir Percy Sillitoe, now chief of M.I.5. Britain's most famous branch of the Secret Service.

As chief constable of Glasgow before the war, his methods succeeded in cleaning up the big organized razor cliques whose street battles made the nights hideous.

BILLY BOYS BIGGEST

One of the biggest of these gangs was the "Billy Boys," named after William of Orange, Protestant monarch who fought the Irish in the Seventeenth Century.

Other razor gangs made no pretence at having racial or religious origins. They extorted money from small shopkeepers, but the main reason for their existence was love of viciousness.

Unemployment in those days was largely blamed for Glasgow violence. Today there is little unemployment. But the slums still remain.

The stink and squalor of the Glasgow slums is almost unbelievable. There are tenements so filthy and beyond repair that landlords have abandoned them and do not bother to collect rent.

It is in these circumstances that the man with the scars on his face and the razor in his pocket is king.

Buckinghamshire Election Going To Take Limelight

HIGH WYCOMBE, England (Reuters)—Hall vs. Haire is going to take the limelight from Ike vs. Adlai in this Buckinghamshire town Tuesday, where a by-election will be held to fill a vacant House of Commons seat.

The contest between Labor candidate John Haire and Conservative John Hall will be the keenest test vote in the country since the Conservatives won the 1951 general election.

Wycombe is a real "marginal seat"—the kind that could go either way—and it is the "marginal seats" that decide general elections. In October, 1951, the Conservatives won Wycombe with a margin of 1,753 votes. In the 1950 general election, Labor won by 476.

Four or five months ago, when rising living costs and other domestic troubles had depressed the Churchill government's prestige Labor probably would have recaptured the seat.

But government stock has risen from its efforts to put the country back on its feet economically. Labor support may have suffered from the recent battles between Aneurin Bevan's left-wingers and the official Labor leadership.

The by-election was called after the 1951 winner, W. W. Astor, became a member of the House of Lords on the death of his father, Viscount Astor.

Stevenson Reluctant But Works Very Hard

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Never was a candidate for the presidency of the United States so reluctant as was Adlai E. Stevenson, Governor of Illinois.

But it was said of him:

"Adlai always runs reluctantly, but when he runs, he runs like hell."

After the Democratic National Convention chose him on the third ballot, he told the delegates:

"I accept your nomination and your program.

"I should have preferred to hear those words uttered by a stronger, wiser, better man than myself. . ."

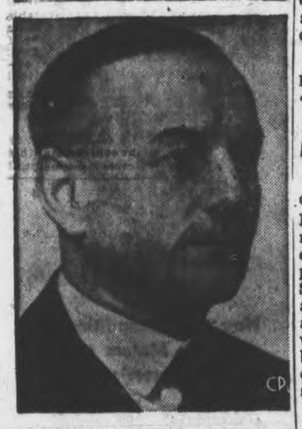
Then he ran like hell.

Before and for most of the convention, Stevenson's aloof attitude made his selection the closest thing to a genuine "draft" that a major political party has seen. He had insisted that all he wanted was to run again for the governorship of Illinois and complete "our unfinished work."

But once having accepted the nomination, he put up one of the liveliest battles ever witnessed in American politics. He had to. Against him was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, viewed by millions as the "Saviour of Europe" and a proved first-rate leader and administrator.

DEVOTION TO DUTY

So is the 52-year-old Stevenson. It was those qualities which brought him from virtual political obscurity to national prominence.



His devotion to public life, in fact, is reported to have been one of the reasons for his divorce in 1949. After more than 20 years of married life, Mrs. Stevenson divorced him on the grounds of mental cruelty. Some said she could not fit into the glass-bowl life of a public official's wife.

STARTED IN 1933

A lawyer, Stevenson was in politics in a minor way from 1933 but it was not until 1947, after State Department service abroad, that he gained prominence. In his first bid that year for elective office, he led the Democratic ticket in Illinois, a state that had elected only three other Democratic governors since the Civil War.

He has the reputation of being frugal with his own money as well as that of the state. He was reported to have bought only one new suit of clothes during his term as Governor. A picture taken during the presidential campaign showed a big hole in the sole of one of his shoes.

LORD CHAMBERLAIN—The Queen has appointed the Earl of Scarborough as Lord Chamberlain of Her Majesty's household to succeed the Earl of Clarendon who has resigned. Lord Scarborough, 56, has been lord lieutenant of the West Riding of Yorkshire since 1948. He was governor of Bombay 1937-43 and parliamentary under-secretary for India and Burma in 1945.

Manslaughter Charge

HAMILTON (CP)—Police yesterday charged Michael Clarence Brennan, 41, of Hamilton with manslaughter following the death of another Hamilton man in a police cell. Brennan and Cornelius Scully, 52, were involved in an argument in a hotel Saturday night and later had a fight on the sidewalk, police said. Scully was booked on a drunk charge. A check of the cellblock early yesterday showed Scully had died.

Brophey To Run Again

WINDSOR (CP) — Thomas R. Brophy, Mayor of Windsor for eight days in 1951 before losing on a recount to Arthur J. Reaume, announced Saturday he will contest the mayoralty in the Dec. 1 municipal election. Alderman Robert J. Newall announced his candidacy last month and it is thought likely Mayor Reaume will seek a seventh two-year term.

Children Hold Party At Gore's Landing

GORE'S LANDING (ENS). — A Hallowe'en party was held at S.S. No. 16 Gore's Landing-Plainville school on Friday afternoon at which the parents and preschool children were entertained by the pupils and two teachers, Mrs. Earle Linton and Miss Lillian Barker.

The boards were attractively decorated in the Hallowe'en designs and colors. Pupils of Senior and Junior rooms sang songs accompanied by Nancy Harris. During the parade of the three groups of children, senior, junior and preschool children, Mrs. R. J. Meggs played the march as the groups paraded before the two judges, Mrs. Frank Milne and Mrs. Lyle Wallace.

Nancy Harris won a prize for the senior room's best costume. She was dressed as a Red Devil with horns and long red tail and staff. Pamella Harris and Donald Smith were given honorable mention.

The children and teachers served a delicious lunch to the many adults who were present for this enjoyable occasion.

Freighter Towed In

Parisians Call Building Plan Nothing But Radiator Design

PARIS (AP).—Architects planning a 17-storey, flatiron type building for headquarters of the United Nations Educational, Cultural and Scientific Organization will probably have to think again because of objections to their plans by Paris authorities.

The original plan called for a 200-foot high office building—considered a skyscraper in Paris where few buildings are more than eight floors—and a long one-storey building containing an assembly hall.

This drew fire from the city planning committee and the sites committee which claimed the building would resemble a giant radiator. They said its erections on the proposed site, near the Bois de Boulogne on the western edge of the city, would interfere with Parisians' appreciation of local monuments such as the Arch of Triumph.

With the press derisively calling the project "notre dame of the radiators," U.N.E.S.C.O. officials made no comment except that maybe the architects would be asked to think again.

Award Of Merit Presented Rev. V.E.R. Zufelt

OMEMEE (ENS)—The Omemee and District Horticultural Society met in the United Church basement where a pot-luck supper was served to more than one hundred.

Following the supper there was a sing-song conducted by Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, with Mrs. Margaret Rich accompanying. President Wesley Wilson told of some of the Society's acticities during the year, which were shared by 118 adult members and 40 juniors

A duet was sung by Mrs. T. J. Pogue and Mrs. A. N. Weir, accompanied by Mrs. Les. Casey. In appreciation of Rev. Zufelt's work in the interests of horticulture, he was presented with the Ontario award of merit, the presentation being made by district president R. G. Heard of Woodville. Mr. Zufelt said he was amply repaid for any time given to horticulture, just in the anticipation of seeing what would develop from his ventures. As for his ability in showmanship spoken of by Mr. Heard, he said he had learned much more from his failures than from his successes. He also spoke of the whole-hearted way with which the directors of the Omemee society entered into their work.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Victor Williams, Mrs. Robt. Thorn and Mr. Ted Roos.

The concluding feature was colored pictures shown by Miss Hazel Wilson of Peterborough. These pictures were taken on her southern tour last summer and some local ones of interest to Omemee horticulturists. The southern pictures included beauty spots and things of interest in the localities of Jacksonville, St. Petersburg, Miami Beach, Key West, Daytona and Nassau.

E. A. Cornell, on behalf of the society, thanked Miss Wilson, Mr. Heard, Mr. Zufelt, Mrs. Rich, Mrs. Pogue, Mrs. Weir, Mrs. Casey, Mrs. Brooks and her helpers and all who co-operated to make the evening a pleasure.

Marmora Church Marks Anniversary

MARMORA (ENS). — St. Andrew's United Church observed its 78th anniversary on Sunday with fine congregations at both services. Rev. K. J. Crawford, B.A., B.D., pastor, conducted the services. In the morning the guest preacher was Rev. A. E. MacKenzie, B.A., newly inducted principal of Albert College, Belleville, who chose as his subject, "The Value of Perseverance." The guest soloist for the day was John Moore of Reaboro. The choir sang an anthem, "Just As I Am."

At the evening service Squadron Leader Rev. Frank MacLean of the R.C.A.F., Trenton, was the preacher. He spoke on the words of the Roman centurion, "For I also am a man under authority." As a prelude he touched upon the chaplaincy of the R.C.A.F., mentioning that 15,000 airmen were affiliated with the United Church. The armed services have doubled its force in the last two years and 12 United Church chaplains were added.

Children Parade In Havelock

HAVELOCK (ENS) — A Hallowe'en party, under the auspices of the Havelock Rotary Club, for the children of town, was held in the town hall Friday evening.

A parade formed at the town hall at 7.30 p.m., headed by the Havelock Pipe Band, and marched in a torchlight procession through the business section of town, returning to the town hall, where the costumes were judged. The judging was no easy job, as practically every child in the community and several adults were present in costume.

First prize for the best decorated baby carriage was won by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nobes, Jr., with their young son. The second prize was won by Donna Johnson and Helen Anderson for the station wagon.

The prize for the youngest boy in comic dress went to Robert McArthur and the prize for the youngest girl in comic dress went to Beverley Ann Kyle.

The remainder of the judging, done in age groups, was as follows: Eight years and under, comic dress, boys, J. Scott, Tom Adley, B. Scott; comic dress, girls, Lois Smith.

Fancy dress, boys, Robert Watson, M. Robinson; fancy dress, girls, Darlene Norman, Sharon McLean.

EIGHT TO TWELVE YEARS

The judges were Mrs. H. Hubble, Donald Mathieson, Harold Mathieson.

Candies and nuts were distributed among the children, and the program was brought to close by the showing of several movie films.

Day Life Member

OTTAWA (CP)—"Dinghy" Jones, a nine-year-old Air Force mascot, will be made a life member of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association at a ceremony in Belleville next Wednesday night. The black cocker spaniel, owned by Dr. Arnold F. Jones of Montreal, served with 422 and 401 R.C.A.F. squadrons during the war and is a regular member of 306 (Maple Leaf) wing, Montreal.

18 Fatalities Reported In E. Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A 95-year-old Quebec woman, battered to death in a farmhouse near Montreal, was one of 18 persons to die violently in Eastern Canada during the weekend, a survey today showed.

Nine were traffic fatalities, two were drownings and seven died from other causes. Ontario's total was eight, six traffic and two others, and Quebec had six, two traffic and four others. New Brunswick had two fatalities and there was one in each of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

Mrs. Henri Tartes was found lying in a pool of blood by a neighbor who had called to take her and her son, Etienne, 52, to church. She had been beaten to death and her son, discovered in another room, was lying unconscious and suffering multiple body bruises.

HOME RANSACKED

Their Berthier home, 35 miles east of Montreal, had been ransacked. Etienne was taken to hospital, but was unable to talk to police.

Two persons died in fires in Ontario. Thomas Mogg, 60, of Windsor burned to death a few feet from the front door of his home in a blaze believed by firemen to have started through careless smoking. Leslie Richards, 40, was trapped when fire destroyed his Toronto home, but his wife and three children escaped.

Ontario traffic deaths: Frank R. Gold, 23, when his car crashed into a tree as he was returning to Niagara Falls; James Nemeth, 75, of Brantford, after being struck by a car; Mike Leswry, 60, of Copper Cliff, also struck by a car; Melvin Ross, 27, of Sault Ste. Marie, when his car rolled over several times, 14 miles north of Thessalon; George R. Morrison, 28, in a two-car collision in Toronto; William Bolton, 69, of Rockwood, when his truck went off the road 10 miles east of Guelph.

In Quebec, three persons died in shooting accidents. Jean-Roch Latulippe, 9, of Lambton, died when his brother attempted to remove a cartridge from a rifle and the gun discharged; Marc Lemay, 3, of Lachute, when a stray bullet struck him as he played near his home; Yves Falardeau, 16, of Longueuil, when his companion's rifle discharged as they hunted ducks 55 miles from Montreal.

TWO DIE IN CRASH

Madore D. Lemens, 48, and Baptiste Caron, 56, both of Point Comfort, died after the car Lemens was driving crashed into a tree near Gracefield, 55 miles north of Ottawa.

In New Brunswick, Miss Claire Cote, 20, of Lac au Saumon, Que., was drowned when a car sank in Dalhousie Harbor after making a wrong turn in leaving the ferry, and Joseph A. Robichaud, 46, of Little Alduane, was struck by a car near Richibucto.

John Flynn, 11, of Sydney, N.S., was killed when a dynamite detonator cap, believed found in an ashpile, exploded in his hands. Ernest Joseph Ford, of South Lake, P.E.I., was drowned at Black Pond, east of Souris, apparently while trying to recover a wild goose he had shot.

Beaten To Death

BERTHIER, Que. (CP)—A 95-year-old woman was beaten to death and her 52-year-old son badly beaten Saturday night in their farmhouse on the outskirts of this town 35 miles east of Montreal. Police said the body of Mrs Henri Tartes was found lying in a pool of blood. In another room her son, Etienne, was found unconscious and suffering from multiple body bruises.

ENDS PRISON RIOT—Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee, walks into Menard State prison in Chester, Ill., to confer with officials. The Governor's brief interruption of his campaign tour brought about the surrender of the 339 rioting prisoners and the release of their seven hostages.

RIOT SQUAD—Heavily armed guards and state police stand watch at Menard State Prison in Chester, Ill., as the 339 rioting prisoners are returned to their cells. The week-old riot came to an end with the arrival of Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Ex-Vice-President Of Bell Company Dies

He retired last year after 43 years in the telephone industry.

Born in Brockville, Ont., he was graduated from the University of Toronto and joined the New York Telephone Company. In 1911, he returned to Canada to join the Bell company at Montreal and rose to the position of general plantmanager.

In 1930, he was named general manager of the Bell's western area with headquarters in Toronto, but returned to Montreal in 1939 as vice-president in charge of personnel and public relations. He was named a director in 1948.

Bush Fire Checked

CALEDON (CP)—Some 100 district volunteers Saturday brought under control a bush fire which earlier swept through 200 acres of dry fields and bush. The fire, which raced along a railway right-of-way, is believed to have been started by sparks from a passing train.

Salesman Dies

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—George A. Jones, 61, well-known clothing salesman, died yesterday. A native of Ayr, before coming to this city 20 years ago he had worked in Welland, Windsor and London. His widow, a son and a daughter survive.

Truman Says He Enjoyed Election Drive

By R.J. ANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—Win or lose, Harry S. Truman says, he enjoyed the 1952 United States election campaign. He regrets that it's all over for him.

The president who is stepping out of the White House after nearly eight years of war and uneasy peace had almost a choke in his voice Saturday as he made his farewell address of the campaign.

To a rear-platform crowd at Granite City, Ill., he said:

"It is the last time when, as president of the United States, I shall talk to the people in 'whistle stop' crowds like this about the issues of the election.

"I kind of hate to give it up."

And win or lose, Harry S. Truman's part in the 1952 campaign, one of the most bitter, hardest fought of the century, will be a factor in its outcome.

In two months he has travelled 18,000 miles in 30 states, making 211 speeches on behalf of Governor Adlai E. Stevenson, chosen by the Democratic party to succeed Truman who chose not to run again.

Alderman To Run For Mayor Of Lindsay

LINDSAY (ENS)— Alderman Lloyd Burrows today became the first to toss his hat in the mayoral ring for the coming elections here. He announced his intentions of contesting the highest office in town council, no matter who opposed him.

Alderman Burrows, a resident of Lindsay for only six years, and a member of council for five of them, has gained support for the struggle this year through his economy program, launched this year, when he headed council's finance committee.

He has clashed repeatedly throughout with other councillors and with committee heads over civic expenses and has wage a running feud with the mayor incumbent Charles Lamb, although on the recent gravel pit issue, he supported the mayor and later published his reasons for advocating the sale of a parcel of land to one buyer for $1,200 when another had a concrete bid of $1,500 for the land.

Others expected to contest are the present mayor or his candidate and William Graham, a retired railroader and former mayor of the town, who is under pressure from a group of citizens to enter the race.

Lengthen Queen's Ancestory By 2 Dozen Generations

LONDON (Reuters)—A research team today lengthened the Queen's ancestry by a couple of dozen generations but pruned back the family trees of many lesser bluebloods.

Editor L. G. Pine of Burke's Peerage, accepted chronicle of British nobility, said the Queen's ancestry has been traced back to a fourth century Teutonic tribal king, Woden. Previous data had followed the Royal Family's roots back only to the ninth century Saxon King Egbert, first king of England.

Pine and 17 assistants have been revising Burke's Peerage for the first time since it was established in 1826. Although the full story of their research will not be published before the 2,840-page coronation edition appears next June, Pine gave a few highlights to a reporter.

"Our monarchy goes back earlier than any other in Europe," he said. "The Spanish monarchy cannot hold a candle to it."

Pine said old records have been re-examined and others recently brought to light have been carefully checked to determine the Queen's ancestry back to the early Christian era.

From Egbert, the researchers plowed back a dozen generations to King Cedric who ruled the ancient kingdom of Wessex in 520 A.D.—100 years after the end of the Roman occupation of Britain.

From there, they traced Cedric's family roots back another 12 generations to Woden.

New Toni

WITH PRICELESS PINK LOTION

Holds the set longer than any other permanent!

"My First Home Permanent... and I'm thrilled with it! I chose New Toni because my friends told me it was best. It's given me a beautifully soft, natural-looking wave, and the curl stays for ages without re-setting."

"I've Always used Toni ... and I've always liked it. But this last wave, with Priceless Pink Lotion, is the most wonderful yet! It took less time to give, yet the wave stays set longer than any permanent I've ever had."

"I've Switched to Toni ... after trying all the other home permanents. I find New Toni gives me just the right amount of curl, and the wave is so lively it stays from one shampoo to the next with no re-setting at all."

REGARDLESS OF YOUR HAIR STYLE . . . NO MATTER HOW YOU GOT YOUR PERMANENT BEFORE . . . NEW TONI HOLDS THE SET LONGER!

You'll forget all other ideas about permanents the first time you use New Toni with Priceless Pink Lotion. For the new Toni process is faster, gives a wave with the vibrant spring and silky-softness of a natural wave. Yes, and it holds the set longer than any other permanent you've ever had!

Never a lotion so wonderful! You've never used anything like Toni's new Priceless Pink Lotion! It curls more completely—yet is kinder to your hair! And that means a lovelier, livelier wave for you. Less re-setting. New freedom from the nightly chore of pin curls.

Never a neutralizer so fast! You save 20 minutes with the new Permafix method of neutralizing. And because Permafix neutralizes more thoroughly, it "locks in" your Toni wave so it can't come out. New Toni means all day—every day beauty for you month after month.

Never a guarantee so complete! If you don't say your new Toni looks lovelier and holds the set longer than any other permanent you've ever had, the Toni Company will cheerfully refund your money. So try New Toni—and you be the judge.

Ask for Toni at any cosmetic counter.

New Toni Refill $1.75

Never before—a wave so lovely... so lively... so lasting!

Artists' Reception Mood Is Set By Guest Painter

A mood for the reception following the formal opening Saturday evening of the Peterborough Brush and Palette Club's exhibit in the Public Library was set by the charming personality of Mr. William Winter. The noted Toronto painter was here to address the club's guests on this occasion and he also met previously with the club and gave constructive criticism on the paintings hung and demonstrated portrait painting.

President Mrs. Ralph Clark was at the door to greet each attendant and invited them to sign the guest register.

Tea was served in the children's library where a most attractive table setting had a centrepiece of beautiful bronze chrysanthemums effectively circled with pine needles, and small gourds were the holders of white tapers.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Ford Turner, president of the Women's Art Association, and Mrs. Paul Irwin, member of the Brush and Palette Club and convener of the tea room. Servers were young friends of the members, Misses Beverley Johnston, Eva Mary Ridout, Roselyn Stevenson, Nancy and Joan Ackerman, Mary Irwin, and Mrs. Robert Carley, Mrs. Bert Grant, Mrs. Grant Clark and Mrs. Arthur Dixon.

Brownies Dress Up In Fancy Costume

First St. Andrew's Brownies had an outstanding Hallowe'en party Saturday afternoon in the Sunday School audftorium which was decorated for the occasion. With lighted Jack-o-lanterns, witches and skeletons nodding approval the Brownies, in unique colorful costumes, marched around the room to be judged by Mrs. Roy Lewis. She found this a difficult task however, but finally picked out eight costumes and then with the help of applause from the remaining 34 Brownies awarded the prizes as follows:

Best costume: Elaine Purdon as the Queen; Betty Ann Meagher as a bride; honorable mention in this group to Norma Perry as an old-fashioned lady and Jane Whitely as Belle of the '90's.

Comic costume: Sharon Thompson as Sir Harry Lauder; Nancy Young as an Indian Chief; honorable mention: Ida Frances Hewitt as a hobo and Barbara Goldbach as a gentleman.

Brown Owl Mrs. James McLeod was costumed as Laura Secord and Tawny Owl Miss Mary Jane Hatton came as Barnacle Bill the Sailor.

Prizes were given for pinning the tail on the donkey, ducking for apples, musical chairs, apple relay, balloon relay, witch in the orchard, peanut relay and a treasure hunt. As a chain ghost story was in progress, coke and cookies were served by Mrs. James Fraser, Mrs. Fred Ford, Mrs. J. Young and Mrs. H. Hewitt. The fun came to an end with a peanut scramble.

Dinner guests on Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown were: Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Smith and family, Bailieboro; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Richardson, Dartford.

Miss Roma Braithwaite spent Saturday with her sister, Mrs. John Ferguson, Oak Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Timlin were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Les Tucker, Burnley.

Friendliness Emphasized 'At Nurses' Alumnae Tea

A place to meet friends and enjoy a cup of tea was the tea room of the Civic Hospital Almunae who held their annual "Purple and Gold" tea and bazaar Saturday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A. Green Room. President Mrs. Phyllis Kingdon stressed the "friendly" atmosphere in planning the tea with the convener Mrs. Gordon Wainwright and tea convener Mrs. Richard Stewart.

Results of the event have greatly surpassed even their expectations in attendance, enjoyment and financial profit. The Alumnists spend all proceeds on nurses, either student nurses or graduate nurses who may have need of aid. A $100 scholarship is given yearly to the head girl of the Civic Hospital graduating class.

Decorations for the tea were, as usual, in the royal purple and gold colors. Mrs. Roy Taylor did the table and used a pair of handsome cut glass comports as holders for purple pansies and gold daisy 'mums, setting the lighted candles between them to highlight each. A profusion of golden 'mums were laid over pine branches on the mantel. Bazaar tables wore deep skirts and garlands in the Alumnae colors

In the tea room there was a pleasant background of soft music throughout the afternoon and this was provided by two ladies outside the organization, Mrs. Walter Purdy and Mrs. Arthur Bacon, and also by Mrs. Alan Wade who was a tea assitant.

Tea was poured by Mrs. M. J. Swanston, Mrs. John Hornal, Miss Robson and Mrs. Ivison Walker.

Members serving were Mrs. Marie Revoy, Mrs. Pat Logan, Mrs. George Oliver, Mrs. Earle Wellman, Mrs. Jack Campbell, Mrs. Alex Watson, Mrs. James Yarn, Mrs. Roy Taylor, Miss Sadie Brown, Miss Pat Weston, Mrs. Eva Brackenridge, Miss D. Pidgeon, Mrs. J. Bryett, Mrs. O. Lunn, and Miss Mary Nesbitt.

Mrs. Wade was convener of the supplies and her assistants were Mrs. A. King, Mrs. M. Forsythe, Mrs. D. Hill, Miss A Moncrief and Mrs. G. Powell.

An annual feature of this tea is the draw for a doll dressed as a nurse and a young "patient." Tickets on this and two other draw prizes, a cake made by Mrs. Roy Taylor, and a painting by Mrs. Gordon Wainwright, were in charge of Miss A. Bowler. Winner of the doll was Miss Mary Nesbitt, of the cake, Miss Lottie Ball, and the picture Mrs. Kingdon.

Bazaar articles sold extremely well, probably because of close pricing, and the profit was most pleasing Table attendants were Mrs. W. Jones, Miss Jean Preston, Mrs. D. Snelgrove, Miss L. Ball, Mrs. R. Pearson, Miss Mae Renwick, Mrs. T. Holyman, Mrs. J. Mortimer and Miss Stella Wood.

The home baking table was convened by Mrs. E. Conway and her assistant salesladies were Mrs. J. Yarn, Mrs. G. Morrison, Mrs. Pat Young, Mrs. Jack Thornton and Miss Sara Armstrong.

Lakefield Children Celebrate On Hallowe'en

LAKEFIELD (ENS).—Goblins, witches, colonial ladies, tramps and hundreds of others filled Lakefield Memorial Hall on Friday evening, when the Lakefield Lions Club was host to the children of the village at a gala Hallowe'en party.

Headed by a detachment from the Lakefield Fire Department on one of their fire trucks and the band of the Lakefield District High School Cadet Corps, the evening's fun began with a parade from the hall through the town. Upon returning to the hall, judging began for the best costumes. Judges Geddes Harper, president of the Peterborough Lions Club and Mrs. Harper and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Horning, also of Peterborough, had a difficult time making their decisions in many instances and awarded the prizes as follows:

Boys six years and under (comic)—George Payton, Michael Keller.

Girls six years and under (comic)—Phyllis Foster, Gayle Payne.

Boys six years and under (fancy)—Terry Blewett, Allen Lockwood.

Boys, 6-8 years (comic)—Don Wannamaker, Peter Graham.

Girls, 8-10 (fancy)—Sharon Payne, Sharon Jewell.

Girls, 8-10 years (comic) — Judy Slater, Sharon Hopkins.

Boys, 8-10 years, (comic) — John Lilley, Dale Kennedy.

Girls, 10-13 years (comic) — Georgia Jeffery, Helen Bolton.

Girls 10-13 years (fancy)—Shirley Tripp, Barbara Hollingshead.

Boys 10-13 years (fancy)—Paul O'Brien, Adrian Webb.

Following the judging, movies were shown and the children were then given a treat of candy and fruit. The evening concluded with a successful dance for the older citizens.

School Children Entertain Mothers

DARTFORD — (ENS) — The pupils and their teacher, Ronald Isaac, entertained the ladies of the school section at a Hallowe'en party, Friday afternoon.

Girben De Jong was chairman for the program which opened with "O Canada".

Rosella Campbell won a contest and there were games which both young and older enjoyed. The program consisted of piano solos by Anne Pollock and Ruth Hardy, Readings, Girben De Jong, Ruth Hardy and Rosella Campbell and songs by the school.

Mrs. Frank Atkinson and Mrs. Arch McCracken judged the costume parade giving prizes to Garry Frost, dressed as a witch; Lorne Grills a cowboy; Boyce Hardy a monkey and the tramp was Gordon Atkinson.

Mrs. Arthur Word moved a vote of thanks to the pupils and teacher.

A delicious lunch was served.

S.S. No. 5 PERCY

Mrs. Raymond Richardson and the pupils of S.S. No. 5 entertained the pre-school age children on Hallowe'en.

At noon a dinner was served with Donald Sykes as host and Clarice Honey, hostess.

During the afternoon games were enjoyed and a costume parade with prizes going to Roger and Eric Wigmore, Ellen Campbell, Dinda Nelson, Marian Ellis, Dianne Gummer, Joe Smith and Fred Ireland.

Next White House Hostess Will Be Woman Of Charm

By RUTH COWAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The next hostess in the White House will be a woman of charm, a cosmopolitan and a good handshaker. That holds true whether Adlai Stevenson or Dwight Eisenhower is elected president tomorrow.

Both Mamie Doud Eisenhower, wife of the Republican nominee, and Elizabeth (Buffie) Stevenson Ives, sister of the Democratic candidate and his official hostess as Governor of Illinois, are qualified.

They look you directly in the eye. They smile easily. Both have a firm handclasp. And they share a liking for people and parties, a valuable attribute in the job.

EXACTING ROLE

The role of First Lady or official White House hostess is an exacting one. It is hard work over long hours. Her manners are watched, her words quoted and her hair-style copied.

To begin there are the traditional White House state dinners and receptions.

State visits by heads of foreign governments can be expected. There will be women's organizations which want to be received at the White House.

Mrs. Harry Truman has had weeks during which she has been "at home" nearly every day to women's groups varying from 10 to hundreds of members.

Mrs. Ives, wife of a retired career diplomat, and Mrs. Eisenhower have had extensive experience in entertaining. Each knows the detailed planning that goes into making a function move smoothly.

Stevenson was divorced from Ellen Borden Stevenson, socially prominent Chicago matron and mother of their three sons, shortly after his election as governor of Illinois. He turned to his sister for help in official entertaining.

Both Mrs. Eisenhower and Mrs. Ives are 55 years old.

Millbrook Lions Have Party

MILLBROOK — (ENS) —The record crowd of excited, gaily-dressed youngsters and their parents filled the armouries on Friday evening for the annual Hallowe'en party sponsored by the Lions' Club for the children.

There were bowling games, dart games, spin-th-wheel games, all with bags of candy, apples and oranges as prizes. Then came the highlight of the evening, the parades of the various age groups and the awarding of prizes for costumes. In the pre-school age group in the fancy dress section, little Judy Yarr of Bailieboro was placed first as a drum majorette; Annemilhe Loohuizer was second in a native Dutch costume complete to wooden shoes; Merrilea and Lenore Buckham were third in identical floor-length junior bridesmaid dresses.

The comic awards in pre-school group were won by 1 Anne Penny, 2 Joan and Julie Armstrong as the Siamese twins and 3 Arlene Jeffries.

Awards for fancy dress for school children up to 8 years were won by 1 Barry Wood, 2 Brad. Medd and 3 Carol Abbott. Comic costume winners were 1 Betty Raper, 2 Reggie Sloan, 3 George Sheppard.

Winners in the 9 and over age group for fancy dress were 1 Alan Fowler, 2 Elaine Scott and 3 Jame Ouellette. Comic costume awards went to 1 Donald Earle, 2 Andy Gray and 3 Douglas Sheppard.

Fancy dress couples winners were 1 Helen and Bernard Ingham, 2 Janet, Judy and Patsy Hobbs (the 3 bears), and 3 Gayle Gibbs and Donna Murney.

Couples winning comic costume awards were 1 Glen Forsyth and Bobby Bredin, 2 Abie and Carol Hawkins, 3 Glenn Earle and Larry Gibbs.

Canadian shoe manufacturers produced about 40,000,000 pairs of shoes in 1951.

Lady Commissioner Backs Advantages Of Farm Living

ETHELTON, Sask. (CP)—Mrs. Nancy Adams thinks it's high time someone started to point out the advantages of living on a farm.

Now she is in a position to do it.

Mrs. Adams is the only woman member of a Saskatchewan Royal Commission appointed to investigate agricultural problems in the province.

Convincing farmers that it is good to live on a farm will be part of the job of Mrs. Adams and the six-member commission Mrs. Adams, a university graduate, lives on a farm in the Ethelton district of central Saskatchewan.

"I'm an ex-school teacher married to a farmer," she said in an interview. "And we live on a farm because we like it."

SECURITY ON FARM

Mrs. Adams said that farm families have security—"after all your bread is right at your door so to speak."

She doesn't think rural children lack educational opportunities today, what with radio, books and modern transportation.

Though all members of the commission will be working together studying the broad field of agricultural problems, they plan to divide into work committees.

Mrs. Adams said her interest is in aspects of rural living—special services, education and recreation specifically.

The aim of the commission, Mrs. Adams added, is to establish a "blueprint" for future farm life just as cities have planning commissions.

CAME FROM YORKSHIRE

Born in Yorkshire, England, she came to Canada when a child and lived in Alberta until 12 when she moved to Saskatchewan. She was graduated in arts from the University of Saskatchewan, majoring in English and French. Later she taught school in Regina.

Mrs. Adams is past president of the Saskatchewan Homemakers' Clubs and in 1950 travelled to Copenhagen to attend a conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World.

NOW WE KNOW?—Or do we? William Black, of the 1st Battalion Cameronians, supplies the answer to an age-old question as he capers with Lillian Ponnampalam in a country dance sponsored by his regiment in Singapore. The age-old question: "What does a Scotsman wear under his kilts?"

Novel Banquet Makes Britons Forget Austerity

LONDON (CP)—In London's Jermyn Street, once thoroughfare of revellers, authors and courtesans, six leading restaurants threw a novel composite banquet that made austerity seem a mockery.

Some 30 lucky newspaper correspondents from Fleet Street, tightly clutching invitations, partook of hors d'oeuvre, (including caviar, oysters, prawns and shrimps), Bouillabaisse, woodcock and oyster pie, foie gras en croute flown from Paris, rare cheeses, old port and vintage wines.

Each course was taken in a different restaurant. Sedan chairs were available to transport "any lady or gentleman of the press afflicted by gout or other crippling disability." The banquet lasted five hours, and next day columnists ruefully regretted the inadequacy of 20th-Century digestions.

100% ATTENDANCE

Sponsors of the feast reported it was probably the first time newspaper men had turned up in 100-per-cent strength for what was frankly a publicity stunt.

The restaurateurs were trying to prove that Jermyn Street, an arrow's flight from Eros Statue in Piccadilly, provides gastronomic delights unrivalled in Soho, the French-Italian restaurant quarter.

Jermyn Street took its name from Henry Jermyn, a sprightly earl who sometimes accompanied Charles II in convivial tours. There lived persons such as Isaac Newton the scientist, the poet Gray and the statesmen Pitt and Gladstone.-

What's Right?

You could tell about a situation that would probably seem very funny to others—but which would make the person involved in the story look ridiculous.

RIGHT: Be charitable enough to think how the person would feel if he knew the story were being broadcast.

DOROTHY DIX

Mother-In-Law Finds She Is Unwelcome In Son's Home

DEAR MISS DIX: While my son was in service overseas in 1944, he married a girl we all accepted with open arms. I have two daughters, both married to fine boys. I was a widow and raised my children alone.

When my son brought his wife home, we were all anxious to help her. She resented every overture we made and resented the fact that they were living in my home. I helped with the work, did the cooking, as she didn't know anything about housework. Now, though they have been married eight years she still knows nothing about cooking; my son goes home to prepare dinner every night. At times, she showed her dislike for us by using the vilest names imaginable.

Finally, as things were altogether too unpleasant here, they left and moved several hundred miles away. They now are near my two daughters, and what I want to know is this: my girls have gone to visit my son in his home, and I feel they are showing little respect for me by doing so. The only reason my daughter-in-law has them is to show them her power over my son.

I might add that she is as disagreeable to everyone as she was to us, and my son has told me that the only reason he stays with her is because of their two children, and the fact that he brought her over here away from her own people. She left him once, but returned when she discovered that she couldn't get the home and most of his salary.

E. J. M.

ANSWER. Although I am inclined to look askance at letters regarding mother-in-law and daughter-in-law problems, appreciating the fact that of the two sides I am shown only one, your letter, which I have somewhat shortened, is so sincere that I cannot accept it as anything but factual.

Many problems arose over the brides who were brought to this country by their husbands in service. What began as a romantic lark on foreign soil turned into grim reality when the girls came over and discovered that things were not as rosy as they had anticipated. The majority of them, of course, adjusted beautifully to conditions on this side of the ocean, and have become model wives, mothers and community workers. Some few, like your daughter-in-law, absolutely refused to make concessions, and have spread unhappiness ever since.

KEEP YOUR HANDS OFF

The situation in your son's household is being stoically accepted by you, which is, after all, the only thing you can do. You exerted every possible effort to make the girl welcome; her refusal to respond in kind puts "finis" to your obligations in that quarter.

There's no reason, however, for you to conclude that your daughters were disrespectful to you in visiting your son's home. Naturally, they wanted to see their brother and two nieces, the fact that sister-in-law was also present was a drawback, but a necessary one. Your daughter-in-law may gloat over the power she wields at home, but she would have much more cause for exultation if she thought she could keep her husband's family away from him altogether. Furthermore, it is most important that both your son and his daughters be assured of the devotion of his family, especially when their domestic life is in such chaos.

DEAR MISS DIX: I went with a boy for three years and, up to two months ago, things were perfect. Then I became ill. Since then, little things have bothered me, making me irritible and unreasonable. Last week he stopped going with me because he says I argue too much. I realize I was wrong and have begged for another chance, but he says I should wait a month to see if I really love him. Do you think it's wise for me to wait? I know I love him, but fear he may find someone else in the meantime.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If the boy finds another girl within a month, you may be sure he wasn't very much in love with you, a harsh truth which would have come to light sooner or later. Also, if he cared, he would have been more patient with you, making allowances for your illness. Why not spend the month making new friends yourself? Don't get into the habit of crawling into a corner and weeping. Broken hearts can be mended. Three years is a long time to go with a boy, then be left without him, but better now than after marriage.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Good Cheer For $20 Per Week Budgeter

Here we have the kind of a reaction that gives everybody a lift—the writer, the reader and the middleman, which is I.

I admire this kind of good cheer. This gal really means it and what's more, realy can cope. It will give Mrs. C. J. P., who wrote for help with her budget originally, a big lift I am sure, to find a strong sister in the same boat.

"Dear Mary Moore: I always enjoy your column and try many of your suggestions. This week though I feel prompted to write, commenting on the $20. a week budget. The drugs of course are the downfall of any budget but otherwise my budget is very similar. I just go without cosmetics unless a present comes along, or I save somewhere else, and we budget separately for medical needs. But my "food money" is $83.00 for full month. This covers my bus fare to the store, delivery, cod liver oil. We have an electric refrigerator which saves the cost of itself I believe.

"There are five in my family: husband, self, boy nearly 9 yrs., a boy nearly 4 yrs., and a baby girl 1 year old yesterday. I am very glad that she is gradually taking to some of our vegetables etc. as a tin of baby food disappears promptly.

"I shop once weekly, or twice monthly in winter since it is hard to get out then. By doing my own preserving, using meat stretchers (my husband is not a big meat eater), making my own cake mixes so I won't be tempted to buy them and pay double, and using a lot of canned milk and dried milk we make out very well. We use whichever form of citrus fruit is cheapest in the season. We eat prepared cereals only rarely and never buy cream. And, by the way, last week's shopping showed that the 1lb. can of dried skim milk (————Brand) which tastes almost like fresh milk had come down to 33c, while the less-palatable 5-lb. cartons were still $1.69—a— saving of 4c and so good we can drink it. Of course we have one quart of whole milk daily for the older boy and my husband, — the others drink the canned and we use it in ice cream and on cereal, etc. My husband takes lunch to work and we eat a much larger breakfast than some of your menus!

"I avoid cheese spreads, or anything in fancy containers. "Well, this has been fun and I hope I haven't bored you, but I hear so many people complaining about the price of food in one breath, talking about not being able to pay cash for this or that (we pay cash always except for our house, and buying all clothing on sales is one way we save), then in the next breath, and then see them with their last breath dashing across to the corner store buying packaged cookies, candies, etc.

"Good luck, and good management to Mrs. C. J. P., and I hope, as you hope, that they don't need any drugs, as then it really would be a hard pull. Otherwise we live on our $20. per week approximately. Mrs. Freda H."

Thank you Freda. You must be the original Cheer and Courage Girl. I am bowing low in deference to you. Your husband and children are fortunate indeed.

I still have to give Mrs. C. J. P.

DINNERS FOR $20. PER WEEK BUDGET

1) Curried Hard-Cooked Eggs on Bed of Fluffy Boiled Rice, Braised Green Celery, Scalloped Tomatoes, Applesauce Cake, Milk for Children, Tea for Adults.

2) Lean Brisket Stew with Carrots, Onions and Dumplings Tomato Jelly Salad on Shredded Cabbage, Stewed Ginger Pears, Bran Muffins, Milk for Children, Tea for Adults.

3)Cream of Tomato Soup (using skim milk powder) Codfish Cakes, Mashed Turnips or Hubbard Squash, Tomato and Cabbage Slaw, Blanc Mange Pudding (using skim milk powder) Milk for Children Tea for Adults.

Career-Minded Wives Have Good Chances In Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Career-minded wives can take heart from the story of Dorothy Kingsley, a top screen writer who is also the mother of six children.

She broke into the fiercely-competitive business as a housewife with three children.

"The secret?" said the writer, an attractive blonde. "Persistence and prayer."

Miss Kingsley, who has written the majority of Esther Williams' pictures during a nine-year career at M-G-M, said she got the writing bug from listening to comedy shows on the radio. She was convinced that she could write lines that were as funny.

She wrote sample scripts for big air shows and got the reaction most hopeful authors receive. The scripts were returned with cold but polite notes of rejection.

NOT DISMAYED

"But I wasn't discouraged," she said. "I showed some of the scripts to a friend of ours, Bob Scripps, editor of the Detroit News. He thought they were good and suggested I should do something about them. So I flew to Hollywood to look for a job."

An agent agreed to handle her scripts. She returned to Detroit and sold the family belongings to buy a car. With husband and three children, she toured back to Hollywood. She arrived to find the agent had gone out of business.

After pounding on doors fruitlessly, she finally got in to see the producer of the Bob Hope show. He liked her work, but gag women were unheard of. So the producer put her under personal contract and submitted her jokes to Hope himself.

"He was going to reveal my identity after 13 weeks and get me a regular job on the show," she recalled. "At the end of that time, I learned he had suffered a nervous collapse. No one else in the office knew me."

Again she pounded the pavements. She saw a want ad seeking gag writers. The advertiser turned out to be Edgar Bergen. He picked her from 13 applicants and she wrote Charlie McCarthy gags for two years.

Then she turned to the more lucrative field of screen writing. Now she draws the top musical jobs, her current one being "Kiss Me Kate."

Miss Kingsley's children now number four boys, 21, 19, 15 and 1, and two girls, 5 and 3. Her husband cans salmon for babies.

Lady Doctor Trained 150

The London-born obstetrician who visited here is stationed in India as a member of the teaching staff of the Ludhiana medical college in East Punjab.

In her 15 years of service in this field Dr. Collier has trained 150 girls in medicine. Only half of them were Christian. More than 3,000 medical workers have been trained at Ludhiana medical college during the last 50 years.

In a lecture here Dr. Collier said there was a danger of Communist infiltration in India and the Christian message was the only way to fight it.-

3 Daughters Wed Canadians

CAPETOWN (CP)—A South African woman sails for Montreal shortly to catch up with her three daughters, all of whom married Canadian seamen.

During the shipping strike of 1949, Mrs. Ruth Styles collected groceries and made cakes for seamen from Canadian cargo ships whose food supplies were cut off by the strike.

"Later three of the men came to thank me for my help, and they met my three daughters," said Mrs. Styles.

"Mona married Stewart Christie, Peggy married Walter Fortin and now my third daughter has married Fred Bryce."

Mona and Peggy are living in Montreal with their husbands, who have quit the sea. The Bryces are to live in Toronto.-

Youth Has Big Role In PC Party-Frost

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost said today that youth is playing a big role in the development and operation of the Progressive Conservative party.

Addressing 150 delegates at the opening of the annual meeting of the Young Progressive Conservative Association of Ontario, he said the youth movement was a vital factor in his party's last provincial election sweep.

"No other party had finer or more able young men and women," the premier said. "Young people not only served on our principal committees but were elected as our representatives.

"Youth must be served and it is being served in the Progressive Conservative party. Youth has been the dynamic force in our victories."

Today both the Young Conservatives and the women's group hold their annual meetings. Tomorrow the main body, the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association, will meet.

Gives Daughter Away

POOLE, England (Reuters) — Harry Pressey, 93, walked down the aisle here Saturday to give his widowed daughter away in marriage for the second time. The first time was 36 years ago. The bride was Mrs. Charlotte Barnes, 68, the groom Henry Medland, 78.

Market Square Parking Lot Cited As Model For Oshawa

"Norman Millman cited Peterborough as an outstanding good example of planned parking. There the market square was turned into a parking lot for 94 cars."

That comment was heard at a meeting of Oshawa Chamber of Commerce at which it was suggested that its city hall lot be sold to a syndicate of business men for use as a parking area. Mr. Millman is chairman of the City Planning Board.

It seems that Oshawa needs $200,000 more than was voted by the ratepayers for a new municipal building.

As in Peterborough's experience with the Memorial Community Centre, delays and lack of decision have run the new city hall costs up to the $600,000. The Council needs extra money, and is willing at least to consider the syndicate idea, and let some one else run the parking lot for what they could get out of it.

Hayden Macdonald, a business as Peterborough's is said to be, I man, said, "If it is as profitable think the taxpayers would go for a plan of turning it into a city parking lot."

That investment in the future does not bring up any ready cash. And that's what worries Mayor Starr.

As for Peterborough's central parking area, its development recalls a presiding spirit of irony when Adam Sands and James Dutton, as aldermen, used to wonder how parking space and accommodation could be devised, and at the same time fate was planning use of the ground on which they were then sitting in session with other members of the Council. That was back in James Hamilton's mayoralty term.

$173,000 COLLECTED

Street meters, plus the market, have already turned $173,000 into the city treasury, quite a cheerful total. In fact, the civic plaza is now so firmly fixed and embedded that it will probably remain that way —and for a long time.

There's a bylaw in the municipal vault that authorizes Council to sell the old market property, and also to use part of the proceeds as a contribution—it was something like $200,000—to the Memorial Centre fund.

SERVING PURPOSE

Since then, and quite obviously, the block along Water St. has entered into a new and necessary service as a parking area. It seems safe to remark that if the Centre —of rueful experience—is going to depend at all on that sale of civic property, it will probably come to a further disappointment.

What the council of that day would say, in all likelihood—where can we get a more central parking lot, that is paying its way, plus, and that cost nothing more than some demolishing, grading and so on.

In the meantime, council is gradually examining additional strips of land on Queen and other streets on the mercantile fringe.

One of Mayor Starr's comments at Oshawa was that if they don't sell the old city hall lot for $85,000 to $100,000, the tax rate will advance two mills and half next year.

As to the council's position, Ald. Robinson said: "We don't need any convincing about the necessity for a parking lot, but you have got to convince 11 other aldermen as to why they should give up the chance of an urgently needed $100,000."

The civic square parking accommodation is now being increased from 97 to around 155 slots for cars.

Coldsprings W.I. Holds Masquerade

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — The Women's Institute of Coldsprings staged a Hallowe'en masquerade party Friday night. About 35 were present, and most were in costume.

The party began with a square dance, all those in costume taking part. Mrs. Keith Harper did the calling with Mrs. C. Timlin at the piano. Then came the grand march with Mrs. N. D. McIntosh, and Mrs. William Buttars as judges. The prizes were awarded as follows:

After the unmasking, Miss E. Hoskin gave an interesting topic on "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do". Mrs. A. Linton gave a comic reading. Contests and games were then conducted by Mesdames J. Roswear, R. Willis, N. McIntosh, G. Beggs, A. Linton, H. McKinley, and C. Timlin.

Mrs. K. Harper, president, conducted a short business period. The church rockery convener, Mrs. Marvin Minifie, reported 140 tulip bulbs had been planted.

A letter was read from Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cusworth, thanking the Institute for the donation of $100 spent in clothing. Mr. and Mrs. Cusworth lost their home and contents by fire recently.

Plans were made for euchre parties to be held on Nov. 7 and 25. The admission charge to be 35c. It was decided to have a New Year formal dance, Mrs. Graydon McIntosh to be in charge. Mrs. K. Harper to contact an orchestra for this party.

The next W.I. meeting will be December 1st, at 8 p.m. when articles will be price tagged for the annual bazaar and tea being held December 3.

Refreshments of sandwiches, pumpkin tarts, and tea were served.

The lucky chair prize was won be Mrs. Everett Jamieson.

Mrs. C. Timlin, convener, moved a vote of thanks to all those assisting with the party.

Insures Pranks

Four other district residents pleaded guilty and paid fines of $10 and costs for minor offences.

Sunderland Youth Charged With Theft

A 19-year-old Sunderland youth, Donald Newell, was arraigned on a charge of car theft today. He elected summary trial before Magistrate W. R. Philp but was not asked for a plea.

He was remanded until Tuesday on $500 bail.

Newell is charged with stealing a car owned by Stanley Northrop, 548 Gilmour St., on Hallowe'en night. He was arrested on William St., in Lakefield by Police Chief Leslie Foster on Saturday.

Driver Freed Youth's Death

BANCROFT (ENS)—A charge of careless driving against Clarence Thompson, 57, St. Ola, arising out of a fatal accident on the Lake St. Peter road on September 2, in which a Toronto youth, J. S. O'Brien, died and a Peterborough resident, John Shevlin, was seriously injured, was dismissed by Magistrate Jackson in magistrate's court.

Thompson was defended by Ronald Cass, Belleville, who argued that the case had gone beyond the jurisdiction of the court due to certain technicalities. His worship agreed with counsel.

Charges of drunk driving, dangerous driving and careless driving preferred against Thomas Mitchell, 41, Toronto, following another fatal accident on September 18 on 62 highway, were adjourned to November 26, due to illness of the investigating officer, Grant F. Boyd, Toronto car salesman, died in the wreckage of the car on a curve south of this village.

Pleading not guilty to a charge of refusing to surrender his driving license to a police office when it was under suspension by the Department of Highways, Everett Vader, Bancroft, was convicted and fined $10 plus court costs. The charge was brought by Chief Constable F. L. Chapman.

Cecil Barker, charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident, driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol, driving while his license was under suspension, and careless driving, was remanded to November 12. A charge of drunk driving and driv[illegible]

Four Plead Guilty To Liquor Charges

Four men pleaded guilty to liquor charges today in police court.

Albert Quinlan, 46, no fixed address entered a written guilty plea on a drunk charge and William Spencer, 67, of Lakefield was convicted of being intoxicated in a public place. Both were charged as second offenders and they were each fined $50 and $2.50 costs or one month.

To begin with, he said he was hard of hearing and could not hear the charge but would plead guilty anyway. He then said it was not he who was convicted of being drunk last February but his son. Then, constable Robert Menzies, the officer who arrested him for being drunk before was called and he identified Spencer as being the man.

[illegible] guilty to charges of being drunk and were fined $10 and $2.50 costs each.

Held On 4 Charges Of Gross Indecency

BANCROFT — (ENS) — James A. Barrigar, 51, of Bancroft and formerly of Cornwall, was convicted by Magistrate Jackson in police court on Wednesday on four charges of gross indecency involving juveniles and three charges of supplying liquor to minors. Barrigar pleaded guilty to all charges and was remanded in custody to November 12 for sentence.

Believed to be the worst case of its type ever to come to light in this county, the matter was investigated by Cpl. A. F. Grayling and Const. J. Hutchinson of the Bancroft O.P.P. detachment. They arrested the accused, on October 12.

The hearings were proceeded with in closed court when Barrigar pleaded guilty. All persons but those involved were excluded. The investigation officer, Const. Hutchinson, was not present at the trial as he is recuperating from surgery at the Bancroft hospital.

Serious Business

OXFORD, England (CP)—Oxford University's Jazz Club, banned last year, is being allowed to meet this term on condition members do not dance. They are advised that the club's purpose is to promote study of "historical and socialogical aspects" of jazz music.

Caused Disturbance

James Bronson, was fined $15 and $2.50 costs Saturday morning in police court when he pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance in a downtown hotel.

Approve Grant

ST. THOMAS (CP)—A grant of $381,000 for the St. Thomas Elgin general hospital project, expected to be completed in October, 1953 has been approved by the federal department of national health and welfare. Word was received today that it can be claimed at any time.

Carl Lindstrom Weekend Guest At Army Temple

The visit commenced on Saturday afternoon when Capt. Lindstrom conducted an informal rehearsal with the band. This was followed by the annual band supper when the whole band, with the addition of the band reservists, and retired officers, sat down with Captain and Mrs. Lindstrom.

Words of welcome to the visitors were voiced by band master Gerald Routley on behalf of the band, Major Roberts making similar remarks on behalf of the Peterborough Corps. Captain Lindstrom replied expressing his appreciation and also his expectations concerning the weekend.

At 8 o'clock the first of a series of Saturday night youth meetings was held, Y.P.S.M. R. Routley being the director. Tremendous interest was aroused as sparkling items were given by the guest trombonist, Capt. Lindstrom, the band male voice party singing such items as "I'm a Listening." Then followed a Bible quiz, a bright song service, and the Temple band rendered two items entitled "Youth Undaunted" and "Voices of the Heart." The meeting was brought to a close with a stirring message from Captain Lindstrom.

Sunday's activities commenced with Captain Lindstrom visiting the Sunday school at 10 a.m. He delighted the boys and girls by playing his trombone for them, and this was followed by a gathering at 11 a.m. in the Temple auditorium when the male voice party, the band, the songsters all combined in bringing about the atmosphere suitable for the presentation of the gospel message by Captain Lindstrom.

AFTERNOON MUSICALE

The first of this season's "Musicales" was held at 3.15 p.m. when to an overflowing audience the Temple band and songsters presented 60 minutes of "Music with a Message."

Vocal selections by the male voice party including "Bless This House," "Look Away to Heaven," which thrilled the crowd. The Temple band's playing of "Roll Along Jordan" and "Love's Immortal Token" will long be remembered.

The exquisite playing of Captain Lindstrom in such numbers as "I Hear You Calling Me" and "Bluebells of Scotland" literally captivated the crowd as was evidenced by the prolonged applause given at the conclusion of his playing. The Temple Songsters sang in keeping with their high reputation two selections, "The Coming of the Light" and "The Heavens Are Telling." The program was brought to a close by the singing of "The Lord Is My Shepherd," accompanied by the piano, organ and chimes. Lieutenant Phil Gardiner, of Trenton, was the chairman.

Sunday night commenced with a march of witness headed by the Temple band, to the Temple. Then followed the evening gospel meeting, which was conducted by Captain Lindstrom.

Best Show Yet Put Up By Painting Club

Speaking at the Saturday night preview of the Brush and Palette Club's exhibit which opens this evening at the Public Library gallery, William Winter, A.R.C.A. refered to the "minor frenzy" for painting all over the country. The paroxysm in Peterborough is abundantly patent; the Brush and Palette Club is merely the youngest of several active, fecund groups of amateur piantes in town. Their show at the Library—the third annual one — is numerous and reveals enthusiasm, effort and talent. It is by far the best exhibit this club has held.

The reason for the improvement is not in the number of canvases exhibited (actually there are more than the eye can comfortably behold in public, though I feel that a show like this need not be rigorously selective) but because some members of the group have made great advances in technical skill and seeing with the mind's eye, and most have had another year's work with brush and palette, profiting therefrom.

Sixteen members are exhibiting all told no fewer then 80 pieces. It would be impossible here—and it is not necessary— to go step by step through the two rooms. Mr. Winter, Toronto painter of note, was in town Saturday afternoon to do this, to give the members private critiques as well as to put in some general words at the preview. This reviewer would not dare to trespass on his territory.

Mr. Winter commented at the preview (which was attended by nearly everybody) on the benefits of amateur painting to the individual amateur painters, to the community and to the promotion of a perceptive public in Canada for art. He made this point, a justification of amateur painting and an encouragement to the amateurs: Unlike other arts, music for instance, lack of craftsmanship is not an absolute barrier, because, he said, a painter, any kind of painter, has to create from the word go. Hence Grama Moses, an untutored creator. "Art, is a language", every body wants to express.

INTERESTING WORK

There are some pieces of definite creation in the show, most of them from the more skilled painters, it must be admitted. I suggest that you look for these in the work of Lillian Burnham, Suzanne Dobbin, Gladys Elliott, Doris Clark and Dolly E. Brown. Mrs. Dobbin and Mrs. Clark have some particularly interesting and accomplished pieces. But there are in others, for instance Olive Langley with her Old Mill and Long View, individual qualities which apeal to the eye or imagination.

Besides the members already named, there are Georgina Hatton, Jean Leach, Georgia Davies, M. Maude Moore, Jessie Colling, Mary Cherney, Una Bullock, Vivian Graff, Eva Copp and Rosamond Blaiklock.

The exhibition is now on public view and it is worth viewing. There is variety and good sensibility in it.

Present-day historians of this district, finding an image or painting done hereabouts in the last century, cherish their prize. Future historians should be richly provided by the brushes today setting down the Peterborough scene and climate, and doing it on the whole very well and with good interpretive eyes. — T.J.A.

Mrs. L. G. Auston

Pallbearers at the funeral Saturday afternoon of Mrs. Lilias Grant Auston, 80, a former Peterborough resident, were Peter Blackwell, John Harstone, T. P. Mackenzie, and Basil, James and Fred Hall.

Mrs. Auston died Oct. 28 in Jacksonville, Fla., where she had been living for 10 months. Previously she lived in Peterborough.

The funeral was at the Comstock funeral home, the Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Man Hasn't Learned Yet How To Break Droughts

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—Man can produce rain, snow and even clouds by seeding supercooled atmosphere, but he cannot yet break widespread droughts, weather experts say.

Researchers said yesterday, in an article in the November issue of the General Electric Review, that many complex weather phenomena not yet understood fully have barred man's attempts to bring rain to drought - stricken areas.

The authors said however, that pioneer work in weather modification had proved that rain, snow and clouds could be produced by artificial seeding of supercooled atmosphere with dry ice and silver iodide.

The article recounted the history of "Project Cirrus," a five-year study concluded last Sept. 30. The U.S. Signal Corps and Office of Naval Research, in consultation with the General Electric Company sponsored the project.

SEE FUTURE SUCCESS

Some day, the scientists suggested, cloud seeding, possibly at points far from drought areas, might succeed in bringing rain in the parched regions.

In 1950, three of the project leaders reported that seeding at regular intervals in New Mexico had affected weather across the United States.

The article also dealt with four other possible uses of cloud-seeding techniques:

1. Protecting aircraft from icing by seeding clouds in the vicinity of airports.
2. Moderating and dispersing supercooled ground fogs.
3. Helping control snowfall over mountain ranges.
4. Preventing deadly lightning strokes, torrential rains, damaging winds, hail storms and tornadoes, by seeding towering cumulus clouds.

AN EARLY MORNING collision in dense fog, 20 miles east of Quebec city, resulted in the sinking of this Swedish-American line vessel, M.S. Ryholm. The S.S. Basilea slashed into the Ryholm and tore a gaping hole in her side. All 29 crew members were reported rescued by the Basilea, bound for Montreal.

Tried To Outrace Police Man Pays Total Of $45

Trying to outrace a police cruiser Hallowe'en night cost Herbert Hawley, 38, 231 Woodbine Ave., fines totalling $45 when he pleaded guilty to two charges Saturday morning.

After he was overtaken and stopped, Hawley was brought to the police station and spent the rest of the night in jail. He pleaded guilty to speeding and was fined $25 and $2.50 costs and also to having liquor in a place other than a residence. On the liquor charge he was fined $15 and $2.50 costs.

Most Strikers Return To Sarnia Jobs

SARNIA (CP) — Construction work in Chemical Valley came to life again today as most building workers who have been on strike returned to their jobs.

Pickets were retained on the Retlaw subdivision and union officials said picketing there will continue.

Both sides said this morning that no progress has been made towards settling the walkout.

Work on the new Sarnia general hospital and other projects began again as bricklayers, laborers, plasterers, carpenters, plumbers and electricians reported for work at their usual times.

Union officials gave as the reason for the change:

The walkout began last Wednesday in protest against seven contractors working on 250 defence homes in different sections of the city.

The unions, all American Federation of Labor affiliates, said the contractors were hiring out of town labor and paying lower than standard union wages.

The unions ask standard union wages and working conditions and use of Sarnia manpower.

Smelt Fishing In Full Swing

By BERTRAND THIBAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Windows of homes in Quebec's lower town light up before dawn at this time of year. The smelt fishing season is in full swing.

One has to get up early for a place on the old damp wharves where hundreds line up for hours to fill their wicker baskets with a good catch.

Early-morning travellers, workers with lunch boxes, and the smelt fishermen carrying their gear crowd downtown buses.

Smelt fishing hasn't the sportman's thrill of trout fishing in the nearby Laurentian Mountain lakes but it's a sport that fascinates thousands of Quebecers every year.

On their way to the wharves, fishermen meet enthusiasts of night fishing, equipped with lanterns, who spend night after night on the shores of the chilly St. Lawrence to catch the six-inch delicacies.

Smelts are more plentiful this fall than last, say old timers. This is encouraging for the fishermen since the season lasts only through October and November.

Driver Charged After Crash With Train

LINDSAY (ENS). — A Peterborough area man, James Middleton, was charged under the Highway Traffic Act today in Police Court, following a car-train accident in Lindsay on Saturday morning.

Middleton's car was struck by a slow-moving freight at the Lindsay Street crossing, police say, while the flagman at the crossing M. Roberts, was swinging his red lantern. The accident was investigated by Constable Percy Mark and William Mosley. Const. Mark stated in his report that he had found the Middleton car across the crossing with the train stopped. The car had been struck on the right side by the eastbound extra from the C.N.R. yard.

Mrs. Winnie Middleton, in the front seat of the car, was slightly injured, as was her son George, 11, who was in the back of the old model car. Another passenger in the back seat, 64-year-old Edward Edwards, was unhurt.

Middleton said in a statement given to P.C. Mark that he had been trying to quiet his wife during an argument and had seen the lantern too late to stop the car.

Const. Mark commented that the engineer of the train, Grenville Sinclair of Lindsay, deserved credit for stopping the train in time to avoid a serious accident which might have cost the occupants their lives. The conductor of the train was C. H. Fair of Haliburton.

Train Crashes Into Truck

WARREN (CP)—A freight-train crashed into a pick-up truck here Saturday night. An hour after the collision the owner of the truck, Hector Leblanc of Sturgeon Falls was found in a parked car across from the station.

Mr. Leblanc said he could not recall how the truck came to be on the tracks nor could be remember anything beyond earlier in the afternoon when he was in Sturgeon Falls.

Police said they believe Leblanc may have mistaken a short road leading to a freight-shed as the level-crossing and that the truck bounced over a spur-line and stalled on the main track. No charges have been laid.

Warren is 40 miles east of Sudbury.

W. Harry Doxtator Buried In Warkworth

DARTFORD (ENS) — Funeral service of W. Harry Doxtator was held at the home on Thursday afternoon with Rev. A. L. Sisco, officiating.

Mr. Doxtator had not been in good health for a few years but had only been confined to bed about one week. He was born at Harwood 60 years ago, son of late Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Doxtator.

The family moved later on Sandy Flats, Percy Township then about a mile and a half farther west into Alnwick Township.

After graduating from Warkworth High School, he attended Peterborough Normal School. He taught school at Brighton, Deseronto, Bethany, Campbellcroft and Beeton. He was principal of North School in Alnwick township.

Since taking up farming he has been president of the Northumberland Hog Producers Association, President of Roseneath Swine Club and an active supporter of the Co-Operative.

He was a prominent member of the Masonic Order at Warkworth.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife the former Florence Ethel Curts, of London, Ont. a brother Alvin, Peterborough, four sisters Mrs. Ross McCracken (Edna) Roseneath, Miss Ethel Doxtator R.N. and Mrs. Kirby Pearce, (Myrtle) Toronto also Mrs. Stanley Hutcheson (Verna) Fenella.

A Masonic Service was held and interment was in Warkworth cemetery.

Mrs. A. McKinlay

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Alexander McKinlay, 648 Romaine St., were held Saturday afternoon from the Kaye funeral home.

Pallbearers were: Samuel, Robert and William McKinlay, James Beith, Edward Wheeler and Thomas Dickson.

The Rev. G. S. Monk, of Bethel Baptist Church officiated. Interment was in Little Lake cemetery.

World Heading For Crisis In Wheat, Sales

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The world is slowly but surely heading for a crisis in wheat. The problem: Too much wheat chasing too few dollars.

It threatens to become one of the biggest fights involving wheat prices. In the midst of it will be Canada with huge supplies of wheat stored in her elevators.

Next Jan. 12 Canada and 43 other member countries of the International Wheat Agreement will meet in Washington in a final attempt to reach agreement on a new pact when the current one ends next July 31.

Canadian experts are not too hopeful. The big conflict is in price. And as a result, the whole world wheat stabilization program, which Canada helped to construct, may crumble.

FARMERS WANT IT

The four-year International Wheat Pact, under which Canada exports most of her wheat at relatively stable prices, has been both praised and criticized. But most Canadian farmers want it continued—if they can get higher prices.

Importing countries have refused to give in. Some of them may feel they can do better in open competition than through a fixed contract. Both Canada and the United States have huge surpluses.

Currently, the ceiling under I.W.A. is $1.80 (U.S.) a bushel, basis No. 1 Northern. Some Canadian farmers want it raised to $2.35. The U.S. figures it should be boosted to $2.50.

With importers balking and the outlook for a new pact discouraging, Canadian cabinet ministers have begun to drop warnings of the future.

"We can, of course, get along without such an agreement and its renewal can by no means be taken for granted," Trade Minister Howe recently told a Toronto audience.

"Long before the crop is marketed our people will be wishing we had another four-year contract with Britain to take 400,000,000 bushels of our wheat."

IN CANADA'S FAVOR

There is one thing in Canada's favor. Argentina and Australia, normally large world exporters of wheat, have had poor crops Canada will be able to dispose of a large portion of her record crop this year without trouble. But still she will have large carryovers next Aug. 1.

And should Australia and the Argentine enter the export picture in a big way in the next crop year, Canada may face a tough job in wheat sales without long-term firm buying commitments by the large importing countries.

U.K. Marksmen Gain Trophy

LONDON (CP)—A team of 20 British marksmen, piling up a total of 7,964 points, has gained possession of the coveted Thomas Dewar Trophy and the international postal small-bore shooting championship. The award was announced by the National Small-Bore Association.

In winning the competition, staged annually since 1909, the United Kingdom representatives fired 800 shots at ranges of 50 and 100 yards to set a native record and a collective team score only four points below the recognized world mark.

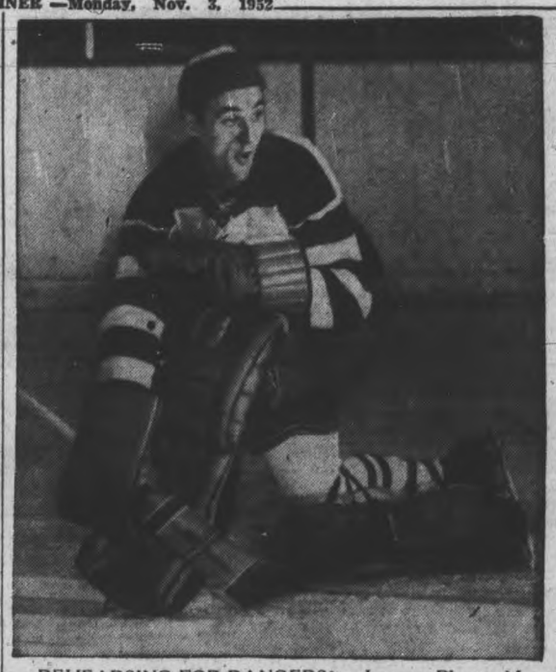
U.S. TEAM SECOND

A team entered by the United States was second with an aggregate count of 7,949, while Canada came third with 7,911. South Africa scoring 7,871 and New Zealand, 7,866, trailed in that order.

The American team reversed the decision in a 10-man pistol match, fired with .22-calibre weapons at a range of 20 yards. The winners piled up a score of 1,800 to romp home easy winners over Britain's 1,719. Canada again finished third, but far behind with a team score of 1,679.

WOMEN COMPETE

A special event for teams of 10 women, instituted this year for the first time, also went to the United States. With each competitor firing 20 shots at 50 and 100 yards, the [illegible] scored a [illegible] average of 393.4 for the British squad. Canada was unable to raise a team for this event.



In the annual small-bore challenge match against Sweden, over a range of 50 metres, the United Kingdom team of 10 men returned a total of 3,959 to gain victory by a single point.

Thorold Man Dead

TORONTO (CP)—Myer Sulman, 58, head of M. Sulman and Son Limited of Thorold, died in hospital Saturday shortly after he was admitted suffering from a heart attack. See Jet Power Writing New History In Africa

By LOUIS C. D. JOOS

BRAZZAVILLE, French Equatorial Africa (AP) — Jet power is writing a new chapter in the history of African commercial aviation.

In a few short months since Britain's new jet-propelled "Comet" airliners have been shuttling between London and Johannesburg at 500 miles an hour, African air service has undergone a revolution.

Schedules of competing airlines have been stepped up. Planes are roomier and more luxurious. No longer is the African traveller the forgotten man of the airline business.

Pan American World Airways sent its first super DC6B to South Africa, clipping six hours from the previous flying time between Johannesburg and New York.

GIANT AIRLINER

Air France put its giant "Armagnac" airliner into service on the Paris-Brazzaville run. The huge craft seats 107 tourist passengers in luxurious comfort.

Regional airlines are buying faster planes.

Even the Portuguese who have long flown their imperial lines with old DC3s are finally awakening. A new company is being formed which will merge the local firms and charter DC6s until companies switching over to more modern planes sell them directly to the Portuguese.

The big transformation, of course is in the trans-oceanic service. Now the businessman in London, Paris or Montreal can reach practically any African city you can name as quickly as he can travel by auto or rail to his favorite week-end hunting lodge in his own country.

Pats' Must Learn New Lessons

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA (CP)—Brig. M. P. Bogert, commanding officer of Canada's 25th Infantry Brigade, saturday welcomed the 3rd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, to his command.

"Although you undoubtedly are well trained, you all will have a good many lessons to learn," he said.

"Even those of you who served in the last war and may already have served here will learn new lessons."

Until the Korean War the Canadian Army had not fought a defensive battle since the First World War, the brigadier told his new troops.

"Now we are in one and we must learn again many of the lessons which have not been practised since 1918."

French Police Decide To Discontinue Vigil

NICE, France (Reuters)—French police said last night they are discontinuing the moonlight vigil they have kept for two days at the site of the murder of Sir Jack Drummond, his wife and daughter.

A medium in Grenoble had predicted the slayer of the Drummond family would roam the scene of the crime, near Lurs, at midnight while there was a full moon. Police watched for two nights while the moon was full but no one turned up.

Drummond, British nutrition expert, his wife and daughter were slain three months ago.

Sarnia Noses Out Mercurys With 5-4 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chatham didn't play a game during the weekend in the Ontario Hockey Association senior A league but they're leading the league with eight points.

Owen Sound, Sarnia and Stratford are close behind with six each, Brantford is fifth with four, Kitchener has two and Hamilton still hasn't won a game.

A protest figured in the standings this week. Owen Sound was awarded a game they lost 5-3 to Brantford Redmen on the basis that Brantford had used two ineligible players. The Saturday night game between Hamilton and Kitchener-Waterloo was postponed because of a carnival in the Kitchener arena.

Only two games were played during the week-end. Sarnia Sailors nosed out the Mercurys 5-4 in Owen Sound Saturday while Lloyd Ferguson blasted home four goals in Stratford to lead the Indians to a 10-6 win over Brantford.

TAKE LEAD

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association southern series North Bay Trappers have taken the lead with five points after winning twice during the weekend. They took [illegible] Saults started in Canada Saturday night when they scored a 2-1 lead in the first, made it 3-1 in the second and went on to win 5-2.

Boris Elik scored two for Trappers, George Gosselin, Frankie Ringler and Danny Wilks potting the others. Hec Pozzo and Ronnie Lay sank the Sault counters.

On the American side Sunday afternoon the Trappers made the Soo Greyhounds 5-2 Saturday night and Soo (Michigan) Indians 4-2 Sunday. Sudbury Wolves are second with four points.

Besides Ferguson's four Saturday night, Ken Schultz scored three and Billy Flick two for Stratford. Jack White notched a single.

For the Redmen Bill Shill and Wally Hnatiuk each ran in two while Don Oberholtzer and Sam Kennedy tallied singles. Second-period penalties allowed the Indians to score three goals in two minutes of the second period.

Soo Indians record three losses in a row.

Bill Dwyer scored two for the Trappers and Wilks and Elik others. Johnny Lumley scored the first and Vip Palladino the second for the Soo men.

Barrie Breaks Tie For First Down Oshawa Gens 6-4

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor Spitfires and Montreal Royals are racing for the booby prize in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series.

Both lost their games during the week-end but the Spits have a slight edge in the race. The Windsor club has lost 10 and tied one. The Royals have lost nine and won once.

Three Rivers Reds won the first victory of their Ontario tour in the interlocking schedule with a 2-1 overtime decision at Windsor Sunday. The Reds had lost to Kitchener, Guelph and Galt.

FLYERS IN FRONT

At the other end of the standings Barrie Flyers broke the tie for first place by defeating Oshawa Generals 6-4 Saturday. Galt Black Hawks might have pulled up with the Flyers Sunday but dropped their game to Toronto Marlies 5-1.

St. Michael's gained third place on a 6-0 victory over Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts Sunday. Marlies started their winning ways Saturday by trouncing St. Catharines 4-1 which left them in a fourth-place tie with Guelph.

In the Quebec League, Quebec Citadelles downed Montreal Canadiens 4-3 Saturday. Montreal came back with a five-goal performance in the third period against Montreal Royals Sunday to take the cellar dwellers 6-3 and move into a first-place tie with Citadelles.

The Spitfires were victim of Jean Leclerc who set up the first goal for Raymond St. Cyr, then scored the winner himself in overtime. Bobby Brown scored for Windsor.

Parker MacDonald and Dave Reid each sank a pair of first-period tallies for Marlies against St. Catharines Saturday night Nipper Nash was St. Catharines' scorer.

SEE-SAW GAME

At Oshawa Don McKenney scored the opener for Barrie but Oshawa had a 2-1 lead by the end of the first session on goals by Don McIntosh and Jack Armstrong. Bob White counted for Barrie in the second with Armstrong scoring again to give generals a lead. But McKenney came through with his second tally to tie the game.

Skip Teal, Fred Pletsch and Hillary Menard each netted one to give Barrie the lead in the third with Bob Appleby adding another for the Generals.

The Sunday doubleheader in Toronto saw wins for the locals. Ed Plata and Bill Lee made it 2-0 for St. Michael's in the first over Kitchener. Jim Logan made it 3-0 in the second and Plata, Jack Caffery and Paul Know scored three in the third. It was Ed Chadwick's second shutout in two games.

In the Marlie-Galt game Dave Jackson and Lou Bendo scored first-period goals, Dave Reid and Jack MacDonald made it 4-0 in the second and Wally Maxwell drove in the fifth for Toronto in the third. Neil McDonald avoided the shutout for Galt.

PENALTIES APLENTY

In Quebec Saturday a second-period resulted in a blizzard of penalties including six majors. Jean Jacques Pichette won it for Citadelles in the third after teammates Roland Leclerc, Camille Henri and Aggie Kukulowicz had each rapped in a goal earlier. Ron Pilon and Bucky Hollingworth with two were Canadiens' scorers.

Montreal Royals led 3-1 going into the third period Sunday but the Canadiens erupted for five goals to take the decision. Phil Gayette had two to his credit while Ron Atwell, Henri Richard, Roy Boileau and Guy Rosseau got the others. Robert Landry, Real Vincent and Brian McCann scored for Royals.

Mrs. Bing Crosby Dies Of Cancer, Ill Long Time

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal. — (AP) —Dixie Lee Crosby, attractive 40-year-old wife of Bing Crosby, died of cancer Saturday. The former actress and musical comedy star had been in a coma since Tuesday and did not regain consciousness.

She became critically ill this week and doctors said there was no chance of survival, but the family refused to give up hope. They were at her bedside at the end.

Mrs. Crosby was received into the Roman Catholic Church last Monday, the day before she sank into a coma. Msgr. Patrick Concannon said he baptized her and that she had since received church sacraments including extreme unction. The Beverly Hills Church of the Good Shepherd, of which Msgr. Concannon is pastor, is the home parish of numerous Roman Catholic film stars, including Crosby.

Mrs. Crosby rallied sufficiently after her operation for Bing to make a movie location trip to France. She had been in ill-health several years.

MET BING'S TRAIN

When he returned by train from New York last Saturday, Dixie disregarded her doctor's orders, got out of bed, and met him at the depot in Los Angeles. As a result she had a relapse the next day.

Dixie Lee Crosby was a star of Broadway musical comedies and the screen in the late 1920's. Born Wilma Wyatt in Harriman, Tenn., in 1911, she was a gifted singer and dancer, petite and blonde. She was on Broadway at 17 in a featured role in the musical Good News, helping to popularize the song Varsity Dray. Critics called her the stage's foremost Southern blues singer.

A three-year movie contract came next in 1928.

Bing was a little-known singer with Gus Arnheim's band at the Cocoanut Grove, in Los Angeles' Ambassador Hotel, when he and Dixie met. She liked to recall a movie producer telling her: "If you marry that Crosby character, you'll have to support him the rest of your life."

They were married September 30, 1930. Bing was 27, Dixie 18. She became the mother of four sons, who have been near her bedside the last several days of her illness.

Ex-King's Associates Waiting Special Trial

By GILBERT SEDBON

Behind the small, walled enclosure of Cairo's military college are Egyptian princes, former court officials, premiers and cabinet ministers, rival political leaders, senior army and police officers.

More than 70 leaders of the old regime face charges of graft, corruption and abuse of power Some also will be tried for terror murder and treason. Farouk himself may be tried in absentia.

NEW LIFE DRAB

Life in this prison for millionaires, on the palm tree shaded road to Heliopolis, is drab, compared to the inmates' mansion homes overlooking the Nile, the gambling salons of the Royal Automobile Club and the gay nightclubs at the foot of the pyramids.

Every morning and afternoon, a long row of limousines pull up outside the military college. Chauffeurs open the doors for suffragis (servants) carrying delicacies to their ex-pasha masters.

Army intelligence investigations have established that Farouk's "Iron Guard," formed shortly after the Palestine defeat to smash any opposition to his throne two weeks before the military coup, was after Naguib and his associates.

Leaders of the "Iron Guard" often used beautiful show-girls to lure their victims into death traps and had 500 to 600 informers paid from secret funds, on a "retainer plus commission basis."

Greenland Gains Importance With Denmark

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — Greenland, Denmark's largest colony and the world's biggest island, will be entitled to representation in the Danish legislature when a constitutional amendment expected to be passed either later this year or early in 1953 takes effect.

For the sparsely populated but highly strategic Arctic island, the amendment is expected to bring urgently needed improvements in living standards and moves by Denmark to develop the island's still largely untapped resources.

Traditionally Greenland has been a "step child," but the Second World War brought out its military importance and now the U.S. has a large air base at Thule, in the northeastern part of the island.

ONLY SOURCE OF CRYOLITE

Furthermore it is the world's only big source of natural cryolite, important in the making of aluminum, and is also rich in lead.

An important factor in the decision to grant Greenland representation was the state visit to the colony this year by King Frederick and Queen Ingrid, accompanied by a large party of newspapermen and photographers, who focussed the attention on the remote and rmarkable island.

Since his return from Greenland, King Frederick and his consort have worked to convince stay-at-home Danes of the present importance and future potentialities of the colony.

India Demands Areas Returned

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru yesterday voiced his government's determination to oust France and Portugal from tiny colonial pockets of the Indian subcontinent.

The Prime Minister spoke at a press conference. He referred to his recent Madras statement in which he said the French Pondicherry and Portuguese Goa, as well as other enclaves held by those two countries within India, "must inevitably belong" to India.

B. Shiva Rao, Indian delegate to the United Nations, Saturday told the Assembly trusteeship committee in New York that five years of pleas to France and Portugal to get out have been fruitless. He warned that India's patience would not last forever.

French Units Start Red River Offensive

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Units of French union forces crossed the Red River, 60 miles northwest of Hanoi, last night and entered the undefended, war-ruined town of Phu Tho.

The French troops met only light resistance from an estimated battalion of Communist-led Vietminh in pushing their "offensive reconnaissance" after earlier crossing the Black River, 40 miles northwest of Hanoi, into the 50-mile-wide corridor of territory long held by the Vietminh.

Fenton Fallis Of Pontypool Named Durham Potato King

MILLBROOK (ENS)— Fenton Fallis of Pontypool won the gold watch for potato king of Durham county for 1952. The presentation was made at the annual banquet of the 500 Bushel Potato Club held in Millbrook on Thursday evening. Mr. Fallis won the award growing Chippewa potatoes. His yield was 580 bushels to the acre. The yields were not as high this year as they have been in some former years. However the quality of Mr. Fallis's crop was excellent. Out of a possible 200 points he scored 180. Ernest Cavano also of Pontypool was placed second. He too grew Chippewa potatoes. His yield was greater than Mr. Fallis's —660 bushels to the acre—but the quality was not as high. He scored 177 points out of 200, and won a large silver tray and $25 cash.

Albert Olan of Cavan township, who placed first last year, was chairman for the banquet, held in St. Andrew's Church hall, with about 170 guests in attendance.

BELONGS TO DURHAM BOYS

The Ontario Crop Improvement Association trophy, which is awarded to the high team of the boys' and girls' inter-potato club was on display. The winning team this year is Joe McGill and Grant Werry of Enniskillen. As this is the third successive year it has been won by Durham county it now belongs to this county. These two boys will represent Ohtario at the Dominion finals on Nov. 12. They will go to Toronto as guests of the 4-H Club.

The two top boys in the potato club, Lavergne Morton and Alan Johnson, were too young to be on the team. Ed Summers, Agricultural Representative for Durham, said he was looking forward to having them on the team in two years. Mel Wood, club leader, presented Lavergne Morton of Cavan with a book, "Out of the Earth" by Bromfield.

HONORARY MEMBERSHIP

Another feature of the evening was the presentation of an honorary life membership in the 500-bushel club to Henry Blakely of Pontypool. Mr. Blakely was one of the original members of the club, and has been one of its most ardent supporters. He was the winner of the gold watch in 1946. The life membership was signed by all the other winners since the club was formed. They were 1947, Delbert Olan; 1948, Melville Strong; 1949, Thomas Wood; 1950, Milton Weatherilt; 1951, Albert Olan; 1952, Fenton Fallis.

In making the presentation R. E. Goodin, assistant director of the crops, seeds and weeds section of the department of agriculture, paid tribute to Mr. Blakely's inborn love of the soil. He had built up a farm which if some men had owned, would have blown away. The farmer with it. Mr. Blakely loved his farm and every animal on it. When he retired in the near future he would leave the land much better than he had found it.

In his reply he thanked the members of the club and briefly reviewed the history of the 500-bushel club.

Greetings and best wishes were brought by John James, M.P. for Durham, and Harry Campbell, warden of the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland. Delbert Olan, reeve of Cavan, and Allen Beer, reeve of Manvers, were also among the speakers. Mr. Beer led in community singing with J. O. Medd at the piano. Major John Foote, M.P.P., sent regrets that at the last minute he was unable to attend.

R. E. Goodin, in introducing the guest speakers, said it was the first time the club had had a woman speaker. Miss Betty Boyle of the Department of Agriculture, and editor of the Junior Farmer News. The second speaker was Harold Beatty who showed slides taken of the junior farmer delegation to Britain. The pictures and commentary told the story of young farmers' work in Britain, showed scenes from livestock shows, some of which were attended by Queen Elizabeth, and of the British countryside.

Donald Lowes moved a vote of thanks to the ladies of St. Andrew's Women's Association for the turkey dinner. Mrs. J. T. Crowley replied.

The watch presentation to Fenton Fallis was made by Neil Masterson of Agricultural Chemicals, Port Hope, on behalf of his firm who donated the prize.

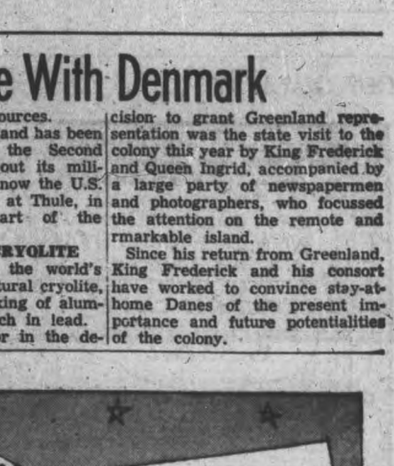
Farouk's Writings Prove Embarrassing

ROME (AP) — The news agency Italia d'Oggie reported yesterday that former King Farouk's writings and business deals since he arrived in exile have given the foreign ministry some trouble and stirred up a flurry of diplomatic notes between Rome and Cairo.



The former Egyptian monarch has been carrying on a long-distance [illegible] with the government of Naguib, who forced Farouk to abdicate and leave Egypt last July 26.

The agency report said the Italian government may ask Farouk to keep quiet or move to another country.

Wounded In Leg Hunter Crawls Half Mile To Cabin

A Toronto man, with a painful rifle wound in his left leg, crawled half a mile on his hands and knees late Monday afternoon and reached a cabin just as dusk was falling. He had accidentally shot himself while deer hunting, some three miles east of Mount Julian. The wounded man is Tony Salo, 35, of 163 Walmer Rd., Toronto, the first district casualty of the deer hunting season which opened Monday morning.

He is now resting in Civic Hospital, suffering from loss of blood and shock as well as from the wound. He was found about 10 a.m. today by a hunting party that pulled into the north shore of Stony Lake because of a mishap. They had broken an oar and Salo heard them as he lay, almost helpless, on a bed in the cabin.

SHOUTED FOR HELP

Salo shouted to the hunters and they came up to the cabin and found him.

"If those hunters hadn't broken an oar I'd probably be lying there yet," he said from his hospital bed at 1 p.m. today.

But for the breaking of an oar he might easily have died in the cabin, located at the west end of Young's Bay.

While one his rescuers, Fred Young of Young's Point, went for a boat, the other gave Salo some food and a cup of tea. He had not had a meal since he started out with a hunting party from Mount Julian at 6 a.m. Monday.

Salo said that he got lost while roaming in the bush east of Mount Julian. About 3 p.m. he tried to adjust a long belt that had fallen loose and was dangling on the ground.

"I was carrying my rifle in my right hand and when I tried to fix the belt I tripped. The gun went off and struck me in the left leg.

"I guess I lay there for some time and yelled and yelled. Then I crawled about half a mile through the bush and just before dark I saw a cottage. If I handn't reached it when I did I guess I'd be dead now."

WRECKED GUN

Salo, fast growing weaker, exhausted almost all that was left of his strength in trying to beat down the cabin door with the butt of his rifle. He finally succeeded after battering the gun beyond repair.

Some Small Precincts Get Count In Because of System

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

United States voters got out early and in droves today to make their great decision between Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower and Democrat Adlai Stevenson as the 33rd man to become their president.

Across the country, the story was the same almost everywhere: voting so heavy that election officials in state after state called it unprecedented. Many polling places had long lines from the opening.

It was plain a record total of ballots was going into the making of the verdict on the Republican argument that "it's time for a change" and the Democratic contention that Americans "never had it so good."

Some forecasters predicted 55,000,000 to 60,000,000 ballots. The biggest vote cast in the past was 49,820,312 in 1940 when Democrat Franklin D. Roosevelt defeated Republican Wendell Willkie.

Though the outward scene was similar everywhere, the big mystery was what was going on behind the curtains of the voting booth—did the big vote mean "a landslide for Ike" as Republicans hoped, or "a sweep for Stevenson" as Democrats wished?

LAST POLLS CLOSE AT 11

The result may be known around midnight EST tonight or, if the voting is extremely close, perhaps not until sometime tomorrow. The last of the polls to the close, some on the west coast, will be open until 11 p.m. EST.

As usual, a scattering of smaller precincts got in all their votes and made a count soon after the opening hour—a freak of the U.S. voting system.

Sharon, N.H., bidding to be first in the country, had all its votes in by seven minutes after midnight. The count: Eisenhower 32, Stevenson 14.

Rutland, another small Florida precinct, reported 14 for Stevenson and 10 for Eisenhower.

3 Main Buildings In Pulp Town Razed By Flames

SMOOTH ROCK FALLS (CP)—Damage was estimated at between $250,000 and $500,000 today in a fire which destroyed the three main buildings in this Northern Ontario pulp mill town. It wiped out a Hudson's Bay Company store, an Abitibi Power and Paper Company woods commissary and a municipal garage. Blazing out of control for four hours, it reduced the three attached buildings of frame construction to ashes. The fire broke out about 6:30 a.m. One report was that it started in the basement of the commissary but another theory was that it originated in the store, which housed a soda bar, grocery and restaurant.

Store manager W. Pettapiece gave the alarm.

The Abitibi warehouse held thousands of dollars worth of equipment used in the company's woods operations. However, a company official in Toronto said replacement equipment can be drawn from the Abitibi commissary at Iroquois Falls, about 80 miles to the southeast.

COCHRANE, KAP SEND AID

Hoses of the volunteer fire brigade could do little to check the flames. Fire trucks from Kapuskasing and Cochrane, both 50 miles away, arrived too late to do more than prevent the fire from spreading.

Smooth Rock Falls is a company town built by Abitibi as part of a $50,000,000 pulp and paper development in the area.

All the town's men and some of its women went to the fire scene to help if possible. Hardly anyone reported for his regular job at the mill.

But nothing could be done to save the buildings. One resident remarked:

"It all went so far that all we could do was stand and watch it burn."

FIRE CHIEF OVERCOME

Fire Chief J. Lloyd was overcome by smoke. He was taken to hospital. The firefighters worked in a temperature only a few degrees above freezing.

The Smooth Rock Inn, not far from the fire, was evacuated as a precaution. But neither it nor the nearby pulp mill nor the residential section were touched by the flames.

About four hours after the alarm was given, the flames had died down but a heavy blanket of smoke still covered the town. Cause of the outbreak was not determined.

Saved from the municipal garage and workshops were a light truck, some small motors and some carpenters' tools, but heavy machinery in the building was lost.

Hunger, Cold To Subdue Ohio Convicts

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—The twin weapons of hunger and cold were used today against 1,600 convicts in four cell blocks of strife-torn Ohio state penitentiary, where police have killed one prisoner and four convicts and one policeman have been wounded.

Warden Ralph W. Alvis said he had 35 surrender notes from the embattled prisoners, but declared: "When we get the right feeling, we'll go in and talk to them." He also said some of the more peaceful convicts would be transferred from the prison to other Ohio institutions.

The rioting prisoners, who locked themselves into their cell blocks, have been without food since Sunday. Heat was cut off Monday. The temperature last night was near freezing.

ARMED GUARD

Through the night, state patrolmen and 200 National Guardsmen equipped with machine-guns stood at posts outside the four cell blocks.

Their set-up was such that escaping prisoners would be caught in a crossfire. Col. George Mingle of the state highway patrol said the rioting convicts "better not get in sight."

A few shots were fired during the late afternoon and evening as prisoners now and then came out of their cells.

The convicts' surrender notes were scrawled on pieces of cloth and paper.

The warden said he felt there was a hard core of resistance among the convicts so he kept what was described as "watchful waiting."

Alvis said tentative plans call for movement of 600 to 800 of the less violent prisoners. The prison houses more than 4,000 convicts.

The riot started more or less as a dining-room disturbance Friday evening. It spread into a full-scale riot and fire which caused damage of almost $1,000,000.

Charge Gateman With Negligence After 2 Accidents

TORONTO (CP)—Robert Gigeroff, 42, railway gateman, has been charged with criminal negligence following a level-crossing accident last night in East Toronto.

Two automobiles carrying a total of six passengers were struck by two trains travelling in opposite directions at almost the same time. The five women occupants of one car escaped injury. A man, alone in the other car, suffered a nose bleed.

Occupants of the two cars and eyewitnesses said the crossing-gates were not down when the crash occurred.

DIDN'T CLOSE GATES

It was learned that there is an automatic signal in the gateman's house which warns him trains will be going over the crossing.

Police questioning the gateman said he told them that the north bound passenger train had tripped the automatic signal in his box, then stopped. He said he did not lower the gates but watched the train to see if it would move on. He said he did not see the other train—a shunter—until it was too late to lower the gates.

Returns from 10 states have been pretty good indicators of the United States presidential election result for years and they might bear watching tonight. They are:

Arizona and New Mexico, admitted to the union in 1912, and Nevada. They gave a majority of the presidential winners that year and in all the succeeding nine elections.

Bettering that record are Idaho, Missouri and Montana. They've been with the winner in the last 12 elections, beginning with Theodore Roosevelt's victory in 1904.

Illinois gave a majority to the winning candidate in all the last 15 elections except 1916, Maryland in the last 10 except in 1948, Ohio in the last 14 except 1944, and West Virginia in the last 15 except for 1916.

In addition, there are two big states where the returns will be eagerly awaited because of the closeness of the 1948 vote. President Truman won California by only 17,865 and Thomas E. Dewey took New York by only 60,959 in 1948.

Truman Sure Stevenson Wins

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—President Truman voted for Adlai Stevenson today and left immediately afterwards by train for Washington.

After casting his ballot, the President was asked by a reporter:

"Are you sure that's the winner?"

"Oh yes," he replied, "there's no doubt about it."

Punished For Hookey Boy 13 Tries Suicide

TORONTO (CP) — Police today said a 13-year-old Toronto school boy attempted suicide after being punished for playing hookey.

Police said the boy turned on the gas stove when he returned home from school Monday. Neighbors smelled gas and broke down the door. The gas stove were on and they found a note written by the boy.

Hint Bermuda Wants To Join With Canada

By MARTIN DIER

HAMILTON, Bermuda (CP)—Several government members, irked by lagging negotiations with Britain, have suggested during lengthy debates in the House of Assembly that Bermuda affiliate with Canada.

"Canada is our proper place," one member said.

The debate followed attack by members on the United Kingdom government for delay in concluding negotiations for disposal to Bermuda of surplus admiralty and war office land in the colony.

Some government members and business men feel that the drawn-out negotiations have resulted in the loss of opportunities to establish light industries to add stability to the colony's economy, now mainly dependent on tourist trade.

NOT SEEKING AID

Bermuda was not asking for aid, said F. C. Misick during the debate, but merely that the urgently-needed land be returned.

"The dog-in-the-manger" attitude which Britain was apparently taking was hard to understand, he said.

"There is a sense of exasperation in the whole colony. There must be some way by which the bureaucrats in Whitehall can be blasted into action."

"The time has arrived when we shall approach the Canadian government and on some basis link up with Canada. I believe that is our place under the crown today. I feel that a sensible step would be to make an official approach to Ottawa. Canada is our proper place."

He said the withdrawal of the naval establishment was indicative of the lack of [illegible] British military forces were almost non-existent, he said.

Queen Elizabeth Opens Parliament

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—The Queen today drove in state to the House of Lords and personally opened the first parliament of the new Elizabethan age. In a clear, calm voice which faltered only once, the poised young Queen read the speech from the throne to her assembled peers and commoners, diplomats and great officers of state, pledging herself to serve Britain and the Commonwealth with the same devotion shown by her late father, King George VI.

The Queen took her place on the raised throne in the House of Lords wearing the parliamentary robe used on similar occasions by Queen Victoria. It was the first time Parliament has been formally addressed by an uncrowned Queen since Victoria did so in 1837.

From her seat on the throne, with the Duke of Edinburgh in a special chair to her left, the Queen looked out over one of the familiar scenes of English pageantry—directly before the bewigged law lords and peers of the realm in their scarlet and ermine robes, flanked on either side by ambassadors in service and morning dress and by peeresses in evening dress.

Members of the House of Commons, summoned to the lords chamber by the gentleman usher of the Black Rod, were tightly jammed behind the peers on the floor of the house or seated in the overhead galleries usually reserved for spectators.

Allied Troops Hurl Reds Back

North Korean Communists launched six attacks in the Heartbreak Ridge sector. Each was stopped cold despite unusually heavy Red artillery and mortar fire.

Chinese Reds on the central front stormed all night long at South Korean positions atop bloody Sniper Ridge. The South Koreans beat back the final assault at dawn.

The United States Eighth Army said Sniper and nearby Triangle Hill were quieter Tuesday than at any time since the Allies launched their central-front attack Oct. 14.

A battalion of North Koreans—about 750 men—powered the biggest Red attack on the mountainous eastern front. The Reds slammed straight at Heartbreak Ridge.

Allied infantrymen, fighting from trenches and bunkers, stopped the assault in a three-hour battle The defenders estimated they killed or wounded more than 100 Red Koreans.

Meet Soviet Plane Fighters Hold Fire

TOKYO (AP) — Far East Air Forces headquarters said two United States jets today flew alongside but did not fire on an LA-11 propeller-driven fighter plane with Soviet markings. F.E.A.F. said they met over northern Japan.

Neither the two American F-84 Thunderjets nor the Russian-built fighter fired any shots, F.E.A.F. said.

The air force said the Communist plane was flying over the Nomuro peninsula [illegible] an American B-29 was believed shot down by Russian fighters Oct. 7.

F.E.A.F. said the plane with Soviet markings flew off toward the international boundary between Japan and Russia and the F-84s returned to their base without leaving Japanese territory.

The American planes made "positive identification" of the strange plane's markings and flew parallel until it neared the international boundary, the air force said.

Neutrals Seek Break Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Asian and Arab delegates to the United Nations meet today to seek a middle-of-the-road course they hope both East and West can accept for ending the Korean War.

The delegates, from countries which generally take a neutral position on most East-West conflicts, hope to bring a solid bloc behind compromise proposals for a Korean settlement.

The delegates, from countries which is debating the Korean issue, was in recess for the day—presumably because of the United States presidential elections.

Indonesia is reported to have drawn up a proposal combining some main features of resolutions already presented by the U.S. and Russia. The Indonesian proposal was said to call for acceptance of the principle of non-forcible repatriation of prisoners of war, advocated by the U.S., and the formation of a special U.N. commission to seek a Korean settlement as proposed by the Soviet Union.

Italy Prepared Go Half Way

REDIPUGLIA, Italy (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi said today that Italy is willing to settle its dispute with Yugoslavia over Trieste but wants first "an act of good will" from Premier Tito's government.

De Gasperi spoke at armistice day ceremonies. Austria, Italy's principal opponent in the First World War, accepted the Allied armistice terms on Nov. 4, 1918, seven days before the Germans laid down [illegible] answer to Tito's remarks yesterday in Zagreb. There the marshal told the Yugoslav Communist party congress he wants to "settle the Trieste issue directly with Italy."

The Italian premier said Italy did not want to interfere with "the spirit of independence" of Yugoslavia "or its possibilities of defence."

"We ask only for an act of good will to solve justly the question of the free territory," he said.

Duke Of Edinburgh Steals The Show

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth, wearing a diamond tiara, led the Royal Family last night to the first command variety performance of her reign—and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, stole the show.

Bandleader Billy Cotton and his orchestra were on the stage. A number of paper coconuts were thrown out over the audience and several landed in the royal box.

The Queen ducked. Princess Margaret handed one to the duke, who expertly hurled the coconut back on the stage. The audience roared its appreciation and the duke shrugged modestly.

If Election Close Affair Final Result May Be Slow

WASHINGTON (CP) — If past performance means anything, either Adlai Stevenson or Dwight Eisenhower will issue a statement between midnight tonight and daybreak tomorrow conceding he lost the election.

If it's a landslide, the loser might follow the lead of James Cox in 1920 and toss in the sponge before midnight. Cox, the losing Democrat, conceded the election of Warren G. Harding at 10:15 p.m. election night.

But if it's a nip-and-tuck affair and someone demands a recount, the loser might emulate Charles Evans Hughs, Republican, who lost to Woodrow Wilson in 1916. Hughes didn't give up until the official vote count was made in California days after the election.

In 1940 Wendell Willkie retired at 1:30 a.m. without conceding that Franklin D. Roosevelt had won a third term. He finally gave up seven hours later.

In 1944 Governor Thomas E. Dewey waited until 3:15 a.m. before conceding that he was the loser in Roosevelt's bid for a fourth term.

Four years ago the race was closer and Dewey didn't admit his defeat by Harry S. Truman until 11:15 a.m.

The delay in announcing the decision in U.S. elections is different from the system in Canada where the country often learns who won the election even before the polls in British Columbia close.

The reason is the complicated nature of the U.S. ballot which looks like a round-the-world railist of various officials down to the level of coroner plus various local referenda. This slows up counting in the U.S.

Soldier Refuses To Be Killed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—In the Second World War the war department reported Sgt. Omer Willette killed in action. But he turned up alive in a hospital.

Two weeks ago, the defence department reported Willette killed in Korea.

Sunday night his wife received a telephone call from Tokyo.

"I'm all right," said Willette, who was startled to hear he'd been reported dead. "I'm wounded but home soon."

"I guess my daddy is bullet-proof."

Spaniel Made Life Member

MONTREAL (CP) — Dinghy Jones, nine-year-old black cocker spaniel with a remarkable mathematical ability, will be made a life member of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association in Belleville, Ont., tomorrow.

Dinghy, who lives with his master, Dr. Arnold F. Jones in Montreal, served with him in the R.C.A.F. as a member of 422 Squadron with Britain's coastal command.

His talents include addition—ask him what 10 plus four is and he'll bark the answer—and card tricks—take any card from the deck and Dinghy will bark the number He can also climb trees.

He has also travelled through Britain, France (by way of a Spitfire cockpit) and Canada.

Dinghy will not lower his status by becoming a professional entertainer but is subject to bribery—one piece of cheese for each performance.

Ottawa Records Terrific 'Quake

OTTAWA (CP)—An earthquake, described by officials as "terrific," began registering on the Dominion observatory seismographs shortly after noon today.

Dr. John H. Hodgson, Dominion seismologist, said the quake may be a considerable distance from Ottawa and "must be a quake of very, very large magnitude."

At first officials believed it was a local tremor—within 500 or 600 miles of this station. However, when the seismograph continued to register violently 25 minutes after the first shock at 12:09:54, they revised their theories.

Any local quake of such magnitude, Dr. Hodgson said, would certainly have been felt in this area by now.

Police said the cars they were driving were stolen in Belleville and Oshawa. They were stopped at a roadblock after a service station operator reported a car sped away without paying for gasoline.

Hidden Treasure Gossip May Have Led To Murder

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec provincial police said today village gossip about a 94-year-old widow's hidden treasure may have led to her murder during the weekend.

A neighbor of Mrs. Henri Tarte in Lanoraie village, 40 miles northeast of Montreal, found her battered body in the ransacked Tarte farmhouse Sunday morning. Her 52-year-old son, Etienne, was found unconscious and is not yet able to talk coherently about what happened, police said.

Hilaire Beauregard, director of provincial police in Montreal district, said Mrs. Tarte and her son may have had as much as $50,000 hidden away somewhere on their farm. No trace of the cache has been found and theft of it possibly was the murder motive, said Mr. Beauregard.

The director said police investigation has indicated Mrs Tarte and her son ran a private money-lending business in Lanoraie district and were generally believed to have a store of cash somewhere on their farm.

3 Fishermen Missing Now Presumed Dead

FRANKFORT, Mich. (CP)—Police said yesterday three men who were spearing whitefish in nearby Crystal Lake are missing and presumed dead.

When they failed to return, a plane search was launched. An oil slick was found at a point where the lake is 175 feet deep.

Wounded In Leg Hunter Crawls Half Mile To Cabin

A Toronto man, with a painful rifle wound in his left leg, crawled half a mile on his hands and knees late Monday afternoon and reached a cabin just as dusk was falling. He had accidentally shot himself while deer hunting, some three miles east of Mount Julian. The wounded man is Tony Salo, 35, of 163 Walmer Rd., Toronto, the first district casualty of the deer hunting season which opened Monday morning.

He is now resting in Civic Hospital, suffering from loss of blood and shock as well as from the wound. He was found about 10 a.m. today by a hunting party that pulled into the north shore of Stony Lake because of a mishap. They had broken an oar and Salo heard them as he lay, almost helpless, on a bed in the cabin.

SHOUTED FOR HELP

Salo shouted to the hunters and they came up to the cabin and found him.

"If those hunters hadn't broken an oar I'd probably be lying there yet," he said from his hospital bed at 1 p.m. today.

But for the breaking of an oar he might easily have died in the cabin, located at the west end of Young's Bay.

While one his rescuers, Fred Young of Young's Point, went for a boat, the other gave Salo some food and a cup of tea. He had not had a meal since he started out with a hunting party from Mount Julian at 6 a.m. Monday.

Salo said that he got lost while roaming in the bush east of Mount Julian. About 3 p.m. he tried to adjust a long belt that had fallen loose and was dangling on the ground.

"I was carrying my rifle in my right hand and when I tried to fix the belt I tripped. The gun went off and struck me in the left leg.

"I guess I lay there for some time and yelled and yelled. Then I crawled about half a mile through the bush and just before dark I saw a cottage. If I handn't reached it when I did I guess I'd be dead now."

WRECKED GUN

Salo, fast growing weaker, exhausted almost all that was left of his strength in trying to beat down the cabin door with the butt of his rifle. He finally succeeded after battering the gun beyond repair.

He showed considerable coolness, veteran hunters say, in making a tourniquet out of the strings of his haversack in an attempt to stop the flow of blood. When he got into the cabin he made further bandages from curtains.

Italy Prepared Go Half Way

REDIPUGLIA, Italy (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi said today that Italy is willing to settle its dispute with Yugoslavia over Trieste but wants first "an act of good will" from Premier Tito's government.

De Gasperi spoke at armistice day ceremonies. Austria, Italy's principal opponent in the First World War, accepted the Allied armistice terms on Nov. 4, 1918, seven days before the Germans laid down their arms.

... yesterday in Zagreb. There the marshal told the Yugoslav Communist party congress he wants to "settle the Trieste issue directly with Italy."

The Italian premier said Italy did not want to interfere with "the spirit of independence" of Yugoslavia "or its possibilities of defence."

"We ask only for an act of good will to solve justly the question of the free territory," he said.

Duke Of Edinburgh Steals The Show

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth, wearing a diamond tiara, led the Royal Family last night to the first command variety performance of her reign—and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, stole the show.

Bandleader Billy Cotton and his orchestra were on the stage. A number of paper coconuts were thrown out over the audience and several landed in the royal box.

The Queen ducked. Princess Margaret handed one to the duke, who expertly hurled the coconut back on the stage. The audience roared its appreciation and the duke shrugged modestly.

Truman Sure Stevenson Wins

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—President Truman voted for Adlai Stevenson today and left immediately afterwards by train for Washington.

After casting his ballot, the President was asked by a reporter:

"Are you sure that's the winner?"

"Oh yes," he replied, "there's no doubt about it."

Punished For Hookey Boy 13 Tries Suicide

TORONTO (CP) — Police today said a 13-year-old Toronto school boy attempted suicide after being punished for "playing hookey."

... gas ... a note written by the boy.

"I guess my daddy is bullet-proof."

Soldier Refuses To Be Killed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—In the Second World War the war department reported Sgt. Omer Willette killed in action. But he turned up alive in a hospital.

Two weeks ago, the defence department reported Willette killed in Korea.

Sunday night his wife received a telephone call from Tokyo.

"I'm all right," said Willette, who was startled to hear he'd been reported dead. "I'm wounded but I'll be home soon."

Hint Bermuda Wants To Join With Canada

By MARTIN DIER

HAMILTON, Bermuda (CP)—Several government members, irked by lagging negotiations with Britain, have suggested during lengthy debates in the House of Assembly that Bermuda affiliate with Canada.

"Canada is our proper place," one member said.

The debate followed attack by members on the United Kingdom government for delay in concluding negotiations for disposal to Bermuda of surplus admiralty and war office land in the colony.

Some government members and business men feel that the drawn-out negotiations have resulted in the loss of opportunities to establish light industries to add stability to the colony's economy, now mainly dependent on tourist trade.

NOT SEEKING AID

Bermuda was not asking for aid, said F. C. Misick during the debate, but merely that the urgently-needed land be returned.

"The dog-in-the-manger" attitude which Britain was apparently taking was hard to understand, he said.

"There is a sense of exasperation in the whole colony. There must be some way by which the bureaucrats in Whitehall can be blasted into action."

"The time has arrived when we shall approach the Canadian government and on some basis link up with Canada. I believe that is our place under the crown today. I feel that a sensible step would be to make an official approach to Ottawa. Canada is our proper place."

He said the withdrawal of the naval establishment was indicative of the lack of interest ... British military forces were almost non-existent, he said.

Spaniel Made Life Member

MONTREAL (CP) — Dinghy Jones, nine-year-old black cocker spaniel with a remarkable mathematical ability, will be made a life member of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association in Belleville, Ont., tomorrow.

Dinghy, who lives with his master, Dr. Arnold F. Jones in Montreal, served with him in the R.C.A.F. as a member of 422 Squadron with Britain's coastal command.

His talents include addition—ask him what 10 plus four is and he'll bark the answer—and card tricks—take any card from the deck and Dinghy will bark the number. He can also climb trees.

He has also travelled through Britain, France (by way of a Spitfire cockpit) and Canada.

Dinghy will not lower his status by becoming a professional entertainer but is subject to bribery—one piece of cheese for each performance.

Queen Elizabeth Opens Parliament

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—The Queen today drove in state to the House of Lords and personally opened the first parliament of the new Elizabethan age. In a clear, calm voice which faltered only once, the poised young Queen read the speech from the throne to her assembled peers and commoners, diplomats and great officers of state, pledging herself to serve Britain and the Commonwealth with the same devotion shown by her late father, King George VI.

The Queen took her place on the raised throne in the House of Lords wearing the parliamentary robe used on similar occasions by Queen Victoria. It was the first time Parliament has been formally addressed by an uncrowned Queen since Victoria did so in 1837.

From her seat on the throne, with the Duke of Edinburgh in a special chair to her left, the Queen looked out over one of the familiar scenes of English pageantry—directly before the bewigged law lords and peers of the realm in their scarlet and ermine robes, flanked on either side by ambassadors in service and morning dress and by peeresses in evening dress.

Members of the House of Commons, summoned to the lords chamber by the gentleman usher of the Black Rod, were tightly jammed behind the peers on the floor of the house or seated in the overhead galleries usually reserved for spectators.

LED BY ALEXANDER

The Queen drove from Buckingham Palace down the Mall in a black-and-gilt Irish state coach, drawn by four Windsor greys. She entered the chamber in a great state procession headed by the defence minister, Earl Alexander of Tunis, who carried the sword of state.

... officers of state, bearing such impressive names as Rouge Dragon Pursuivant, Portcullis Pursuivant, Bluemantle Pursuivant and Silver Stick in Waiting, ranged themselves around the throne as

Allied Troops Hurl Reds Back

North Korean Communists launched six attacks in the Heartbreak Ridge sector. Each was stopped cold despite unusually heavy Red artillery and mortar fire.

Chinese Reds on the central front stormed all night long at South Korean positions atop bloody Sniper Ridge. The South Koreans beat back the final assault at dawn.

The United States Eighth Army said Sniper and nearby Triangle Hill were quieter Tuesday than at any time since the Allies launched their central-front attack Oct. 14.

A battalion of North Koreans—about 750 men—powered the biggest Red attack on the mountainous eastern front. The Reds slammed straight at Heartbreak Ridge.

Allied infantrymen, fighting from trenches and bunkers, stopped the assault in a three-hour battle. The defenders estimated they killed or wounded more than 100 Red Koreans.

Held For Car Theft

PARIS (CP)—John W. Vandueson, 16, of Madoc and John Brackenbridge, 19, of Oshawa were arrested here today for car theft.

Police said the cars they were driving were stolen in Belleville and Oshawa. They were stopped at a roadblock after a service station operator reported a car sped away without paying for gasoline.

Meet Soviet Plane Fighters Hold Fire

TOKYO (AP) — Far East Air Forces headquarters said two United States jets today flew alongside but did not fire on an LA-11 propeller-driven fighter plane with Soviet markings. F.E.A.F. said they met over northern Japan.

Neither the two American F-84 Thunderjets nor the Russian-built fighter fired any shots, F.E.A.F. said.

The air force said the Communist plane was flying over the ... an American B-29 was believed shot down by Russian fighters Oct. 7.

F.E.A.F. said the plane with Soviet markings flew off toward the international boundary between Japan and Russia and the F-84s returned to their base without leaving Japanese territory.

The American planes made "positive identification" of the strange plane's markings and flew parallel until it neared the international boundary, the air force said.

Neutrals Seek Break Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Asian and Arab delegates to the United Nations meet today to seek a middle-of-the-road course they hope both East and West can accept for ending the Korean War.

The delegates, from countries which generally take a neutral position on most East-West conflicts, hope to bring a solid bloc behind compromise proposals for a Korean settlement.

The committee, which is debating the Korean issue, was in recess for the day—presumably because of the United States presidential elections.

Indonesia is reported to have drawn up a proposal combining some main features of resolutions already presented by the U.S. and Russia. The Indonesian proposal was said to call for acceptance of the principle of non-forcible repatriation of prisoners of war, advocated by the U.S., and the formation of a special U.N. commission to seek a Korean settlement as proposed by the Soviet Union.

If Election Close Affair Final Result May Be Slow

WASHINGTON (CP) — If past performance means anything, either Adlai Stevenson or Dwight Eisenhower will issue a statement between midnight tonight and daybreak tomorrow conceding he lost the election.

If it's a landslide, the loser might follow the lead of James Cox in 1920 and toss in the sponge before midnight. Cox, the losing Democrat, conceded the election of Warren G. Harding at 10:15 p.m. election night.

But if it's a nip-and-tuck affair and someone demands a recount, the loser might emulate Charles Evans Hughs, Republican, who lost to Woodrow Wilson in 1916. Hughes didn't give up until the official vote count was made in California days after the election.

In 1940 Wendell Willkie retired at 1:30 a.m. without conceding that Franklin D. Roosevelt had won a third term. He finally gave up seven hours later.

In 1944 Governor Thomas E. Dewey waited until 3:15 a.m. before conceding that he was the loser in Roosevelt's bid for a fourth term.

Four years ago the race was closer and Dewey didn't admit his defeat by Harry S. Truman until 11:15 a.m.

The delay in announcing the decision in U.S. elections is different from the system in Canada where the country often learns who won the election even before the polls in British Columbia close.

The reason is the complicated nature of the U.S. ballot which looks like a round-the-world rail-list of various officials down to the level of coroner plus various local referenda. This slows up counting in the U.S.

Ottawa Records Terrific 'Quake

OTTAWA (CP)—An earthquake, described by officials as "terrific," began registering on the Dominion observatory seismographs shortly after noon today.

Dr. John H. Hodgson, Dominion seismologist, said the quake may be a considerable distance from Ottawa and "must be a quake of very, very large magnitude."

At first officials believed it was a local tremor—within 500 or 600 miles of this station. However, when the seismograph continued to register violently 25 minutes after the first shock at 12:09:54, they revised their theories.

Any local quake of such magnitude, Dr. Hodgson said, would certainly have been felt in this area by now.

Hidden Treasure Gossip May Have Led To Murder

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec provincial police said today village gossip about a 94-year-old widow's hidden treasure may have led to her murder during the weekend.

A neighbor of Mrs. Henri Tarte in Lanoraie village, 40 miles northeast of Montreal, found her battered body in the ransacked Tarte farmhouse Sunday morning. Her 52-year-old son, Etieme, was found unconscious and is not yet able to talk coherently about what happened, police said.

Hilaire Beauregard, director of provincial police in Montreal district, said Mrs. Tarte and her son may have had as much as $50,000 hidden away somewhere on their farm. No trace of the cache has been found and theft of it possibly was the murder motive, said Mr. Beauregard.

The director said police investigation has indicated Mrs Tarte and her son ran a private money-lending business in Lanoraie district and were generally believed to have a store of cash somewhere on their farm.

3 Fishermen Missing Now Presumed Dead

FRANKFORT, Mich. (CP)—Police said yesterday three men who were spearing whitefish in nearby Crystal Lake are missing and presumed dead.

When they failed to return, a plane search was launched. An oil slick was found at a point where the lake is 175 feet deep.

Canada Points Up Possibilities Solving Deadlock

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada yesterday pointed up to the United Nations the possibilities of solving the key issue of war prisoners if the Communists are seeking a Korean cease-fire in good faith. Health Minister Paul Martin told the General Assembly's political committee it "should not despair of reaching an eventual settlement." He said there is apparently only a "small area of disagreement" on the prisoners question, the only issue blocking a cease-fire.

If the Communists are in good faith it should not be difficult to reach agreement, Martin said. If there is a misunderstanding then serious study of the question must continue. But if the Communists are in bad faith "then the problem becomes insoluble."

The Canadian delegate suggested that to end the prisoners question a "protecting power," made up of a group of states, could be appointed to receive Chinese and North Korean prisoners in a neutral zone where they could decide whether or not they wished to go home.

This suggestion was aimed at solving the central problem of prisoners in which the Communists have charged that the prisoners were under pressure when thousands of them told the U.N they would fight against being sent home.

BEHIND-SCENES MOVES

Other delegations meanwhile worked behind the scenes to find a solution to the deadlock between the Communist demand that all prisoners be repatriated and the U.N. command's insistence it will not force prisoners to return to Communist hands.

The Arab-Asian bloc of 13 countries is scheduled to meet today as a group for the first time to discuss Korea in a closed meeting. The Indonesian delegates has drafted a proposal which would seek a compromise between Russia's call for a new Korean commission and the western-sponsored resolution for a cease-fire in terms including non-forceable repatriation. But India, which has played a major role in separate secret talks with Russians and western leaders, was reported urging the Arab-Asian group to go slow in presenting formal resolutions.

The 60-member political committee had before it, besides the 21-country and Russian proposals, a Mexican resolution under which prisoners not wishing to return home would be accepted by countries not fighting in Korea

Two weeks ago the United States, with the support of 20 other U.N. members, introduced a resolution asking the Assembly to support its stand at Panmunjom and call on the Communists to agree to a truce.

STUDY MEXICAN PLAN

Martin said the Mexican proposal should be studied further to supply a practical plan for disposition of the prisoners unwilling to be repatriated.

The Canadian delegate fully endorsed the 21-country plan, which he said aims to impress upon the enemy the determination of the U.N. "to protect the interests of the individual in a situation of peril" as they resolved in 1950 to protect an infant state (Korea) against the peril of aggression.

Korea has become a "symbol of collective security in action" But now that aggression had been stopped, it was in danger "of becoming a symbol of failure to achieve peaceful collaboration."

In his 6,000-word address, Martin dealt almost exclusively with the prisoners problem. He denied the Communist charges that the U.N. stand is contrary to international law and that the U.N. wants to keep prisoners by force.

Poll Closing Irregular In U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Polls in the United States elections open as late as 11 p.m. EST in the west-coast states.

The latest the polls are open in the east is 9 p.m. in New York and parts of Rhode Island. Earliest polls closings are also in parts of Rhode Island, at 4 p.m.

New York's original closing time was 7 p.m., but it was extended two hours because of a record registration.

U.S. polling times are controlled by state law and vary considerably.

In New Hampshire, for instance, a poll may be closed as soon as all its eligible voters are accounted for. Such was the case in Sharon, N.H., where the poll opened for the 48 registered voters at one minute past midnight and closed seven minutes later. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican candidate, won by a 32-14 edge.

In another small New Hampshire community, Millsfield, the poll also closed minutes after midnight. It gave all its eight votes to Eisenhower.

Coca-Cola IS PART AND PARCEL OF GOOD TIMES

HOME AGAIN — A relatively small crowd is on hand at the Independence, Mo., station to greet the homecoming President Harry Truman and family. The chief executive ended his 18,000-mile campaign tour through 27 states on behalf of Gov. Adlai Stevenson and came home to rest a few days before election day, today.

600 Attend Funeral Service

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—A saddened father, leaning heavily on the husky shoulders of his sons, yesterday heard Dixie Lee Crosby eulogized as one who turned down movie stardom in favor of motherhood, "the greatest career of all."

His head bent low, Bing Crosby plainly showed the effects of his week-long vigil at the bedside of his wife of 22 years. Cancer took her life Saturday. She would have been 41 tomorrow.

Some 600 mourners, a few movie stars among them, filled the California mission-style church to capacity.

Stock Market Prices Hold Firm In Toronto

Trading was dull, reflecting a wait-and-see attitude until the United States presidential election is decided. Volume for the first three hours totalled 681,000 shares.

Strength in liquors buoyed the industrials list and utilities, constructions, refining oils and banks held firm. Foods and [illegible] changed fractions.

Western oils balanced small gains and losses although leading issues showed some strength. Bailye Selburn, Gridoil and Scurry gained while Marigold slipped.

Higher-priced base metals were mixed and other issues were generally trendless. Normetal and Hudson Bay moved upward while Cassiar and Mindamar lost strength.

Senior golds advanced, buoyed by a 40-cent gain in Giant Yellowknife. Junior producers showed a majority of small gains but prospects slipped slightly. Holding companies were firm.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The American dollar was at a discount of 3 7-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Monday's noon rate was 96 17-32 cents. The pound sterling was $2.70¾, against $2.70 11-16 Monday.

Port Arthur Man Heads Young PC's

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Greene, 27-year-old Port Arthur heating contractor, yesterday was elected president of the Ontario Young Progressive Conservative Association after a lively contest. He is the first Northern Ontario president the association has elected in 10 years. Mr. Greene nosed out Allan Lawrence, Toronto lawyer, on the 164 ballots cast. The vote was not announced. Mr. Lawrence was elected first vice-president. Howie Meeker, Member of Parliament for Waterloo South, was nominated for president but withdrew. The left-winger of Toronto Maple Leafs said other business would prevent him from doing a proper job if elected.

The new president joined the navy at the age of 17 and served with the Canadian forces and for a short time with the Royal Navy. After the war he continued his education at the University of Toronto. He is married and has one child.

MOTION DEBATED

A resolution that the statutory minimum wage for women be raised from the present $14.80 a week was defeated by about a 3 to 2 vote. It was presented from the floor after the regular resolutions had been dealt with. It originally called for an increase to $25 for a 40-hour week but in debate the move was watered down to a straight increase from the present minimum.

Two motions censuring the federal government were sponsored by the Osgoode Hall association. The first opposed indiscriminate use of orders-in-council and what it termed cabinet ministers' irresponsible use of power. The second advocated adoption of an immigration policy based on that used in Australia.

George Drew, national leader of the party, and Premier Frost, in their address emphasized that politics is not a spectator sport but depends on grass roots workers.

Officers elected in addition to Mr. Greene and Mr. Lawrence included, vice-presidents, Trevor Jones, Preston; Helen Kesselring, Kitchener; Jim Hunter, St. Catharines; secretary, June Fraser, Peterborough.

Buses To Run Again On Lindsay Streets

LINDSAY (ENS). — Buses will run in Lindsay again this winter after town council expressed unanimous approval of the return of the service at Monday night's meeting.

A bylaw will be drawn up by the town clerk, W. R. Ollely, for next week's meeting to make the operation of the Lindsay Lines Ltd. from November 15 to May 1st legal.

The bylaw will have to go to the Municipal Board and the Department of Highways for approval, but the lines will begin operations before that time. The buses will not operate with a franchise, as before, since that would entail obtaining the consent of the people through a plebiscite.

But a licence to operate will be granted and the buses will serve [illegible] of the town beginning on November 15. Fare will be a straight 10 cents cash, with no tickets being sold.

MORE ABOUT—

Queen Elizabeth

the Duke of Edinburgh, in naval uniform with an abundance of gold braid, conducted his Queen inside. The Duke extended his fingertips to the Queen's raised right hand as they mounted the steps and pages in crimson and gold arranged her train around the throne.

The Queen then made her pledge as a "faithful Protestant," the customary prelude for a sovereign meeting her Parliament in person for the first time. Then she proceeded to read a seven-minute speech broadly outlining government policy on matters ranging from the Korean War to the building of new fishing vessels and the supply of electricity in Scotland.

Her clear, bell-like voice, easily heard throughout the chamber, faltered only once, at the word "selfless." She promised it would be her constant endeavor to follow the example of selfless devotion set by her father.

Of the major legislative measures outlined in the throne speech, the most controversial will be the Conservative government's proposal to "reorganize" the iron and steel industry and provide for changes in the transport industry. Iron and steel has been a subject of dispute between the Conservatives and the Socialists for the last nine years, and the opposition has served notice it will fight the government every inch of the way in this latest phase of the conflict.

Norman Robertson, the Canadian high commissioner, sat in a corner near the throne, only a few yards away from the Duke of Edinburgh's chair. The Earl of Athlone, once governor-general of Canada, played a part in the ceremony as Gold Stick in Waiting.

The Queen wore an off-the-shoulder gown of an off-white shade, with a white ermine wrap hung low about her shoulders. She also wore a sparkling circlet of diamonds and pearls, once the property of Queen Victoria.

THE QUEEN COMMANDS

For members of the Commons this was a ceremony unprecedented since Victoria's time. They were summoned to the Lords by the words of the Black Rod: "Mr. Speaker, the Queen commands this honorable House to attend her majesty in the House of Lords."

It was the first time the message had been so phrased since the Victorian era. Last week for the prorogation the Queen summons had been "the Queen desires." Today, with the Queen present, it was "the Queen commands. . ."

Thousands were in the streets to watch the cavalcade of state proceed to and from Buckingham Palace. There was one incongruous touch as a young woman in pullover and slacks pedalled on a bicycle down the Mall, a string shopping bag suspended from the handlebars. How she got a highway barred to all but diplomatic cars, was a mystery.

The government, in the Queen's speech, promised to go on supporting the Allied causes in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Korean war.

PRAYS FOR PEACE

"I earnestly pray that in Korea an early armistice will be arranged," the speech said. "Until this is accomplished the continued participation of my forces in this conflict will be clear proof of my government's whole-hearted attachment to the ideals of the United Nations. . .

"My government will continue to take its full share in the work of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as the bulwark of western defence and the embodiment of the common aspirations of the Atlantic community. Within that community and in every other way it will seek to maintain the closest and most friendly relations with the government and people of the United States."

Fire Destroys House

WELLAND (CP)—Fire today destroyed a two-family frame house in adjacent Crowland township. The families of W. Coryeau and S. Gureau escaped injury.

A faulty oil burner was blamed.

Says Jackson Offered Bribes

TORONTO (CP)—A Don jail guard said yesterday that convicted murderer Leonard Jackson questioned several guards about bribery previous to the Boyd gang's second escape.

John K. Hopper, who joined the jail staff in October, 1951, told the Royal Commission inquiring into jail conditions that Jackson asked him if he would like to make some money.

"I answered: 'Yes, I would, but not your way.' Then another time he asked me to bring him a chocolate bar. I don't know whether he was joking or not."

Hopper said the question of making money was asked of several other guards. It was discussed during chatter between turnkeys in the guards' room.

"We also knew he would try to get out the first chance he had," Hopper testified. "He even told us that."

Butter Production Jumps 24.8 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP) — Creamery butter production during September increased 24.8 per cent over September, 1951, the Ontario department of agriculture said today in its monthly dairy report. In September, 1951, production was 6,496,900 pounds, while in September of this year it reached 8,111,000 pounds.

However, cheddar cheese production continued to show a steady decline compared with last year. The September output was down 23.8 per cent.

Stocks of both butter and cheese through the country were considerably higher at Oct. 1 than a month earlier and higher than a year earlier.

The manufacture of powdered skim milk by the spray process increased 54.7 per cent during the first nine months of 1952. Condensed whole milk manufacture increased 43 per cent during the same period.

Thieves Got $170,000 In Montreal Break-in ST. JEROME, Que. (CP) — A Montreal insurance adjuster said today thieves stole between $165,000 and $170,000 in Dominion of Canada and Montreal Tramways Co. bonds in a break-in at a branch of the Banque Provincial du Canada a year ago. Early reports said the loss might reach $1,000,000.

Davignon is charged with receiving $20,000 in Montreal Tramways and $5,000 Dominion of Canada bonds.

First Movie Star Dies Forgotten

MONTBELIARD, France (Reuters)—Jean Clerc, a gardener who claimed to be the world's first movie star on the strength of a single part in 1895, has died forgotten in an old folk's home here.

Clerc, 84, worked for the Lumiere Brothers who pioneered the movie camera in France. They screened him in his real life part in a sequence they called "The Sprinkler Sprinkles."

Some Polls

Eisenhower and his wife, "my Mamie" who campaigned by his side, were among the early voters in New York City. They got their ballots in at 7:35 a.m. EST, and went back to their home at Columbia University to await the returns.

Stevenson was in Half Day, Ill., to cast his ballot.

Despite the intensity of feeling aroused at many places over national and local issues, there were no reports of disorder in the forenoon hours.

POLLING PICTURE

Minneapolis-St. Paul — polls swamped by early voters who lined up in large numbers before polls opened at 7 a.m. Estimated 25 per cent of registered vote cast in Minneapolis first two hours. Election judges called for more help.

New York State — extremely heavy early voting. Some election officials called it the biggest in history.

New York City — more than 25 per cent of registered vote in Manhattan and Bronx cast by 10 a.m., some sections, including Harlem, going as high as 30 per cent.

Detroit — 131,720 voted in first two hours; nearly 40,000 ahead of 1948 vote. All sections of state reported unprecedented early turnout.

Chicago — spot check indicated 230,000 voted in first hour, supporting predictions of record vote of over 2,000,000 in city. Downstate, balloting extra heavy, with many precincts reporting more than 100 votes an hour with lines formed.

Ohio — early voting called heaviest in history in Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and other cities.

Florida — voting heavy. Miami election officials worked because constitutional amendments were keeping some voters in booth as much as 30 minutes. Directed that five-minute legal limit be enforced.

The H.B.C. store, one of three in this part of the northland has been operating since 1920 and was the only general store in the town. The other H.B.C. stores are at Iroquois Falls and at Moosonee on James Bay.

Destruction of the commissary at Smooth Rock Falls will probably have little effect on bush operations in that part of Northern Ontario, company spokesman said today.

Supplies for the district's bush camps will be drawn from the company commissary at Iroquois Falls, about 80 miles southeast of Smooth Rock.

Cutting operations have already started in the northern bush.

Abitibi officials said townsfolk at Smooth Rock Falls would likely be greatly inconvenienced by the damaging of the Hudson's Bay Company store in the same fire. They said the store, only one in the town, handles groceries, household articles, clothing and other merchandise.

"You'd probably find it hard to buy a pound of butter there today," an official said.

Sets Fire To Skirt Charged With Assault

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Tecumseh man whose idea of a good time Hallowe'en was setting fire to a grass hula skirt was charged today with assault occasioning actual bodily harm.

Police allege Trepanier set fire to the hula skirt being worn by Mrs. Lorne Brouillette at a party last Friday night.

Prompt action of two other men at the party who smothered the flames, police stated, probably saved the woman's life. She is in hospital under treatment for serious burns she suffered.

Missing Deer Hunter Walks Out Of Bush

MONETVILLE (CP) — Paul Brant, Toronto deer hunter, walked out of the bush at a summer camp four miles east of here early today after being reported missing since yesterday in this area 50 miles southeast of Sudbury.

Brant started out on a hunting trip with three other men from this area yesterday. The party split up. Its members were to meet again in the afternoon but Brant did not show up.

Find Missing Women In Capreol Bush

CAPREOL (CP) — A search for two women lost since Sunday at Thor Lake about 36 miles north of here ended last night when the pair were found in the bush near this town 20 miles northeast of Sudbury.

A fire started by the women, Mrs. Frank Beaucage and Lillian St. Dennis, both of Thor Lake, was spotted by the lookout tower at Thor Lake.

First Woman To Be Appointed County M.O.H.

COBOURG (ENS)—Dr. Charlotte M. Horner, assistant medical officer of health of the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit, has been appointed M.O.H. and director of the Health Unit to succeed Dr. C. W. MacCharles, who leaves shortly for a post on the Defence Board. ➡

Dr. Charlotte Horner has been assistant medical officer of health of the counties health unit since November 1945, the year it was formed, and during the absence of Dr. MacCharles in Korea in 1950 with the U.N. staff, she carried on the duties of M.O.H. and director.

FIRST SUCH APPOINTMENT

When the health unit board first appointed Dr. Horner as assistant medical officer in November of 1945, she was the first woman doctor to receive such an appointment and she now becomes the first woman doctor to be appointed as medical officer of health and director of a health unit in Ontario.

A native of Toronto, Dr. Horner is a graduate in medicine of the University of Toronto and hold a diploma in public health from the same university. During the Second World War she served as a medical officer in the R.C.A.F.

Campbellford Stores Plan Christmas Parade

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — The Santa Claus parade committee of the local Chamber of Commerce plans a big parade this year. Ground work was laid to assure its success at a meeting Monday evening.

William Nicholas presided as chairman and committees were named to look after the various jobs that must be attended to.

Douglas Maybee was named to look after the procuring of costumes. Arthur K. Loucks will see to the music in the form of bands. David Ness will look after the providing of candies and other treats for the kiddies; George Braham will handle the advertising and George Vice and Hector A. Macarthur were named to look after the floats.

Find Missing Youth

NORTH BAY (CP)—After 24 hours in the rain-soaked bush at nearby Redbridge, Lucien Lauzon, 16, of Sarnia yesterday walked out of the woods to meet searchers. The youth was hunting deer with two men from Sarnia when he became lost 10 miles northeast of North Bay Sunday.

Italian Privates Given Manual Of Etiquette Too

By JOHN MYERS

ROME (Reuters)—If the Italian army general staff has its way, every sad-faced private will have to memorize the manual of etiquette as well as the "manual of arms."

The army has put out a 118-page book of etiquette and it is being made "required reading" for every soldier.

Speaking paternally to the recruit as "thou," the anonymous author enumerates things "not done" in good society.

The soldier is first advised to get rid of his local dialect and speak the good Italian he was taught in school.

He must have at least one bath or shower every week, not as a luxury but as a necessity for health.

"The girls will like you better if your trousers have a straight crease," the book says.

LONG LIST OF DON'TS

The list of don'ts includes:

Swearing, spitting, writing on walls, reading other people's letters, jostling in shopping lines, whistling in theatres, monopolizing telephones, picking one's nose, tucking napkins into one's collar, spitting out soup if it is too hot, playing a mouth organ when others want to sleep, taking boots off on a train, blowing cigarette smoke in people's faces, losing one's temper during games and getting involved in political arguments.

"Above all, don't annoy women in the street, even with words."

It is bad manners to make love in movies or public parks; dance "at least once" with less pretty girls in the dance hall.

TOWARDS WOMEN

A special chapter headed "behavior towards women:

"First of all," it says, "let us get ourselves straight on one point which not everyone grasps. . . Woman is not in the least inferior to man, but she is different from him."

One characteristic piece of Italian gallantry is coldly regarded by the general staff: "Some youths, apeing what they see in the movies, swoon over kissing a woman's hand. Don't bother about it: apart from the fact that it is a custom tending to die out, it is difficult to do well."

The order of Cistercian nuns was founded in France in 1125 for contemplation and prayer.

Hospital Ship Carries Cows, Pigs, Hens

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—When Portuguese fishermen become ill or injured on the Grand Banks, prolific fishing grounds off Newfoundland, they board one of the world's most unique hospital ships.

The 1,814-ton Gil Eannes might easily have sailed from the pages of a pirate's log, if her engines, modern facilities and bona fide flag didn't betray her.

Below the wooden deck of the 278-foot vessel live several cows and a few grunting pigs. Crew members split and clean codfish and the scraps are picked up by a flock of hens.

40-BED WARD

The Gil Eannes' job is to look after the medical and spiritual needs of the 4,000 men who man the Portuguese fishing fleet.

A doctor and two male nurses do the work. They have a 40-bed ward, an annex for tuberculosis patients and operating room with all facilities, including x-ray equipment.

Injuries are frequent on the Banks, which often bear the brunt of North Atlantic gales and Caribbean-bred hurricanes. Lives have been saved on the operating table while the seas were in tumult. Generally, however, serious cases are taken to St. John's and later flown to Lisbon.

FOR HOME USE

Crew members do a little fishing to supply their families at home. That's the reason for fish-cleaning on the decks.

The livestock assure a good quantity of fresh milk, eggs and meat for the patients. The animals are fed easily-obtainable cod liver oil to compensate for lack of grass.

Bible Society Planning For 150th Anniversary

OMEMEE (ENS). — The film, "The Bible on the Table," was well received at a reorganization meeting of the local branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society held in Trinity United Church on Sunday after evening service. It was sponsored by the district secretary, the Rev. H. E. Young, who had spoken in the interests of the Bible Society at Christ Anglican Church in the morning and at country appointments afternoon and evening. In 1954, he said, the 150th anniversary of the society would be celebrated.

The objective between now and that date was to have $750,000 with which to meet the increasing need of a broader distribution of Bibles in foreign lands and of making more translations in Braille. The spiritual objective, he said, was more Bible reading in our homes. He solicited prayers for the colporteurs in their sometimes difficult and even dangerous task.

Mr. Young complimented the local branch on their last year's contribution of $485. So far this year the canvass has been com-

Limit New President To 8 Years On Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Regardless of who wins today's United States election, he can't remain in the White House more than eight years.

The new president will be the first one limited to two terms. He can be re-elected only once.

The two-term limitation, an addition to the constitution, was ratified last year.

Nurses Take Course

COBOURG (ENS) — Fifty-nine graduate nurses from various parts of the district attended the first lecture on atomic, biological and chemical warfare, held at the local collegiate. Six two-hour lectures comprise the series. Next Thursday evening, Dr. E. Braaten of the Eldorado Mining and Refining Co., Port Hope, will give an address on atomic bomb phenomena.

Council Meeting Clipped Short By Deer Hunt

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — One of the shortest council meetings to be held here this year took place in the council chambers on Monday evening.

Three members were absent and due to the importance of some questions to be discussed, the meeting was adjourned until Monday, November 10.

Two members, Reeve R. J. Locke and Deputy Reeve Oscar Mason were in the north country on a deer hunting trip. The other missing was Isobel C. Tatham, Campbellford's only lady councillor in history. Whether the call of the wild lured Mrs. Tatham to hunt deer, was not learned.

Although council did pass a couple of bylaws and transacted other minor business, no matters of contention were discussed.

The action of the chairman of the police committee in hiring a car for the use of the town police on Hallowe'en night was ratified, and a bylaw stopping up a lane in the town was passed.

ELECTION BYLAW

The election bylaw received its third reading, and appointments for the positions of poll clerks and D.R.O.'s were made. The nomination meeting for the municipal elections will be held on November 24, and election day has been set for December 1.

Location of polling subdivisions were decided on, and the clerk will make any substitutions or alterations that may become necessary.

Permission was granted the local branch of the Canadian Legion to hold a poppy tag day on November 8.

Council adjourned early to meet again on Novemer 10.

Bobcaygeon, Bethel Join In Omemee Party

OMEMEE (ENS)— Bobcaygeon and Bethel Young People's Unions were guests of Omemee Y.P.U. at a Hallowe'en party on Friday evening in the basement of Trinity United Church. All those in costume took part in a grand march and were judged by Mary Kennedy and Harold Beatty of Bobcaygeon, Sherman Harrison of Bethel, and the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Omemee. One of the most exciting events of the evening was a ghost walk planned by the Omemee members.

Contests and games were under the leadership of Kathryn Carnegie and Grace Ann Sibley. The worship service was conducted by Mary Kennedy, president of Bobcaygeon Y.P.U., her topic being "Late Model Wrecks Wanted." It dealt with the young people of today who have started on the wrong path in life.

After the worship service lunch was served by the Omemee Union.

Suggest Selling Part Of Market Square

BRANTFORD (CP) — Selling part of Brantford's market square to the federal government has been suggested to the city by government officials, Alderman John Noble said here last night.

In a city council meeting the alderman said federal authorities are considering building a new post office for Brantford and it is believed part of the market square may be wanted for a site.

Hold Stratford Man On Seven Charges

TORONTO (CP) — Henry Badgeley of Stratford was arrested here yesterday on seven charges of breaking, entering, theft and attempted theft in Stratford.

Stratford police said Badgeley is the sixth person arrested in connection with a recent series of break-ins. Four youths pleaded guilty Friday to 36 charges of breaking, entering and theft, they said.

TAME SEAGULL — A two-year-old gull, named Old Dick, is playing it smart on the Halifax waterfront. Tossing fear to the winds, he gets fed by fishcutters and young anglers. Billy Brewster offers a small fish to the bird whose feathers will turn to the grey-white plumage of a mature gull next year.

Britons Irked Cost Of Repairs Make Their Own

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—An "I-can-do-it-myself" movement is on in Britain—and retailers have found a new market.

Since the Second World War, an increasing number of British householders—stung by the high prices of professional decorators and in many cases by low standards of work—have decided to make their own repairs.

The result, a country-wide survey shows, is that 72 per cent of the population now can be classed as amateur painters, paper-hangers and carpet-layers.

And as more and more house-proud men and women roll up their sleeves weekly to tackle jobs of which they have little knowledge, big firms are supplying tools suitable for the amateur touch.

SALES RESISTANCE

The survey followed complaints by 1,221,600 workers and owners of decorating and allied businesses about unexpected sales resistance. Householders, often criticized by the press for "taking" bad service without complaint, apparently were making their disapproval felt in at least one section.

"Only municipal contracts are preventing a slump in building repair jobs," said a representative of the National Federation of Building Trade Employers.

The survey shows that at least 34 percent of the population have become paper-hangers—and paint manufacturers are quick to produce the necessary materials for amateur painters.

New cheap emulsion paints are on the market, so fast drying that three coats can be applied in one day. A new cellulose paint, dry in one hour and dust-free in 15 minutes, enables car owners to join the home-decorating trend.

BIG MARKET

The increasing importance of the amateur market is seen in numerous magazine articles on the tools required and the best approach to the varied jobs. More than 70,000,000 square feet of plywood will be produced within the year and "an immense proportion will go to the amateur market," says the Timber Association.

One firm in the Midlands is producing cheap furniture that can be assembled and painted at home. Seven pieces including chairs, table and bookcase cost just under £15.

Governor Dewey Tired But Happy Marathon Over

NEW YORK (AP) — Governor Thomas E. Dewey wound up an 18-hour television and radio campaign marathon last midnight with a declaration that "a new day for America lies ahead."

"I am tired but happy," Dewey told reporters at the end, "because I believe the American people are going to do the right thing."

The Republican governor still was swamped with questions from his audiences when he closed his campaign for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Going on the air at 6 a.m. EST, Dewey spent more than six hours before the TV cameras. He gave 22 talks, most of them 15 minutes long, and a two-hour wind-up broadcast.

Diseases Catching

COBOURG (ENS) — Twenty-four new cases of communicable disease were recorded for the week ending November 1 by the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit. Of these, 12 are mumps, five are chickenpox, three are jaundice. Two cases of red measles and scarlet fever complete the list.

Would The World Be Better Off?

The Ottawa Citizen records a curious opinion expressed by Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret while a case was being heard in the Supreme Court of Canada last week: the Chief Justice made it clear, in the course of some remarks, that he did not think that newspapers should be given any greater protection against damage suits than private individuals, and to this statement of opinion he added, "If they don't like it, let them not publish their newspapers and probably the world would be better off."

* * *

It would be foolish to discuss with deep seriousness a remark made in passing and possibly inspired by some momentary petulance; but it would be equally foolish for the newspapers of Canada to overlook the fact that this remark was made from the bench by the Chief Justice of Canada. Mr. Rinfret, like many secluded and highly-placed persons, may not like the press but we wonder if he has seriously considered what the civilized world would be like without it? The world has always demanded the most rapid and accurate dispersal of news and information; in spite of many mishaps, the dispersal of news and information through the press today is more rapid and accurate than at any time in history. If this task of dispersal is not carried on by the press, who does the Chief Justice imagine will do it? The radio, under government supervision? News bulletins issued under government authority? Countries where the dispersal of news has this authoritative character do not seem to be either happy or well-informed.

* * *

The press also provides a means for the circulation of opinion—the opinion of newspaper publishers, of people in public life, and of people who write to the press on matters which they believe to be of public interest and concern. The British Parliament is at present considering legislation to extend the scope of opinion which may be expressed in the correspondence columns of a newspaper without involving the paper itself in complex technical lawsuits. Does the Chief Justice have any suggestion to make as to how such a forum of opinion could be provided without a free press?

* * *

A petulant distaste for newspapers was regarded by some people, in the Victorian era, as characteristic of a refined and aristocratic intelligence, although it was plain to sturdier brains that newspapers were able to do a great deal of good; they played their part in broadening the freedoms of the people of Britain, and in Canada they were important agents in bringing about Confederation and the growth of Canadian independence. But newspapers today are solid facts, and not even the Chief Justice can get rid of them by suggesting that they cease publication rather than endure a few minor disabilities under the law. We are sorry that the Chief Justice thinks so poorly of the press and the only thing that we can recommend to cheer him is an examination of the Canadian press, as a whole, in comparison with the press of France, of Italy or even of Britain or the U.S.A. We think that he will find that, insofar as such a disagreeable fact as a free press may be good, the Canadian press is a very creditable one.

A-Hunting They Will Go

In this area the woods are full of animals. Since yesterday they have been full of men [illegible] hunting season. A person with the Peterborough-Kawartha temperament and pursuit of happiness might think that the opening of the hunting season is of no particular consequence except to a few dozen faddists. Not so; hereabouts it is an institution, and a prime factor in civic life.

Meetings are arranged to avoid conflict with the deer hunting season. Important civic business is tidied up before the hunt opens, or left in abeyance until the men come back. The usual coffee clubs on main street are disbanded. Many factory workers arrange to work all summer so that they can take their holiday now, and go hunting. Even some pulpits are voided for the week when the last hymn has been sung Sunday evening. In a half hour the preacher is in bush togs, heading for the woods, there to catch up with his cronies who had a day's start in making camp.

The number of carcases brought out may not compensate for the cost of the spree, but whatever the economic results, the memories and tales brought back are conspicuous. The social values more than make up for the dollar a pound venison proudly presented to the family larder, or so we are told. Only the hunters themselves can adequately assess these imponderable values; and obviously they rate them pretty highly, considering the discomforts they put themselves to, year after year, prancing through bush, rain, sleet and snow. However, there is a warm fire to return to in the hunting shack, and a cozy atmosphere there, with four to a bed and throat-soothing potions for their night caps.

To arm wives with some ammunition of their own to use against husband-hunters returning empty-handed, we take pleasure in pointing out that to our knowledge, wild life is plentiful this fall. In a village near Peterborough one housewife shot—well, struck down—a partridge with a broom; it had flown in her kitchen window. Another got a partridge roosting on the eave by a well-aimed blow of a mop handle. We ourself have seen in the last three days, almost at arm's length (a) a fox so big that it looked like a plump wolf, (b) a jack-rabbit which would have made six pies, (c) three flocks (at arm's length overhead!) of wild ducks, (d) a partridge in a pear tree. That proves, doesn't it, that deer must be plentiful?

The rapscallion hunters dare not return with excuses and no steaks. Ah! full as the woods may be of deer, they are also full of hunters and tall tales of near-misses. There may be more stories to go round the hunters than there are gentle deer.

Verdi In The Old South

Last week New York saw the first production of a curious work called My Darlin' Aida; it is a new operetta with play and lyrics by Charles Friedman, the music having been taken from Guiseppe Verdi's opera Aida. The critics whose opinions we have seen have not cared for the new work very greatly; it is spectacular, they say, and astonishing, but somehow unsatisfactory.

Music lovers know Verdi's Aida; it is a tale of love and death in which the captured Ethiopian princess, Aida, falls in love with the Egyptian army commander, Radames, and after many complications and a great deal of melodious and often extremely loud music they are sealed in a tomb to die together, because they have offended several powerful people. In My Darlin' Aida the action takes place in the Southern U.S.A. during the Civil War (delicately referred to as "the war between the states"); Aida is a beautiful slave girl, and her lover is a warrior in the Confederate Army. The critics speak of "shoddiness of style", and "stock tribulations", while paying tribute to some good singing.

What is wrong with the musical stage when it cannot produce new works, and falls back on distortions of opera? Carmen Jones was a brilliant stunt, but never more than that. My Darlin' Aida seems to be a muddle. We must agree with the critic of the New York Times, Mr. Brooks Atkinson, who says that "Sooner or later, theatre people will have to abandon this notion that everything exotic can be happily translated in terms of the American South." If new composers of genius cannot be found, why should Verdi undergo this violent transmogrification, to conceal our musical poverty?

Training Accident

Accidents happen to young service men in training camps, as they happen to people everywhere. In training there are likely to be more serious mishaps because the machines and equipment are dangerous and delicate.

After a casualty in training, a military court of inquiry is held to establish why the accident happened. Such an investigation will be made into the regrettable air crash in Alberta, in which a young Peterborough flight cadet and an experienced French officer of instruction lost their lives. The Air Force and the civil authority should satisfy themselves and assure the public that accidents do not occur because of any preventable imperfection of equipment, any lack of thoroughness in briefing and preliminary training, or any technical fault which staff care could have avoided. [illegible] are doubly regettable, since no experimental machines or methods are used which increase the hazards.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Eisenhower says that "Waste is not a necessary part of government," but this should not be held against him. He'll learn.

A gloomy prophet foresees that by 1960 there will be more cars in Canada than the roads can hold. But this will only mean more cars in the ditch. There's always a solution.

A recent Gallup Poll investigation reveals that 22 per cent. of people questioned think Montreal the "most interesting" city in Canada as compared with 13 per cent. who hold this opinion about Toronto. And how are we, in cities of comparatively small population, expected to expand our civic chests in such a competition? The most interesting city, obviously, is the one where you know most unprintable facts about most people.

Attlee Received In Vacant Lot

By HUGH LATIMER

COLOUR prejudice in Northern Rhodesia is not the worst in the world. But it is probably the worst in any British colony.

Even in South Africa it is not yet forbidden for a non-European to walk into a shop and buy what he likes (unless what he likes is a book.) But it is so in Lusaka, the Northern Rhodesian capital. Africans have to queue up in a muddy alley outside the shop to reach a grill whence they can just glimpse the assistant and must try to attract her attention.

YET THIS POLICY may bring about its downfall. There are two main classes of shopkeepers, Indians and South African Jews. The Indians in Rhodesia do not operate a colour-bar against themselves, and they seem to be doing very good business. And what is significant is that the latest European-owned shop to be opened in Lusaka, a chemist's, does not operate a colour-bar.

But elsewhere the bar is gaining ground with the entry of more and more Afrikaner (Boer) immigrants from South Africa. Two years ago cinemas used to admit Africans and Indians; now they are shut out. An educated man has no opportunity of seeing any film other than those suitable for his location recreation hut.

A SOMEWHAT COMICAL local censorship is operated on cinema posters displayed to public view. One reclining Hollywood beauty whom I saw in Ndola had been given, in chalk, the addition of a rather garish black and red skirt. Inside the cinema, reserved for Europeans only, the complete version of the poster was to be seen. It was not nearly as exciting.

Hotels of course are closed to coloured folk. The Indian community, when it gave an official reception the other day to Mr. Clement Attlee, leader of the Opposition Party in Britain, had to have recourse to a covered-in structure of iron girders on a vacant lot. Leaders of African opinion can be met only in a couple of dingy wooden huts three miles out of town.

THE BANKS also work an apartheid system, a little door to the side of the main entrance being reserved for non-Europeans, Barclay's Bank, which was built first, marks its door in Lusaka with the older-fashioned term "Natives." The Standard Bank of South Africa uses the more correct "Africans." Africans say they are not particular.

There is complete segregation in housing. Coloured (half-caste) families, for instance, have to await the completion of a separate coloured location.

PASSES are required by Africans for travelling at night to the compounds where they live. Thus the African staff of a newspaper have to have passes for travelling to and from work. Police admit privately that this system is unnecessary.

The nicest example of a colour bar which came to my notice was canine, not human. It was in a country district. On his collar the subject sported the official notice "District European Dog."

THE AFRICAN who wants the vote must first become a naturalized British subject—at present he is only a "British protected person." This will cost him five pounds. Then he has to have an income qualification of not less than two hundred and fifty pounds a year. So far only eight have qualified.

Indians, for some reason I have not been able to discover, are not allowed to bring their wives from India until they have been in the country three years.

THERE IS economic discrimination too. No African does the same job as a European at the same wages. The African gets a lower price for maize and is forced to do contour ridging, which the European farmer is not. The highest paid Africans in the main branches of the civil service are clerks and assistance veterinary officers with a salary of about two hundred pounds a year.

In economic matters there is some justification for discrimination. It is true in Northern Rhodesia, as it is not in South Africa, that ninety-four per cent of the African population is so backward as to require special protection. The African pays no income-tax, only a poll tax, regardless of his wealth.

But this is no excuse for the Northern Rhodesian policy of holding back the one per cent whose numbers are bound to grow.

IT IS THE FIXED policy of the educational department, for instance, never to send Africans who merit university education to Britain when it can be avoided. This despite the fact that British university education actually costs the local government less. The African farmer is not given the option of being treated on the same terms as the European, income tax included.

SETTLERS in Africa criticise the British Government, rightly, for putting the political development of the African before his social and economic development. At present the best course for an African who wants to become rich is to become a politician. Unless something is done quickly to [illegible] true equality between the [illegible] and economic level, the [illegible] of Central Africa will become indistinguishable from the apartheid policy of Dr. Malan (Prime Minister of South Africa.)

A minister, walking beside a stream one Sunday, saw a small boy fishing. He went up to the boy and said: "My boy, don't you know it is not right to be fishing on Sunday; and besides, it is very cruel to insert that sharp hook into the poor beetle?"

"Oh," said the boy, "that ain't no beetle. It's only an imitation bug."

"I thought it was a real beetle."

The boy lifted a string of fish out of the water. "So did these other suckers."

How The U.S. Votes:

The Examiner's Guide To Today's Elections

Prepared Specially by KENNETH HARRIS

(Copyright)

THE AMERICAN voter who enters the polling-booth today will vote in several elections simultaneously, in a national, a State, a district (Parliamentary constituency), and possibly in a county and in a municipal election.

On his ballot-form there is a space for him to cast his vote in the Presidential election; for a Congressman to represent his district in the national House of Representatives (the Lower Chamber), whose 435 members are elected every two years; for a Senator to represent his State in the national Senate, if it happens that one of his State's two Senate seats (each of the 48 States has two seats in the Senate) is among the third of the Senate seats which come up in rotation every two years; for a new Governor for his State, if the present Governor's term of office is up; for a new State Congress and a new State Senate; and, depending on local rules, for a new Mayor for his town, and a new set of administrators for his county.

The Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates are chosen not by direct, but by indirect, election. The voter casts his vote for one of two "slates" or "State electors" one slate marked as Republican and the other as Democrat. The number of "electors" on the slate corresponds to the number of electoral votes which the State is entitled to cast in the national electoral college, the number being based on the population of that State. New York, the most populous State, has forty-five electoral votes; Nevada, the least populated, has three.

THOUGH the forty-eight slates of electors who are chosen to cast the votes of their respective States do not go through the formality of casting their electoral votes until early December, the result of the election is known as soon as these slates have been chosen—today.

This is so because everybody knows in advance that the electors of those States where the popular vote has chosen a Democratic "slate" will cast their State's quota of electoral votes for the Democratic Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates, and since every State's quota of electoral votes is fixed in advance of the election it is just a matter of adding up the electoral votes of the States which have "gone" Democratic, or of those which have "gone" Republican, to see who is going to be President. To be elected the candidate must win a simple majority of the electoral college—266 out of 531.

Though they have often been disappointed, each party counts on the support of a regional group of States — the Republicans on the Middle West, and the Democrats on the South —both parties fighting for enough extra support elsewhere to swing them into power.

The Democrats, if they can carry the eleven States of the Old South and the six "border" States which lie between the Old South and the Old North, collect 176 electoral votes—ninety short of a majority. For the balance, they look to the "key States".

THE "key" States are those which, because of their big population, have a preponderant bloc of electoral votes and which, because of the way in which the balance of power within them shifts between the various racial, economic, and religious groups, are to be found sometimes within the Republican, sometimes within the Democratic camp.

Particularly in such a close year as this promises to be New York and California are the most important of the key States. New York alone could give Stevenson forty-five of the extra ninety votes he would need if he managed to carry the South and Border States. California, plus any other medium-sized States outside the South, would clinch it.

Stevenson could lose New York and still be elected—as Mr. Truman was in 1948—if he could win California. But nobody has ever been elected who lost both New York and California.

NEW YORK is considered essential to the Republicans. It is mathematically possible for a Republican to be elected without winning New York, but nobody has done it since 1876.

Since the voting in New York City usually decides how New York State goes, it might be described as the key city. The Democrats must carry it by a majority of about four to one if they are to overcome the majority which the Republicans pile up in the rural areas of the State.

The new President will be virtually elected today and formally elected early in December. But he will not assume Presidential responsibilities or exercise Presidential powers until January 20, when he is "inaugurated". The first official statement of his Administration's policy comes on that day, when he delivers his "inaugural address". Until that day, the old President remains the chief executive of the United States.

One In Eight Voted

(Edmonton Journal)

The anticipated decrease in interest in Edmonton municipal elections was shown this week by the voting figures. Only 12.6 per cent. of the registered electors took the trouble to go to the polls. That means only one out of every eight citizens took enough interest in the election of five aldermen to mark a ballot.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Wherefore do the wicked live, become old, yea, are mighty in power? . . . They spend their days in wealth, and in a moment go down to the grave. Therefore they say unto God, Depart from us; for we desire not the knowledge of thy ways.

What is the Almighty, that we should serve him? and what profit should we have, if we pray unto him? . . . How oft is the candle of the wicked put out! and how oft cometh their destruction upon them! . . . They are as stubble before the wind, and as chaff that the storm carrieth away. (Job 21:7, 13-15, 17, 18.)

Say ye to the righteous, that it shall be well with him: for they shall eat the fruit of their doings. Woe unto the wicked! it shall be ill with him: for the reward of his hands shall be given him. (Isa. 3:10, 11.)

The wicked worketh a deceitful work: but to him that soweth righteousness shall be a sure reward. As righteousness tendeth to life: so he that pursueth evil pursueth it to his own death. (Prov. 11:18, 19.)

Nothing Really New

(Brantford Expositor)

In an attempt to lure people away from their living-room television sets and into motion picture theatres, the movie industry has devised a new type of three-dimensional effect. Called Cinerama, the process recently had its first showing in New York where it was greeted with enthusiasm by the public and by the critics. Although the film itself was devoid of plot and relied chiefly upon producing among members of the audience a feeling that they were actually participating in the events being depicted on the mammoth curved screen, the technique opens up remarkable new avenues along the road of progress in the motion picture industry.

But three-dimensional movies are not new, by any means. In fact, a three-dimensional motion picture was exhibited in London about 38 years ago, and in a form would make the new Cinerama process already obsolete.

According to The St. Thomas Times-Journal, the invention, described as "Kineplastikon" was shown for a long run at the Scala Theatre. "The most remarkable feature about it was that there was no screen," The Journal continues. "The film was put through a projector in the ordinary way, the auditorium was darkened, but the stage was illuminated, and the players emerged from the wings just like ordinary actors. They walked about the stage, talking, singing, dancing or playing musical instruments, the presentation looked so like a real stage performance that a patron entering the auditorium and not knowing he was going to see a movie would have thought he was looking at living people. Not only was the stage setting also real looking, but dyalogue and music were synchronized, so that in addition to three-dimensional film without a screen, there was sound as well. Thus two great developments were presented at the same time, either of which marked a new epoch in movie entertainment. To add to the illusion, the players would walk off the stage, and in response to the expected applause, return to take a bow."

But the secret of this new process belonged to the inventor only and he carried it to an early grave when he was killed in the First World War. Many executives in Hollywood would probably give their right arm to be able to duplicate the technique. Even the dullest film would take on new life if exhibited in this way.

"Nice fellow that, but he always lets somebody else pick up the dinner check."

"Yeah; lifelong impediment in his reach."

Protest Granting Licence For Power Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National St. Lawrence Project Conference has protested the granting of a licence asked by New York State's power authority to build a hydro-electric project on the St Lawrence River.

The conference, which includes railroad and coal interests, filed its protest with the Federal Power Commission Oct. 30. It asked that it be permitted to intervene in the New York state application and asked that a hearing be held.

New York state has asked that it be designated to join the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission in building the project at the international rapids section of the river, near Massena, N.Y. The International Joint Commission gave preliminary approval to the project last week.

A power commission spokesman said petitions of protest and requests for a hearing have been filed also by the St. Lawrence River Power Co., a subsidiary of the Aluminum Company of America (Alcoa), by Alcoa itself, and by the National Coal Association.

CREW RESCUED — Crew members of the Swedish vessel Ryholm rest up aboard the Swiss freighter Basilea which rescued them after she collided with the Ryholm in the St. Lawrence River. The Ryholm was hit amidships and sank in about 25 feet of water 23 miles east of Quebec city. No lives were lost. The 27 Swedish seamen are expected to be returned to Sweden from Montreal where they were brought following the collision.

Explosion Rips Sub-Station

WIDEN, W.Va. (AP) — A mysterious explosion ripped the power sub-station of a strike-torn coal mining firm near here last night.

The mine, belonging to the Elk River Coal and Lumber Co., has been the scene of violence several times recently.

Gene George, administrative assistant, estimated damage at $35,000. He said no injuries were reported.

Part of the mine working force of 700 has been idle for about eight weeks, while others have continued to work. Strikers have said they want to be represented by the United Mine Workers. The miners belong to an independent union.

No Strong Opinions About Americans

TORONTO (CP)—Most senior students in Canadian high schools have no pronounced opinions about Americans, a survey across Canada reveals.

Newfoundland students are the most pro-American in Canada, while those in Ontario are only lukewarm, The eight other provinces fall between the two

The survey, first ever undertaken in the country on the subject, was made by Professor J. E. M. Young, professor of education at Brandon college His findings formed the basis of a thesis which won for him his doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Toronto. The thesis has just been published in the quarterly journal, Canadian Education

2 Ships Collide None Injured

QUEBEC (CP)—The 6,000-ton coal-carrier North Bay, with a crew of 34, last night collided with the Greek cargo ship Vasilis at the entrance of Louise Basin in Quebec harbor. No one was reported injured.

The North Bay, which was returning to Sydney, N.S., after unloading her cargo, suffered a damaged bow and was anchored. The Vasilis, flying a Panamanian flag, continued to Montreal.

Earlier in the day, the schooners Comte de Matane and Mechins collided at the same spot and were damaged considerably, but no injuries were reported.

See Plane Battle Believe One Russian

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese newspaper Asahi said two airplanes battled off the northeastern coast of Japan today and that eyewitnesses reported they believed one was Russian and the other American.

U.S. Far East Air Forces had no comment.

The newspaper said the action was in the area where a U.S. air force B-29 disappeared last month after its track on radar crossed with the tracks of an unidentified plane.

Spanish Chiefs Approve Pact

MADRID (AP)—Spain's top military and political chieftains met under Generalissimo Franco Saturday and gave final approval to the draft of an agreement giving the United States bases in Spain in exchange for financial aid.

A reliable source reporting this said "all difficulties have been eliminated and, barring new developments, the accord should be signed before the end of the month."

The informant said Foreign Minister Alberto Artajo was authorized to draft a formal accord with U.S. Ambassador Lincoln Macveagh based on the agreement reached between technicians of the two countries.

Pipeline Operating

MONTREAL (CP)—Oil flowed yesterday at a rate of 40,000 barrels a day through Canada's newest pipeline, running 450 miles from Montreal to Hamilton. The line was built to move oil to Ontario during the five months that lake shipping is shut down. If necessary, its flow can be reversed to bring crude oil from Western Canada to refineries here.

Apsley Friends Honor Bride-To-Be

APSLEY— (ENS) —About 20 friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Ross Reynolds to honor Miss Marie Tucker a bride elect of this month with a kitchen shower.

The majority of those present have attended both public and nigh school with her.

The evening was spent playing bingo, crockinole, table hockey, canasta, fortune telling and round and square dancing.

When the gifts had been presented, unwrapped and admired, Miss Tucker thanked her young friends for their gifts and good wishes. Lunch was served by Mrs. Reynolds and helpers.

Saves 3 Lives

MONTREAL (CP)—An unknown passer-by who rang in a fire alarm is credited with saving the lives of a woman and her two young sons, found partially asphyxiated in a room of their apartment. Firemen yesterday found Norman, 5, and Michel, 3, lying unconscious in the blazing room and Mrs. Therese Shank, 21, partly conscious and burned about the face and hands. The three were rushed to hospital where their condition was later reported "much improved."

RYHOLM SINKS—The 741-ton Swedish freighter Ryholm sinks in 25 feet of water in the St .Lawrence River, 23 miles east of Quebec city, shortly after she collided with the 5,761-ton Swiss freighter Basilea. The large gash in the ship's bow and the stump of the smashed mast are visible in this photo taken by a crew member of the ice-breaker N. B. McLean which answered the Ryholm's distress signal. No lives were lost. The 27 seamen on the Ryholm were rescued by the Basilea which took them to Montreal.

Mrs. Colin Campbell Dies In Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Mrs. Colin H. Campbell, outstanding leader in women's organizations and widow of a former attorney-general of Manitoba, died yesterday. She was 87.

Mrs. Campbell had been a member of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, since 1908. For 65 years she lived in Winnipeg, where she opened the first nutrition course.

Mrs. Campbell was born at Palermo near Oakville.

6th Accident Death

TORONTO (CP)—An army truck collision Sept. 6 near Meaford claimed its sixth victim Sunday with the death in hospital of Jack Mino, 26, of Meaford. The canvas-covered truck was carrying about 40 members of the Royal Canadian Armored Corps school when it crashed into two trees on the roadside. Four of the men were killed in the crash and a fifth died next day.

Government Rests Case

NEW YORK (AP)—The government has rested its case, almost two years after the trial started, in its civil anti-trust suit against 17 Wall Street investment banking firms. The government ended its case Monday. There was no indication how long it would take the defence to present its side. The defendants are charged with conspiracy to monopolize the securities business.

LONDON (AP)—The Moscow Radio said last night that construction has started in Moscow on what will be the "highest building in Europe," 902 feet high. The structure, which will provide 2,000 offices, is going up on the Moscow River bank near Red Square. It will occupy a whole block.

Norwood L.O.L. Holds Variety Show

NORWOOD (ENS) —On Friday evening a Variety Show was held in the Norwood Town Hall, sponsored by the Norwood L.O.L. No. 34 under the direction of Miss Bette Kales.

The highlight of the evening was the baby show of which Katheryn Elliott won first prize. Second prize was won by Larry Heffernan and third by Bruce Montgomery.

Elected President

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj. G. B. Macgillivray of Toronto has been elected president of the Canadian Military Inteligence Association. At the annual meeting last week, Col. W. W. Murray, M.C. and bar, Ottawa, and Col. Peter Wright, O.B.E., Toronto, were elected honorary vice-presidents.

Reaume Runs Again

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Arthur J. Reaume, who won his sixth consecutive term as mayor of Windsor by a 16-vote margin on a recount, announced yesterday he will try for the post again in the Dec. 1 municipal election. Lawyer Thomas Brophey, whose apparent 35-vote margin was upset by the 1950 recount, has already thrown his hat in the ring. Alderman Robert J. Newell has announced he also will contest the mayoralty.

Journalist Dies

OTTAWA (CP)—James Henry, veteran agricultural journalist and associate editor of the Ottawa Farm Journal, died here Sunday in hospital. He was 93 and was writing in his office almost daily until going to hospital about a month ago. Funeral services will be held here Wednesday.

Army Announces 21 Decorations Won In Korean War

OTTAWA (CP)—The army today announced its largest periodic awards list of the Korean War, topped by decorations to five former unit commanding officers and a couple of courageous non-commissioned officers.

At the head of the list of 21 decorations were two awards of the Distinguished Service Order, the fourth and fifth awarded in the two years the Canadians have been fighting.

They went to Lt.-Col. Norman G. Wilson-Smith, M.B.E., of Winnipeg and Calgary, for gallantry and leadership while commanding the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and to Maj. Victor W. Jewkes, M.C., of St. John's, Que., who demonstrated the same qualities while commanding the Brigade's armored squadron.

GALLANTRY AWARDS

At the bottom of the list, but unsurpassed in gallantry, were the two N.C.O.s.

Cpl. James Rimmer of the 1st Battalion, P.P.C.L.I., a tough infantryman from Foam Lake, Sask., and Wymesold, England, won the Military Medal for "cool and exemplary" soldiering as leader of a mortar section. In particular his citation mentioned one time when he ignored heavy fire to complete a patrol, then got his heavily-attacked section back to safety; another time when he exposed himself repeatedly under tremendous shelling to play a large role in holding an attacked position.

Sgt. George William Elliott of Vancouver and North Battleford, Sask., a stretcher-bearer with the same unit, won the British Empire Medal because he never left a wounded man without care, repeatedly took risks to go to the aid of his fellows and "undoubtedly saved the lives of many wounded."

89 DECORATIONS

The list raised to 89 the number of decorations awarded to Canadian soldiers in Korea. Another 63 have been mentioned in dispatches. Today's list includes the 8th [illegible] of the same order, raising the total to 17; two Military Crosses, one Military Medal and two British Empire Medals. Most of the 21 on today's list have returned to Canada.

Col. Wilson-Smith's citation lauded his "coolness under fire. . . His disregard for personal safety and his determination." It said he made an "outstanding contribution to the efficiency of the whole brigade."

Maj. Jewkes was cited for "indefatigable" courage in seeing that his Lord Strathcona's tanks gave the closest possible support to the infantry.

The other awards:

O. B. E.

Lt.-Col. Gordon C. Corbould, D.S.O., of New Westminster, B.C., as C.O. of the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment.

Lt.-Col. Joseph A.A.G. Vallee of Quebec City, as a company commander and later officer commanding the 2nd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment.

M. B. E.

Maj. Albert J. Abbott, Port au Port, Nfld., Royal Canadian Engineers.

Maj. James C. Allan, D.S.O., 1st Battalion, P.P.C.L.I.

Maj. Harold Ball, Consort, Alta., R.C.E.

Maj. Henry Brodie, Ottawa and Hamilton, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps.

Maj. James S. Hitsman, Kingston, Ont., Royal Canadian Army [illegible] John R. McLarnon, London and Ottawa, Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers.

Capt. Harold E. McLaughlin, Toronto, R.C.E.M.E.

Capt. Walter Wheeler, Dodsland and Holdfast, Sask., Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

WO. Robert Armishaw, Ottawa and Kingston, 2nd Artillery Regiment.

WO. John M. Fernets, Canora, Sask., and Kimberley, B.C., R.C.E.M.E.

M. C.

Capt. Roland Leclerc, Rimouski, Que., 2nd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment.

B. E. M.

Sgt. Malcolm S. Haynes, London, Ont., R.C.A.S.C.

Says Annexation Severe Blow

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Annexation on the scale proposed by the city would "seriously affect" London township's financial ability to "carry on," a Toronto planning expert said yesterday.

Alan Deacon, a member and consultant to several planning organizations, contended also that the city doesn't need annexation, although he could see it was attractive from London's own standpoint.

Mr. Deacon was a township witness as the Ontario Municipal board resumed its hearing of London's application to take over some 8,700 acres of township land.

The hearing started Sept. 24 and was adjourned Sept. 26 until yesterday. W. J. Moore and R. H. Yeates, the men hearing the case, adjourned it again until Wednesday when the arguments of city, township and Middlesex county lawyers will be heard. The board's decision is likely to be announced early next year.

Four clubs go this O.H.A. junior "B" season in Central Ontario, the Peterborough Oddfellows, Lindsay, Belleville and Kingston. Schedule, which appears tonight, commences here on Friday with Lindsay playing the Triple Links. Season runs till the middle of February with playoffs taking another three weeks or so. Kingston is reported by Max Jackson to be a potent young pack, and the Quinte entry should be strong, getting help from Galt through Chicago Hawks. Lindsay is an unknown quality yet. I.O.O.F. drills have shown plenty of promising material, and the local team should win its share of games. The boys are big, young and with speed to burn.

* * * * * *

Hockey of the Trent Valley League variety will be seen here each Wednesday night from now till out in December. Twin bills at Civic once a week in a pre-season series for a trophy. Games on the morrow, commencing at 7:30, are. Lakefield vs. Norwood, and Hastings vs. Havelock. It's quite a short series actually, with Nov. 26 and Dec. 3 set aside for playoffs between the top two teams, goals to count in the two-game set. A lot of Peterborough puckists of O.H.A. junior, intermediate and senior calibre dot these T.V.L. lineups, which should make it interesting for local fans, the district followers also having their homebrews to cheer along.

Ghosts Go To Omemee

Oshawa's George Campbell writes: "What we have suspected for several weeks has now come out in print. The future of the Cobourg Ghosts in O.R.F.U. activity is very uncertain. If they win the Ontario 'B' championship, they may carry on, but if they get knocked off by Kitchener in their title series don't be surprised if Cobourg folds up. It's no secret that one of the main rugby sponsors in Cobourg is seriously considering moving their plant back to Omemee where the Edwards & Edwards tannery was formerly located. Several key men of that firm have long been the big boosters of football in Cobourg. And the expense of operating a team is beginning to tell. We can predict this, too—if Cobourg drops out, then Peterborough will likely join the senior O.R.F.U., and Oshawa Raiders will follow the Ghosts into the extinct group."

* * * * * *

Hm, interesting, if true. Cobourg has certainly been crying because of "the unexpected strength shown this year by the Orfuns", and they may well hang 'em up this autumn. Which would wreck our group completely, as Orillia quit a years ago and Oshawa is about ready to toss in the towel. Too much expense, too few fans. But we doubt if Orfuns would seriously consider stepping up to senior ranks. That's really an expensive proposition with a lot of imports needed, and regular trips to spots like Toronto, Brantford and Sarnia. A short season in senior football runs into many thousands of dollars in expenses.

* * * * * *

But Never a Massacre

Naturally, the Rapid Wraiths were quite disappointed at losing out to Peterborough this fall, but after all the Orfuns had to wait a long time. By beating good teams like Cobourg and, last Saturday, Hamilton Panthers here, the local gridders showed they were pretty good, too. Officials of the Ghosts were over-confident as the season started, inviting us to "come down and see the massacre when Peterborough plays in Cobourg," and that sort of thing. There were no massacres in evidence between these clubs all season. Ghosts, packed to the hilt and under a good coach, had a fine squad—but Orfuns were a little better. One should take nothing for granted in sports.

* * * * * *

Football is finished at St. Peter's High for this year, and the school had a successful season, Seniors beat St. Mike's to win the Catholic Conference of Ontario again, and the junior S.P.S. lads lost but two tilts in their schedule, bowing out to the classy Oshawa Central crew. St. Peter's stepped up to C.O.S.S.A. junior "A" competition this year, though just a "B" school from the point of enrolment, and did well. Didn't have the reserve strength when hit by injuries, and had to use boys playing football for the first time in their lives. Coach Johnny Lynch turned in a real chore with the material available.

FIVE TEAMS SEEK TITLE

TORONTO (CP)—Five teams, four in the east and one in the west, remain in the running for the intermediate football championship of Canada.

Bill Fry, assigned by the Canadian Rugby Union to organize the intermediate final, said yesterday that only the west has its representative ready for the east-west intermediate game at Winnipeg, Nov. 22. Norwood Legionnaires, from the Winnipeg area, will represent the west.

The eastern championship will be decided Nov. 15, in a sudden-death game between the Ontario and Quebec champions. The Ontario title will be settled this Saturday when Peterborough Orphans play Hamilton Panthers in the second game of a home-and-home total-points series which Peterborough leads 25-10.

The Quebec sudden-death final is at Verdun next Sunday between Ottawa Rough Riders seconds and Montreal Lakeshore.

PROTEST UPHELD

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association has upheld a Kitchener-Waterloo protest in the junior A league against a referee's ruling in a game with Guelph. The association yesterday ordered part of the Oct. 10 game replayed because of a penalty-shot ruling. The referee ruled that a Kitchener player taking the penalty shot couldn't go in on the goalie past the red line. The game will start with the penalty shot and the game finished from that point. The score was 2-2 at the time. The replay will be in Guelph Dec. 19.

UPSET FOR BRISEBOIS

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Marcel Brisebois, s l u g g i n g Montreal welterweight, staggered heavily-favored Bernard Docusen of New Orleans in the fifth round last night and went on to win a unanimous upset decision in their 10-round boxing match here. Brisebois, a 4-to-1 underdog, cut Docusen's eye in the sixth round after being outpointed in the early rounds. Docusen weighed 147½, Brisebois 146½.

French [illegible] contender, whipped Eugene Hairston of New York in a one-sided international bout last night. Humez, former welterweight champion who gave up the title last year when he became overweight, gave the New York Negro deaf mute a terrific beating. Both fighters weighed 159 pounds.

June Moore Leads

June Moore led in singles with 344 this week in the Girls' City Bowling League, as Mickey Bailey had high three of 747. R. Wilson's 489 hit the blind score on the button. Black's topped teams with 3086 and high single of 1191. Curtin's blanked Collis, as 2-1 wins went to Black's, Bassel's, Marines and Aces over Cardinals, Austin's, Sevenaires, and Arcos.

Good singles included: K. Beatty 295 266, B. Morrow 291, M. Sanderson 277, M. Behan 273, A. Barnes 272, M. Bailey 266 and 265, A. Dixon 266, and M. Knights 261. Neat triples were: J. Moore 711, K. Beatty 700, M. Selkirk 691 B. Morrow 674, E. Rishor 664, M Sanderson 655, and A. Barnes 654.

VICTORY SMILES — Three Winnipeg Blue Bombers flash victory smiles following their 28-12 victory over Edmonton Eskimos at Edmonton in the first game of the best-of-three Western Interprovincial Conference playoff. Quarterback Indian Jack Jacobs (centre) passed for two touchdowns and kicked eight points. At left is halfback Tommy Ford, a two-touchdown performer and end Gerry Palmer, a dependable cog in the Winnipeg machine, is at right. Second game in the series is at Winnipeg Saturday.

LOSING EFFORT—Substantial ground gains by Edmonton Eskimos' Normie (China Clipper) Kwong weren't enough to ward off a 28-12 defeat by Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the first game of the best-of-three Western Interprovincial Conference series. Kwong heads for the turf after a sweep around end took him five yards. Pushing him is Winnipeg's Tom Casey. A Bomber player sprawls in front of the referee. The second game is at Winnipeg Saturday.

List Standings For Senior OHA

TORONTO (CP)—Official standings of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A league, including games up to and including Nov. 1:

(Standing includes Oct. 24 game between Brantford and Owen Sound which was awarded to Owen Sound. Brantford led 5-3. The game's goals are not entered in the for and against columns but the players' records count).

City Carpetball

The schedule for the week of November 10: Glens 1 v. S.O.E. 8, Fire Hall 4 v. Legion 12, Legion 5 v. Fire Hall 9, Legion 7 v. Legion 3, Legion 10 v. Orphans 2, Red Patch 11 v L.O.L. 6.

Results of last week's play: Legion 10 was at home against the Orange team; L.O.L. captured the first 11-8 and lost the second to No. 10 by a score of 10-13.

Two Legion teams met and No. 12 was leading but failed in the last three ends when Legion 7 scored a total of 10 points to take the game 12-9. No. 7 went on to take the second game by a score of 18-6, which saw a big seven-end tallied by No. 7 in the fifth.

Legion 5 had as their guests the Orphans and they treated the Orphans badly, taking the first 11-6 and almost blanked them in the second by a score of 19-1, and that one was scored in the 11th frame.

At the Fire Hall, Smokeaters 4 won two tight games from S.O.E. [illegible] 12-8 and 13-9.

The Glens 1 met Legion 3, and a split resulted, No. 3 taking the first game 13-9 by virtue of a five-end. The second game was tied going into the final end and No. 1 emerged the victor 10-8.

The postponed game between Red Patch 11 and Legion 12 was played. No. 12 won the first game by scoring a three in the last end to win 10-9. No. 11 came back and made it a split by capturing the second 14-9.

The other game postponed from the first week of play was defaulted by L.O.L. 6 to Legion 5.

Red Patch have two games not reported, one with Legion 3 and the other with Fire Hall 9. These games must be played at once, along with newest scheduled games.

Entry fees have been paid by the S.O.E. and both Fire Hall teams. How about your team?

Standing up to November 3:

Tigers Haven't Won Yet Bow To Sarnia Sailors 4-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Tigers may soon be known as the "winless wonders" in the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series. In their first four times out in the young season, they haven't won a game and have scored only five goals compared to 35 in the against column.

They were the medium last night for Sarnia Sailors to move out of a three-way tie for second place into a first-place tie with Chatham St. Clair Maroons. The Gobs, paced by Jim Wilson, won 4-2.

In the only other senior game of the night, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds broke into the win column in the Northen Ontario Hockey Association's southern group with a 6-4 victory over the league-leading North Bay Trappers.

WILSON SPARKPLUG

At Hamilton, Wilson figured in all four Sarnia tallies. He assisted on three and scored one himself. His linemates Chuck Glaab and Pete Payette also figured in three. Glaab scored two and Payette assisted in two. Harry O'Connor netted the fourth for the tars.

Hugo Bolzen scored in the second period for Hamilton with Hammond netting the second late in the final session.

At North Bay the Sault built up a 3-0 first-period lead but in the middle stanza the Trappers closed the gap to 4-3. In the final period the Sault scored two in the first 10 minutes and settled down to defensive play.

Cubs Name Merullo To Scouting Staff

The 34-year-old Merullo played for the Cubs from 1941 to 1948.

The Cubs also signed Ralph Di Lullo, 40, of Patterson, N.J., to eastern scouting duties.

Lakeshore Hockey To Open Next Week

PORT HOPE — The Lakeshore Hockey League will be the largest in its history this season with the former four-team circuit being increased to six through the addition of Orono and Trenton R.C.A.F. Other teams in the group are Port Hope, Cobourg, Lindsay and Bowmanville.

Another history-making point will be the early opening dates. With all teams but Orono playing on artificial ice, the schedule will open during the week of November 9, over a month earlier than at any time in the past.

O.H.A. convener Frank Buckland, of Peterborough, presided over the meeting Sunday when the schedule was drawn up. Each team will play two games a week, one at home and one away. The schedule will end the third week in February and the playoffs will put the first against the fourth and the second against the third [illegible]

Chief Big Heart Tops Mat Card

Chief Big Heart, the sensational Osage Indian wrestler, will oppose Lee Henning, the bashing, Iowa Cornhusker, in the feature match of the wrestling card at the Brock here on Wednesday night, when the wrestlers will return to Peterborough for the forthcoming season.

Chief Big Heart is a full-blooded Indian, from Oklahoma. His specialities are the bow-and-arrow hold and the Indian deathlock. The colorful Indian athlete does his tribal war dance before his matches, accompanied by his father on the tom-tom.

Larruping Lou Plummer, Texas ranch-hand, will meet Jim Coffield of Georgia, in the semi-final. Jack Pesek (mistakingly listed as Pethick), son of mat great John Pesek, will meet Dick Raines of Dallas, in the first bout.

Grid Picture Complicated In Niagara District As C.O.S.S.A. Playoffs Near

Football situation in the C.O.S.S.A. is getting rather complicated in the Niagara district as the final championship game looms up in less than two weeks' time. There's more than a good chance that the Niagara district leadership will end in a tie between Stamford and Port Colborne. Opportunists, the Port Colborne seniors assured their followers at least a tie for the C.O.S.S.A. Niagara district honors Monday by edging past Stamford 6-3. They took advantage of all fumbles by Stamford to win.

This means that Stamford must defeat Welland to tie the Port Colborne lads for top spot. In that event, a sudden-death game would be necessary to declare a winner. That's where the complication begins.

Time before the final game is less and less each day and a number of games must be played. For instance, Stamford must play Welland; then there's that deciding game. But in addition there's a quarter final sudden-deather with Oakville and another series with the Georgian Bay winners, either Orillia or Barrie.

TIME TOO SHORT

Coach Bev Goulding, P.C.V.S. Garnet and Greys who are awaiting the championship game, said today when he heard Monday's result, "That really complicates things; there are not enough days left before the final. I don't want to wait another week; the final November 15 is long enough already."

Coach Goulding pointed out that the Georgian Bay winners in the "A" grouping are weaker than the "B" Alliston team which P.C.V.S. defeated handily in Red Feather playoffs. If this district does play Niagara's winners, the game will be played in the home town of the Georgian Bay winner.

WANT A GAME

Meanwhile the Garnet and Greys, already in the final game, are trying to fill in a weekend vacancy caused by Belleville Collegiate withdrawing from district play. They'll likely be playing a Toronto district team or a local district senior club.

Leading, 6-3, in the final minute of play, Port Colborne almost had to settle for a tie when Don Read attempted a dropkick field goal from the Port 35. The kick was straight but just an inch short as it hit the crossbar and bounced back. Stamford then recovered the ball on a fumble but a second placement attempt by Read from the 20 went wide and was carried out as the game ended.

Once again it was quarterback Ezra Ginther who accounted for all of Canal Town points as he went over for the lone TD from the five after Burke had scooped up a Stamford fumble. Ginther tried a field goal in the last quarter and when that went wide, Stamford's Bobby Angle was forced out of bounds behind the line for a point.

Stamford picked up their three points on singles by Read and Fedor (two). Don Gibson was the running star for Stamford as he came up with some long gains as the losers went for 15 first downs, compared to nine for Port.

Want Pat Egan Banned From Hockey

DETROIT (AP)—A leading hockey official said yesterday that defenceman Pat Egan of Providence Reds should be banned from organized hockey.

Carl Voss, chief of officials for the American and National Hockey Leagues, told a reporter Egan had "committed the most serious crime in the business and deserves no consideration."

Egan tangled with two linesmen —Patsy Callaghan and Bobby Corse—during the Reds' A.H.L. game with Cleveland Barons at Cleveland Saturday night. He got a match penalty which meant automatic expulsion from that game and a $100 fine.

Voss said he has recommended to Emory Jones, American Hockey League president, that Egan be suspended until the incident is thoroughly investigated. Jones, who has the power to impose an additional penalty, said he would call a meeting to look into the case.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Hundreds of hockey followers cheered silently when, a few weeks ago, six new nominees to the mythical Hockey Hall of Fame included such semi-moderns as "Old Poison" Nels Stewart, and free-wheeling Bill Cook. Six in all were named, and the other four, while not so well known to modern followers of the game, revived nostalgic memories among older enthusiasts who remember hockey in its formative years. For the names of "Dickie" Boon, "Moose" Goheen, "Mickey" MacKay and "Moose" Johnson were as well known in their day as the Richards, Howes and other stars of today.

It is extraordinary that the gentlemen who make these nominations should have overlooked Stewart so long. For it is 12 years since he completed hockey's most productive chore, by scoring 324 goals in 15 seasons of play with three different clubs.

It is 26 years since Stewart scored 34 goals in his first year, when only 36 games were played, a mark never since achieved by any rookie, [illegible] and led his Montreal Maroons team to the O'Brien Cup. We claim that no such combination of feats has ever been recorded before, and possibly never will again.

They called him Old Poison because this big, seemingly indolent player who skated with such deceptive laziness was sheer poison to goalers, and baffling to defense players. For an entire season, Stewart fooled practically everybody. He skated so casually, in his easy-going way, into the midst of things, and suddenly the puck would be nestling in the opposing nets, and Stewart would be credited with another goal. And the dead-panned centre would skate slowly away, still chewing thoughtfully on his gum.

Stewart was a big fellow. Six feet in height, he weighed 200 pounds, was game to a degree, and opposing players who, year after year, tried to shoulder him out of scoring range found themselves bouncing off his stalwart frame. He had thick, powerful wrists, was quick as a cat when the puck hit his stick, and could whip it away with uncanny accuracy.

Bill Cook was the trigger-man for Rangers Cook-Boucher-Cook, line, one of the finest in hockey history. A swinging, long-striding skater, Cook seemed to be skating in circles, but that was the type of play this threesome used so effectively. This forward line slid passes while going full speed, and always there was someone there to pick up the pass, and throw a deadly accurate shot. Mostly these apparently pointless passes found their way to Bill's stick, and then it was every goaler for himself. Cook played until he was in his 40's. On durability alone, he rated something.

Skip Teal Leads Scorers In Junior Race

TORONTO (CP)—Skip Teal, flashy forward with the league-leading Barrie Flyers, picked up seven points last week to pace the Ontario Hockey Association junior A scoring race with 26 points.

Teal has 14 goals and 12 assists to his credit in 11 games. His teammate Don McKennedy is still in second place, again two points behind with 13 goals and 11 assists in 11 games.

TEAL TOPS IN GOALS

Figures released by the league, including games up to and including Sunday, show Teal the leading goal scorer. Wally Maxwell of Toronto Marlboros was the leading play-maker with 15 assists. That with his two goals places him sixth, tied with four others

Eddie Switzer of Galt Black Hawks is third with 10 goals and 11 assists for 21 points. Murray Costello of St. Michael's and Jim McBurney of Galt are tied for fourth spot with 18 points each.

Ed Chadwick of St. Michael's continued to lead the goaltenders with an average of 2.25 on 18 goals in eight games. He also tops the league in shutouts with three Binkley of Galt is second with a 3.27 record on 36 goals in 11 games.

Montreal Forward Line Among Top Scorers

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens last week slipped from top spot in the National Hockey League standings to a tie for second place with Toronto, but their ace forward line of Maurice Richard, Elmer Lach and Bert Olmstead picked up scoring points on a wholesale basis.

Chicago Black Hawks are sitting in top spot with 15 points, two more than Montreal and Toronto.

Richard, still looking for goal No. 325 to break the individual all-time scoring he holds with Nels Stewart, picked up two goals and an assist to run his point total for this season to 14, tied for the leadership with Toronto Leafs' Ted Kennedy who collected one goal and three assists.

HOWE, LINDSAY NEXT

Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings and Olmstead follow with 12 points each with veteran Elmer Lach hard on their heels with 11 points.

Fourth-place Detroit Red Wings seem to be having trouble on the road. They won 15 consecutive games away from home last season, but this season have tied one and lost four of their road games.

Boston is in fifth place with eight points while the lowly New York Rangers have only five.

Al Rollins is the least scored against goalie. He has allowed 23 pucks past him in 11 games for a 2.09 average while his closest rival, Jim Henry of Boston, has allowed 21 in during 10 games for a 2.10 average.

Winnipeg Bombers Just Too Good For Edmonton Eskimos Writers Say

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers were much too good for Edmonton Eskimos Saturday as they walloped the Esks 28-12 in the first game of their best-of-three Western Interprovincial Football Union final.

This was the consensus of most sports writers who watched the one-sided contest in Edmonton.

"Things will be different next week," said outside wing Rollin Prather, referring to the second game at Winnipeg Saturday.

But with two key Eskimos injured, there is little doubt Bombers will be solid favorites to wind up the series in two straight. Playing coach Frankie Filchock, used mostly on defence, suffered a shoulder separation and is definitely out. All-star halfback Rollie Miles suffered a rib injury, but might see action.

Bombers have only one serious injury, a concussion to rookie fullback Lorne Benson. It is not known whether he will play.

Most of the sports writers pick Bombers to advance into the Grey Cup final at Toronto Nov. 29.

Annis Stukus, former Edmonton coach and now sports writer with the Toronto Star, reluctantly picks Winnipeg to take the series:

Edmonton, "bruised after their rugged series with Calgary," found George Trafton's charges "full of bounce and their timing well-nigh perfect, just too tough a combination to handle. . . The way Winnipeg showed, you'd have to call them from here on in. . ."

Hal (Edmonton Journal) Pawson: "The crowd came to see Eskimos call down another miracle. Instead, Eskimos ran into a Blue Bomber team that doesn't believe in miracles but places a lot of faith in solid football."

Bob (Winnipeg Free Press) Moir: "The Bombers have looked more spectacular in a half dozen other games during the season. But they played soundly, making few mistakes. . ."

Young Canadian Plays Part In Broadway's 'South Pacific'

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Height six feet one, chest 42, waist 27—these are the measurements that landed Vancouver-born Beverley Patterson a part in the London production of Broadway's "South Pacific."

"It's crazy things like that that sometimes turn an audition in your favor," he said with a laugh. "Of course, you've got to be able to act too."

In "South Pacific" he plays two parts—that of the slouching Marine who heckles the comedian lead and the pilot who flies the Frenchman off the island.

JOINED IN AUGUST

Dark-haired Beverley, known here as Lee, joined the play in August, two months before the departure of the American star, Mary Martin. When she quits the role Nov. 8, Miss Martin's portrayal of Nellie Forbush, here and on Broadway, will have lasted just under 4½ years.

"I'll be sorry to see her go," said Patterson. "She's absolutely wonderful."

The 23-year-old Canadian came to London on holiday in 1950, after two years in the Canadian army and a spell as free lance artist and cartoonist.

Not until he'd spent most of the money saved for the trip, did he think of work and the stage

CANADIAN ROLES

In Canada, Patterson always "dabbled" in the theatre, sometimes acting, mostly designing. In Vancouver and Ottawa he portrayed such parts as the stage manager in "Our Town," the idiot in "Dracula," and a lead part in "Rope."

His first British part came as a bit of luck. He went to a theatre agent to pick up a pay cheque for an actor pal—and was given the part of Happy in "Death of a Salesman," then playing at Windsor's Theatre Royal.

Patterson is just one more Canadian to find better scope for stage work here than in Canada. He hopes to stay a while and intends to bring his mother over for a visit. She resides in Oshawa, Ont.

GETS IN MUSICAL—Beverley Patterson, 23, of Vancouver, landed a part in the London production of Broadway's "South Pacific," principally because of his height—six feet one. He had played in Vancouver and Ottawa before going to London, but his size helped him land the part of the tall, slouching marine who heckles the comedian lead.

Bivins Suspended Till Contract Kept

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Abe J. Greene, National Boxing Association commissioner, yesterday announced he had suspended Jimmy Bivins, Cleveland heavyweight, from boxing until he makes good a New Jersey fight contract.

Greene, who also is athletic commissioner of New Jersey, said Bivins failed to fulfill a contract to box Billy Gilliam of East Orange.

Kentucky Cancels Basketball Schedule

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky, found guilty of violating the National Collegiate Athletic Association code on two counts, said yesterday it would cancel its 21-game basketball schedule this season.

The N.C.A.A. council announced at Kansas City it had recommended the school be placed on probation this school year for violation of subsidization and eligibility rules dating back to 1947.

The school said it would accept the decision without appeal. It added, however, it felt the punishment was harsh.

Jacobs Awarded Nicklin Trophy

WINNIPEG (CP)—Jack Jacobs, Winnipeg Blue Bombers' all-star quarterback, yesterday was named winner of the Jeff Nicklin Memorial Trophy as the most valuable member to his team in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The poll was conducted by a group of western sports writers and broadcasters.

Rollin Prather, the Eskimos' double-duty outside wing and middle, was second choice. Bob Shaw of Calgary and Roland Miles of Edmonton tied for third, one point in front of Martin Ruby, Saskatchewan Roughriders middle.

Nicklin played outside and flying wing for the Bombers in the late 1930s. He was killed overseas in action as a paratroop officer.

1,000 Attend Big Dinner For Ferguson

MONTREAL (CP)—Nearly 1,000 figures in the sports world, friends of Elmer Ferguson, gathered last night to pay tribute to him at a testimonial dinner prior to his retirement as sports editor of the Montreal Herald.

Ferguson has been associated with the newspaper for 42 years, and although he relinquishes his sports editorship at the end of this year, he will continue to write his daily column, "Gist and Jest of it," which has made him familiar to thousands of readers.

Among the hundreds of personal friends who attended the dinner were sports celebrities from both Canada and the United States.

$10 A PLATE

The $10 a plate dinner was under the chairmanship of Leo Dandurand, a leading Montreal sportsman. About 100 guests were seated at the head table. They included such notables as Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight boxing champions of the world and Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion.

All branches of sport were represented. Those from the National Hockey League included President Clarence Campbell, who was guest speaker; and General Managers Art Ross of Boston Bruins; Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings; Bill Tobin of Chicago Black Hawks, and Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens.

Ferguson will be succeeded as sports editor of the Herald by Vince Lunny.

Church Puck League Has A Large Entry

The Church Hockey League, sponsored by the Peterborough Boys' Work Board, has re-organized for the season with 22 teams in, comprising some 250 boys. Ten teams opened play Saturday morning in Civic Arena, and they will play there each Saturday throughout the winter. The schedule will be ready this week.

The league is organized to give boys from 10 to 16 years of age a chance to play some organized hockey. Some of these lads otherwise would miss out on the game.

In peewee play Saturday, Knox won over George St., and St. James defeated St. Paul's. The Knox bantams defeated George St., and St. James bantams won against St. George's. The only midget tilt saw Grace win from St. James. Referees were Ed Woodcock and J. Hawthorne.

Canadiana Wins Pimlico Purse

BALTIMORE (AP) — Canadiana, a Canadian filly owned by Toronto industrialist F. P. Taylor, proved herself capable of defeating first class American two-year-olds when she won the $5,000 no score purse at Pimlico yesterday.

Canadiana, $3.80, for $2 favorite, gained her ninth win out of 10 starts in the 1 1-16-mile feature as she took her final prep race for Saturday's $20,000 Marguerite Stakes here.

C. V. Whitney's Yellow Mist was second, 1½ lengths back, and Ogden Phipps' His Duchess third, another nose behind.

NEW YORK (CP)—One of the few American Hockey League players born in the United States, rookie Guyle Fielder of St. Louis Flyers, this week leads league scorers with a total of 13 points.

Fielder, born in Idaho, had six goals to deadlock Vern Kaiser of Buffalo in actual scoring. Fielder was tied with teammate and fellow-rookie Marcel Bonin at seven assists.

Buffalo's veteran Phil McAtee is league-leading goaltender with an average of 2.00 on 14 goals allowed in seven games. McAtee, Johnny Bower of Cleveland, Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh and Harvey Bennett of Providence each had a single shutout.

Chevier Says Gut Dam Effect Magnified

CORNWALL (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier said last night the effect of the St. Lawrence River's Gut Dam on water levels in Lake Ontario this year has been "grossly magnified."

The 900-foot dam near Prescott is to be demolished by Jan. 15 in compliance with the International Joint Commission's order for protection of property owners affected by the St. Lawrence seaway power project. The dam has been blamed by some for high Lake Ontario levels and consequent property damage.

Mr. Chevrier told service club members that government engineers feel that removal of the dam will make little difference in the problem of high water levels.

The dam, built in 1901, caused an ultimate rise of 5½ to six inches in the water level, he said.

CROWDED — The Chicago Stadium is jampacked for the campaign speech by Democratic presidential nominee Gov. Adlai Stevenson. The crowd drawn by G.O.P. Dwight Eisenhower the day before was considerably smaller than the one on hand for the Illinois governor. The real test is today.

Dangerous Driving

TORONTO (CP)—R. J. Baker of Brantford has been charged with dangerous driving in connection with a Saturday night traffic fatality. Police said he was driving an automobile that was in collision with a car in which George R. Morrison, 37, of Toronto was a passenger. Morrison was killed when he was thrown out of the car by the impact.

Mayors Federation Seeking Exemption From Gov't Sales Tax

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities wants municipal governments exempted from the federal sales tax on all items purchased as well as on equipment and articles manufactured by municipalities for their own use and not for re-sale.

Federation officers will meet with cabinet members in Ottawa late this month and again ask for this exemption.

"Faced in recent years by mounting wages and rising material costs and the addition of new and onerous responsibilities in such fields as welfare, civil defence, etc., Canadian municipalities have found their limited tax revenues resources barely sufficient to meet their obligations. . .

PROVINCES EXEMPT

"Since 1928 the tax has not been imposed on the purchases of provincial governments or of any railway, commission, board of public utility operated by or under the authority of the provincial governments. Inasmuch as municipalities, under the B.N.A. act, represent the delegated power of the provincial governments, it would appear logical, from a constitutional viewpoint, to extend the principle of exemption to municipal governments."

The federation says United States municipal governments are exempt from most taxes under the Federal Revenue Act of 1951.

On the question of loss of revenue to the federal government in Canada, with possible shifting of the tax burden from one group of taxpayers to another, the association says:

With several years of unprecedented federal surpluses, there should be of no great concern over the 'drop-in-the-bucket' decrease in federal revenues that municipal sales tax exemption would create."

"The services performed by local governments are vital to the health, security and well-being of our rapidly increasing urban population . . . "

Exemption "will not solve the financial problem" but it will "contribute, in some small degree, to the maintenance of a better financial foundation for municipal government."

Morning Newspaper Folds After 3 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—The Daily Compass, a morning newspaper with 30,000 circulation, went out of business yesterday after 3½ years. Some 80 employees lost their jobs.

"This morning's edition was our last," said Publisher Ted O. Thackrey last night.

Machinery and fixtures of the Compass were sold at auction, Thackrey said, to satisfy a mortgage held by Carliss Lamont. Lamont, son of a late Wall Street millionaire, is an American Labor party candidate for the United States Senate in today's election.

Plan Creek Authority

PORT STANLEY (CP)—A new move is under way to establish a Kettle Creek authority, Reeve Clinton A. Bell of this Lake Erie port said yesterday. The initial effect failed earlier this year, since the Middlesex townships of Westminster and North Dorchester did not endorse the project. The present proposal would include South Dorchester, Southwold and Yarmouth townships, St. Thomas and Port Stanley.

Farmers Organizing To Get Full Share Consumer Dollar

Ontario farmers are throwing the old orthodox free enterprise system out the door, M. M. Robinson, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association, said in Peterborough Monday.

Mr. Robinson, who was born and educated in Peterborough, was the guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon meeting. The topic of his address was Development of Collective Barganiing and Compulsory Check-Off in the Fruit and Vegetable Industry in the Search for Price Stabilization.

"Agriculture has very steadily and strongly moved away from the old individualism into group action," the speaker said. "The farmer has come to realize that the old system of buying for as little as you can and selling for as much as you must be replaced by co-operative marketing schemes.

CHANGE INEVITABLE

"We have been criticized for socialistic tendencies and for leaning too much on the government, but this change in agricultural economy was inevitable—the result of the times."

The speaker named concentration of power by business and interference in business as the two major causes for the farmers' ganging together to develop some form of price maintenance. Concentration of power such as the growth of chain stores with their concentrated buying power made the farmer look for something to counteract it. A new economic scheme was also needed to counteract the concentrated buying power of processing industries.

FARMER'S ANSWER

"Collective bargaining and compulsory check-off were the Ontario fruit and vegetable growers' answer to the search for price stabilization."

The speaker explained that these marketing schemes are both under enacted legislation of Ontario. The one insures the farmer that he will not operate at a loss and the other provides funds for the operation of a collective organization and sales promotion of produce. No marketing scheme comes into effect unless 66 per cent of the farmers involved vote for it.

"We dont aim to set prices at high levels, but at levels which will bring producers at least the cost of production," he said.

Minimum prices are set by a price setting board of six negotiators made up of three farmers and three from the buying group. If there is a surplus and farmers can't get the minimum price, the produce is dumped.

FORCED ACTION

"Dumping of produce has been severely criticised especially by the Toronto press. It doesn't matter if they like it or not. It is legislatively endowed and we will continue to operate with it. If, in this action, we seem to be moving along social lines, we are doing so because as an industry we have been forced to."

Mr. Robinson explained that the country's welfare is based on a great overall system of enterprise of which farming is an integral part. Farming is a business. As a business it is subject to the same laws as any other business and the farmer acts with the profit motive the same as every other kind of businessman.

The failure of urban people to recognize farming as a business, Mr. Robinson named as the greatest reason for criticism of marketing schemes. They fail to realize that the farmer is trying to operate on a profit.

OUT FOR PROFIT

"The farmer has moved into the field of compulsory marketing because he has made up his mind that he will get his share of the consumer's dollar," the speaker concluded. "I serve you notice, farmers are out for profit and to get all they can."

Mr. Robinson was introduced by J. A. Dewart and thanked by Harold Johnson. Mr. Dewart listed the positions that Mr. Robinson holds: secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Winter-Celery Marketing Board, vice-president of the Horticultural Council, manager of the Ontario Food Council, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association and member of the Ontario Food Terminal Board.

Must Work Together

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—Lord Boyd-Orr, chancellor of Glasgow University, said today the United Kingdom and Japan both must find new markets for industrial products. He told a correspondent for the Nippon Times of Tokyo that the United Kingdom and Japan should not compete but should work together to find new places to sell their outputs. The British peer is a delegate to the Asian Congress for World Federation.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A. Critelli, 25, was fatally crushed by a truck yesterday while working on the hydro tunnel project. He was 330 feet underground at the time, in the tunnel section at Chippawa.

Ask Tobacco Tax Cut

RODNEY (CP)—More than 200 district tobacco growers here last night called on the federal government to cut its tobacco excise tax to the point where a package of cigarets would cost only 30 cents.

Would Divide Ontario In Health Units

TORONTO (CP)—A partition of Ontario into geographical health units rather than county health units is under study, Health Minister Mackinnon Phillips told the Public Health Association convention yesterday.

"Right now, about 55 per cent of Ontario's population and area outside the larger municipalities is covered by health units," he said.

"But I think a greater area and larger proportion of our population could be served if the units covered geographical districts rather than county units."

Bruce and Grey counties were cited as two counties which would benefit from combined geographical health service.

"Bruce county is 110 miles long. It's a skinny county not more than 36 miles wide at its widest point. The distance from tip to top is so great that satisfactory public health units cost heavily transportation-wise. It would be much more economical to divide the district across county lines and have a wider, more accessible health territory serving a part of Grey and a section of Bruce."

Killed On Street

COLDWATER (CP) — Stanley Lovering, 57, Coldwater tobacconist and billiard parlor operator, was killed last night when struck by a taxi driven by Don Hall, also of Coldwater, while attempting to cross the main street. Coldwater is about 80 miles north of Toronto.

HOLD FIRST SHOOT

Peterborough Revolver and Pistol Club held is first shoot of the season Monday night at the Armouries. This year, the club is holding its weekly shoots Monday at 7.30 p.m.

BURNS HOLE IN WALL

A nail that had been driven through part of the insulation in an electric wire at the home of Joseph Hobbins, 475 Elm St. caused a short circuit and then a fire on Monday night. About $350 damage resulted when firemen had to cut a hole in the wall of the room to get at the smoulder-ing wire.

In Academy Show

Stanley Hayman, Peterborough engraver and medalist, received notice Monday from the secretary of the Royal Academy of Arts that eight pieces which he had submitted have all been accepted for showing at the Academy's 73rd annual exhibition. The exhibition opens in Montreal a week from Friday. Mr. Hayman is especially honored by having eight examples of his art accepted, in the sculptural section of the R.C.A. show. It is the first time he has submitted his work for consideration of the Academy.

Deer Plentiful In Apsley Area

Apsley village hunters seem to be satisfied with deer prospects on the first day of the season. Three men got their count nearby and all others who were out saw a fair number of animals. More bear than usual were seen and one wolf. A bread salesman on his way north to the village reported seeing a woman hunter at the side of the highway with a deer strapped to her car fender.

A survey by a village observer shows that there are as many hunters as usual in the district, but no more than in former seasons. Deer are also plentiful, but no reports have filtered in about hunters seeing or shooting any elk.

The temperature at freezing early today was more to the liking of sportsmen and would preserve fresh kills much longer on the meat racks.

Very few city men have come out with their count so far. Deb Watman and Angus Twomey are two of the few that have checked in so far.

Msgr. O'Sullivan 55th Anniversary

Rt. Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and oldest alumnus of St. Michael's College in Canada, today celebrated the 55th anniversary of his ordination.

A native of Campbellford, he graduated from St. Michael's in 1891, and lived many years in Port Hope. He has written for Roman Catholic papers under the pen name "The Gleaner," and is the author of three books..

Policeman Gets Deer Early Opening Day

If he didn't bag the first deer of the season Monday morning, Arthur Beardsmore, a constable on the city police force must have been one of the first hunters to bring one down, because he had a 140-pound doe hung up by 10 o'clock.

It was the second year in a row Art has shot one on opening day and for several seasons now, he has been one of the first to head north when the season starts.

Like a good many in the city, most of the officers on the police force have either saved up some vacation time for the hunt or are juggling their days off with other officers so they can try their luck at getting some venison for the family dinner table.

Dinner To Start Mass TB Survey In Peterborough

An evening's program of films and speakers Thursday in George St. United Church will officially open the 1952 mass X-ray survey in Peterborough.

The speakers are: Carn Bray of the Ontario Department of Health, Toronto; Dr. J. P. Wells, medical ofifcer of health; James Heffernan, president of the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association; Frank Booth, chairman of the survey committee and Ron Balaam, chairman of the survey canvassers.

Two films, Goodbye Mr. Germ, and They Do Come Back, will be shown.

The meeting will be attended by canvassers for the survey, who have been drawn from women's organizations in the city. Following this meeting the canvassers will make a house-to-house canvass explaining the purpose of the mass survey and distributing appointment cards.

BEGAN MONDAY

The survey actually started Monday. The employees of city industries and students of the two collegiates and St. Peter's High School will be X-rayed Nov. 3-14.

The general survey will start in Ashburnham Nov. 13.

The survey is being organized by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and sponsored by the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association.

October This Year Colder, Dryer

October 1952 was a colder and dryer month than October 1951.

Official weatherman for the district, James Harrison, reported at the filtration plant that the high for the past month was 72 degrees and the low 20 degrees. The warmest day was Oct. 1 and the coldest Oct. 26. Average temperature for the month this year was 42.9 and last year 48.6 precipitation. October, '52, was 1.06.

The high in October, 1951, was 80 degrees, registered on the 5th. And the thermometer dropped to 26 degrees on the 20th. The precipitation for the month was 2.15.

27 Cases Of Pop Spilled On Road

More glass than at a 10-car collision was scattered across Hunter St. near the Examiner building at 6:30 a.m. today when a soft drink truck cut the curb, shaking 27 pop cases off and showering the street with bottles and pop.

To make things worse, the toppled cases and bottles were dumped squarely in the middle of the street. Traffic was re-routed around Queen St. to Simcoe as workers from Ashburnham crossed to work.

Minutes later three policemen, Constables Dennis Smith, John Conlin and Sherman Keliele, along with company drivers, Don Campbell and Bob Boyce started sweeping and shovelling the mess towards the centre of the street. Within a half hour, all the while joshed by bystanders with comments such as: "If your wife could only see you now." the men had the glass in a neat line.

The mobile street cleaner, bought last year by the city, was standing by. When the glass was in the centre of the street in a long line, the cleaner took the glass away in one sweep.

Total Value Of Building May Top '51

Federal Building Boosts Total Heading For Record

The $1,451,002 federal government investment on Charlotte St. assures Peterborough of another record building year, probably exceeding the total for 1951.

October permits issued from City Engineer Chalmers' office amounted to $1,696,846 as compared with $306,723 in the tenth month a year ago.

The progressive total for ten months this year has been $4,790,-246, a present increase of $790,584 over the $3,999,662 aggregate for the corresponding ten months of 1951.

Interest at the beginning of November a year ago scanned the prospect of surpassing the $5,000,-000 mark for a new building record. That advance was accomplished by the end of December, and with the turn into the new year, some speculation pointed to the possibility of repeating that booming volume of construction. The city is now only $209,754 from the $5,000,000 peak.

October produced 30 permits for new houses, estimated in value at $239,100, as compared with 18 permits for dwellings valued at $145,500 in October, 1951.

APARTMENT BUILDINGS

A substantial item in the new housing column is $38,000 for two additional apartment buildings, each estimated at $19,000, and each building containing four dwelling units in the project of Miller Construction Co. at the west end of Charlotte St.

The October record of permits was as follows: 21 garages, $6,744; 30 houses $239,100, and 80 miscellaneous permits, $1,451,002; total, 131 permits for $1,696,846. Total estimated value of new construction from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31 was $4,790,246.

The statement for October, 1951, was: 25 garages, $8,435; 18 dwellings, $145,500; 81 miscellaneous permits $152,788; total, 124 permits for $306,723.

Total for 1951 from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31 was $3,999,662.

That million and a half dollar permit in this month's issue is for the new postal-customs building.

Kitchener Gets English Firm

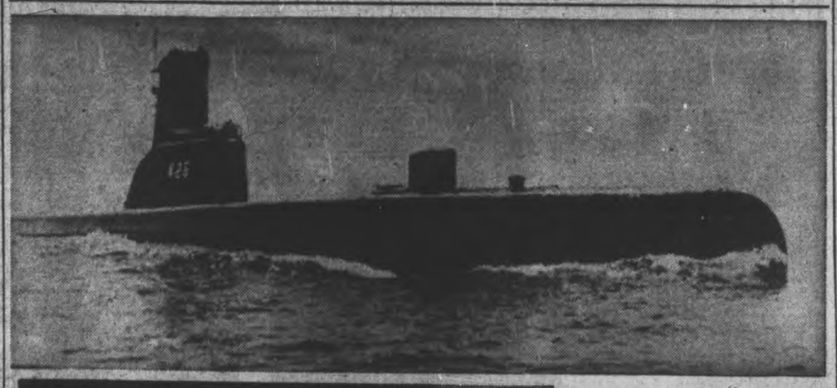
KITCHENER (CP) — A stainless steel foundry employing between 200 and 300 persons within a year will be established here provided the firm, the Hayward-Tyler Company of London, England, can obtain the desired site, city council was told last night.

The meeting decided to spend $27,500 for land which will be resold to industrial firms. The decision to buy is subject to approval of the department of municipal affairs and the Ontario municipal board.

Cars Crash, Driver Charged Didn't Stop

Ernest W. Sollitt, 185 Romaine St., is being charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following a two-car accident at Stewart and Sherbrooke Sts., at 7:15 a.m. today.

Joseph G. Barry, R.R. 7, Peterborough, told police he was driving west on Sherbrooke St., and as he was entering the intersection of Stewart St., noticed an approaching southbound car on Stewart St.



He said he applied his brakes but was unable to avoid a collision.

Sollitt was driving the car travelling south on Stewart St., which was spun partly around by the impact. The Barry car was damaged on the front end, and the Sollitt vehicle was damaged on the left rear corner.

Textile Union Wins In St. Catharines Vote

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Employees of Eaton's Knitting mill at [illegible] (C.I.O.), John Whitehouse, union publicity director, announced today.

Mr. Whitehouse said the workers, who have been members of an independent union, Allied Knit Goods Association, for 18 years, won bargaining rights for the Textile Workers Union when an Ontario labor relations board check showed that most of them belonged to the T.W.U.A. He said negotiations for a first agreement soon will be opened.

Winner Of U.S. Citations Norman Walker Likes Navy

A former Peterborough man—twice cited for bravery while serving in the United States Navy—is now visiting friends and relatives in the city and district. Then he is going back to Bainbridge, Maryland, to try for a naval commission.

"I've been in the U. S. Navy about 10 years but I always like to come back to Peterborough," said 1st Class Petty Officer Norman H. Walker who has been pretty well around the world since he left his Howden Ave. home in 1943.

Retentive readers of The Examiner will recall that Petty Officer Walker in 1944 received a citation from President Franklin D. Roosevelt for "outstanding heroism in action" as his ship was sinking in the Indian Ocean, victim of a German U-Boat.

At the risk of his own life he stopped long enough to pull a fellow-sailor from his living compartment. The sailor was fatally trapped but for Walker's initiative.

Nor was that the end of the survivors' troubles. The U-boat machine-gunned them for four hours and they drifted on a raft in the Indian Ocean for 10 days. Thirty-three men of a crew of 75 survived the triple ordeal of torpedoing, machine-gunning and exposure.

CONVOY TRIPS

Walker survived two nightmarish convoy trips to Murmansk, Russia, and continued on in the United States Navy when peace came.

His second citation was presented to him by the then Secretary of the Treasury, John W. Snyder. During a submarine exercise off the Norway coast in August, 1949, a sister-submarine to the one on which Walker was a crew member caught fire.

Hydrogen gas exploded, starting the fire. The submarine, the "Cochan," managed to surface from snorkel depth and Walker was in charge of the "top side" rescue crew. Twice he dived into the rough ocean to rescue badly-burned American sailors. Altogether 75 men and eight officers were rescued. Six men were lost.

GOLD MEDAL

For his gallantry Walker was given the Gold Life Saving Medal, the highest peacetime award in the United States Navy.

The 28-year-old veteran tops six feet in height and weighs 195 pounds. He carries himself with the easy grace of an athlete. He is inclined to understatement when describing his experiences.

(Referring to the German commander's actions in machine-gunning the survivors of a supply ship for four hours as they tried to remain alive in the Indian Ocean—"There really wasn't much sense to it; he wasn't accomplishing anything."

(The Murmansk run in which seven of 35 ships were sunk by German bombers and U-boats on the long trip to Russia—"It was rough, but we had to just sit there and take it."

"Why did I join the U.S. Navy?—Well I wanted a change," he told the Examiner. "You don't get tired of doing the same old thing. I like the submarine service best—good food, good pay, a better spirit of companionship among the officers and men. Each crew member must be able to do the other jobs.

"If I stay in for 20 years I get a pension. Right now I'm going to the prep-school for officer training at Bainbridge."

Walker is well known in Peterborough and district. His father was the late William Walker, and his mother Mrs. Mary Walker, now lives in London, Ont.

While on leave he is staying with Mr. and Mrs. George Dodson of 27 Lafayette St. An uncle is J. J. Crowley, the Hunter St. realtor. Other relatives live in the district.

WORKED IN CITY

Walker went to Sacred Heart School and St. Peter's High School. After leaving school he worked for some time at DeLaval and the Outboard Marine Co.

In 1943 he crossed the border and joined the U.S. Navy in Niagara Falls. A year later he was on the supply ship that was sunk two days out of Bombay.

He survived the machine gunning that followed and two hazardous runs to Murmansk.

("How did I find the Russians?—I can't say a word against them. They treated me all right. The people weren't so well off as we were. They had women stevedores who worked very hard and the authorities were very strict. They insisted on thoroughly searching our ship before it was cleared. They had their orders and followed them out.")

The second citation was after he had switched to the submarine service.

Much of his post-war training has been hush-hush. He has taken part in snorkel trials, once being a member of a sub that travelled submerged from Portsmouth, N.H., to Panama. And he has been in subs, of the latest design, to a depth of at least 500 feet.

His travels have taken him to Port Said, Calcutta and Bombay, Melbourne, Panama, Murmansk and Brazil. He has also been in Korean waters but his tour of duty has not taken him there on active service.

As to his future plans he wants to get his commission and continue on in the U.S. navy.

"But I'll be coming back to Peterborough again; you can bet on that."

Lindsay Appeals Assessment From County

LINDSAY (ENS) — Lindsay 'own council decided last night to go ahead with the appeal they have registered against the Victoria County assessment for this year and to that end, began Monday night to organize their defence for the trial of the appeal despite the fact their own solicitor, A. M. Fulton, Q.C., advised them to try to achieve a settlement.

The whole council will split into groups of two and will tour the county with the town assessor Alex Kilner, collecting "facts and figures," which will in the words of Ald. Burrows, chairman of the finance committee, prove to the judge that either Lindsay has been assessed too high, or the municipalities have been assessed too low.

The figures were reviewed for the council. The county assessment for Lindsay this year is $98,000. The town has appealed and asked for a reduction to $600,000 although a figure above $700,000 was mentioned last night.

The county offered the town a reduction of $108,000 in their assessment, cutting the margin between the municipal assessments throughout the county and the town assessment to the bone. Fenelon township was also offered a reduction in their assessment, after they lodged an appeal and they accepted. The appeal is to be heard before the end of the month.

5 Men Announce Will Run For Seat On City Council Mayor To Seek Second Term

Norman Graham To Try To Get Back Once An Alderman, Fred H. Tuggey To Run Aldermen Rehill, Burrows, Beggs Seek Seats

Public thinking of the municipal nominations at the end of the month switched to the positive side today, after the announcements last week of the approaching retirements of Aldermen Herbert Young and James Gillespie. Prospects mentioned Mayor Hugh Waddell, as offering himself for another year as president of the Council, in the tradition that has settled upon Peterborough's municipal custom. It was also reported that Ald. Harold T. Hehill, Ald. A. B. Burrows and Ald. W. J. Beggs would be aldermanic candidates, that Norman G. Graham was prepared to stand again in the aldermanic company.

Fred T. Tuggey with experience from other years in the council, has decided to let his name go on the ballot, providing that he is nominated.

ALL EXPERIENCED

Experience in civic administration is folding up when Aldermen Gillespie and Young vacate their desks in the council chamber, but it happens that the men who are mentioned today have all had more or less training in actual performance of duties.

Mayor Waddell said today that if it is the wish of the citizens "it will be a privilege and a pleasure to continue as Mayor, depending on the results of the nominations and elections."

"There are important questions before the council in 1953," His Worship said, "but every year in the administration presents its own problems, however they may differ. It is still a little early to try to look into the prospects for 1953, but I intend to do that later this month. The city continues to develop, but we have no large capital expenditures in sight. I think we have all read in the newspapers the new spending which other municipalities in the province are undertaking. Peterborough has the satisfaction of having carried out its postwar program of public works.

GENERAL APPROVAL

"I find from the comments of citizens that the present disposi- of the old market square and city buildings site has received general approval. How long that property, which is owned by the city, will continue to be used for parking space I have no idea. However, the sentiment that I hear expresses a feeling that the council has made good temporary use of that block.

"People have asked me whether I would be a candidate for the office of Mayor again. Probably it is not too early just to say that it all depends on the wishes of the citizens. The nominations and ballots are in their hands, and if they want me to stay on for another year I'll be happy to do so.

Ald. Arthur B. Burrows informed the Examiner today that he would be candidate for another two-year term in the city council.

"That means I shall be glad to accept nomination as alderman, and I feel that I am at the stage where I can be of more service to the citizens. The municipal work interested me. Back in 1934-5 I was reeve in Lakefield. It was helpful experience in responsibility, but the same kind of work with the city is greatly magnified.

"I try to represent the interests of all sections of the city and to know what they need. As chairman of the fire, water and light committee I have a notion that I have the confidence of the Department, and I certainly try to take a reasonable and fair view of their problems, while at the same time I have to remember the people who have elected me."

RETIRED FROM COUNCIL.

Norman Graham was about a year and one-half in council when he retired early last summer, succeeded in the aldermanic postion by William J. Beggs, who was appointed to the vacancy by the council, and from the top of the list of candidates.

"There is no use talking about water that has gone over the dam," said Mr. Graham. "All I wanted to do as a member of the council was to see that departments were going along as efficiently and fairly as the ratepayers wish. I had my own ideas about the sanitation department, looking after our employees, and economy, but that is in the past and if I am elected again I'd start from the beginning of 1953 and not hark back into 1952."

One of the reasons why I resigned was that I had too much on my hands. That's the way it has appeared to me. I belonged to an organization that I was much interested in, and because of that it took a great deal of my time. I am still a member of it, but not in that active way. I also had my business which was comparatively new.

"I'm just as much interested in the city and taxpayers as ever, and with things in good hand now I have no hesitation in offering my services to do the best I can for them. That's why I have decided to seek another opportunity, and as I say, if I am elected, we start from a new deal in the council."

$50 Stolen From Pocket Of Woman Shopper

A woman had her wallent stolen from her pocket and $50 taken from it in a chain store Saturday morning.

The mother of two children, Mrs. C. J. Birch, 49 Morrow St., entered the store with her wallet in her coat pocket. When she went to pay for the groceries, the wallet was gone.

It was later found behind some tins in the store. Some papers and receipts were still in it, but the money was missing. She had to borrow money to get home on the bus.

Day To Remember

Poppy Day Money Helps District Veterans

Next Saturday will be "Poppy [illegible] in Peterborough.

[illegible] young girl will come up and ask you to buy a red poppy as you walk past her on the street-corner. Perhaps it will be an elderly veteran of the First World War. Perhaps a Peterborough Air Cadet, or a Sea Cadet.

In any case, as you dig into your pockets for some change—or possibly something larger—the sight of the poppy should remind you of two things:

ANNUAL RESPECTS

Once again it is time to pay your annual respects to the men and women who died in the service of their country—a few in the Imperial campaigns before the turn of the century; others in the South African War; but most of them in the two World Wars that have been fought since 1914.

The other thing to remember is that the sale of poppies helps finance the work of the Canadian Legion for needy veterans and their families.

The money obtained from "Poppy Day" canvassing does not go into the building of bigger and better Legion halls; or into any general account. It is a separate account—even deposited in a separate bank.

"Every penny of it is for relief [illegible] work," said Hu[illegible] Dodds.

Somebody must provide money [illegible] only members [illegible] eligible, but also every ex-serviceman or ex-servicewoman.

"The money is spent on district people," he said, "so there is a direct benefit to both the ex-serviceman who gets a helping hand and the community." Funds—kept in this separate account—are looked after by the welfare committee, consisting of various veterans organizations. Eric Hogg is the chairman of the committee.

60 VETERANS HELPED

During the last year the money obtained from Poppy Day in Peterborough has been used to help out some 60 veterans and their families. The relief work for these needy veterans is done confidentially and without fanfare. Because of this many Peterborough people are unaware of the work the committee are doing.

One example:

A Peterborough man joins the Canadian Army to go to Korea or to Germany. He is looked after immediately (clothed, fed, etc.,) but often Army red tape fouls things up so that as much as a couple of months go by before his wife gets her first allowance cheque.

[illegible] in and the Poppy Fund account is used.

Temporary loss of employment or a severe illness suddenly coming on the breadwinner of a family—these also are typical cases that the Poppy Fund helps.

Each case is scrutinized carefully by the committee to screen out the deadbeats. Only the deserving cases are helped out.

As a preliminary to the main "tag day" on Saturday there will be a canvass of factories on Thursday and a canvass of city schools on Friday. Mrs. Albert Mason, president of the Women's Auxiliary, is in charge of the school canvass.

Says Housewives Waste Time On Housework

TORONTO (CP) — Housewives waste too much time, talent and energy on housework, Mackinnon Phillips, Ontario minister of health, said yesterday.

Dr. Phillips told the third annual meeting of the Ontario Public Health Association that women must be taught how to do their housework more efficiently and with a minimum amount of effort.

"Most of them plan their work to no good purpose. They make too many motions that count for nothing except to waste their energies and destroy their health," he said.

His advice to housewives: "Don't waste movements. Work on one floor at a time. Don't tackle those stairs a dozen times a day. Take advantage of all the modern labor-saving devices you can. Make your kitchen your palace, not your morgue."

Women Assured Of Importance In Politics

TORONTO — Nearly 800 women were at a luncheon Monday, arranged by the provincial advisory committee of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association in connection with the two-day convention of the association.

They heard both Premier Leslie Frost and National Leader George Drew assure them of the importance of women in fashioning the party policies and in election work.

Mr. Drew asked his hearers to make known their sentiments in encouraging increased trade with Britain and to support the stand the federal Progressive Conservative group is making in urging the government to take the initiative toward reopening the channels [illegible] been dismayed, he said, to ask for a tin of salmon in a British store and receive a Russian product.

Premier Frost endeared himself to his audience by reminding them that his administration had legislated for equal pay for equal work and adding that, as a matter of fact, he thought women should have more pay for the same work.

He reviewed humanitarian legislation of the past two years in Ontario, saying that the province is a leader in giving pensions to the handicapped of all ages, and credited women with keen interest in both social legislation and practical policies.

Provincial Education Minister Dunlop, speaking earlier, said that he liked the term "Conservative" but "wasn't so fussy about the Progressive part of it."

He discussed his educational policies emphasizing the value of "good hard work" and good teaching as compared with "progressive" ideas and expensively equipped buildings.

Mrs. Cameron McKenzie, advisory committee chairman, who presided, said that more women were expected for the sessions today.

Purchase of a third oxygen tent for Civic Hospital by the Woman's Auxiliary was reported at the quarterly general meeting of the Auxiliary Monday afternoon. This tent, of most modern design, cost $738.

The membership campaign has not been altogether completed, but Mrs. E. Chambers reported a total of 4,435 general memberships and eight new life memberships. Total receipts to date, with donations amounting to $7.15, are $1,128.65.

The life membership fund increase will allow an increase in buraries for graduate nurses, president Mrs. W. E. Fanning remarked following the presentation of these certificates to Mrs. R. F. Nott, Mrs. C. B. Neal and Mrs. C. L. Upper. Other new life members not present at the meeting, are Mrs. R. R. Faryon, Mrs. H. R. Scott, Mrs. C. J. Ray, Mrs. W. J. Gordon and Mrs. Russell Morgan.

The occupational therapy committee is the newest in the Auxiliary and interest of the local members was echoed by the delegates at the convention of the Hospital Aids' Association in Toronto last week, Mrs Fanning advised. Mrs. C. Boate reported for the committee that one patient was helped during October. However, she said plans are being formed for mass enterainment of chronic patients and others during the winter season, and it has been suggested that arrangement be made for scripture reading to elderly patients.

Mrs. W. Jones, convener of the decorating committee, said 145 tray favors were made up for Thanksgiving, and with donations of paper, etc., cost less than 2c each. A satisfactory stock of bootees was reported by Mrs. R. Beeler, after 57 pair were issued in October. She distributed a good quantity of wool to volunteer knitters following the meeting. Regular visiting and contacts of the circulating library and tuck shop were reported. The library has a number of new books in circulation now.

Plans of the nurses-in-training committee for a square dance for the preliminary students next Monday evening were partially revealed by Mrs. C. A. Craig. A report of the students' bursary committee was given by Mrs. Ross Williamson. Two students have taken a ward administration course and '52 graduate, Miss Laurabelle Barrie, received the prize for bedside nursing.

Mrs. Fanning advised that a complete history of the Civic Hospital Women's Auxiliary prepared by Miss E. Morrow is now in her possession.

Delegates to the recent Ontario Hospital Aids convention in Toronto, Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy and Mrs. E. Chambers, gave excellent reports covering the activities and the speeches of the convention. They reported that president Mrs. Fanning, who also attended the convention, was elected to the advisory committee of the Associa[illegible] Armstrong, Mrs. N. Giles and Mrs. G. Ray; Miss J. Haddow, Mrs. C. Craig and Mrs. G. Howden; Miss H. Bonnycastle, Mrs. H. Ward and Mrs. I. Drain; Miss A. Curtis, Mrs. J. Hicks and Mrs. L. Hiscox; Miss B. Hart, Mrs. F. Dunfield and Mrs. E. Monks; Mr. Dawson, Mrs. G. Anderton and Mrs. C. Law; Mr. H. R. Wilson, Mrs. O. Axford and Mrs. E. Outram; Mrs. R. K. McKee, Mrs. B. Baker and Mrs. O. J. Hayward.

Refreshments were served in the kindergarten room by Mrs. G. Norris, social convener, assisted by Mrs. D. MacFadgen, Mrs. C. Carson, Mrs. A. Sayers, Mrs. W. Barber, Mrs. H. Cherney, Mrs. C. Stemp and Mrs. R. Baker. Background music was provided during this time by Mrs. L. McNeill, Mrs. Ivan Morgan and Mrs. Art Bacon.

A sale of used skates was conducted by Mrs. R. Delahaye, Mrs. H. Tewsley and Mrs. W. E. Turner. Home baking of outstanding quality and variety was for sale, under convenership of Mrs. R. Wilkinson and Mrs. F. Shaw, assisted by Mrs. R. Stewart, Mrs. H. Perry, Mrs. P. Evans and Mrs. B. Epston.

Oke-Higgs Rites

The marriage took place in the Grace United Church Saturday, by the Rev. I. G. Pollock, of Dorothy Mabel Higgs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Higgs of Hornchurch, England, to Mr. John Scott Oke, son of Mrs. W. J. Oke of Peterborough and the late Mr. Oke.

Given in marriage by her brother Mr. L. M. Higgs of Peterborough, the bride was attired in a grey suit and hat and wore a corsage of red roses. She was unattended.

Mr. Jack Eano attended the groom.

They will live at 539 Reid St.

Outfitting Junior Expensive In British Household

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—One of the main worries in tight-budgeted British households today is the high price of clothing junior.

With coats costing around £6, dresses and kirts at £3 and over, shoes between £2 and £3 and woolly jumper-and-cardigan sets ranging upwards of 30s., a mother with two children requires something like £40 a year to keep them reasonably well dressed.

Child outfitters here say that more and more parents are insisting on quality, rather than quantity. Few mothers will compromise with cheaper wear these days. They find it costs less to buy well and supplement meagre wardrobes with home-made garments.

TOO EXPENSIVE

Just after the Second World War, manufacturers of child fashions introduced the North American favorite, mother-and-daughter styles with matching coats, skirts, suits, dresses and jumpers. These, however, although much appreciated at child-wear shows are not for the average home-maker. Few middle-class housewives today can afford to buy outfits for themselves and daughter at the same time.

Despite this, retailers say that mothers who buy party dresses rarely ask for cheaper styles. Frocks costing 35s. are left on the rails—those priced at £7 to £8 are first to go.

In letters to the daily press, mothers are constantly complaining of the short life of school clothes. One housewife who bought a school blazer for her son last Christmas says that although he was absolutely forbidden to wear it except on Sundays, it now is ragged at sleeve-ends and elbows. The same mother found more life in garments bought seven years ago for her elder daughter. Her second daughter now is wearing them.

Petherick-Spry Nuptials

MARMORA (ENS)—A picturesque wedding took place Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Spry, Marmora, when their daughter, Sheila Margaret was united in marriage to Carlie Douglas Petherick of Campbellford. The Rev. Howard Beare of Springbrook United Church officiated.

The house was decorated with evergreens, pink and white ribbons and wedding bells. Wedding music was played by Miss Rosemary Webb of Bonarlaw and soloist Miss Barbara Meiklejohn sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown with strapless bodice and bolero of white silk velvet with rhinestones. The skirt was nylon net over taffeta in ballerina length. Her circular veil was of nylon net with deep lace trim and caught to a halo of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of roses and carnations.

Attending the bride were Mrs. James Mumby as matron of honor and the Misses Dorothy and Jerrine Spry as bridesmaids. They were frocked in taffeta with nylon net overskirt and velvet bolero in shades of shell pink, mauve and pale blue, and their headdresses were of matching velvet and 'mums. They carried bouquets of 'mums in colors matching their gowns.

Mr. James Mumby was groomsman.

The reception was held at "Marmora Heights" where the bride's mother received, gowned in navy marquisette and wearing a wine velvet hat and corsage of red roses. Assisting, the groom's mother wore a gown of royal blue crepe and lace with hat to match and a corsage of red roses.

Later the bridal couple left for a trip east, the bride wearing a dress and coat ensemble of winter white with navy accessories. They will live on the groom's farm near Campbellford.

DOROTHY DIX

Nothing Satisfies Mate Belittles His Wife's Work

DEAR MISS DIX: Six years ago I really believed I had found someone who would make me completely happy, so we were married shortly after. Since then, I have felt the love I had for him slowly leave me.

I keep our home neat, and our two small children spotless. I don't drink, smoke or have anything to do with other men. Supper is on the table when he returns home from work. I do all my own household chores without help. But my husband says I don't do enough; that many women raise children, keep house and occupy jobs, also. Well, I just wasn't built that way. I'm tired out at the end of the day. We are not, by the way, in positive need of extra money.

He claims I shouldn't expect to go to a movie once a week because I can see pictures on TV. When we do go somewhere, which is very seldom, he drinks until he becomes loud and unbearable. He claims he is the breadwinner and it is his privilege. I feel so bored and depressed. Could you possibly give me some helpful advice? MRS. W.

ANSWER: What you need is to plant your feet firmly on the ground and stop being pushed around. For six years you have apparently treated hubby like a tin god, giving in to his every whim, catering to every wish. Now you have about come to the limit of what you can give him, and in desperation seek something else you can do to appease him. I think you are not so concerned about freedom for yourself, as you are about satisfying your husband in every demand. His last request is downright unreasonable and unwise.

SHOULD A WIFE WORK OUTSIDE THE HOME?

No mother of small children should be forced to work outside her home unless circumstances make it necessary. What does your husband expect you to do with the youngsters while you work to satisfy his greed? There are few women who can do a thoroughly conscientious and competent job of raising children and keeping an outside position.

Those who are able to do it are gifted with exceptional talent and organization ability; theirs, however, is not a home standard that everyone can follow or admire. Most mothers like you, after cooking and cleaning, are often tired at the end of a day caring for strenuous youngsters. You have a whole-time job to manage a home and a family.

What you haven't learned to manage is a husband. Stop being so easy-going and insist on your rights instead of crying over their loss. And don't let your husband get away with the notion that merely because he earns a salary he has a right to drink too much and act like a boor.

Being assertive is difficult at first, especially when you have been too docile for so long, but it is the only way to handle a man as pig-headed as the one you have. Subtlety just doesn't go over with these males. You certainly have earned the right to manage your own home, and to expect consideration from your mate; you are entitled to some pleasure outside the home and he should show decent behavior when you are out together in public. Don't settle for less.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Can you say something about parents giving their children a loan when the young people are in a tight spot? Now that our children are well able to return the money to the old folks, they don't even invite us for a ride in the new car or over for an evening of TV. If we mention the fact that we need money, they get peeved and don't come to see us at all. C. D. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The young folks are most certainly obligated to pay back the loan—and with compound interest—when they can afford so many luxuries. They can never repay the love and devotion that went with the money, but they should have the decency to realize that Mom and Pop should be repaid. Keep tight hold on your purse strings after this. Don't fall for any more appeals for help.

Fairview Pupils Entertain Parents Hallowe'en Party

Costumes were judged by Mrs. Elmer Milburn and Mrs. Everett Cockburn. Prize for best dressed went to Bobbie Anderson, comic to Gordon Heard.

Following the program a musical contest was enjoyed and several games of bingo were played by everyone, in charge of trustees Bruce Heard and Vernon Olver.

Elmer Milburn gave a brief history of the school section. Parents provided a lunch of sandwiches, cake, cookies and candy and the children were treated to chocolate milk by the board.

Bruce Heard spoke briefly, calling attention to the new oil burner and said he hoped that they would be able to provide the school with a piano very soon. He also congratulated the teacher on the success of her concert.

Miss Hamilton expressed her appreciation to all parents, and anyone who had helped to make the evening such a success.

Hallowe'en Tea Held By Havelock W.I.

HAVELOCK (ENS). — The Havelock Women's Institute held a very successful Hallowe'en tea and sale of home baking on Saturday afternoon in the council chamber at the town hall. The proceeds amounted to $23.

The president, Mrs. Harry Pollock, received the guests who were served at quartette tables centred with Hallowe'en decorations. Mrs. G. W. Chiles poured tea at a lace covered table which had a lighted pumpkin as a centre decoration with yellow candles in silver holders on either side.

Mrs. L. H. Cooke and Mrs. A. Buckland were in charge of the bake sale. Mrs. J. Hoffman and Mrs. Grace Brown arranged the plates and serving were Mrs. Bert Jewell, Mrs. Fred McKenzie and Mrs. James Wilde. Mrs. H. Hoard was in charge of the fish pond and Mrs. R. Jones sold tickets on a cake donated by Mrs. Jewell, which was won by Mrs. Harry Pollock.

Y.P.U. Hallowe'en Party

SPRINGVILLE (ENS) —Howden Memorial Hall at Fairmont Church was gaily decorated by Myrna and Lila Syemour for the Springville Y.P.U. Hallowe'en party Saturday evening. The Young People's Group of Knox Church were guests of the local Union.

A feature of the evening was a masquerade in fancy dress costumes. Bob Morrison and Hazel McIntosh were judges and awarded the prize for the most gruesome costume to Gary Stevenson; for the most practical costume to Marilyn Bowles.

Much merriment and fun was created with fortune telling, dougnut eating contests, stepping relays and other games arranged by Myrna Seymour and Marilyn Bowles.

Catherine Earle and Bryce Larke conducted a short worship service.

The next meeting of the Y.P.U. will be held on Sunday evening, Nov. 9th at the home of Hazel McIntosh when some visitors from St. James' United Church are expected to be present.

Bedtime Snack solves laxative problem

"Constipation made me sullen all day. What a change since I started to use ALL-BRAN regularly! Even my wife notices it!" writes man from Ville Montmorency, Que. If you suffer from irregularity due to lack of bulk, try a bowlful of this toast cereal every night before bed. It may bring back the youthful regularity you thought long lost. ALL-BRAN is the only type ready-to-eat cereal that supplies all the bulk you may need. It's high in protein and iron. Not habit-forming. Kellogg's is so sure you'll like ALL-BRAN that if you're not completely satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg's, London, Ont., and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Placing Accent On Canadian Vegetables.

Two of my dear friends who are feeling the pinch—after spending what seemed like too much from their clothes-budget for snowsuits and winter underwear for their fast-growing children—asked me where they could economize.

I went over the old routine of cooked cereals versus packaged milk powder versus whole milk; cheese versus meat; Canadian vegetables versus imported—and may have managed to save a few pennies by this kind of bandying back and forth of economizing ideas.

But one girl said: "I get so fed up with the same round of vegetables each week."

Now we all know that it is a temptation to boil vegetables and serve them without much dressing up. But—our Canadian vegetables are our cheapest food right now and deserve our consideration and loving care when dinner time rolls round. Occasionally you can reduce your meat portions if you serve three attractive vegetables as an accompaniment.

Since I am giving you some methods of French frying Canadian vegetables I would like to suggest that you use oil for this for more than one reason. But the one I am stressing is the ease with which it is strained after using. I have even used oil for mayonnaise that has previously been used for frying. Of course it must be strained and chilled. Strain through triple cheesecloth resting over the sieve. This would not do if fish had been deep fried in it though—use it only for fish or meat after the first fish frying. I think vegetable oil goes further and handles more easily than solid fats for frying. Buy it in gallon cans to economize.

BREADED AND DEEP FRIED BRUSSELS SPROUTS

Trim Brussels sprouts and boil in plenty of salted water until the fork will just pierce them—they should be crisp and green and not soft. Drain. Cover them with fine breadcrumbs, then dip into beaten egg to which you have added 1 tablespoon cold water. Dip in crumbs again. Let stand on wax paper for 15 minutes, turning them over once. Deep fry in oil at 375 deg. Fahr. until deep gold and crisp, turning them over once. Skim out, drain on unglazed paper such as paper towel, sprinkle with dry grated cheese and serve at once.

FRENCH FRIED ONION RINGS

Slice large onions crosswise (¼-inch) and carefully separate into rings. Dip in fritter batter: Beat 1 egg, stir in ¼ cup milk. Sift together ½ cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon each baking powder and salt and add it and 1 teaspoon salad oil to the egg mixture. Let the onion rings drain a little after dipping in

Canadian Furs Prominent In Coronation Year Styles

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—It will be high summer at the Queen's coronation next year, but London's fur trade is out to take advantage of the occasion by showing the wide scope now possible in fur styling

Since most of these furs come from Canada, dominion visitors may be especially interested

One London furrier (S. London, Ltd.) says that for every 100 garments he sells, six are mink—and "all my best skins come from Canada." He also uses Canadian beaver, ermine and squirrel

JOINT DISPLAY

This furrier recently gave a combined show with one of London's foremost fashion designers (Charles Creed) as part of a move to emphasize the link between modern furs and the latest couture models.

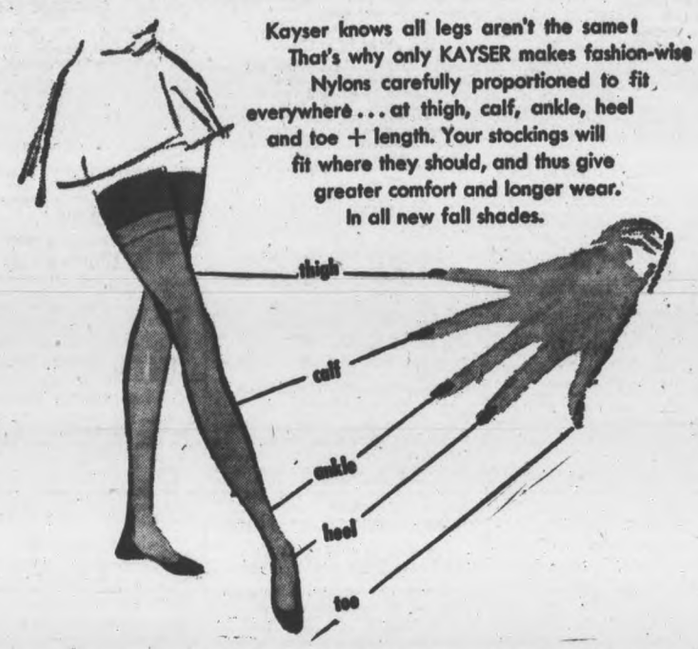
Such coats as a royal pastel mink, a development of mutation mink that resembles the finest characteristics of wild mink, made an elegant picture won over some of the exquisitely tailored suits and dresses for which the designer is noted.

This coat, with the new narrow width and knee flare, wide sleeves that cuff deeply to the three-quarter length and an easy roll collar, costs £1,475. A North American visitor can buy it for this price with a deduction allowed for dollar sales. A home buyer must pay £1,475 extra in sales tax.

FINE "TOP-COAT"

Equally suited as a "top-coat" for the slinkiest silk crepe dress or the latest thing in Scots tweed suits is a model named "Canada," a ranch mink coat with deep collar and diagonal working on the wide, narrow-cuffed sleeves. Untaxed, it costs £800.

A beautiful cape-jacket in Russian sable is called, surprisingly, "Alberta." Asked why such a coat should be christened for a Canadian province, the furrier replied that the name came from the style, not the fur. The original garment came in wild ranch mink and was repeated in other furs.



ROYAL PASTEL MINK — One of the most elegant fur coats which London furriers will display for visitors to the Queen's Coronation next year is a royal pastel mink, a development of mutation mink that resembles the finest characteristics of wild mink. With the new narrow width and knee flare, wide sleeves that cuff deeply to three-quarter length and an easy roll collar, it costs £1,475. A North American visitor will receive a deduction allowed for dollar sales.

Hydro Searches Albany River For Power Sites

TORONTO (CP) — Six Ontario Hydro Commission employees have returned home after spending three months in Ontario's northland surveying the Albany River.

The men—a survey chief, two surveyors, a geologist and two photographic experts — will take several weeks to complete a detailed report on eight possible power sites they discovered along a 130-mile stretch of water. The river flows into James Bay.

The men found what they expected to be a rugged mission no more than lonely, wet and strenuous. Two Indians, cook Jim McAuley and guide Charlie Miller, eased much of the expected monotony of living in the wilderness. Weekly flights kept the party supplied with mail and food.

A light radio developed by hydro engineers kept them in communication with the outside world through the hydro radio system. Speckled trout running to five and six pounds provided sport and variety to the menu.

Rain poured for 44 of the 87 days they were there. Often work was interrupted.

The men had the river pretty much to themselves. For eight weeks the only living persons they saw were four adventurous Minneapolis youths in canoes who passed their camp one day.

Bancroft Children's Hallowe'en Parade

BANCROFT (ENS).—Children paraded Hallowe'en night in connection with the annual parade and party sponsored by the Bancroft Home and School Association.

At the Community Hall a party was held for the youngsters and movies were shown. M. C. Jack Follis and Judges, Mrs. Fresque, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Russel and Rev. Borland awarded 34 prizes to costumed participants during the evening. Vandalism and pranksterism were at a minimum according to Police Chief Chapman, although enough to warrant his services and those of three deputies throughout the night. With the exception of one false fire alarm, no major cocurrences were reported.

Plan Adult Classes In Bancroft School

BANCROFT (ENS).—Meeting in the High School Auditorium, more than 120 citizens gave unanimous approval to the proposal to hold evening classes for adults in a variety of subjects during the coming season. The meeting was under the chairmanship of School Inspector Alec Smith. Costs, nature of the courses and curriculum, and enrolment arrangements will be decided at a later date. The courses will be subsidized by the Ontario Department of Education. A committee was formed under the chairmanship of High School principal Gordon Wragge for the purposes of organization and will receive suggestions as to subjects to be covered, enrolments and so on.

Saskatchewan Pilot Killed In Jet Crash

MONTREAL (CP)—The pilot of an R.C.A.F. Sabre jet, killed when his plane crashed yesterday near St. Mathias, Que., was identified today as FO. J.C. Peterson, 20, of Shackleton, Sask. The aircraft was operating out of the R.C.A.F. St. Hubert station, near Montreal.

Eye-witnesses at St. Mathias, just east of Montreal, said the plane raced over the village at 400 feet with smoke pouring from its tail.

ITALIAN SPINACH
(With Potatoes)

Cook 2 pounds well-washed spinach in the water which clings to it, until you can just cut through it with a sharp knife. Drain, but reserve liquor. In 2 tablespoons vegetable or olive oil saute 1 finely chopped clove of garlic until it is just golden. Add the cooked spinach and not more than 1 cup of the liquor drained from it and 4 medium-sized steamed potatoes, from which the skins have been peeled. Add 1 teaspon salt, ⅛ teaspoon cayenne if desired. As you occasionally turn this over mash the potatoes a little so they will soak up the moisture and flavors. Cook about 10 minutes over medium-low heat and serve very hot. Delicious with broiled meat cakes. Cooked dried navy beans or dried limas boiled may be use in place of potatoes. The garlic is a must.

Woman Has Had 96 Birthdays On Hallowe'en

Hallowe'en and her birthday fall on the same day for Mrs. Hettie and she has celebrated 96 Hallowe'en birthdays.

She was born in Reach township, near the village of Epsom, Oct. 31, 1865. She married the late Alex Rettie, Sept. 23, 1874. The couple had 12 children, of which seven are still living.

USED OXEN

Mrs. Rettie came to Somerville township at the age of nine. At that time the settlement was heavily timbered with pine and the work animals were oxen.

She remembers that the late Alex Rettie Sr. and Sam Suddaby introduced horses into that part of the country.

Mrs. Rettie's husband was a mill worker and for a time the family lived in British Columbia.

Mrs. Rettie has 29 grandchildren, and 57 great grandchildren.

112 Boys, Girls Fair Entrants

TORONTO (CP)—Sixty-nine boys and 43 girls from all provinces except Newfoundland will compete at the Royal Winter Fair here this month for national championships in clothing, cattle, swine, poultry, grain and potato projects.

Among the competitors, representing 4,440 Canadian 4-H clubs, are two all-girl teams from Ontario. Grace Hugill of Dundas and Marion Hall of Glanford Station will compete for dairy cattle honors. Ruth Ireland and Margaret Gilmour, both of Everett, will compete for beef cattle honors.

Twenty-five boys and 13 girls will represent Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Quebec will send six boys, Ontario eight girls and six boys, Manitoba 10 boys and four girls, Alberta and Saskatchewan eight boys and six girls each and British Columbia eight boys and four girls.

In addition to competing at the fair, the young farmers will visit Hamilton, Niagara Falls and Ottawa.

2 Hurt By Cars In Critical Condition

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A woman and a child, both injured yesterday in pedestrian accidents within and just outside the city boundaries remained in critical condition today.

Mrs. Joseph White, of Crediton, still was unconscious and St. Joseph's hospital attendants said her condition was "critical." She was hit by a truck yesterday afternoon and suffered severe head injuries.

Edith Clarke, 12-year-old daughter of Sidney Clarke, R.R. 8, London, was admitted to St. Joseph's hospital last night after she was knocked down by a car on Clarke sideroad.

Her condition was unchanged today. She suffered head and knee injuries.

Taxed Three Years For Non-Existant House

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Frank Billis complained to civic finance committee yesterday he has been taxed for three years for a house that never existed.

He said he owns three lots, only one of which has a house on it. However, he has been assessed for two houses, he said.

The committee decided to look into the matter. Its members told Mr. Billis that, in any case, the court of revision can rebate only one year's taxes.

Veteran, 111 Casts His Vote

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A crew of four assistants co-operated today as 111-year-old Jim Hard, the country's oldest surviving Union veteran of the Civil War, cast his vote for Gen. Eisenhower.

An ambulance crew of two men drove Hard to the polls, and carried him in a litter chair to the voting machine.

Two women poll workers, one from each party, assisted the blind veteran in casting his vote.

Hard says he cast his first vote for Abraham Lincoln. He says he has since voted in more than 80 elections.

ABILENE, Kans. (AP)—Of the first 44 votes cast in Dwight Eisenhower's home town in today's general election, 39 were for the Republican candidate for president. The early voting was heavy.

Six hours after she gave birth to a baby boy in hospital, the mother (accompanied by her husband in an ambulance) went ot the polls and cast her ballot.

School Girl Ill Third Polio Suspect

STRATFORD (CP)—A fourteen-year-old girl yesterday became the third person attending a school at nearby Elma township to be taken to hospital at London as a poliomyelitis suspect.

The girl, Lillian Carmichael, 14, was taken to hospital where Lloyd Hurst, 11, and public school teacher Donald Hay, 20, are under observation. Mr. Hay's condition was reported serious.

Three polio deaths have occurred in this district in the last month.

Immigration Act Breaches To Carry Stiffer Penalties

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Stiff penalties are in store for persons found guilty of assisting or encouraging the illegal entry of immigrants to Canada.

The penalties—penitentiary terms of up to five years and fines ranging to $5,000—are contained in a new Immigration Act effective after Jan. 1.

The act, passed at the last session of Parliament, replaces existing legislation which deals in a limited way with penalties for breaches of immigration regulations. It contains special sections dealing with penalties for immigration department employees involved in immigration rackets. The employees now are covered by sections concerning general breaches of regulations.

PROBE BROUGHT CHANGES

The new sections were drafted when investigation disclosed that some 200 to 300 immigrants entered Canada illegally last year with the assistance of immigration department employees in Montreal, Rome and Karlsruhe, Germany.

The R.C.M.P. recently completed an investigation of the illegal entries. The justice department is studying the report to see whether employees have been dismissd; two resigned before the investigation was launchd.

Meantime, some of the immigrants involved—the immigration department won't say how many—have been deported. Others have voluntarily returned to their country.

The immigration department stumbled on what it describes as the "racket" quite by accident. In the summer of 1951 an immigration inspector became suspicious of the documents carried by an immigrant at Dorval airport, near Montreal.

"When the documents were checked and investigated, the whole story of the racket unravelled," said an immigration department spokesman in an interview.

FARMERS APPROACHED

The investigation disclosed:

In Montreal, some travel agents offered to assist residents of Canada, anxious to bring relatives and friends from overseas. The agents approached farmers and gave them $50 to $100 to sponsor the movement of the "relatives and friends" to Canada as farmhands.

After the immigrants reached Canada, the agents collected a commission on their passage and a commission from those interested in seeing that the relatives and friends arrived. In some cases, the farmers never saw the immigrant In others, the immigrants were dismissed as unsuitable after a short time on the farm.

Montreal employees also gave different treatment to immigration applications. Some were handled in the order received. But for a "fee" some employees would give an application priority.

In Italy and in Germany, department employees issued entry permits to persons who did not submit to the medical and other tests given to immigrants.

The department estimates that between 200 and 300 immigrants gained illegal entry with the help of departmental employees. Each of the immigrants has been or will be checked and questioned.

So far, the check has shown that only a few could not qualify through regular channels.

Hohenzollerns Rule Again Last Of Kaiser's Sons Hopes

By BRACK CURRY

BONN, Germany (AP)—Prince Oskar of Prussia, last surviving son of Kaiser Wilhelm, apparently clings to the hope that the Hohenzollern family once again will rule Germany.

However, all the Prince, 64, will say is that: "the question of a return of the monarchy in Germany can only be answered by the German people themselves."

Prince Oskar, an old soldier turned charity worker, denies that the recent interment in Western Germany of two great Prussian kings—Frederick the Great and Frederick Wilhelm—has any political significance.

Rival Bavarian monarchists claim that placing the remains of the Kings in the family's old castle at Hechingen means the Hohenzollerns are giving up further pretensions to the German crown.

In an interview, Prince Oskar said this interment "is only provisional.

"The caskets belong in Potsdam and they will most surely be returned there as soon as possible."

Potsdam is the traditional home of the Hohenzollern kings. Since 1945 it has been the headquarters of the Soviet Army in East Germany.

The Prince declines to predict whether Germany will ever have a Kaiser again.

"I shall not discuss politics. I'm just a simple German citizen. Naturally I favor the reunification of Germany, as does every German who loves his Fatherland."

Tobacco was smoked and traded by the Indians in Canada before the coming of the white man.

"HOOK" OF DEATH—Under combined mortar and air barrage, U.N. and Communist units battle savagely for possession of "The Hook," a strategic front line hill in Korea. Observers reported the see-saw fighting was in "the tradition of Tarawa and Iwo Jima."

Justice Swift In Each Day Of Northwest

REGINA (CP)—One of Canada's oldest living ex-Mounties thinks the changes in the methods of law and order may not have all been for the better.

He's 88-year-old Fred Smith of Regina, who served with the Redcoats from 1887 to 1913. Now he lives on pension at the Veterans' Home in Regina. He's still active, ...entally and physically..

Reminiscing on the early days when the Indians were still potential trouble-makers, and the Yukon was gripped by the gold fever, Mr. Smith made some comparisons between the old and the new

"We didn't baby the criminals in my day," he said.

RUGGED TIMES

He enlisted in Toronto with the old Northwest Mounted Police and spent two years in Saskatoon before going to the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

Mr. Smith considers his best case was at Whitehorse in the Yukon. He said: "There was a Hudson's Bay Company factor robbed and murdered and I had an idea the men were two Yanks and a fellow known as Black Jack. The Yanks escaped to the United States but I thought I knew where Black Jack was and set out after him."

After tracking the suspect to a settler's cabin, Mr. Smith led his horse into a nearby barn before searching the cabin.

"I wasn't in the barn more than a minute before some straw fell from above and as I looked up, Black Jack jumped. My horse started to kick, which didn't help much, but I managed to get Black Jack under control and took him back."

The trial was held promptly and Black Jack was hanged the following day. Justice was swift in those times.

After retiring from the force, Mr. Smith enlisted in the Army Provost Corps and served in England during the First World War. Now he spends his time making leather wallets.

Ask For Sudbury Vote On Sunday Sports

SUDBURY (CP) — The Sudbury parks commission has asked city council for another vote on the commercial Sunday sports issue.

The neighboring townships of Nelson and Garson will vote this year on a by-law to legalize commercial Sunday sports and the Sudbury commission said city ratepayers should be given another chance to express their views in this year's municipal elections.

In the 1950 municipal elections, the by-law was defeated 6,354 to 3,117.

Falls 25 Ft. Off Pole Foreman Killed

THOROLD (CP) — Henry L. Thorpe, a transmission line foreman with the Welland ship canal here, was fatally injured yesterday when he fell 25 feet from a pole.

Canal authorities said he was carried into the air when the pole became over-balanced and he clung to the end. The other end struck the ground and he was shaken loose, they said.

John M. Creighton

Funeral services for the late John M. J. Creighton, 779 Romaine St., were held Monday morning from the Anglesey funeral home.

Requiem mass was celebrated at St. Alphonsus Church at 9 a.m. by the Rev. Dennis Coll, C.S.s.R., assisted by the Very Rev. R. MacDonald and the Rev. J. O'Donnell.

Also in the sanctuary were: Monsignor P. P. Butler, the Rev. J. V. Gilogly and the Rev. C. O'Donoghue.

Pallbearers were: Kenneth, Joseph and Edward Coss, Barry Thirnbeck, Frank Goselin and Dennis Oates.

Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery. Graveside prayers were said by the Very Rev. R. MacDonald, the Rev. J. V. Gilogly and the Rev. C. O'Donoghue.

End Baptist Meeting

CORNWALL (CP)—Ninety men representing Baptist churches in eastern Ontario and Montreal district Saturday concluded the 12th annual Baptist convention brotherhood conference. Frank Inrig of Toront, past president, addressed the closing banquet. The role of Baptist men in church work was the theme of sessions held Saturday Rev. Eric Quirk of Toronto, George Adam of Montreal and Bruce Matthews of Kingston led the discussions.

Condition Improves

GUELPH (CP) — Donald Stewart, 17, of Guelph who was critically injured in a car accident near Ariss Saturday, was reported in slightly better condition today, although his condition is still serious. An injured companion, Bert Pitman, 18, of Kitchener is well on the way to recovery, hospital officials reported.

Request Dismissed

CORNWALL (CP) — Counties council was advised yesterday the Board of Transport Commissioners had dismissed a request by New York Central Railway to discontinue passenger service between Helena, N.Y. and Ottawa. The railroad operates a partial passenger service on this line.

FIRE BLACKENED DEBRIS is scattered about the yard of the Columbus, Ohio, Penitentiary following a wild demonstration by 1,600 rioting prisoners. The smouldering chapel in the foreground is one of the six buildings burned and damaged by the milling convicts before they were returned to their cells. The prison is now surrounded by some 500 Highway and National Guardsmen as a precautionary measure against any mass escape attempts.

Democrats Have 81 Seats Fairly Secure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic candidates do not have to worry much about election returns for 81 seats in the House of Representatives, four senatorships and one governor's chair. They are unopposed or have only minor party opposition.

Republicans claim that those 81 House memberships are offset by the number of northern districts long considered "safe" for the Republicans even though Democrats run in them.

Democrats are unopposed in 74 southern districts this year. Six others won both major party nominations in California, and one has the Republican endorsement in New York's 18th where the American Labor candidate could prove troublesome in Vito Marcantonio's old bailiwick.

NO OPPOSITION

Republicans have no Democratic opposition for the House of Ohio's seventh, Iowa's eighth, and for one of the two at-large races in North Dakota. And eight more have both major party nominations in California.

Democratic senate candidates unopposed are Senators Spessard Holland of Florida, and John C. Stennis of Mississippi. A third, Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, has only minor party opposition, and a fourth, Price Daniel of Texas has Republican endorsement.

Republican Frederick G. Payne has already been elected in Maine, and Republican Senator William F. Knowland of California won both major nominations.

RECOVERING—This 11-week-old baby boy, shown here in an iron lung at Winnipeg, has a metal tube inserted in his windpipe so he can breathe. Poliomyelitis paralyzed his throat muscles. Children's hospital officials at Winnipeg said the boy is believed the youngest patient on the continent to undergo the delicate operation. He is reported to be recovering.

50 Classrooms Closed, No Teachers

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Newfoundland is slowly fighting its way out of a crisis in education but available figures indicate as many as 1,000 children are being kept out of school this year because of unstaffed classrooms.

A series of reshuffles and stopgaps have helped ease the staggering problem which faced authorities at the end of the summer vacation—100 schoolrooms closed 3,000 school-age youngsters denied an opportunity of getting their start in school.

Education Minister S. J. Hefferton says it now looks as though the situation isn't as bad as had been expected earlier. Children in many settlements, with their own schools closed, have managed to enrol elsewhere.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK

But 50 classrooms are still closed. And the prospect of improving the situation isn't bright.

One factor in the teacher shortage throughout the Eastern Province is a mounting discontent with salary scales which produced a strike in Cape Breton last year and is turning many potential educationists away from the profession.

But Dr. George C. Campbell, principal of Sydney Academy, told a meeting of Cape Breton Home and School Associations that much depends on the attitude of parents in the decision of young people to enter teaching. Teachers themselves can have a bigger influence.

Dr. Campbell recommended further professional training for teachers to improve standards, and felt the cost of the additional education should be wholly or partly borne by the government.

In Newfoundland, whose empty classrooms have put the province in the forefront of the teacher problem, some quarters claim the blame belongs not on professional shortages but in the sectarian system of education. It leaves school administration up to religious denominations and this was guaranteed in the terms of union which brought the island into Canada.

New Cities In Northland Within This Century

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Cities of 20,000 to 30,000 and maybe more will spring up in Canada's forbidding northland within this century.

That's the prediction of the Defence Department's senior authority on the Arctic.

Mining, says English-born Graham Rowley, is the fact that will carry civilization into the Arctic and sub-Arctic in the next 50 years, building cities where now there are only isolated airfields, mining camps and tiny settlements.

"Not only do I think this will happen," he said in an interview, "but I will be surprised if it doesn't happen."

KNOWS ARCTIC WELL

The opinion comes from a Cambridge University graduate who first started going into the Arctic years ago and spent a total of some years there before becoming the Defence Research Board's official responsible for correlating all northland studies from a defence standpoint.

This is the way he sees it:

Canada hasn't gone as far as other countries—the United States, Russia, Denmark—in developing her northland mainly because her small population has been too busy taming the country to the south. Nor has there been any pressure on Canadians to go north to seek land and space because there has been plenty in less bleak places.

The result is that the northland is a potential treasure house which Canadians have just started exploring.

NORTHWARD PUSH

But the opening of the north now is definitely on. Mining and oil exploration are the keys. One mining development after another has cropped up either in the Yukon, the Northwest Territories or in the far northern regions of the provinces such as Quebec and Saskatchewan. Explorations are pushing steadily forward.

This is almost certain to lead eventually to cities. The northern climate doesn't hold people back when economic opportunity offers.

Goose Bay, Chimo, Churchill, Whitehorse. . . these and other places which now count their inhabitants in the dozens and hundreds should some day be counting them in the thousands. They are all in what is known as the sub-Arctic.

As for the far Arctic itself, up north of the Arctic Circle, that is another phase, says Graham Rowley. That will take a little longer.

Marmora Hunters Bag Five Deer

MARMORA (ENS). — If the opening day of the hunting season as experienced in the Marmora district is any criterion of what is to follow, venison steak will grace many a table this November. Hunting parties are plentiful and most of those encountered, report good success on the first day. Carman Wright bagged one early in the forenoon. Milton Campbell tallied for his party in Rawdon township. Joseph Curtis of Havelock displayed a deer here on Monday afternoon which proved an easy shot for him in Methuen township. Wesley Wannamaker reported that the Beaver Lodge party shot a couple in the Beaver Creek vicinity.

87 Robberies In 18 Months

SUNDERLAND, England (CP)—A prominent member of Sunderland's Mother's Union, 34-year-old Mrs. Sarah Atkinson, has been sentenced to five years in prison following a career of crime extending over three years.

Married 14 years ago and described by her husband as an ideal wife and dutiful mother to her 12-year-old son, Mrs. Atkinson admitted she had broken into 87 homes and stolen property to the value of about $2,400. Police recovered some $750 worth of the loot

After police had been hunting the housebreaker for 18 months, Mrs. Rhoda Watson one day surprised a woman in her home. The prowler claimed she had entered the house by mistake and after apologizing left hurriedly. Later, Mrs. Watson discovered that a sum of money was missing.

Three weeks later Mrs. Watson saw the woman looking in a shop window and informed the police. But several weeks elapsed before police caught her in the act of housebreaking.

Counsel for Mrs. Atkinson told the court she had got into financial difficulties. Once launched on her secret life of crime and discovering how easy it was, she had become obsessed with the idea of breaking into houses and was unable to stop.

Hastings Legion Burns Mortgage

HASTINGS (ENS). — Hastings Branch 106 Canadian Legion held a smoker Friday at which the mortgage on the Legion hall was burned.

Pres. Com. E. Richardson opened the meeting. District Commander Jack Burnett, Cobourg, addressed the meeting and presented Past President's medals to Comrades Iden Bonds, Sr., James Ryder and F. S. Crate. Com. Burnett was assisted by Zone Com. Cy Hopkins of Lakefield.

Pres. Richardson then called on Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Com. A. J. Spears of Toronto, Bruce Jandrew and M. A. O'Shea who all gave brief messages.

Branch 106 will hold a memorial service in the Town Hall on Sunday, November 9th at 2:30 p.m. The Peterborough C.G.E. Pipe Band will be in attendance.

Jap Reds Blame U.S. For Defeat

By FRED SAITO

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese Communists, smarting from their smashing defeat in the Oct. 1 national elections, now charge that the victorious Liberal Party bought votes with funds supplied by the "crudely intervening" Americans.

The Red charges, widely trumpeted by Russian and Red China radio, are falling on deaf ears. Few Japanese believe any American soldiers or officials intervened in the first elections since Japan gained post-war independence.

To impartial observers, the American authorities appeared as shy as burned cats about the elections.

DO NOT LIKE REDS

In handing the Liberals an absolute majority of seats in the 466-member House of Representatives, the voters indicated they did not agree with the Communists who call American security forces here an "occupation." The Liberals were returned to power on a pro-American platform. Not a single Communist of 107 candidates was elected.

No Japanese says that the October general elections were completely clean, but many claim it was the "freest" election they have had in 15 years.

Japanese police made no discrimination between government party or opposition in cracking down on offenders.

National police headquarters Oct. 3 announced 10,121 persons, including 18 candidates, both elected and defeated, were arrested for violation of the Japanese election law.

After Oct. 4 a few hundred more campaigners and several candidates were arrested.

Before the Pacific War, Japanese police, entirely controlled by the Home Ministry, worked as watchdogs for the administration. Even so, the Japanese voters often voted down the government.

During the war Gen. Hieki Tojo hand-picked the candidates, gave them campaign funds and "recommended" them to the voters. The people still elected more than a dozen statesmen snubbed by the military.

NOT ALL BY REDS

Not all claims that American funds were used in the campaign were made by the Communists. The magazine "Oriental Economist," for instance, charged Maoru Shigemitsu, former war criminal and leader of the Progressive Party, with receiving millions of Yen from a U.S. lawyer on behalf of U.S. Ambassador Robert Murphy.

The dominant Liberal Party itself does not appear incorruptible. Japanese newspapers say the party, a staunch support of capitalism, was financed with 200,000,000 yen ($550,000) donated by powerful financial interests Not a few of the candidates were thriving industrialists or businessmen commanding ample campaign funds of their own.

Lepers Wound Man

BARI, Italy (Reuters)—Two lepers shot and seriously wounded a man who reported their infection to the police, it was reported last night from the village of Sannicandro. Police had warned the lepers, Francesco and Vincenzo Baccelieri, to enter a hospital for treatment. The police told the brothers that Lorenzo Angiuli had reported them.

3 Killed By Fumes

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP)—A 17-year-old baby sitter and two small children were found dead from illuminating gas early today. The bodies of Elsie Greenwood and Charlotte Ann Dubuque, 4, and Wayne Dubuque, 2, were found in the gas-filled apartment by the small children's mother, Mrs. Fred Dubuque.

Scoring Honors Curtis Clinching

TORONTO (CP)—Ulysses Curtis, Negro backfielder with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union, has all but clinched scoring honors in senior Eastern Canada football.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the formed Florida A and M flash with 75 points on 15 touchdowns, five more than the total posted by Corky Duchene of Sarnia Imperials who closed out the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union schedule last Saturday with 70, manufactured in 14 majors.

Curtis romped over for two touchdowns Sunday as Argonauts whipped Montreal Alouettes 29-18 and the 10 points sent him into a clear 25-point Big Four lead over second-place Hal Waggoner of Hamilton Tiger-Cats with only one game remaining in the schedule for each team.

Tip Logan, also of Tiger-Cats, holds the third spot with 48 points, three more than Ottawa Rough Riders' Choo-Choo Roberts.

Ray Truant of University of Western Ontario Mustangs leads intercollegiate scorers with 24. He is three points up on Bill Bewley of University of Toronto Blues.

First man to build a steamboat in the United States, John Fitch demonstrated his invention in 1785.

Canadian Chinese Abandon Hope Bones Will Be Buried In China

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's older Chinese have practically abandoned hope that their bones will be buried in China.

At present, two bodies are preserved in an undertaking parlor here, and in a Victoria warehouse lie 847 sets of bones, also waiting for the long journey to China which may now never be made.

"The older people now expect they will be buried in Canada," said Foon Sien, head of Vancouver's Chinese Benevolent Association. "We would have to get permission from the Red government of China to ship the remains to that country, and they probably would refuse because they are not interested in that sort of thing."

"Also, we no longer have ship connection from British Columbia to China and to tranship down through the United States would be to expensive for most families," he said.

Sien said only the very old people are interested in being buried in the far east anyway.

THINK DIFFERENTLY

"The young people have the same views as any other Canadians," he said.

Sien explained that the discrimination met by the first Chinese in B.C. was the origin of the desire to "go home" in death They would return to their homeland when they had enough money to live there comfortably or at least return to die.

In the 1930s the Benevolent Association and the Ming Yung Association started a scheme to remove all the bones of elder Chinese to the far east. Thousands were shipped at $16 to $18 per set. The last shipment went in 1937.

Then came the Japanese War, the Second World War and the civil war.

South Korean Army Will Be Increased

TOKYO (AP)—Brig.-Gen. Cornelius Ryan said today he had "received information that a sizable increase in the South Korean army had been ordered in Washington."

Ryan, whose headquarters are in Taegu, Korea, told The Associated Press by telephone that "the exact size of the increase of South Korean troops is classified information, but it's going to be substantial."

Gen. Mark Clark, Far East commander, recommended some time ago that the South Korean army be increased by "several divisions."

The defence department confirmed last week that this recommendation had been approved.

Plans Annnounced For Remembrance Day

Wreaths will be placed at the national war memorial by Governor-General Vincent Massey, Prime Minister St. Laurent, Dr. C. B. Lumsden of Wolfville, N.S., Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, and the mother of a service man killed in action

Following the war memorial ceremony, the Governor-General will take the salute at a marchpast in front of the Parliament Buildings.

Obituary

HARRY SAUNDERS

BETHANY (ENS).—Word has been received here of the death of Harry Saunders, aged 56 years in Santa Rosa Sanitorium, California.

Mr. Saunders was the only son of the late Robert and Elizabeth Saunders of Franklin (R.R. 1, Bethany). It is more than 30 years since he left this district. He was in the plumbing business in Santa Rosa until five years ago when he contracted tuberculosis and entered as a patient in the Sanitorium. In the last year his health had failed rapidly. Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Leonard Driver (Florence) of Bethany; Mrs. E. Lywood (Edna) of Lindsay and Mrs. N. Cordingley (Nettie) Toronto.

In receiving word of his death, his sister in Bethany has been notified that the cremated remains are to be sent to Bethany for interment in the family plot at Fallis cemetery.

Credit Facilities Causing

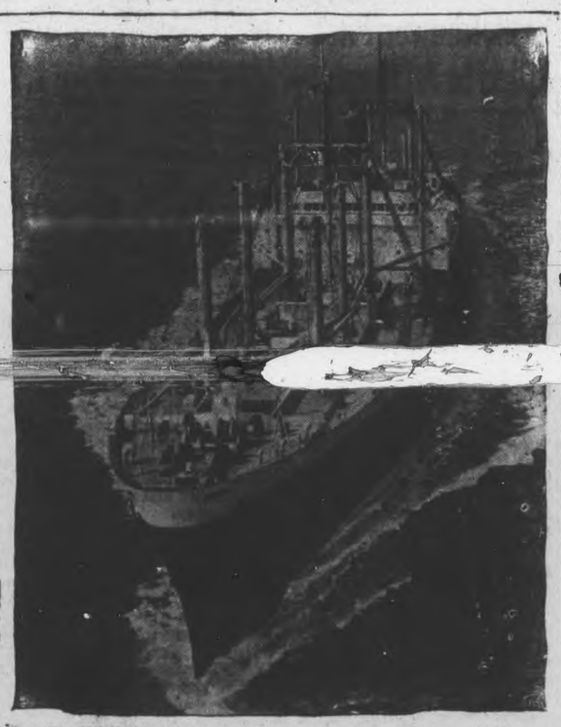
By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON (CP) — Foreign trade competition, bolstered by more acceptable credit facilities and barter deals, is causing increasing concern among British manufacturers, especially those engaged in production of electrical equipment, vehicles and machinery.

Chancellor of the Exchequer, R.A. Butler, has already announced the government's decision to ease exchange controls governing export credits, but spokesmen for the industries complain that the new directives do not go far enough.

They assert that important contracts are being lost to Germany, Italy, France, and in some instances to the United States, because manufacturers there are able to offer better credit facilities than United Kingdom exporters.

Pakistan's finance minister, H. Ahmed, head of the purchasing commission that visited London, went on to negotiate deals for £1,000,000 worth of diesel engines from the United States, telephone gear from Germany and railway coaches from Belgium when three-year delays were pending in Great Britain.



Ahmed also reported that the German order is not only being fulfilled promptly, but that the Germans have set up a special organization offering industrial training facilities to Pakistanis.

LOST ORDER

Another United Kingdom Company reported it had lost an order for 700 trolley-buses because of its inability to match the credit terms offered by competing German interests. Other firms have complained they face loss of prospective contracts for Italy, because of more favorable credit and barter inducements.

Official quarters were inclined to minimize the gravity of the complaints. It was admitted that credit facilities in some instances had been unavoidably delayed and sometimes refused. Based on policy, it was explained, credit terms were not approved for projected exports to countries experiencing payments difficulties.

Trouble also arose at times, government officials said, due to differences of view between the exporter and the authorities over the desirability or otherwise of certain shipments.

HIT BY INFLATION—A prime example of how inflation gives the taxpayers less for their money is symbolized by the SS Old Dominion Mariner, above. It is one of a fleet of "Mariner" ships being built for the government to replace the old Liberty and Victory ships of World War II. In 1950 Congress appropriated $350,000,000 to provide 50 such ships at $7,000,000 apiece. But today—two inflation years later—the average contract price for the first 25 Mariner ships is $8,500,000 and the cost per ship will have risen to nearly $10,000,000 before the last one is completed in 1954. So the U.S. will get only 35 Mariners instead of the desired 50.

Three Africans Shot In Fight

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters)—Three Africans were shot dead and four injured in a battle with police here last night.

Police opened fire in reply to a hail of rocks thrown by rioters protesting against increased rents at a state hostel. One policeman was injured.

The Africans had trapped the hostel superintendent, M. Craig, in his office. The police forced their way through the rioters to free him.

The outbreak of violence was the first in several days in race-torn South Africa where a campaign against racial segregation laws is being waged by the colored (non-white) population.

Fred Houchin Heads Council

BONARLAW — (ENS) —Fred Houchin was installed as president of the Stirling, Rawdon and Marmora Ontario Council of Christian Education, Wednesday.

The installation of officers for 1952-53 was held at the annual convention of the council in Springbrook United Church. The guest speaker was the Rev. J. A. Foster, head of boys' parliament for several years. The Bible in Christian Education, was the theme used by Mr. Foster in both his afternoon and evening addresses.

The following members of the new executive were also installed: A. W. Drew, past president; Harold Hagerman, 1st vice-president; Orno Sharpe, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Don Heath, secretary-treasurer; Murray Meiklejohn, temperance convener; Miss Gena Spry, children's work convener; Mrs. Joe Thompson, girls' convener; the Rev. R. R. Bonnsteel, boys' convener; Mrs. Burton Heagle, young people's convener; Mrs. H. Smith, missionary convener; the Rev. H. Beare, leadership convener.

Mrs. J. Thompson directed the choral Bible reading.

A motion was passed asking that the provisions of the Hope Report be implemented at the earliest possible date.

Mr. Houchin, president, acted as chairman for the convention.

Dr. Jordan Says

Poor Posture, Overweight Aid To Osteoarthritis

By EDWARD P. JORDAN, M.D.

Too many people become unnecessarily alarmed when they are told that they have osteoarthritis because they fear serious pain or crippling. Actually, this condition — also called hypertrophic or degenerative arthritis —really should not be called arthritis at all. It is a mild degeneration or wearing out of some of the structures which make up the joints.

Exactly what causes osteoarthritis is not entirely understood. There may be an inherited factor; that is, the cartillage and bone of persons in some families may be particularly susceptible to early degeneration.

Repeated injury also seems to promote the development of this condition. Poor posture, disturbances of blood circulation, and overweight are other conditions which contribute to its development.

The end joints of the fingers frequently become enlarged. This is often accompanied by a certain amount of stiffness and soreness, though this usually disappears after the joints have been loosened up. These enlargements are common in later years and are called Heberden's nodes.

Other joints commonly involved are the knees, shoulders, elbows and spine. Sometimes degeneration may be pretty well advanced without producing any noticeable pain or stiffness. Osteoarthritis is often found accidentally when an X-ray film is taken for something else.

The treatment of degenerative changes in the joints includes general measures aimed at relieving the discomfort and improving the overall physical condition. Local measures designed to relieve the involved joints and prevent or correct any difficulties which are present are also used. Occupational strains should be eliminated whenever possible and posture should be corrected.

REDUCING IS ADVISABLE

Because so many people with osteoarthritis are fat, reducing is often advisable. This is especially important if the knees are involved. If they have to carry 200 pounds when they have the frame to carry 130, they are obviously overloaded.

People with osteoarthritis are rarely badly incapacitated and usually move about, though often with some discomfort. They do need frequent rest periods, for this seems to relieve some of the stiff feeling.

No Settlement Seen In Sight

SARNIA (CP)—A majority of Sarnia's 2,800 union construction workers were back at work yesterday, but their return was no indication of an early settlement of the dispute which caused their walkout last Wednesday.

Pickets remained alert on defence housing projects on Lakeshore Road where contractors were accused of hiring non-union tradesmen from out of town.

Union officials said the pickets would be out again in strength at all of the nine affected housing projects "if we see any suggestion they are trying to resume construction work."

Meanwhile the nine contractors had another meeting behind closed doors. Legal representative William Donohue said there was "nothing new to report."

RHEUMATIC PAIN

Can Be Costly!

"This winter I had to quit work because of rheumatic pain," writes Mr. T. Glofcheskie, Wilno, Ont. "I became fearful of being laid up as on a previous occasion with rheumatic pain. My pain became increasingly severe and spread from hip to ankle. Out of bed, the leg felt cold as though in cold water, so I stayed in bed. A friend persuaded me to take T-R-C's and I'm glad I did. In a short while I was relieved of my pain and was soon on the job again."

Urges Municipalities Relieved Health Costs

TORONTO (CP)—Relieving Ontario municipalities of their burden for certain health costs was suggested last night by E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, as a good place to start work on establishment of a national health plan.

In a CBC provincial affairs series broadcast, Mr. Jolliffe said Premier Frost should be urged to give such relief. "Instead of abusing the municipalities and telling them to tighten their belts, he should be using some of his swollen surpluses to take up burdens which they cannot carry on any longer."

Just how soon a national plan is set up "depends on you and me. If we apply the necessary pressure it could be very soon. If we don't, it might take 100 years."

Ratepayers Only To Vote On Railway

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The election-day vote on the future of London and Port Stanley Railway passenger service will be restricted to ratepayers.

City council reached this decision last night after a 90-minute wrangle which included nine recorded votes and three other motions on which no formal division took place.

Alderman E. Gordon Gilbride led the fight to put the Dec. 1 question to ratepayers only, rather than to all electors.

Can Analyze Stars By Clothes

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A new way to analyze your friends: take a gander at their clothes.

Hollywood designer Clinton Stoner claims you can learn much about a person's true nature by what he wears.

Stoner designs and makes sports wear for such stars as Cary Grant, Van Johnson, Joan Crawford, Betty Hutton, Dick Powell, Fred Astaire and Barbara Stanwyck. He remarked that he can judge his customers as well as his non-customers by what they wear.

"Take Van Johnson," he suggested. "We make him hand-knit red socks which he wears with formal evening attire. He also wears a shoestring bow tie and now he's taken to bright red gaiters for formal occasion. He can't think it's good taste. It's a gag with him and shows his whimsical nature and defiance of tradition.

"Then there's Gary Cooper. On business occasions he dresses with utmost care—strictly Bond street. But for the outdoors he goes wild with coral slacks, fancy shirts and moccasins. This would indicate a split personality.

ELEGANT LADY

"Joan Crawford always dresses as the elegant lady. She is strictly feminine and never wears slacks in public. Her elegance has been carefully acquired and is a reaction from her original background.

"Marilyn Monroe wears low necklines and tight skirts because she is merchandizing her assets. She would be silly not to. Her attire tabs her as a girl who is ambitious to be well known.

"Marlon Brando's sloppy dress is deliberate and calculated. Brando is making himself a character. His clothes also reveal that he wants to proclaim himself as independent and unregimented."

Stoner volunteered to name the best-and worst-dressed males in the movie business.

"I would have to name Cary Grant as the best-dressed," he observed. "His taste is impeccable. Not only does he always wear good-looking clothes, he also has something that few men possess—flair.

"Orson Welles takes the worst-dressed honors. I understand he has now taken to wearing white linen suits that are deliberately dirty."

Guard At Wreckage Of Crashed Plane

MONTREAL (CP)—A guard has been placed around the wreckage of an R.C.A.F. Sabre jet which crashed yesterday near St. Thomas a village just east of Montreal, killing the pilot.

A spokesman for the R.C.A.F. station at St. Hubert, just off the island of Montreal, where the aircraft was based said an investigating party is to go to the scene of the crash today.

Name of the pilot has been withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Red Ensigns Few In Korea So Van Doos Get New Flag

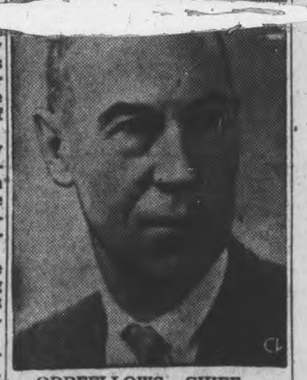
By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA

Actually, they're trying out a "pilot model," which now waves in a Korean valley outside headquarters of the 1st Battalion, the Royal 22nd Regiment.

The model—made to order in Japan at a cost of $13.75—is an experiment to see how the dyes in it stand up to the weather.

It is three feet by six, with a dark blue background in the centre of which is the regiment's famous gold beaver. On the bias of each of the four corners is a silver fleur-de-lys, shaped something like a crown and pointing toward the centre. The material is a pre



Reason for the flag lies primarily in the scarcity here of Canada's traditional red ensigns. After months of trying to get one, the unit decided to produce a flag of its own.

The Van Doos do not forget they have a regimental flag, colors presented by the late Marshal Foch of France, and renewed since the Second World War by Field Marshal Earl Alexander as Governor-General.

Those colors, laid up in the chapel of Quebec's citadel, belong to all battalions of the regiment and are used for ceremonial occasions.

Lt.-Col. Louis F. Trudeau, officer commanding this battalion, felt a battle flag was needed. He hopes the present design will be adopted by the other battalions. But already it is official for his.

Meanwhile, another Canadian unit, the 1st Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, flew its flag in full view of the Chinese. From a well-braced 30-foot mast atop Little Gibraltar, which daily the Chinese tried to knock down with artillery and mortar, the flag waved tauntingly, visible for miles.

CGE Prepares To Seize Union Dues

U.E. Officers Refuse To Pay $9,200 After Board Ruling

TORONTO.—The Canadian General Electric Co. Tuesday squared off for a battle with the United Electrical Workers by announcing plans to seize the union's check-off dues because the union has refused to pay a $9,200 damage award in favor of the company against the union.

The award was made by an arbitration board last June for loss incurred by the company during a series of wildcat work stoppages at its Davenport plant.

Damages were awarded by the board, under chairmanship of Prof. Bora Laskin, on the basis of breach of a no-strike clause in the collective agreement.

The company's threat to seize the dues, which it deducts from the pay of the 1,400 production workers, was made after the union refused to pay the award, which it termed beyond the jurisdiction of the arbitration board.

ILLEGAL SEIZURE

UE Canadian director C. S. Jackson last night described the company's move as "illegal seizure of employees' wages" and said the union will take all necessary steps to protect the workers and the union. GE said it would start deductions Thursday.

CGE's intentions were disclosed in a letter to UE Local 507 after an Oct. 29 deadline set by the company for payment of the $9,200 had passed.

The arbitration board's award is believed the first in which an arbitration tribunal in Canada was called on to hear a claim for damages by a company against a union for breach of a collective agreement.

Action by the company to seize the check-off dues is believed the first move by a company to lay a claim on union dues collected by a firm on behalf of the union.

A majority of the 1,400 employees have 50 cents a week taken off their pay for union dues. Weekly deduction total approximately $500. All the employees are not union members.

BASED ON FINDING

The award was based on a finding by the arbitration board that the union had done nothing to disown the work stoppages, and encouraged their continuance by failing to take immediate and firm steps to end the walkout.

The $9,200 represented loss of profits and continuing expenses entailed in maintaining the plant during the period when there was no production.

The decision is regarded as of major significance in labor relations since it establishes the principle that unions are financially liable for illegal strike action in

A SMILING EISENHOWER is shown here as news was confirmed of his election as president of the United States. His victory ends 20 years of Democratic rule. His debut in politics has been a smashing success.

Republicans Edge Toward Control

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans edged out in front today in the fight for control of the House of Representatives in the new Congress, and were in a nip-and-tuck battle with the Democrats for dominance in the Senate. With 46 House and six Senate contests undecided, it was plain that whichever party finally won control would have it only by the slimmest of margins. The party with numerical superiority has power to organize Congress, taking the major jobs, and dominate committees that shape legislation.

Here's how the contest shaped up in mid-morning:

Senate (needed for control 49)—Democrats elected 10, holdovers 35; Republicans elected 19, holdovers 26 including Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who quit the party to support Governor Adlai Stevenson.

STILL UP IN AIR

In the six Senate contests still up in the air, Democrats were leading in Montana and New Mexico. Republicans were ahead in Kentucky, Wyoming, Arizona and Michigan.

House (needed for control 218)—Republicans elected 199, Democrats 189, independent 1. The 46 House seats still undecided include 13 now held by the Republicans, 28 held by Democrats, and eight new districts.

There was a possibility that the counting of absentee ballots in some states might finally determine which early controls the house.

Prison Riot Has Collapsed

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Haggard Ohio penitentiary officials today began transfer of 150 prisoners to Camp Perry on Lake Erie following collapse of a $1,000,000 prison riot. The melee brought death to one convict and wounds to four others and a state highway patrolman.

While buses were getting ready for the trip to Camp Perry, prison guards shook down the 1,600 holdout convicts who surrendered late yesterday inside beleaguered cellblocks G, H, I and K.

The transfer to Camp Perry will be the largest movement of convicts in the prison's history—even larger than the one in 1930 when a fire killed 320. The movement will give Warden Ralph W. Alvis a place to put "hard core" prisoners while broken cell locks are repaired.

Guards lined up the sullen holdouts in the prison courtyard, near the shells of four burned-out buildings. The convicts were searched for weapons.

The prisoners were out of control from Friday evening until their surrender yesterday.

Solemn Eisenhower Thanks Voters After Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower stood there early today, solemn and unsmiling, holding a piece of paper in his hand.

It was a long moment before he could speak.

The people in the Hotel Commodore's big ballroom were frantic with delight and excitement. Confetti. Others embraced each other. The hoarse cries and the shrieking and screaming swelled into a frenzy.

Eisenhower tried again. Then, through the din, he began to speak.

"I am indeed as humbled as I am proud," he said.

With his first words, the roar subsided.

What he had to say was quickly and soberly said.

CONGRATULATED BY ADLAI

First, he read a telegram of congratulations from Governor Adlai E. Stevenson. Then he read his reply:

"I thank you for your courteous and generous message. Recognizing the intensity of the difficulties that lie ahead, it is clearly necessary that men and women of goodwill of both parties forget the political strife of the past and devote themselves to a single purpose of a better future. This I believe they will do."

The storm of applause and excitement burst again. Eisenhower quickly stilled it.

He said, "it is trite to say that this is a day of dedication rather than triumph . . . I recognize clearly the weight of the responsibilities that you have placed on me, and I assure you that I shall never in my service in Washington give short weight to those responsibilities."

His voice was grave. He spoke slowly.

Afterward, his press secretary, [illegible] announced that a few people on his personal staff would leave this afternoon for a 10-day rest at Augusta, Ga.

KOREAN TRIP QUESTION

Whether Eisenhower will begin his new task with a trip to Korea—before the inauguration in January—still is not known. In the closing days of the campaign, he pledged himself to go to the scene of the Korean War for a personal inspection. He placed the achieving of peace as the first and greatest objective of his work, and he said he felt he could best make the start by visiting the battlefields and studying the Korean problem on the ground.

Hagerty said "there has never been a schedule, so far as I know" made for the Korean trip.

An almost unnoticed symbol of his new status then appeared in the room. Three secret service agents mingled with the group of people clustered around the president-elect. From now on, there will be few moments when Eisenhower is out of their sight.

R.A.F. To Train Philip As Flier

LONDON (Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh, sailor husband of the Queen, yesterday passed a physical [illegible] soon begin taking flying lessons, it was learned last night. Preparations have been made at the R.A.F. base at White Waltham, where he will train.

A new Chipmunk training plane has been delivered and is kept under strict night-and-day guard. A police dog is locked up inside the hangar with it each night.

Flt. Lt. C. R. Gordon, 28, jet flier who will instruct the Duke, tests the Chipmunk daily after it is serviced.

The Duke is five years past the normal maximum age of 26 at which R.A.F. trainees are usually accepted. Rivalry between the R.A.F. and the Fleet Air Arm for the honor of teaching him was sharp. He is a commander in the Royal Navy.

The late King was 23 when he qualified as a pilot.

Popular Standing

WASHINGTON (AP) —At 1:30 p.m. E.S.T. returns from 123,373 of 146,361 voting units showed the popular vote: Eisenhower, 29,569,799; Stevenson, 23,765,280.

Tidal Waves Follow Big 'Quake

Officials Declare Shock Huge One Off Soviet Siberia

OTTAWA (CP) — A giant earthquake near the southern tip of Siberian Kamchatka Peninsula Tuesday rocked delicate recording instruments here and elsewhere, and sent tidal waves racing across the North Pacific.

Along the British Columbia coast the waves were hardly felt, but the less-protected Aleutian Islands in the north and Midway and the Hawaiian Islands were hit by waves between six and 13 feet high.

First report of the shock came from Ottawa's Dominion Observatory at 12:09 p.m. EST. It was first believed to be a strong quake within 600 miles of Ottawa, but when the seismpgraph continued to show vibrations Dr. John D. Hodgson, Dominion Seismologist, decided it must be a great distance away and of "very, very great magnitude."

REPORTS FLOW IN

Other reports from Victoria, Pasadena, Calif., Honolulu, Washington and New York finally placed the centre of the quake near Kamchatka Peninsula, which juts southward into the Pacific from Soviet Siberia. Earlier reports led scientists to think the quake might be centred near the mouth of Canada's Mackenzie River, in the Northwest Territories.

All scientists agreed the earth tremor was a giant one.

Dr. Charles Richter of the California Institute of Technology said it was one of the "really great earthquakes."

Ottawa's seismograph continued to record tremors for several hours and two large "after-shocks" were felt about four hours after the first shock. Dr. Hodgson said a quake of this size might be followed by about 100 after-shocks during the next week.

POSSIBLE TIDAL WAVES

The coast of British Columbia was told of possible tidal waves and R.C.A.F. air-sea rescue operations were put on the alert for a short time. All seaplanes were removed from the water or double-moored as a precaution.

Weather stations along up-coast British Columbia, however, reported only "moderate swells." Farther south as far as California nothing more than a rise of inches in the tide level was reported.

Canadian weather ships far out in the Pacific noted nothing unusual in sea conditions and there were no distress signals from ships in Alaskan waters.

Japanese Court Frees 2 British Sailors

TOKYO (Reuters)— A Japanese court today freed two British sailors who had been jailed for 2½ years for stealing a taxi and robbing its driver of 1,700 yen (about $4.75). They had served four months of their sentence.

The Osaka high court reaffirmed the men's guilt, upheld Japan's jurisdiction in the case (which had been disputed by Britain) and approved the original sentence. It then suspended the sentence for three years.

The sailors, Peter Stenner and Derek Smith, were taken under escort to the British base at Kure where they will face a court of inquiry.

Coast-To-Coast Landslide Victory Ends 20 Years Of Democratic Rule In U.S.; Republicans Have Slight Edge In Senate

By MEL SUFRIN

NEW YORK (CP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected president of the United States yesterday in a landslide that gave him the largest vote for a presidential candidate in the country's election history. But despite the tremendous popular vote for the 62-year-old general, control of Congress teetered between Republicans and Democrats as counting of the votes continued today.

With about 25,000 precincts yet to be tabulated, Stevenson had 23,470,798 votes while Eisenhower had rolled up 29,124,001—well over the previous record of 27,751,597 set by Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936 and far above the Republican mark of 22,305,198 set by Wendell Willkie in 1940.

BATTLE TO FINAL COUNT IN BOTH HOUSES

Eisenhower's victory shattered a 20-year Democratic hold on the White House. But despite his sweep through the length and breadth of the U.S.—including a deep cut into the no-longer solid south—the two major parties fought to the final count for what could only be hairline control of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Republicans had a slight edge in the struggle to organize the two houses and thus control their important committees. But the closeness of the congressional struggle was a sharp contrast to Eisenhower's more than 5,000,000 popular vote advantage over Stevenson.

The fight was so close that the Senate might wind up Republican and the House Democratic, or vice versa. Absentee ballots, or an independent vote, might settle the issue in either house.

A minimum of 48 seats, plus a tie-breaking vice-presidential vote, is needed for Senate control. In the House, 218 votes are needed. Both parties were close, but neither had the prize.

Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, a Republican who switched to Stevenson during the campaign, was the independent vote in the Senate. He wasn't saying how he would vote.

Stevenson, who conceded defeat in the early morning hours, lost his own state of Illinois, trailed in President Truman's home state of Missouri and seemed likely to have to content himself with the remnants of once-impregnable Dixie.

He won or was leading in only nine southern states with a meagre 89 electoral votes. Eisenhower had cinched or was leading in 39 states, with 442 votes—176 more than the 266 needed for election.

CONTINUATION OF POLICY AGAINST COMMUNISM

News of Eisenhower's victory was hailed in the free world's capitals as indicating a continuation of American policy of resisting communism. The stock market went up.

In Springfield, Ill., Stevenson philosophically conceded the victory to Eisenhower, called on all Americans to "close ranks" and pledged his support to the winner.

Eisenhower, wildly cheered when he appeared in a New York hotel ballroom, matched his opponent's unity plea, said it was "a day of dedication rather than triumph" and pledged that he never will give "short weight" to his responsibilities in Washington.

With more than 47,000,000 of the estimated 55,000,000 or more ballots counted, the popular vote tabulation at 8 a.m., EST, stood:

The general already had passed the record high for a Republican—the 22,305,198 rolled up by Wendell L. Willkie in 1940—but still was short of the 27,751,597 amassed by Roosevelt in 1936.

IKE GETTING 57% OF POPULAR VOTE

However, Ike was getting about 57 per cent of the popular vote, expected to be far in excess of the 49,829,312 record cast in 1940. In his sweep, Eisenhower carried two states the Republicans haven't been able to capture since 1924, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. He won or was out in front in 14 states where the Republicans haven't had a presidential victory since 1928—Arizona, California, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Washington.

But his landslide wasn't quite as widespread as that registered by Hoover over Al Smith, since Eisenhower could [illegible]

PERSONAL VICTORY FOR GEN. EISENHOWER

In some respects, Eisenhower's was more of a personal than a party victory. Although he helped elect Republican administrations in many states, there was tough sledding for Republicans in Senate and House battles and races for governors.

The general's friends and one of his earliest presidential rooters, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., conceded defeat by his Democratic opponent, Representative John F. Kennedy in the Massachusetts senatorial race. Republican Senator James P. Kem of Missouri went down to defeat and Senator Harry Cain of Washington was trailing.

Eisenhower carried Washington but Missouri still was in doubt.

In Ohio, Democratic Governor Frank Lausche won going away from Charles Taft, brother of the senator, despite Eisenhower's hefty majority over Stevenson in the state.

On a wave of popular approval for Eisenhower's promise to make the accomplishment of world peace his primary job, the general carried into office with him some of the prime targets of the Democratic attack in the campaign.

See Early Action On Authority Seaway Power

OTTAWA (CP)—As an aftermath to the United States election some Canadian sources expect early action on appointment of an authority to co-operate with Canada on construction of the power phase of the St. Lawrence seaway project.

Canada notified the United States state department yesterday that it will go ahead alone with construction of the seaway. Recently, the International Joint Commission approved proposed power developments on the international section of the river.

All that remains is for the United States to name a body to cooperate with the Ontario Hydro Commission in the power project.

The United States Federal Power Commission now is hearing submissions from various bodies interested in the construction. New York State has always been anxious to do the job.

President Truman has always favored construction of the power project jointly with development of the seaway. It is not known here whether he will approve appointment of an authority before he leaves the White House in January.

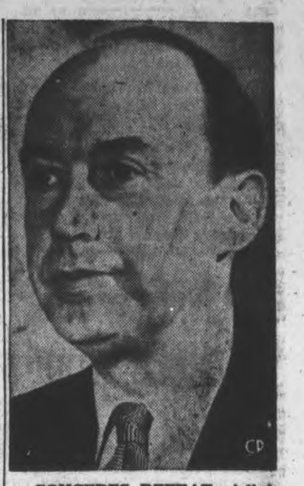
If he doesn't, then some expect that Gen. Eisenhower will appoint New York State as the authority. The new president received strong support from Governor Thomas Dewey of New York, who has urged that his state be given the power project. There are reports that Mr. Dewey will be taken into Mr. Eisenhower's cabinet, a move that could bring early action on the St. Lawrence construction.

Labor Re-elects Attlee To Lead U.K. Party

LONDON (Reuters) — Clement Attlee today was re-elected leader of the labor party group in Parliament, but the big fight is yet to come.

It will pit Aneurin Bevan, leader of the party's left, against Herbert [illegible] uty leadership. Morrison is seeking re-election for another year.

All 296 members of the parliamentary Labor party will take part in the secret poll. The result will be made known next week.



Eisenhower Wins Most Votes In U.S. History

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected president with more votes than any man before him ever got. Yesterday's election also set a record in total votes cast.

Eisenhower's total of 27,952,235 when there were still 29,897 precincts to be heard from gave him the championship, previously held by Franklin D. Roosevelt. Roosevelt piled up 27,751,597 in his 1936 race with Alf M. Landon.

Yesterday's total vote between Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson added up to 50,639,071 with 29,897 voting units of the 146,361 total still to be recorded.

In 1940, the previous record year, the total presidential vote was 49,820,312, Roosevelt defeating Wendell L. Willkie.

CONCEDES DEFEAT—Adlai Stevenson, who was drafted to lead the Democratic party, conceded defeat in the United States presidential election early today after Republicans scored a sweeping victory.

A. D. McKenzie President Of Conservatives

TORONTO (CP)—A. D. McKenzie yesterday received an acclamation returning him to the presidency of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association for a fifth term.

Mr. McKenzie, first elected in 1943, has served as president and chief organizer through four successful Ontario elections.

Walter McGibbon of Waterloo, was elected treasurer.

Heaviest Action For Red Peak

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Bloody fighting for Triangle Hill and Sniper Ridge flared today into the heaviest action of the 23-day struggle for the Korean central front heights.

South Korean troops in a predawn sneak attack stabbed within 10 yards of the crest of Triangle Hill, then were pinned down by Chinese hand grenades and machine-gun fire. Five previous Allied attempts to retake the height, lost Friday, have stalled in the same place.

Other Republic of Korea troops seized one of two knobs on an offshot ridge of Triangle, called [illegible]

Massive artillery support and fighter-bombers supported the U.N. attacks.

General's Home Town Has Big Celebration

ABILENE, Kas. (AP)—It was New Year's Eve and the Fourth of July rolled ito one in General Eisenhower's home town last night.

To crowds estimated upward of 3,500 gathered in downtown streets the whole evening, the announcement of Eisenhower's victory was the spark that set off the wildest jubiliation ever seen here.

They danced in the street, they sang and they laughed into the early hours of the morning.

Mayor Amos Shivers proclaimed Wednesday an official holiday.

Frost Declares Canada's Taxes Must Be Cut

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario said yesterday taxes in Canada must be reduced.

Addressing the annual convention of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association, Mr. Frost said the cost of living and the cost of production, of which taxes are a part, can undermine the Canadian way of life.

Part of the job of balancing the development of human resources and physical resources is to keep down taxes, he said.

"We must live within our means. We must avoid tax increases and we have balanced our budget. . . Credit is the source of our strength.

"In Ontario we have the lowest provincial taxation in Canada. That is the way it must stay in these days of high cost."

He said although he plans no new taxes he desired a reallocation of tax fields between federal and provincial governments.

NO FURTHER SUBSIDIES

"It is not our intention to embark on any prodigious payments which could only be done by the increase of taxation.

Municipal reforms, he said, "would be carried out in due season."

Earlier, George Drew, national party leader, said no social security measure could have been passed by the federal Liberal government without the support of the Progressive Conservatives.

O.P.P. Continue Search For Youth

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — Provincial police today are conducting their second day-long search for a 17-year-old Toronto youth, missing in dense bush near Trout Lake on the Algonquin Park border east of here for the last 48 hours.

Hubert Lake and two uncles, Armon Lake of Toronto and Lester Woodcock of Dwight, went into the bush to hunt Monday morning. At noon the youth did not report back to the hunting cabin.

Three other hunters are reported missing within an 80-mile radius of the area. They are Frank Tolhurst of Toronto and two unidentified men missing about six miles south of Dwight, off Highway 35.

Synopsis.

A large scale storm centre which moved in from the Pacific yesterday morning is now moving southeastward about forty m.p.h. through northwestern Ontario. Following the passage of this storm centre, northwesterly winds up to 70 accompanied by blowing dust were experienced at Winnipeg. Although temperatures were only dropping slowly across the prairie provinces this morning, much colder air is expected to follow this storm centre and to flow southward across all of Ontario by Thursday morning. Maximum temperatures will be 5 to 10 degrees lower on Thursday with the highest temperatures expected in the early part of the day and a cooling trend thereafter.

Heavy snowflurries will be general on Thursday in the snowbelt area of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay. Northern sections of Ontario will have light snow beginning tonight and continuing intermittently most of Thursday.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Thursday:

Lake Erie, Lake Ontario, Niagara, Haliburton regions, Windsor, Hamilton and Toronto cities: Cloudy this morning, clearing this afternoon. Cloudy Thursday. Mild today, much cooler by Thursday evening. Winds west 15 today, northwest 20 Thursday. Low tonight and high Thursday at Windsor, St. Catharines and Toronto 45 and 60, Trenton 40 and 45, Killaloe 35 and 40.

Summary for Thursday—Cloudy and much cooler.

Conservatives Retain Parliamentary Seat

HIGH WYCOMBE, England (Reuters) — Winston Churchill's Conservatives today retained with an increased majority the Wycombe parliamentary seat in a by-election yesterday.

Conservative John Hall polled 26,750 votes compared with 24,650 cast for Labor's John Haire. The Conservative majority of 2,100 was an improvement on the 1,753-vote margin in the 1951 general election.

The seat became vacant and a by-election was required when the 1951 victor, William Waldorf Astor, inherited his father's viscountcy and entered the House of Lords.

The victory enhanced the prestige of the Churchill government, for the constituency has always wavered between Labor and Conservatives, and its loss would have indicated a decline in the Conservatives' popularity.

Four Men Steal Safe From W.O. Drug Firm

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Four men last night escaped with a 250-pound safe from the St. Thomas branch of the Standard Drug Company containing the day's receipts

Straps, holding the box to the floor, were broken with a pinnacle bar. Police said they were called when the men were seen trundling the safe through an alley

They later recovered the opened safe about five miles west of here.

It was stressed in the award that damages represented compensation and not penalty for an illegal walkout.

UP TO UNION

The award pins squarely on the union the responsibility for maintaining discipline in the plant and ensuring continued production under terms of the agreement.

Mr. Jackson declared last night that the union has consistently insisted that the board's findings both as to union responsibility for the alleged violation of the contract and the damage award were beyond the power of an arbitration board to make.

C.G.E.'s vice-president, I. F. McRae, said that much more important than the award was the principle that each party to a collective agreement is equal before the law and must accept responsibility for its actions.

"Without that principle clearly established, the community would be subjected indiscriminately to illegal and costly strikes or lockouts," he said.

Mr. McRae said the only thing basically new in the award is that a union rather than a company is ordered to meet its contract obligations.

There has been no attempt to injure the union under the proceedings, he added.

ABLE TO PAY

Mr. McRae said that the $9,200 in the opinion of the [illegible] union to pay, "and is, in fact, insignificant in comparison with the vast economic power now wielded by unions."

Withholding of the dues, he continued, is a method of collection recognized in commercial transactions.

Mr. McRae said the company is ready to work out with the union any mutually satisfactory arrangement for payment of the award.

"The award of damages for breach of contract is well established in labor relations," he said. The company had paid out money when it had been found to be in error and had done so both at the direction of an arbitrator and in settlement of grievances before a dispute was taken to arbitration, Mr. McRae noted.

Mr. Jackson said the arbitration board award had been condemned by all important sections of the labor movement.

"The whole labor movement will have to oppose this and any similar awards or agree that employers have free right to tie up union funds and thus paralyze unions," Mr. Jackson said.

City Residents Meet In Tokyo

An air force nurse and an army gunner, both from Peterborough, met for the first time in Tokyo last week.

The nurse is Flying Officer Margaret Mary Kennedy, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Kennedy, 476 King George Street. The army gunner is believed to be Gunner Douglas Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Johnson, 650 Armour Road.

The meeting took place while both members of the armed forces were briefly stopping in Tokyo. It was reported by Flying Officer Kennedy in a letter to her parents.

She wrote that she had run into some Canadians in Tokyo. Among them was a chap by the name of Johnson, whose parents lived on Armour Road in Peterborough.

Mrs. Johnson was not able to say for sure whether it was her son that Flying Officer Kennedy met. But she thought probably it was.

Flying Officer Kennedy is an R.C.A.F. nurse with the Medical Air Evacuation Squadron of the United States Air Force. Since September 1 she has taken part in evacuation flights bringing men wounded in Korea, from Tokyo to Hawaii and sometimes on up to San Francisco.

A veteran of the Second World War, Flying Officer Kennedy went back into the armed services in 1951.

Truck Out Of Control Smashes Parked Car

The car, owned by Donald H. Lewis, 270 Reid St. was damaged so badly, it is not believed to be worth fixing.

It is believed that broken tie rods on the truck caused it to go out of control and crash into the car which was parked in front of Lewis' home.

The truck driver, E. B. Wade, 21, of R.R. 11 Peterborough, reported the truck which was travelling north, suddenly went out of control.

Constable Pat Gillis who investigated reported that the tie rods on the truck were broken after the accident and both front wheels were towing. The damage was about evenly divided between the left hand side of the truck and the left side of the car.

Mother, Son Elected As US Representatives

COLUMBUS, O. (CP)—A mother and her son were elected to Congress yesterday for the first time in United States history.

Congresswoman Frances P. Bolton, who has been in the House of Representatives since 1940, won re-election over a Democrat in a Cleveland suburb. Her 35-year-old son, Oliver, also defeated a Democrat in another district in winning his first political elective office.

Both are Republicans but "I think there may be times when we'll vote differently," Oliver said today.

Toronto Stocks Slip After Early Gains

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market here today reacted to the news of a Republican victory in the United States election with a burst of activity and rising prices—at least in the first hour.

By early afternoon, prices slipped back from their early peaks and the volume of trading dropped off slightly. Most prices, however, remained above Tuesday's levels.

More shares were traded in the first hour today than in any first hour since the middle of September. Gold stocks gained rapidly at first but relaxed with other issues later.

Good Prices Offered For Lindsay Property

the recent bitterly contested sale of a plot of land at Kent and Albert Streets in Lindsay for service station, other property owners in the neighborhood, fronting on Kent and Albert Streets have received high offers for their land. Several of the persons involved, although they would not name their contracts, stated that the prices were so high they were sorely tempted to sell.

Guelph Man Arraigned On Charge Of Fraud

A Guelph man was arraigned on three charges of false pretenses and a fraud charge today.

Crown attorney John A. Bradshaw did not ask George Pinder, 26, for a plea on the charges and he was remanded for two weeks on $1,000 bail, by Magistrate R. B. Baxter.

Mr. Bradshaw said that more charges would likely be laid against Pinder.

Labor Not After Low Farm Prices: Millard

FLESHERTON (CP)—C. H. Millard, national director of the Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), said last night labor does not want low farm prices

Addressing a meeting of Grey county farmers here, Mr. Millard said labor also does not want to pay high prices only to find farmers not getting the benefit.

He also said the farmers, members of the Federation of Agriculture, must pay more toward the work of the federation, an organization to represent farm interests in Canada.

"Farming in Grey county is a basic industry, yet you contribute only something over $5,000 toward your federation, You cannot do things the federation is capable of doing unless you pay enough money. You cannot have a union that works nor a federation that works unless you meet the cost of these services."

He said the farmers contribute less than $1 a year while the steelworkers contribute $3 a month each.

Former Teacher Wins Promotion

A. M. Moon, former assistant-director of vocational education, Department of Education, has been appointed assistant superintendent of secondary education in charge of vocational courses. Mr. Moon was the first director of the vocational department at P.C.V.S. from 1928 to 1932.

The Hon. W. J. Dunlop, Minister of Education, in announcing the appointment, announced the reorganization of the high school branch and the vocational education branch which will effect an economy of staff and better coordination of administration.

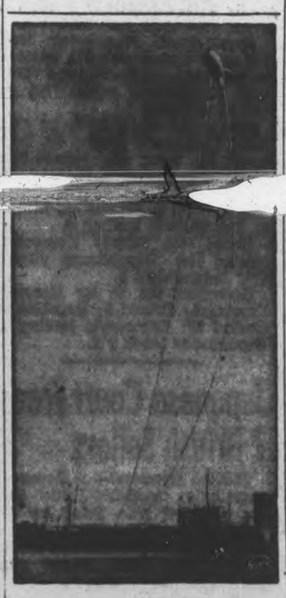
These two branches will be amalgamated into a secondary education branch under L. S. Beattie, recently appointed superintendent of secondary education.

Other appointments were: S. D. Rendall, former secondary school inspector, to assistant superintendent of secondary education in charge of school organization; C. W. Booth, former secondary school inspector, to assistant superintendent of secondary education in charge of general courses.

Mr. Moon is a graduate of electrical engineering, University of Toronto, and a member of the Society of Professional Engineers. He holds a high school principal's certificate and a vocational school principal's certificate. Prior to his appointment as inspector of vocational education in 1932, he was director of vocational department at P.C.V.S.

For the past six years he has been assistant director of vocational education and has also been provincial-regional director in charge of vocational training under the federal-provincial agreement.

U.S. Election Faked Says Latvian Radio



STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — The Communist-controlled Latvian radio told listeners today the United States presidential elections were faked.

"Many people in the United States vote for Progressive candidates but the calculating machines counting the votes go out of function whenever a Progressive candidate is winning," the radio said.

By early afternoon the Latvian radio had not mentioned that Dwight Eisenhower won.

Coast-To-Coast

One of the few spots where the Democrats picked up strength was in the Massachusetts senatorial race. There Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, whose family name is imprinted in the history of New England, was behind in the race with John Kennedy, Democratic member of the last House of Representatives.

Eisenhower demonstrated his personal popularity by sweeping all the northern states and crashing into the south to pick off such traditionally-Democratic states as Florida, Virginia, Texas and Tennessee. He also captured Oklahoma, Missouri and Maryland.

Strangely enough, Eisenhower proved stronger in some other southern states than in South Carolina, where Democratic governor James Byrnes, splitting with Stevenson on the issue of civil rights, backed the Republican nominee.

EISENHOWER'S PERSONAL POPULARITY VICTORY EDGE

The Eisenhower victory, promising a critical new look into domestic affairs but little real change in foreign policies, apparently was manufactured out of these ingredients: Eisenhower's personal popularity plus the crumbling of the Democratic coalition of organized labor and the minority groups with the traditional party strength in the south.

This coalition, which gave Roosevelt and his "New Deal" four elections and one to Truman and his "Fair Deal," fell apart.

To the extent that Truman made his administration's record an issue in the campaign, the vote was one of "no confidence" in that record.

However, it could be argued that after 20 years of one party, the people of the United States really felt it was time for a change.

In choosing Eisenhower to lead them in the critical years ahead, Americans after two decades finally erased the picture of the Republican party as a party of boom and bust. They refused to go along with Democratic warnings that the Republicans would, if elected, bring back the depression which descended on the country in the years before Roosevelt.

ELECTION ISSUES

The campaign, one of the stormiest in the country's history, was fought largely on the issues of communism, corruption and Korea. The Republicans charged the Democrats had failed to clean Communists out of government. They contended that corruption had seeped into almost every part of the government service in 20 years and insisted that only a new party could clean it out.

Eisenhower was criticized for forsaking the people who got the Republican nomination for him when he compromised with the conservative element of the Republican party. He made peace with Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, the man he defeated for the nomination. He supported McCarthy and Jenner—two men who had attacked Gen. George Marshall, Eisenhower's long-time friend. Although this lost him the support of some of the progressive Republican [illegible] to comply with his campaign promise, he must undertake an inspection trip to Korea. This trip would come in a time when most presidents-elect are busy organizing their new administration.

The general said he would go to Korea to get information with the idea of finding some honorable way to end the conflict.

There is only conjecture about Eisenhower's cabinet. The president-elect is surrounded by a number of men he might want to enlist in high federal office. Among these are Governor Thomas Dewey of New York; Governor Sherman Adams of New Hampshire; Republican national chairman Arthur Summerfield; John Foster Dulles, foreign affairs adviser; Senators Frank Carlson of Kansas, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., of Massachusetts, Fred Seaton of Nebraska and James Duff of Pennsylvania.

Eisenhower's congressional leaders are likely to be Senator Taft and Representative Joseph Martin of Massachusetts.

Whatever role Taft chooses to assume in the Senate, his campaign activities on behalf of Eisenhower make it almost certain that he will be the real leader of the [illegible] party.

The re-election of McCarthy is likely to bring a new surge in the hunt for Communists and Red sympathizers whom Eisenhower promised to clean out of government. However, Eisenhower has said he doesn't subscribe to all of McCarthy's methods.

For the Democrats, defeat will mean a realignment of the party, with new faces and new leaders. The party will have two titular heads in Truman, who stepped aside voluntarily, and Stevenson, whose original reluctance to accept the nomination was transformed into a fighting campaign fervor.

Less Than Half Of Polio Fund For Medicine

TORONTO (CP) — Armand Racine, public trustee for Ontario, said today that in a little more than two years the Ontario branch of the Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis collected more than $379,000 but had only $162,947 available for medical services.

Mr. Racine made public his report on an investigation into the fund's Ontario operations. The inquiry was ordered in April, 1951, by Judge T. H. Barton of Toronto.

The report showed that between Feb. 3, 1949, and March 31, 1951, Horace Brown, executive director, received $16,508 in salary, $4,160 in severance allowance, and $6,603 in travelling expenses.

Early in 1951, Mr. Racine reported that there appeared to be public criticism of the foundation. In January staff was curtailed and economies effected.

"Dr. W. T. Mustard (a member of the board) had already taken steps in April 1951, to have this investigation by me made under the recent amendments to the charities accounting act," Mr. Racine said. A month earlier the executive committee had decided on a complete reorganization of the foundation.

Mr. Racine said that when the reorganization was carried out the first financial statement "indicates that the budgetary requirements for organization, campaign and administrative costs have been radically reduced and they would appear to have strictly in mind the purposes for which the funds are collected."

The head ofice has been moved to Montreal and is therefore beyond the jurisdiction of Mr. Racine's enquiry.

The new organization's statement of revenue and expenditures for the latter half of 1951 shows only $622 campaign expenses, another $2,762 for administration, and $26,646 available for medical purposes of which all but $3,000 was spent.

YOUNG SWIMMERS of the Highland View Swimming Club are carrying on their training from Keene in the summer to the Y.M.C.A. pool in Peterborough. Instructed by Mrs. Harold Wilson, shown on the left, they all live in Keene. Before becoming a member, a youngster must pass the first Red Cross swimming test. Then they begin a course of varied training toward Royal Life Saving Society awards. Besides swimming, the club has sponsored dances, euchre parties and other entertainments in Keene. Members of the club shown here are: (front row) Eleanor Nelson (Junior award), Betty Eason (Int.), Patsy Eason (Int.), Betty Jane Gall (Int.), and Betty Godfrey (Jr.). Centre row, Caroline McNevan (Int.), Jean McIntyre (Jr.), Eleanor Rabbi (Jr.), June McNevan (Sr.), Janet Robertson (Int.), Shirley Cruikshank (Int.), Pauline McCarthy (Int.), Donna Short (Jr.). Back row, Melvin Wilson (Sr.), Bettie Wilson (Sr.), Beverley Gall (award of merit), Gwendolyn McCarthy (award of merit), Alvin Renwick (Sr.). Eight-year-old Patsy Eason put on a fine show of towing when she displayed her ability for the Royal Life Saving Society tests recently. Jean McIntyre completed her test in eight lessons and showed good form in diving and swimming strokes.

90th Birthday Lots Of Fun Says Seymourite

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS) — A lifelong Seymour Township resident, Mrs. Mary Akins, had ner day on Tuesday, when friends and relatives dropped in to help her celebrate her 90th birthday.

Mrs. Akins, wife of the late David Akins who died about 13 years ago, enjoys the best of health, can hear everything that goes on, has excellent eyesight, and a remarkable sense of humor.

She lives with her daughter, Lena Akins, and does most of the housework. She has three children living: Lena, at home, Stanley of Seymour and Robert of Seymour. There are four grandchildren: Mrs. Art Robertson of Campbellford, Alfred Akins of Rylstone and Tressa and Gordon Akins of Stanwood. On Tuesday, her three great - grandchildren were on hand to help her celebrate. They are David Robertson and Bobby and Carl Akins. Mrs. Akins also has a sister living, Mrs. Margaret Bakes of Toronto.

Believed to be one of the oldest residents of Seymour township, Mrs. Akins was born at Stanwood, the daughter of the late James McAlpine Sr. and Sara Jane McKeown. She was a twin and the third oldest of a family of 11 children. Her twin died at the age of two years.

After she had cut the cake, bearing 90 candles, Mrs. Akins addressed her friends who had gathered to wish her well. She thanked all who had helped to make the day one of the happiest in her life, and said she hoped everyone present would live to celebrate their 90th birthday, "Cause it sure is a lot of fun", she said.

Don't Take Advantage Cadi Warns Housewife

COBOURG (ENS)—"Don't take advantage of the fact that I am placing your husband on a bond to keep the peace," Magistrate R. B. Baxter warned a housewife in family court. The lady charged her husband with assault, causing actual bodily harm but the court reduced it to common assault. Husband and wife told a story of many rows.

The Magistrate warned the lady of the house that she should not take unfair advantage of the victory she won in court.

Three Charges Not Proven Says Magistrate

"It's a scotch verdict, the charge is not proven," declared Magistrate E. A. Gee Tuesday in dismissing a charge against a St. Catharines man of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw then asked that two traffic charges against the same man, Joseph Little, be withdrawn because the wrong licence number had been used on the summonses.

The trial was featured by Little's denial he had had any liquor to drink the day the charge alleged his ability to drive was impaired by alcohol and his description of the main crown witness as "a wild man" who "acted like a maniac."

STOPPED

Walter Givens of Oshawa said he was driving north on the Havelock-Twin Lakes road the night of September 20. He said he stopped to let an oncoming car go by and the car sideswiped his car, damaging the left side. The car then sped away he said, but his son got the licence number. After examining the damage, he turned around and drove south after the hit-run vehicle.

About two miles down the road, he said he saw the car with the same licence number stopped, waiting for a truck to pass. He said the driver was Little. When he asked him what was his idea of driving away after an accident, he said Little mumbled incoherently "what accident?" Givens said Little "smelled strongly of liquor or some intoxicant," and half fell, half stumbled out of his car, then walked very unsteadily back to look at his (Given's) car.

IGNORED DAMAGE

Givens said Little ignored the damage, and started back to his own car, then drove off. He said he followed him toward Havelock. He was driving "erratically," Givens went on, from one side of the road to the other, and finally, he said he saw Little's car go into the ditch.

He stopped at the scene, Givens said, and again there was some discussion concerning Givens' charge that Little had sideswiped his car. Little refused to show him his driver's licence Givens said and he and his son drove off toward Havelock to phone the police, leaving Little standing on the roadway. When they returned some time late with the police the car was there, but Little was gone, Givens said.

Little denied his car had struck Givens' or any other car that night. He said he had had nothing to drink all that day and that he was slowing down for the truck to pass, he heard someone shout, "stop or I'll shoot." He said Givens "opened the door, grabbed me by the windbreaker and dragged me out on the ground. He was just like a wild man."

Little said he had a considerable amount of money in his wallet and did not produce his driver's licence because he was afraid Givens might hold him up, "he was acting like a maniac."

Both Givens and his son Gordon denied that Givens tore Little's windbreaker or dragged him out of the car. Little said he went into the ditch because the road was bad and he was trying to get away from Givens who was following him, "because I felt he was a dangerous man." He was watching Givens' headlights in the rear view mirror when he went into the ditch, Little said.

W. J. Arthur Fair defended Little and emphasized that his client had asserted he hadn't had anything to drink that day. Then, Mr. Fair urged Magistrate Gee to note the discrepancy between the stories of the father and son, as to when Givens had pried a damaged fender up from the wheel, Givens said he did it before they caught up with Little, the son Gordon said his father did it after they first talked to Little.

"I'm just doubtful who is telling the truth," said Magistrate Gee. "I think I'd be quite justified in dismissing the charge. If I'm wrong the crown has the right as well as the accused to take the matter to a higher court."

Stevenson Sensed Defeat Following Loss Of New York State

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—This was the sour and bitter morning after for the legions who followed Governor Adlai E. Stevenson—and lost.

The defeated Democratic presidential candidate himself admitted he felt as Abraham Lincoln once did after a losing election:

Like a little boy who had stubbed his toe in the dark—but who was too old to cry and "it hurt too much to laugh."

Still the rumpled-looking slender man who was the Democratic standard-bearer could muster a smile and a quip even in defeat.

The capitulation came shortly after 1 a.m. EST. At that hour the vote returns showed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower rushing to a tremendous victory. The last desperate hope had been snuffed out in the Stevenson camp.

SENSED DEFEAT

Stevenson knew he was beaten. He had sensed it, an aide later said, from the time he was handed a news report that Paul Fitzpatrick, New York State Democratic chairman, had conceded the state to Eisenhower, with its big chunk of 45 electoral votes.

In an unhurried voice, Stevenson told his followers:

"My fellow citizens have made their choice and have selected Gen. Eisenhower and the Republican party as the instruments of their will for the next four years. The people have rendered their verdict and I gladly accept it."

That was it. That was the concession, leaving a run for telephones to signal the concession.

Stevenson went on talking. He said of Eisenhower—the man whom he had attacked so bitterly in recent weeks:

"Gen. Eisenhower has been a great leader in war. He has been a vigorous and valiant opponent in the campaign. These qualities will now be dedicated to leading us all through the next four years."

Then Stevenson disclosed he had sent a message to Gen. Eisenhower at his Commodore hotel headquarters in New York City saying:

"The people have made their choice and I congratulate you. That you may be the servant and guardian of peace and make the door of trouble a door of hope is my earnest prayer."

For a few moments Stevenson posed for photographers, chatting with those nearby. Someone asked him, "what about 1956?"

He grinned:

"Have that man's head examined."

The branch decided to sponsor a hockey team for children, as they have in previous years, and Comrade Jack Storrie was appointed as representative.

Cobourg Firefighters Called To Two Alarms

COBOURG (ENS). — Cobourg firemen answered two alarms yesterday. In the afternoon they were called to the residence of W. Hunter, Kingston crossing, where an oil space heater was red hot due to the oil supply control jamming. The house was a new one, the former dwelling being destroyed by fire last year.

They were called to the town dump Tuesday night north of Cobourg where burning rubbish was spreading a dense pall of smoke all over the neighborhood. The firemen periodically have to douse the dump with water to keep a perpetual fire out there under control. It is believed that spontaneous combustion is responsible for the fire starting up again. Not long after it was apparently extinguished.

Senator McCarthy Wins Endorsement

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Senator Joseph R. McCarthy won endorsement of his Communists-in-government charges from the people of Wisconsin Tuesday when they returned him to the senate for a second term.

His margin over Fairchild, former state attorney-general, and U.S. district attorney, was 660,919 to 506,361 with 2,620 of 3,225 precincts reporting.

R. T. Bogle Tells Of Opportunity

Under the caption "Canada," R. T. Bogle, Peterborough works manager of the Canadian General Electric Co., gave an interesting and enlightening address to the Salvation Army Temple Men's Club at their monthly dinner meeting held Monday evening in the Temple.

The speaker spoke of the tremendous growth in electrical power development which had taken place in Canada during the past 12 years, and which is still in the process of construction.

Canada has reached "political maturity" and industry is stabilized, Mr. Bogle said.

Peterborough is an example of diversified industry, which is good for our country. Young men, the speaker continued, should not think so much of security, but rather of opportunity. Canada has a sound economy. If our country does not progress, the fault is not with Canada.

Mr. Bogle concluded his address by tracing the development and expansion of General Electric in over 60 years of growth.

The speaker was introduced by Ben Smith. Mel Shadgett gave an expression of thanks.

During the evening a sing-song was led by Frank Robinson. Two baritone solos, "If Winter Comes" and "Yeomen of England" sung by Adam Hawley, were well received. Ashton Fife was at the piano.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements were Ralph Braund, Alex Cumming, and Alf Mills. Major Horace Roberts gave the benedictory prayer.

Disrupts Parley Wife Stealing

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (Reuters) — The sixth congress of the Yugoslav Communist party was thrown into turmoil today when one prominent member charged another with stealing his wife.

The complainant, Ljubodrag Djurich, secretary-general of the Yugoslav federal government, was hustled out of the convention hall. Speakers including Premier Tito reproached him for bringing up the matter in public.

Djurich pointed his accusing finger at Peter Stambulic, one of the leading lights of the Yugoslav Communist party and premier of Serbia, and bluntly stated:

"Peter Stambulic has taken my wife away from me."

There was immediate uproar. Zagreb radio hurriedly cut off its broadcast of the proceedings.

Join Credit Union

COBOURG (ENS). — Fourteen children of Grades 7, 8 and 9 in St. Michaels Separate School have joined the Cobourg Credit Union as a result of a talk given at the school by two members of the Credit Union at a recent meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Canadians Interested In Things Canadian

What do you know about Fall River, Massachusetts? If you knew even its name, let alone where it is, what its industries are and what kind of weather it has, you know more about Fall River than most Canadians. What do you know about Peoria, Illinois? About Waterbury, Connecticut? Yet each of these cities has more than a hundred thousand people and each is nearer Ontario than St. John, Halifax or Victoria, which are, to boot, smaller places. The point we wish to make is that despite the "natural" north-south lines of communication and commerce, and despite the flow of American news, views, magazines, books, radio, television and movies into Canada, Canadians think east-west and know their own country best.

* * *

Most Ontario people have never visited St. John, N.B., Halifax or Victoria; yet they are more familiar with these cities and more interested in them than in a hundred much larger and perhaps more important American cities. A news item about the weather in Moose Jaw, or the crops around it, or a new industry at tiny Charlottetown interests Canadian readers. A similar item about Muncie (Indiana), Decatur (Illinois), or Bay City (Michigan) is so unimportant to Canadian readers that nobody would bother to read (or print) it. Yet these Indiana, Illinois and Michigan city areas are all bigger than every Canadian city except our thirteen largest. Canadians are concerned because fifty classrooms in Newfoundland are closed because of a shortage of teachers; a similar news item from North Carolina (which is closer to Ontario) would not concern them.

* * *

Because Canadians may never have heard of Altoona, Pennsylvania (population 138,934) or Terre Haute, Indiana (population 104,931), and care less about them, does not mean that they are ill-informed about the United States. It does suggest that they are better informed about Canada. They know something of Sault Ste. Marie (population 32,452), of Sherbrooke (50,543), of Brandon (20,598) and even of Cochrane (3,401); and their interest is not merely regional. It is Canada-wide.

* * *

Somehow, despite American news and views crossing it, and the great American shadow over it, the political border between the two countries has created north of it a people in fact, in thought and in shared interests, improbable as this may have seemed to geographers and rationalists in earlier years. Canadians' personal intense interest in the American election results today, and even their specific knowledge of American regional politics and political figures does not mean that Canada has been Americanized. It signifies merely that Canadians, interested in their own country and its affairs, at the same time take thought for their American neighbours and care enough about them to be interested in what goes on across the border.

Bring Out The Dog Collar

Since 1949 British Columbia has had compulsory hospital insurance for everyone. An annual premium is exacted of every citizen, but apparently about 100,000 people have managed to avoid paying it. The Vancouver Province thinks that what it calls "more forceful methods" should be used to make these delinquents [illegible] and ominous words:

> Forceful methods are repugnant in a democratic society, but the welfare of the majority sometimes demands a little tighter discipline, even if democracy suffers a little . . . In the interests of the majority, individual viewpoints will have to be submerged.

Aha! So democracy must be re-shaped in order that everybody may have compulsory hospital insurance. But surely in a democracy a man may be allowed some latitude of will in these matters? It is dishonest of the 100,000 defaulters not to pay for a benefit they are entitled to receive, but there are so many of them—20 per cent. of the population, it appears—that their refusal to pay ceases to be a simple avoidance of a tax and becomes a protest of considerable size. Perhaps the B.C. government should think again.

Speaking of the Four Freedoms, Lin Yutang has some wise words: "Two of them are not freedoms at all. Freedom from fear is not freedom, but political security. Freedom from want is not freedom, but economic security. Both may be achieved at the cost of human freedom, and probably will, if we think too much about animal security. Nothing gives such a feeling of perfect freedom from want and fear to a dog as a collar around its neck." So many of the benefits of the modern state are dog collars. When a government or a newspaper begins to value a dog collar so much that it is willing to change the character of democracy to support the dog collar, it is time for the really free citizen to take to the tall timber.

The Country Gentleman Approves

The flow of praise and analysis of Canada and Canadian conditions which is coming from Americans this year is unction to Canada's national soul. We have mentioned already several major American publications' special accounts. The latest of these was in Life magazine last month.

The American discovery of Canada has not been limited to the largest and most popular American journals; an editorial in Country Gentleman, also an American publication, has come to our attention, and it makes a few quiet points its contemporaries have missed:

> The large number of vacationists from the United States who visited Canada this year to enjoy its fishing, hunting and scenic opportunities had a painful experience. Their U.S. dollars were discounted up to 5 per cent. A ten-dollar bill had only $9.50 purchasing power in Canada. One of these visitors decided to find out why.
>
> Inquiry showed that Canada, in proportion to its population and wealth, is putting as much into the common defense effort as this country, maybe not in men but certainly in money. There were about the same kind and number of services as on this side of the border. But the inquiring visitor found something else—the Canadian Government has a surplus. It's had one for the past five years. The Canadians like to be on a pay-as-you-go basis and have a strong aversion to any waste of money. They are now even taxing "Crown" companies, those owned by the government, the same as privately owned business, a move designed to promote efficiency and discourage hidden costs.
>
> "A truly good neighbour" says the Country Gentleman, adding that we might be an instructive neighbour, too. "The U.S. visitor decided that the five per cent. discount on his money really represented the difference in management of the two governments." Perhaps Canada has something to teach the U.S. about management and government.

Neither Adlai Nor Ike

Now that we know the results of the Presidential elections in the United States, we hope that we have heard the last of Adlai and Ike. It is a disrespectful and discourteous way to refer to two of the most distinguished American citizens. "Adlai and Ike"—it sounds like a minstrel show team. Americans may be a pally people, free and easy with first names and nicknames. If they want to Ike the General and Adlai the Governor, they can do so. For Canadians to mimic them is just bad manners. They never Louis and George their own political leaders.

Why risk discourtesy to the American people, even if the candidates surnames are too long to fit into a newspaper heading or around a slovenly tongue. We fear we have transgressed as every Canadian newspaper has done. Type is not elastic and it has been easy to yield to the American practice. Today the temptation has been removed—at least the temptation of a doublet. We should not need to refer again to them both in the same headline, though it is too much to expect that the successful candidate's nickname will go out of print before he becomes Mr. President on January 20th.

Canadians Not Sports?

There is a notion abroad that Canadians are great sports. They have big football teams, loud baseball teams, and every Canadian is supposed to spend his leisure waking hours hunting, fishing and shooting, if he isn't playing crap, the horses, or riding bucking bronchos.

Canadians themselves know better what kind of sports they are. The fact is, as they know, that they are not great sports at all. Football, hockey, and deer-hunting are pimples on the plain face of their serious enterprise, which is dollar-earning. The sports, the few real 'sports' (in the sense of unauthorized, finance, international politics, Bishop Berkeley's idealism and inland seaways.

The Olympic Games this year hinted at the truth. For all her importance as a nation, as an exporter, a producer of the western world's goods, a mouthpiece at U.N., Canada in the world of Olympic sport ranked 24th among competing nations—as near the bottom as Canada can get without admitting defeat to little men from flying saucers.

It is significant of sporting Canada that, apart from the first in ice hockey, the only first which Canada drew at the Olympic Games was in trapshooting: as static and mechanized a form of sport as the world has devised. In fact, it was only on the fringe of sport that Canada placed at all: in exercises like heavy-weight weight lifting, in which this country came fifth.

The Industrious Apprentice

A SENSE OF URGENCY, by C. L. Burton. (Clarke, Irwin Ltd.)

UNLESS OUR BROWS are very high indeed, we all enjoy a success story. The tale of the industrious apprentice who works hard, saves his money and becomes wealthy and powerful is one which appeals to us all, and for several excellent reasons. First, it is true; there are instances within the experience of us all in which it has happened. Second, it is exciting, for even in these days when the wealthy suffer the jealousy not only of the poor but of the government, the acquirement of wealth is a fascinating and romantic topic. Third, and perhaps best, it satisfies our desire for justice; we want to see virtue rewarded, and in the world of business, more certainly than in any other sphere, hard work and honest dealing will be likely to bring success—if they are allied with brains and that quality which Mr. C. L. Burton calls "a sense of urgency". This phrase, the reviewer confesses, puzzled him when he encountered it as the title of a book; but when he was a boy, if he was dreamy or stupid, an older brother or a teacher was likely to shout "Wake up and see the bear!" That is what a sense of urgency is. It is seeing the bear. Mr. Burton has seen the bear since early boyhood.

Everybody knows who C. L. Burton is; he is the Robert Simpson Company, made flesh. (To be wholly accurate we should say Simpson's Limited, but we never think of the great department store by this later name.) He is also a gentleman, now elderly, of strong character and considerable geniality—a fine type of the Protestant merchant who has played so great a part in the creation of modern mercantile Canada. In this story of his life he tells us how he became what he is today, and it is very much a Canadian story; even fifty miles below the border we venture to say that C. L. Burton would have been markedly different in two or three important respects. It is a story in which Mr. Burton, and Canada, may take pride.

Most of the story is about business, but business is not necessarily a dull subject. Mr. Burton learned most of what he knows about life through business, and his knowledge of life is extensive; he even knows why there are more hairpins on the pavement outside Methodist and Anglican churches than outside Presbyterian and Baptist ones; he also knows why Mr. H. H. Stevens never fully succeeded in politics, which is knowledge of a different sort, but no less valuable to a Canadian merchant.

As the memoirs of a characteristic and highly successful Canadian merchant, this book is a valuable addition to Canadian social history, illuminating, attractive and set down with a frankness which refreshes the reader. The book is handsome in its physical appearance, and is delightfully illustrated by Grant Macdonald.

MEN AT ARMS by Evelyn Waugh (British Book Service)

THE GROWTH of modern satirists will no doubt afford a fascinating study to some future critic. Aldous Huxley, so brilliantly witty and perceptive as a young man, has become a mystic, floundering in his attempts to communicate the incommunicable. Evelyn Waugh's irrepressible rage against the folly of man has been abridged in whatever touches the Church of Rome. Religion—surely a noble thing in itself—seems to have laid a clammy and restraining hand upon these two fiery intellects. We yearn, no doubt reprehensibly, for their earlier, unregenerate and more talented days.

This novel is the first of a trilogy about the war. It has little plot, being concerned with Guy Crouchback's adventures in a regiment called the Earl of Essex's Honourable Company of Free Halberdiers. These adventures are, some of them, in the best Waugh manner, and the character of Apthorpe, the man who has every characteristic of a soldier gave intelligence and courage, is brilliantly developed. But the splendid nervous tension of the best Waugh novels is not to be found in this one.

There are surprises, however. For instance, Guy Crouchbank is assured by a fellow-Catholic that it is perfectly all right for him to have carnal relations with his former wife, although this lady has been twice married since she was divorced by Guy. Reason: she has never ceased to be his wife. But circumstances interfere to keep Guy from acting upon this advice; we may suppose that it is the holy medal which he wears about his neck, and which protects him from certain other errors of judgement and taste, as well.

Evelyn Waugh is too important and gifted a novelist for any book of his to be dismissed lightly, and this one should be read, if only as a preparation for those which will follow. But it cannot be looked upon as one of his best.

HEMLOCK AND AFTER, by Angus Wilson. (Secker & Warburg)

IN THIS CURIOUS STORY we are shown a man whose rise and fall are completed at the same moment in his life. Bernard Sands is a novelist who has acquired, during his long career, a reputation as a liberal and a defender of the things of the spirit. After a long campaign, involving skirmishes with many branches of the British Civil [illegible] country house, Vardon Hall, turned into a state-supported retreat in which young writers will be able to work, free for a time from the press of the world and the need for money.

The Sands who appears to the world, however, is at odds with the real man who has discovered, during the course of his life, that he is a homosexual, and who has accepted the shoddy associations which go with such a course of life; he is protector to an ambitious but unproven young poet, and many of his friends belong to that malicious and uneasy world in which homosexuality exists. His wife, who knows of his dual nature, is loyal to him, but he is a source of distress to his conventional children.

This does not sound like the stuff of comedy, and the comedy which Mr. Wilson makes of it is often apt to make the teeth grate. But if you like your fun with a sharp aftertaste, this will please you greatly. The scene in which Sands opens his Vardon Hall, and in which his homosexual friends make a farce of the proceedings, is nightmarish but wildly comic. There is no disputing the great talent shown in this book but it is definitely not for the Pollyanna trade.

FOR SOME WEEKS we have offered passages of the rarest beauty for the consideration of our readers at the end of this column. Today, for a change we proffer these lines by Solyman Brown, a dentist of the eighteenth century who gave his advice in verse, thus:

The rapid traces of a dark gangrene,
When caries comes, with stealthy pace, to throw
Corrosive inkspots on those banks of snow,
Brook no delay, ye trembling, suffering Fair,
But fly for refuge to the Dentist's care.

Would this not afford a sweet motto for Dental Health week?

SCRIVEN MONUMENT NEGLECTED

Sir: On the east side of No. 28 Highway just south of Bewdley, stands a monument erected years ago to the memory of Mr. Scriven who wrote than wonderful hymn "What A Friend We Have In Jesus".

I wonder if we can ever place an estimate on the number of people of all denominations who have sung that hymn that has surrounded the whole world. We cannot even imagine how many the singing of that hymn has helped who "were weak and heavy laden" and also the millions that have been encouraged who "were cumbered with a load of care". I always like to stop and read the inscription—which is the hymn—on the monument, whenever I pass it, but in going by it recently I notice the inscription has become dim, and the plot of ground around it has grown up with grass and weeds and I wonder if some ladies' organization in that district wouldn't just enjoy receiving contributions to keep the plot of ground around the monument mown during the summer: possibly have some flowers planted around the monument that passers-by might be attracted to stop and read and possibly "find a solace there".

I would like to hear others opinions re this suggestion, for I am quite sure some one could be employed to spend an hour or two a week to keep the plot attractive.

NET LOSS IN BOND ISSUE

Sir: In a recent issue of the Examiner you published a report by the City Auditor which in essence claimed that there has been and and will be no loss to the citizens of Peterborough due to the $300,000.00 bond issue for the Filtration Plant Extension being issued nearly a year before it was necessary.

Despite Mr. Humpage's report, THERE WILL BE A NET LOSS OF AROUND $8,500.00.

The first progress payment was due Nov. 1st. and amounted to $7,866.46. Further payments will be required during the coming months, but I personally doubt that payments of all kinds prior to April 1, 1953 will amount to $150,000.00. These interim needs can be most economically handled by bank loans and it would appear that the proper timing for the $300,000.00 issue would be somewhere between March 1-May 1st, 1953, depending on short term bond market conditions.

It is quite ridiculous for anyone to claim that a large sum of money can lie idle for 10-11 or 12 months without serious loss to the corporation or person paying the interest.

I do not think there is any foundation for the inference in Mr. Humpage's report that Peterborough's credit standing has fallen during the last six months—nor for his assumption that the city made a fortunate gamble in the bond market last May.

Monthly bulletins on Municipal bond yields as prepared by McLeod, Young, Weir & Co. and furnished to me by the Bank of Montreal show average yields as follows:

April 30, 1952—4.61; July 31, 1952, 4.64; September 2, 1952, 4.61 October 1, 1952, 4.65. Peterborough sold the issue last May at better than the above average—and unless our credit has fallen (as inferred by the auditor's claim that we would now only get the average rate) we would today sell at about the same advantage as in May. (Mr. Humpage states incorrectly, that I agreed that Peterborough bonds would have to be sold at a discount today. I have consistently taken the position that our credit is as good today as it was in May.)

What the course of the bond market will be in the next five months is anybody's guess. Government money policy will be a main controlling factor and I don't think any advance tips will be given to anyone in Peterborough.

The Utilities Commission Manager's letter to the city council requesting their money stated that the construction would start in the fall. It could have been inferred that the money would not be needed till sometime later—but it would have been much better if the Commission had advised the city council the estimated dates on which the money would be needed. Whether this should have been done by the Manager or the Commission—the Commission must take the responsibility for failure to provide the data. As a member of the Commission, I acknowledge my share of the responsibility, and will do my best to assure that full data are supplied in the future. I will also advocate having the Manager or a Commissioner attend the council meeting at which a money request is presented—to provide any further information asked by the members of the city council.

There is very little that can now be done to lessen the loss. My purpose in bringing the matter to public attention was to ensure that greater care would be taken in the future. I think this objective has been accomplished.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

I have sinned; what shall I do unto thee, O thou preserver of men? why hast thou set me as a mark against thee, so that I am a burden to myself? (Job 7:20.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Oh that I might have my request, and that God would grant me the things that I long for! Even that it would please God to destroy me; and that he would let loose his hand, and cut me off! (Job 6:8, 9.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Have I any pleasure at all that the wicked should die? saith the Lord God; and not that he should return from his ways, and live? . . . Yet ye say, The way of the Lord is not equal. Hear now, O house of Israel; Is not my way equal? are not your ways unequal?

When a righteous man turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, and dieth in them; for his iniquity that he hath done shall he die. Again, when the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive. . . . .

Therefore I will judge you, O house of Israel, every one according to his ways, saith the Lord God. Repent, and turn yourselves from all your transgressions; so iniquity shall not be your gain. Cast away from you all your transgression, whereby ye have transgressed; and make you a new heart and a new spirit; for why will ye die, O house of Israel? (Ezek. 18:23, 25-27, 30, 31.)

10,000 Killed, 137,000 Wounded

(Ottawa Journal)

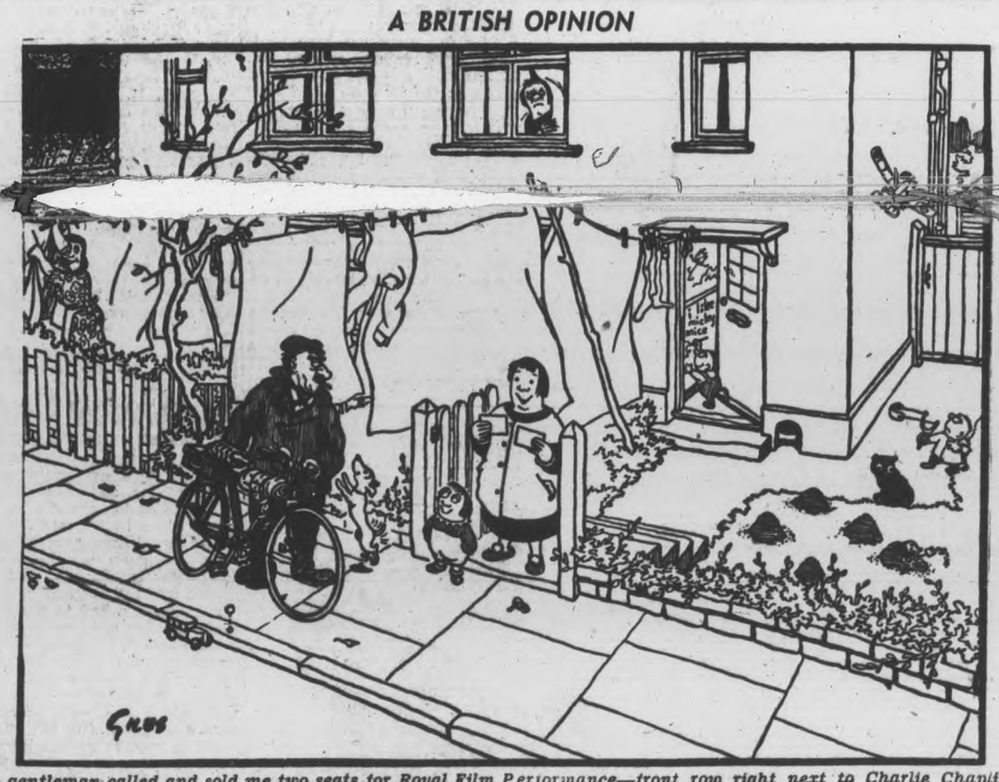
"Up and down the highways and streets of Ontario the battle was fought with savage and bloody fury. In the end Ontario had 10,000 dead in men, women and children, and the injured numbered 137,000."

If an item like this were in the history books we would all feel shock and horror at the cost in life and anguish it revealed. Because this is the ghastly toll of traffic accidents we accept it in pious resignation as one of the inescapable facts of life.

Mr. Doucett, Ontario Minister of Highways, told the Legislature that in the past 10 years nearly 10,000 persons had been killed on the highways of this province and 137,000 injured. Property damage was above $17,000,000 in 1951—it will be higher in 1952—and the Minister might have added that more millions are spent each year to gather the dead from our streets and roads and bury them, and in an effort to repair the injured, to mend broken heads and limbs and heal gashed faces.

Mr. Doucett can speak feelingly on such a subject because he had painful months in hospital following a traffic accident. But in the main we have a sort of acquired callousness towards this dreadful situation, which is one of the reasons accidents happen.

One Black Mark



(Vancouver News- Herald)

In naming Hon. R. W. Mayhew as Canadian Ambassador to Japan, Mr. St. Laurent has made a wise choice.

Only one minus mark stands against him during his political career. This was for permitting the desecration of the natural treed park at Royal Roads College, Esquimalt.

As B.C.'s Federal minister, he should have acted to preserve Royal Roads intact for the nation. He should have saved it from the Ottawa bureaucratic despoilers who replaced the woods with jerry-built, slum-housing.

A BRITISH OPINION

AREA BOOMING—Considered one of the world's richest sources of copper-nickel, this wilderness area just south of the 57th parallel in Manitoba soon will be linked to the supply routes of the world by a 145-mile rail line. Railway engineers are forced to build bridges such as this 201-foot span across the Churchill River in the steel link between Sherridon, Man., 400 miles northwest of Winnipeg, and Lynn Lake, site of the rich deposits.

Northern Manitoba Town Bright Star In Mine World

LYNN LAKE, Man. (CP)—This booming mine town, one of the brightest new stars in Canada's mineral world, soon will be diffusing new wealth into the national economy.

Nestling in the Manitoba wilds just south of the 57th parallel, the town's expanding mine is considered the world's richest source of copper-nickel apart from the great mines at Sudbury, Ont.

Within a year a 145-mile rail line will link it with supply routes to the south, hauling ore estimated to be worth $14,000,000 yearly to world markets. Much of it will go to Canada's defence production and for stockpiling.

COSTLY DEVELOPMENT.

Development costs at Lynn Lake are great. About $50,000,000 will have been spent by late fall of 1953 when the Sherritt Gordon mine is expected to start production. Already ore worth $175,000,000 at current prices has been blocked out.

The rail line, estimated to cost about $15,000,000, is being pushed through rocky terrain and muskeg by the Canadian National Railways. When completed it will reach northeast from Sherridon, 390 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

Aircraft and tractor trains have been the chief forms of transportation since the district was opened 11 years ago. A few made the trip by canoe and on foot.

Some 500 men now are working on the line. By Oct. 5 the complete right-of-way had been cleared, the roadbed graded for 85 miles and 25 miles of track laid.

Engineering and construction problems—despite modern equipment—are as challenging as those which faced the men who built the first transcontinental line across Northern Ontario 70 years ago.

PIONEER AREA

The Lynn line will open the same possibilities for pioneers who advanced across the Prairies toward a new life. The route may serve as the springboard for all of northern Manitoba, rich in scarce and untouched minerals.

As ore trundles south, homes and equipment from the defunct Sherridon mine will move north. Last winter tractor trains working round-the-clock trekked 72 houses and countless tons of mining machinery, dismantled there and now erected here.

Homes were plucked from their foundations, placed on sleighs and carried across the marsh land in trains. More than 225 have yet to make the trip.

Lynn Lake seven years ago had only three log shacks. Now the population is approaching 500 and is expected to grow between 1,500 and 2,000 when production starts.

The town's history began in 1941 with an ore discovery by a transplanted prospector, Austin McVeigh, born in Lower Litchfield, 60 miles west of Ottawa. He's been tramping Canada's northland for four decades and hopes to die with boots on, preferably the hobnailed boots of the prospector.

McVeigh was induced into the mining game when a boy after reading of the big money made by prospectors in Cripple Creek and Cobalt. He learned his business the hard way, working in practically all Ontario mining camps before heading for British Columbia and back to Manitoba.

Although there are stories that he discovered Lynn Lake through luck, he insists the find was the result of careful prospecting with modern gadgets.

Thinks Children Should Play With Matches

By RENNIE TAYLOR

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—It's okay for little children to play with matches, light cigarettes, fire up incinerator, study explosives, electric shock and dangerous chemicals—as long as such things are done under parental supervision.

That's the opinion of Dr. Harry F. Dietrich of Beverly Hills, Calif., and presented in a paper delivered to the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Dr. Dietrich is recognized as one of the United States' top authorities on accident prevention among children.

When junior wants to light matches, break out the kitchen box, plant him in the driveway or on the sidewalk and make him light and blow out each match, one at a time. The whole box.

"This usually will give the parent a respite of three to 12 months from the match problem," Dr. Dietrich said.

All children should be taught that some liquids are inflammable; that some strong acids and alkalies will burn the flesh. The facts about electric shock should be taught gradually.

"I personally feel," Dr. Dietrich added, "that the firecracker has an overlooked educational role in demonstrating on a safe scale the concept and effect of an explosion."

Workers Vote Accept Contract

HAMILTON (CP)—Workers at Hamilton Cottons yesterday voted to accept a contract negotiated between the company and the Textile Workers Union of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.).

J. Harold Daoust, Canadian director of the T.W.U.A., said the workers, on strike for more than a month, will be back at work in a few days. Two neutral observers supervised the secret balloting in which 238 of the 450 workers took part.

The vote was announced as 217 favoring the agreement, 15 against with six spoiled ballots.

The contract, among other benefits, calls for a seven-cent hourly wage increase retroactive to Sept. 22 and another two-cent raise retroactive to Feb. 1.

Condition Critical

SARNIA (CP)—Critically injured when he fell 70 feet from a process tower at Dow Chemical company, Michael Higgins, 28, of Bright's Grove, was reported "unchanged" at St. Joseph's Hospital last night. Higgins was said to be setting up equipment on a tower at the new styrene plant when he evidently tripped and fell.

Assault Remand

KITCHENER (CP)—"These sort of tactics are not going to come to this country if I can help it," Magistrate H. R. H. Kirkpatrick said in court yesterday as he remanded two Kitchener youths to today for sentence on charges of assault. Evidence was given that Ronald Stuebling and Lucien Dease had "put the boots" to another youth, John P. O'Connell. The two pleaded guilty. O'Connell suffered a broken rib.

DRAGON DANCE—This is one stage of the Chinese dragon dance which passed through the streets of Montreal Chinatown recently. Dancers, hidden under the canopy, climb a pole held by comrades, to reach money tied on strings. The money went to finance the work of the dancers, members of the Toronto Masonic Athletic Club. Some of these dancers only recently arrived from China.

Five Wounded On Casualty List

OTTAWA (CP)—The army's 151st Korean casualty list, issued yesterday, included five men wounded in action, one for the second time. The last previous list was issued Oct. 31.

Yesterday's list brought to 1,223 the total number of casualties so far suffered by Canadian troops in Korean action, including 226 dead, 883 wounded, 29 missing, 84 injured and one captured.

The navy has reported three dead and three injured in action.

The list includes these Ontario names:

Wounded in Action

Duchene, Garry Ronald, Pte., R.C.R. Mrs. Cora Duchene (mother), 1069 Bronx St. Pembroke, Ont.

Buying Very Slow At Tobacco Market

SIMCOE (CP)—The flue-cured tobacco market opened yesterday and buying was "very slow" all day, a tobacco company official said.

First crop bought by the Imperial Leaf Tobacco Company, major buying firm in the field, was that of Norman Fraser, Kelvin, who received 39½ cents. Prices ranged from 40 to 44 cents for crops purchased.

Fatally Crushed

WATERLOO (CP) — Wayne Boome, 4, last night was fatally crushed under a large tractor-trailer. Lloyd Henrich, driver of the truck, said he saw the child standing on the sidewalk. Seconds later he felt a bump, and stopped to find the boy had been crushed by the dual wheels of his truck.

Body Recovered

TORONTO (CP)—The body of James Merkley, 43, was recovered yesterday from the mouth of the Credit River at nearby Port Credit. Mr. Merkley's brother, Ernest, 52, still is missing. The two men disappeared a week ago. It was believed they slipped into the water from a plank leading from a tug to a barge.

Car Misses Turn Three Men Killed

MONT LAURIER, Que. (CP)—Three men lost their lives last night when the automobile in which they were riding failed to make a sharp turn and plunged into the Riviere du Lievre. Mont Laurier is 120 miles northwest of Montreal.

Dead are Roland Brien, 21, and Gerald Theriault, 26, of St. Come, Que., and Antoine Guilbeault, 28, Ste. Emelie de L'Energie, Que.

Nixon Urges Support For Ike

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Senator Richard M. Nixon, successful Republican candidate for vice-president, in a victory statement last night urged all Americans to "join together behind the leadership of General Dwight Eisenhower to advance the cause of freedom and to bring about peace throughout the world."

The young running mate of Gen. Eisenhower spoke to a country-wide audience on television and radio.

"In the natural gratification that we all feel at this moment, we must never forget the great responsibility that a new administration must assume in the critical period ahead. As Dwight Eisenhower has said on occasion after occasion, there is no problem which 160,000,000 united American people cannot solve."

Would Control Aerials

THOROLD (CP) — Provincial authorities will be asked to provide more control over the erection of television aerials to give greater protection to the public. A resolution to that effect yesterday was approved by a district meeting of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association in this town.

Windsor Grime Leader

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Windsor is a grimier city than Pittsburgh—long considered the grime capital of the United States, it was disclosed yesterday. A report on air pollution in Windsor made public here declares "the average monthly dustfall in the heavily-contaminated area of Windsor is apparently greater than that . . . in Chicago, Cincinnati, Toronto or Los Angeles."

Joint Seaway Dead Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada informed the United States government yesterday it considers the 1941 agreement for joint Canada-United States construction of the St. Lawrence seaway-power project has been superseded by last week's International Joint Commission approval of a joint power project.

A note delivered at Washington by Canadian Ambassador Hume Wrong said the Canadian government therefore does not plan any action to have the 1941 agreement ratified by Parliament. That agreement was never ratified by the U.S. Congress.

The diplomatic note made it clear that joint construction of the seaway now is a dead issue

The International Joint Commission last week approved a joint application for construction of the power project. Canada plans to build the seaway on her own.

Hilaire Surrenders

PARIS (Reuters) — George Hilaire, one of 13 convicted Vichy politicians fugitive from justice since the 1944 liberation, surrendered yesterday and was given "provisional liberty" while the law figures out what to do with him. Hilaire said he had been hiding out in Switzerland since a 1947 trial in his absence on charges of collaborating with the Germans.

Killed By Hammer

WESTPORT (CP)—Carl Lampman, 18-year-old construction worker, was killed yesterday when hit by a sledgehammer dropped from some 150 feet above him as he worked on a television relay tower being built near here. Westport is about 30 miles north of Kingston.

Two More Murders Blamed On Mau Mau

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Two more murders by the anti-white Mau Mau secret society were reported from the Nyeri district of Kenya today—just as the British colonial secretary, Oliver Lyttelton, prepared to go home.

Both the victims were Africans—a Kikuyu head man and an African policeman. They were set upon by a party of 10 Kikuyu tribesmen.

Lyttelton flew out here a week ago for an on-the-spot survey of conditions after a series of brutal murders and attacks incensed public opinion in Britain.

Revolutionary New Lamp...

bright all over...lessens shadows, glare and eyestrain

A revolutionary new inside coating so completely diffuses light in the White Lamp (right) that it glows evenly all over. There are no bright glare spots as at the centre of the old-style frosted lamp (left). Such diffusion does away with harsh glare and shadows are reduced to a minimum.

WHITE LAMP

The G-E White Lamp — bright all-over — is designed to reduce the risk of eyestrain when you're studying, reading or doing any "close" work. This new kind of lamp bulb is four ways better. It softens shadows so they're hardly visible . . . reduces reflected glare . . . spreads light evenly over the entire surface of the bulb . . . keeps its cleaner, whiter beauty for life.

This remarkable new lamp — the result of years of unceasing research and development — is typical of the persistent efforts of this Company to make G-E Lamps stay brighter—longer. Ask for G-E Lamps by name.

Have you thought of INFLATION PROTECTION?

That the continuing rise in the cost of living is reducing the purchasing power of the dollar is very obvious. If you have savings or investments, it is important to you that the dollars you save today be kept in reasonably close relationship with the cost of the things you plan to buy with those dollars, five, ten or twenty years from now. The record shows, over the past twenty years, that investors in Mutual Fund companies have enjoyed this protection to a marked degree. They have had the satisfaction of seeing the purchasing-power of their dollars keep pace with increases in the cost of living. In addition, they have enjoyed regular income from dividends paid every three months, plus an opportunity to share in the growth of our great industries. U.S. Hunters In Small Numbers

NORTH BAY (CP)—Only two United States hunters have purchased deer-hunting licences at the lands and forests department office here compared with several hundred last year.

The Americans have not come in such large numbers this year because of the U.S. embargo on taking meat from Canada into the U.S. The embargo was ordered last spring after the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

Many hunting camps in this area have not been opened, department officials said.

Americans are permitted to take home 15 pounds of cooked meat and trophy heads, properly treated by a taxidermist. They are permitted to store the balance of their meat in Canada until the ban is lifted.

Officials report that so far hunting has been poor. Of 181 hunters checked into the Timagami area, only 13 have obtained deer so far.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Bill Tobin, general manager of Chicago Black Hawks in the N.H.L., is starting his 27th season with Hawks. He was hired in '26 and has been everything since from ticket hustler to club president. We talked with Bill a couple of summers ago when he came here for a fishing trip with Frank Hughes, and at that time Tobin said the Hawks weren't interested in Ontario puckists but did their scouting in Western Canada. However, times have changed and Chicago now sponsors junior clubs in this province, including Belleville in our own O.H.A. junior "B" grouping. But not Kingston this year. The local Oddfellows of course have a Boston hookup.

* * * * * *

Haven't too much dope yet on Oddfellows' starting lineup this semester. In their recent exhibition tilt they used Lingard and Delahaye in goal; Bigford, Sullivan, Burns, Sabatino, Newman, Kimball and McCormick on defence; and these forwards: Robinson, Floyd, Twist, Coyle, Frizzelle, Ferguson, Gardner, McCracken, Allen, Snape, Doris, Stevenson, Cupoli and Lang. Incidentally, young Gardner is a son of Jack (Smoke) Gardner, a star hockeyist himself during the 30s. The Triple Links open their junior "B" schedule here Friday night against Lindsay. Sixty Coombs is handling the Scugog squad this season, as Al Burns coaches the intermediate club there.

T. V. L. Teams Get Set

Jack Jopling of Lakefield, Sheeny Stevenson of Hastings, Jack Harris of Havelock and Red Creighton of Norwood have their T.V.L. teams all set to start off that pre-season series. It opens tonight at 7:30 down at Civic, Lakefield vs. Norwood, and Hastings vs. Havelock. A lot of good Peterborough puck-chasers aboard these early lineups, and some keen competition is assured. Just three Wednesday night twin bills, and then first and second teams play off Nov. 26 and Dec. 3 in a points-to-count set for a trophy. It'll be excellent for conditioning players on these teams for the regular Trent Valley League schedule running during the winter months.

Orfuns tote a 15-point lead into their return game in Hamilton on Saturday for the O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" championship. Fans wanting to go from here in a special bus should phone Gord Beatty at 21681 right away, or call Shockey Mein at 4302. Winner of this series meets either Ottawa or Montreal Lakeshores in the eastern final. Earlier word had it that Ottawa would represent the Q.R.F.U., but they've got to knock off Montreal in Verdun next Sunday or it'll be the Lakeshore Flyers, a heavier team than Ottawa. Latter have Chuck Paul for kicking duties. St. Aloysius Orfuns ended the Q.R.F.U. 12-game schedule Saturday by holding the leading Ottawa squad to a 6-6 tie. Teams in C.R.U. playdowns must be pared to 26 players. The eastern final is a sudden-death game on Nov. 15, winner meeting Winnipeg for Canadian honors on Nov. 22.

* * * * * *

More About the Orfs

Local officials inform us that if Orfuns win the Ontario title Saturday, the eastern final will be staged here the following weekend. Winnipeg wanted to come east for the Canadian final but the C.R.U. turned this down, since it was the west's turn for the trophy tilt. Winnipeg has to guarantee $2,000 for that game and officials out that way thought colder weather would cut down considerably on the gate. Tony Kotowski and Jerry McGillis plan to scout the Q.R.F.U. final fray between Ottawa and Montreal in Verdun this coming Sunday, always provided Orfuns get by the Hamilton Panthers for provincial honors.

* * * * * *

In senior "B" hockey, Kingston opens at Oshawa tomorrow, while the Petes play Glens in Belleville next night. Ellis outfit goes to Stouffville next Wednesday before they have another home game. We hear that Nip O'Hearn has decided to return to pro ranks once more, but Bob Thorpe is still hopeful of being waived out of the A.H.L. so he can play for the Petes. Doug Mortimer has been named coach of the junior Oddfellows, Doug having helped in this department in the early years of the I.O.O.F. puck organization. Joe Rochetta and Bill Crowley will coach the P.M.H.A. nis lot with Lindsay intermediates for this season and has been going well.

WON'T YIELD TITLE

LONDON (AP)—Randy Turpin has changed his mind about surrendering his European middleweight boxing championship. His manager, George Middleton, said yesterday the British Boxing Board of Control had prevailed upon Randy to keep the crown. Turpin announced 10 days ago he would give up the title because he did not want to be bothered defending it while he had prospects of a world title match.

Grove Triumphs Over Q.M. In School Game

Grove defeated Queen Mary 3-1 to break the tie for third place in the senior school soccer race, and Grove now meets Prince of Wales, the winner then tackling Central for the league title.

Patterson scored for Grove in the first half and Copping made it 2-0 on Simmons' pass. W. Haig got one back for the losers on a penalty kick on the second half, but Patterson clinched matters from Hargreaves later in the stanza. Queen Mary pressed hard in the second, Hendry, Haig and Reynolds standing out for this team. Merrett, Simmons, Patterson, and Copping shone for the winners. Referees J. Burns and W. Patterson handled the important game particularly well. Teams:

Queen Mary: McArthur, Stewart, Wilson, Cromie, Hendry, Drury, Dafoe, Reynolds, Haig, Brown, Jobbitt, B. Clarke, C. Clarke, Bignell, Staves, Mann, Perritt, Milne.

Grove: Davey, Keene, Bailey, Griffin, Casey, Merrett, Copping, Wood, Patterson, Simmons, Hargreaves, Wood, Duncan, Heard.

Bowmanville Comes For Badminton Play

The Peterborough Badminton Club will entertain Bowmanville racqueteers this Saturday evening in the Market Hall. Bowmanville is sending up five men's doubles and five ladies' doubles as well as 10 mixed for the inter-club matches. It is the first competition of the season for the local club, which has been operating for a few weeks this fall. Bowmanville has a strong list of players.

Peterborough visits Port Hope December 8 and expect to have Belleville Military Club here before Christmas.

Plans are afoot to have the juniors started next week, probably on Tuesday and Saturday afternoon as was the case last year. The junior fee under 14 years is $1.00, and for those over 14 it'll be $2.50. Those wishing to apply should send in to Sandy Fleming.

There has been plenty of activity lately at the local club, and a number of new players are getting into the sport. Saturday nights are the big evenings and the games committee plans some local competitions any Saturday when visiting clubs are not competing.

Pittsburgh Hornets Sporting New Look

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Hornets, defending champions of the American Hockey League, will sport a new look Friday—a change in uniform colors and a new numbering system.

Under the new numbering system goalkeepers will be numbered zero. Defencemen will be numbered from 10 to centres will be numbered in the 20s.

Western Teams Find It's Jinx Win First Game

WINNIPEG (CP)—Maybe Winnipeg fans don't realize it, but it's a jinx to win the first game of the Western football finals.

Since the best-of-three series was inaugurated in 1950, the team winning the opener has dropped the next two and the right to represent the West in the Grey Cup final at Toronto. Prior to 1950, the series was a two-game, total-point affair.

Last Saturday, Winnipeg Blue Bombers defeated Edmonton Eskimos 28-12 in the first game of the 1952 Western final at Edmonton. The second will be played at Winnipeg Saturday with a third, if necessary, Nov. 11 at Winnipeg.

And the "comeback kids," as Esks were dubbed following their amazing win over Calgary Stampeders in the semi-final, are anxious to see the jinx continue. It beat them in both 1950 and 1951.

In 1950, Eskimos edged Bombers 17-16 in the opener at Edmonton, but dropped the next two, 12-22 and 6-29, in Winnipeg. Last year, Edmonton won the first at home against Saskatchewan Roughriders, 15-11.

But the Riders came back to win two straight, 12-5 and 19-18, at Regina.

Deny Brecheen Been Released

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Saigh, president of St. Louis Cardinals, said yesterday pitcher Harry Brecheen, who last week signed as a player-coach with the neighboring Browns, was never released by the Redbirds.

In filing "tampering" charges against the Browns with Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, Saigh referred to a rule which states "there shall be no negotiations between any player and any club other than the club with which he is under contract, or by which he is reserved, unless his club, in writing, authorized such negotiations."

"We never gave Brecheen such authorization," Saigh said. "All we did was ask waivers on Brecheen as a forerunner to making him a coach of the Cards. Under the rules, in order to take a player off the active list, waivers must first be requested on the player. At no time did we harbor any thoughts of releasing him."

Owner Bill Veeck of the Browns scoffed at Saigh's "tampering" charges. "We did not approach or talk with Brecheen until after his waivers had expired and he was thus declared a free agent."

Veeck said he had signed Brecheen to a two-year contract.

Orfuns Have Superstitions On Photos And Clothes As Grid Playoffs Proceed

From the start, there's a peculiar odour about this story. But it's about championship marches by teams and players and the various superstitions they have during the time they wait and play games on the titular trail. Newspaper photographers ran into the most common superstition by finalists when they attempted to take pictures last year of the Timbermen in the Eastern Canada series. The flash-bulb boys were kept out of dressing rooms until the championship was won; no pictures, except action shots, were allowed. If pictures were taken, some of the players threatened to quit.

NO LAUNDRY?

There's another common type, not washing game clothes. That's where the odour comes into the story and applies particularly to the Orfuns, now after the Ontario championship.

Several weeks ago the club proceeded to have all the uniforms washed, but several key players objected; the old superstition that they'd lose if the uniforms were washed, crept in. The uniforms still haven't been cleaned and won't be until the final game in Winnipeg, providing the Orfuns go that far.

It's even rumored that the clothes cleaning superstition has extended from the players to the executive. The club officials have been wearing the same clothes to games for several weeks now; even the under-clothes are included in this plan.

C.R.U. SAYS NO

On the news side of the Orfuns, the latest is an offer, by telephone from Winnipeg for the final game, the Canadian championship game, to be played in Peterborough. But the C.R.U. rules that the games must be played in the west on even years and that's that.

It seems that the Winnipeg Norwoods are a little afraid of the weather factor which could easily affect their gate. If the weather's bad that final day, then it's quite possible the gate receipts will follow suit.

Gate receipts will mean a great deal. For the Winnipeg club before the series, under C.R.U. rules, must guarantee the Orfuns $2,000. That's a fair amount of money for any intermediate club.

The C.R.U. checked weather for the final day for the past 10 years for Toronto and Winnipeg and found both compare favorably. There's not too much difference.

PLAY IN VERDUN

On Sunday the Quebec champions will be decided between Ottawa Roughrider Seconds and Montreal Lakeshores in Verdun. Earlier this year Ottawa edged the Lakeshores 10-6. Coaching Ottawa is Wally Masters who nearly was coach of the Orfuns this year and quartering the Roughriders is Robillard, of a well-known football family in Ottawa.

The Orfuns, provided they hold their 15-point lead for the Ontario championship, will scout the game. Coach Tony Kotowski and Jerry McGillis to leave Hamilton after the game and travel by train for Montreal and the Quebec championship game. This will give the Orfuns a chance to know something about the winner before the Eastern Canada sudden-death game in Peterborough a week

COACHES JUNIORS — Doug Mortimer has been selected to coach the O.H.A. junior "B" Oddfelows here this season. He has been a defence stalwart on local senior squads for years.

Juniors Choose Mortimer As Puck Coach

Doug Mortimer, husky defenceman of the senior "B" Eagles in recent hockey campaigns, has been named coach of the local O.H.A. junior "B" Oddfellows for this season. He succeeds Johnny Godfrey, who had to give up the post because of shift work. The Oddfellows open their schedule against Lindsay here Friday night.

Always a hustling, scrappy player, Doug Mortimer has performed for two provincial senior "B" championship clubs, the Petes in the early 40s and the local Legionnaires several years ago. He also has gone in for aquatic sports, softball and golf. Doug has a lot of big, young material to work on this season as the Triple Links have a long-range plan in view to build up a powerful team. The club has a hookup with Boston Bruins of the N.H.L.

Barrie Flyers Bow 5-2 To Canadiens

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It begins to look as if the junior hockey teams in Ontario and Quebec just aren't good travellers.

Last night Barrie Flyers, leading the junior A league in Ontario with eight wins, two losses and a tie, started their Quebec tour by losing 5-2 to Montreal Canadiens, in an interlocking schedule game. Montreal leads the Quebec section. The pattern isn't unusual.

Two weeks ago Galt Black Hawks, currently holding down second place in Ontario, won only two games in four on their trip through Quebec.

Last week Three Rivers Reds of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association went to Ontario for a four-game series. They lost three.

REDS NIP ROYALS

In the only other action in Quebec last night the Reds, win-hungry after the famine in Ontario, downed Montreal Royals 3-2. The Royals have one win in 10 starts.

In Ontario games last night Toronto St. Michael's scored their fifth straight victory, a 4-2 decision over the Spitfires at Windsor. The win gave St. Michael's an impressive seven wins for one loss and one tie. They are in a second-place tie with Galt.

In Kitchener, Guelph Biltmores overcame a second-period lead to down Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 4-2 and move into fourth place.

Don McKinney notched both goals for the losing Barrie team while Guy Rousseau scored two for Canadiens. Henri Richard, Claude Prevost and Claude Vinet were other Canadien goal-getters. Canadiens led 3-2 after the first and sewed it up early in the third with two goals.

Roger Dubec scored two for Three Rivers with Gerard Bergeron getting the other as the Reds took a 2-1 lead in the first and each team scored once in the final. Brian McCann and Ross Watson tallied for Royals.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

St. Michael's ran up a 3-0 lead in Windsor before Royals made their bid. Goals by Paul Knox, Bill Dineen and Jim Logan put the visitors in front, then Butch Graham and Cummy Burton brought Windsor to within one goal. Ted Toppazzini scored an insurance goal for St. Michael's late in the game.

Kitchener dominated play for two periods before Guelph staged a comeback to win. Jim Connelly got his first of three to open scoring for the Bilts, then Gary Collins tied it up. Orv Tessier moved Kitchener ahead in the second but two goals by Connelly and one by Ron Murphy in the last seven minutes settled the issue.

CHIEF BIG HEART, above, who meets Lee Henning in the main event of tonight's mat card at the Brock. This is the first appearance of the matmen here this season and a large crowd of fans is expected out. The semi-final brings together Lou Plummer and Jim Coffield. The opener has Jack Pesek pitted against Dick Raines. There are a number of new faces on tonight's card.

Chuck Rayner Returns To Ranger Nets

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Chuck Rayner, battle-scarred warrior of nine National Hockey League campaigns, returns to the New York nets tonight for the first time this season.

This fall Chuck suffered a severe leg injury in a pre-season exhibition game which kept him out of action for the 11 games the Blueshirts have played.

The Rangers, who have only won one game and tied three, will be out to give the affable Chuck a solid defence for his season's debut with Toronto Maple Leafs providing the opposition on the Leafs' home ice in the night's only N.H.L. action.

A victory for the Leafs would move them into a first-place tie with the amazing Chicago Black Hawks with 15 points. A victory for New York would still leave the Blueshirts in the cellar, one point behind fifth-place Boston.

Chuck will skate into his familiar spot replacing a 20-year-old rookie from Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Hockey League. In 11 games Lorne Worsley has allowed 38 goals for an average of 3.45. But most of those games Leo Reise was missing on the defence of a club which has scored only 22 goals.

RANGER'S 13TH SEASON

For Rayner it will be the start of his 13th season in professional hockey. The 32-year-old native of Sutherland, Sask., broke into the big time with Springfield in the American Hockey League, coming to the Indians from Kenora Thistles. Two seasons later he and Sugar Jim Henry were battling it out for the goal duties of the old New York Americans.

After three years in the Canadian armed forces he signed on with the Rangers and has been a fixture with the Broadway Blues ever since, except for the 1947-48 season when he was with their New Haven farm club.

In the 1949-50 season he was named the most valuable player in the league. He was a big factor in New York's stretch drive which brought them to within one game of the Stanley Cup only to have Detroit nose them out.

INJURIES GALORE

Probably no other active player has been stitched together so many times. He has also had more than his share of broken jaws, charlie horses, broken fingers and assorted leg and arm injuries. He even has played games with his jaw wired together, feeding only on milk shakes.

There were no games last night. A scheduled game between Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings at Chicago was postponed to a later date because of the U.S. election.

Eisenhower Most Sports-Minded U.S. President

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be perhaps the most sports-minded president in American history.

He was a football player at West Point, proud of the fact he once tackled the great Jim Thorpe. He took a brief fling at baseball in the central league. Today—still at his old playing weight of 173 pounds—he shoots a bangup game of golf.

When A. B. (Happy) Chandler was dismissed as commissioner of baseball more than a year ago, Eisenhower was among those considered for the post. But his duties as chief of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization were too important.

Ike is an avid sports fan

"Football is a tremendous spectacle," he says.

He told a group of sports figures at a New York tete-a-tete recently:

"Today I can go to a major league baseball game and come away a raving maniac."

GOLF HIS GAME

Golf is the president-elect's game today and he's threatened to go away and play 10 days of golf as relaxation after the strenuous campaign.

He says his score is 90 and up but acknowledged he fired a 79 two years ago at Blind Brook in Port Chester, N.Y., and recently had an 82.

Ike wasn't an outstanding gridiron star at West Point. He played fullback, did punting duties and backed up the line.

Warren Harding was an ardent golfer. Herbert Hoover preferred to fish. Harry Truman wasn't a sports participant, but Franklin Roosevelt was a fairly good golfer before his crippling illness. Old timers recall that Woodrow Wilson and Howard Taft tried their hands at golf but never really mastered the game. They were well up in the 100s.

Ike is the first one who's ever had a 79.

DOROHOY FINED

SEATTLE (CP)—Playing coach Eddie Dorohoy of Victoria Cougars has been fined $50 for abusive language and disrespect toward referee Scotty Morrison in last Saturday's game at New Westminster, B.C., the Western Hockey League announces. Dorohoy also received two misconduct penalties during the game. Victoria lost 5-2.

Owen Sound In 1st Place Tie Wallops Brantford 10-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Somebody will get knocked off the top of the pile in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" series tonight. Owen Sound Mercurys moved into a first place tie with Sarnia and Chatham last night when they trounced Brantford Redmen 10-1 with a surprising show of power.

The Mercurys had little trouble with the Redmen last night. Buck Forslund scored three goals and Andy Grant tallied a pair. Others were notched by Bill McComb, Tom Burlington, Roy Leckie, Ray McCallum and Doug Gillespie.

Bob Gillson in the Owen Sound net lost his shutout when Joe Holota beat him from a scramble early in the second period.

The lead changed hands in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association southern group last night. Sudbury Wolves took over first place from North Bay Trappers by taking the Soo Greyhounds 7-1. The win puts the Wolves one point up.

Sudbury were not pressed in winning. Gord Heale scored twice, while singles went to Nick Tomiuk, Yackler Flynn, Lennie Speck, Red McCarthy and Andy Milne.

Andy Anderson was within 37 seconds of a shutout when Ronnie Lay slipped one past him for Greyhounds from about 10 feet out.

It's a riverside battle in the northern league tonight as the Sault (Mich.) Indians visit the Sault (Ont.) Greyhounds.

Julius Boros Golfer Of Year

CHICAGO (AP)—Julius Boros, a play-for-pay shooter only three years, yesterday was acclaimed the "professional golfer of the year."

Boros, 32-year-old native of Hungary, received a whopping vote of 314 ballots against only 26 for runner-up Sammy Snead, in the Professional Golfers' Association annual poll.

Boros captured the U.S. open championship at Dallas, Tex., last June for his first major tournament victory. And he shot his way to the top of year's money-winning list with tournament winnings of more than $37,000.

GOLF COACH DIES

LONDON (AP)—Fred Robson, coach of Britain's Walker Cup golf team in 1947, died Monday night after a long illness. He was 67. Robson played on the British Ryder Cup team against the United States in 1929 and 1931.

Stranahan Surrenders On Paternity Charge

Stranahan posted $300 cash bail and was released pending hearing, a date for which was not set immediately.

Miss Buchelle, 24, described as a stunning beauty, filed an affidavit last Wednesday in domestic relations court charging Stranahan is the father of a daughter born to her last April 11. Stranahan and his lawyer, Dan McCullough, said they had no statement to make.

Model Of 1900 Still Can Do 30 Miles An Hour

SHUBENACADIE, N.S. (CP)—For about as long as he can remember W. G. Nelson has been bringing his old gas buggy out of retirement each year.

Gaining fame with time and claiming to be the most-photographed automobile around these parts, Nelson's model I Pope-Tribune came off the production line in 1900.

It was retired after nine years of faithful service and Nelson went to the west coast for a time But his love for the yehicle remained and he soon started to bring it out of its annual "retirement" regularly.

GOES 30 M.P.H.

Still in good condition, the buggy is capable of taking to the highway for an afternoon spin at a top speed of 30 miles an hour.

Nelson finds the car a great means of meeting new people and making friends.

"I imagine that pictures of the car, many of them with tourist visitors sitting in it, now are in about every province in Canada as well as every state of the United States," he says.

The car, believed to be the first one registered in Nova Scotia, was brought to the province by the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Company, with which Nelson worked as an inspector.

Backs Fluoridation

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. David B. Ast, director of New York state's bureau of dental health, said yesterday fluoridation of water is the most effective method of preventing tooth decay. He told the Ontario Public Health Association that 427 American communities use fluoridation and 299 more have approved its installation.

Too Much Noise Causes Poor Health Among Citizens

By HORACE CASTELL

SAN REMO, Italy (Reuters)—Too much noise increases blood pressure, aggravates heart, artery and stomach troubles, brings on nervousness, hyper-excitability, insomnia, anxiety complexes, weakens the intellect, shakens the mind, creates hallucinations and paranoic tendencies.

In addition, it slowly turns you deaf. If can even kill you or drive you mad.

These conclusions were drawn by an international anti-noise congress here.

Delegates included American, Swedish, Swiss, Belgian, Dutch and Italian scientists, technicians and city administrators directly or indirectly concerned with the sociological aspects of noise.

The prime aim of the congress was to explore ways and means of reducing the volume of noise produced by "means of locomotion."

Something must be done about the frightful din on the streets of towns and cities, delegates agreed.

Technicians using phonometers—instruments for recording the number and intensity of vibrations, especially of sound-waves—have noted that an automobile makes far more noise than the 85 sound-waves which an ordinary hearer can stand from one object without suffering ill-effects.

HORNS PROHIBITED

On the other hand, the pandemonium on some European streets has been lessened since the war by the prohibition of the use of horns. In Rome, for instance, use of the horn is strictly forbidden. Even a tiny "beep" brings a traffic policeman running.

Concrete suggestions the delegates made on the best means of fighting big city traffic noise were that automobile manufacturers should strive to produce quieter engines, city authorities should forbid completely the use of excessive use of horns; trolleys, perhaps the noisiest "means of locomotion" on the streets, should be banished.

Leaving city streets to their tumult, the delegates expressed serious worry at the conditions in industrial plants and said deafness among factory workers is increasing alarmingly.

After two years in any kind of mill, the ears of the workers become, without exception, abnormal. They added that after eight years in a mill, workers can hardly hear a level voice at more than an army's length.

MANY ILL-EFFECTS

The ears of such workers—like the ears of the ordinary man hurrying through a city street—become attuned to noise, the delegates stated, and no ill-effects are felt. But nevertheless the ill-effects are there. And gradually they take toll of the health and general well-being.

Delegates reported that studies are being made today in the fields of medicine, architecture, mechanical construction and aviation to fight "industrial noise."

Plant For Stratford

STRATFORD (CP)—The Lufty Manufacturing Company, Ontario, Limited will start manufacturing here soon, it was announced at a Stratford Industrial Commission meeting here last night. The new industry, employing about 30 female workers at the start, with the possibility of doubling that number, has leased 6,000 square feet in the O'Cedar Company of Canada building. The company manufactures sleeping garments.

Thrown From Truck

WATFORD (CP)—Chester Skillen, about 62, of Watford District was killed last night when he was thrown from his pick-up truck as it ran off a road in Warwick township, five miles north of here. Police said the truck jumped a three-foot ditch and Skillen was apparently thrown against a tree which ripped off the left door of the vehicle.

Keeps Son From School

PARIS, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Percy Gill of Paris was convicted of failing to send her 14-year-old son to school and fined $2 with the alternative of two days in jail. Chief Constable Thomas Bean said the boy had attended school only one-half day since the fall term began. Mrs. Gill said she needed the boy at home because her husband was ill and she has to support six children.

Minister Urges Respect For Law

HAVELOCK (ENS)—"Citizenship" was the subject of an address by the Rev. H. E. Peasgood who was guest speaker at a meeting of the Havelock Women's Institute on Monday afternoon in the council chamber of the town hall.

A good citizen, Mr. Peasgood said, pledges loyalty to the state. Some may have made the pledges themselves while others have had the pledges made by their forefathers. Quite a number, he said, take their citizenship in a free country like Canada as a matter of course, and if they were forced to live in countries like Germany they might better realize the value of their citizenship here.

In speaking about breaking the law in a small way, Mr. Peasgood wondered how many stick to the 50 miles per hour speed limit on the highway, and how many evade the payment of their radio licences. He stressed the duties of Christians as citizens of the Kingdom of God and their responsibilities to God, their church and their neighbor. Sometimes the law of God and the law of the state do not conform and as an illustration he took the Menonites whose citizenship of God says they must not commit murder and to them war is murder while their country says they must share in its protection. The law of God says gambling is evil and here he referred to "bingos" which are so prevalent today.

Another way to be of service to one's country was to vote at all elections from municipal to federal. Choose and work for the right candidate irrespective of party, he said

In conclusion he said "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God; thou shalt love thy neighbor, for those who love their God will give themselves cheerfully in the service of others."

The office of second vice-president was made vacant by the removal of Mrs. G. Rigby Sr. to Hastings, and Mrs. Bert Jewell was elected to that office.

A letter of appreciation and a cheque for $5.00 is to be sent to the Ladies' Guild of St. John's Anglican Church for the use of the basement for the cooking class recently held there by the Havelock W.I. Also a letter of appreciation to J. Davidson for donations for the cooking school.

Arrangements were made for the 3-act play "That Watkins Girl" to be sponsored by the Institute on November 14.

It was decided to apply for the legislative grant of $3 which is to be used for educational purposes.

A letter of thanks was read from J. F. Heffernan, president of Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association for the work the Havelock W.I. had done in connection with the chest clinic held here recently.

The president, Mrs. H. Pollock, reminded the members that the district finals for the oratorical contest would be held in the Havelock town hall on November 14, at 1:30 p.m. She also announced that a Remembrance Day service will be held next Sunday at 3 p.m. at the memorial gates with the padre of the Havelock-Belmont branch of the Legion, the Rev. R. D. Duncanson in charge.

A solo was sung by Mrs. W. Goadsby with Mrs. D. Kirk at the piano. Mrs. S. Barlow and Mrs. W. Woodbeck were the program conveners and the latter conducted a quiz on Canada which was won by Mrs. [illegible]. The [illegible] Mrs. W. M. [illegible] Wilde gave a demonstration of a supper dish which was eaten during the tea hour. Tea hour hostesses were Mrs. L. H. Cooke, Mrs. A. Buckland and Mrs. J. Wilde.

Bank Held Up

MONTREAL (CP)—A gunman wearing dark glasses held up three employees of Banque Provinciale du Canada in nearby Varennes yesterday and escaped with "a little less than $1,000," provincial police reported. The man threatened to kill all the employees if they didn't hand over money When given a package of bills he ran from the bank.

New Outbreak

LONDON (Reuters)—The first outbreak of livestock foot-and-mouth disease in Britain for a month was reported yesterday. The ministry of agriculture said the disease had been detected in East Sussex. An epidemic raged throughout the country last fall and spring but has all petered out now.

Polio Picture Complicated By Disagreemen'

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan mobilized all its health resources this year to see that every polio patient was given adequate treatment.

Faced with a record polio year—there have been more than 1,000 cases with the peak of the epidemic past—the province's doctors, nurses, and hospital administrators got together and worked out a plan to prevent hospitals from being swamped with polio and suspected polio patients.

No polio patient who was in serious need of fast treatment had to do without because of lack of hospital space or red tape

HIGH PRAISE

One health department doctor had high praise for the speedy, efficient co-operation among the province's polio fighters.

"If I had had a child with polio," he said, "and he needed top notch care, I don't think he could have done better than at Regina General Hospital."

This probably was true of the two Saskatoon hospitals as well.

More than one doctor has said that the co-operation against polio saved many lives. There were almost 70 deaths in Saskatchewan up to October.

What complicated the picture was the wide area of medical disagreement about polio. Medicine still has a lot to learn about the disease, doctors say, and as a result, there are different opinions about how it spreads and how it should be treated.

COMMON APPROACH

In Saskatchewan, doctors and representatives of virtually every interested group agreed on a common approach to such questions as what type of patient should be kept at home, who should stay in the local hospital, and who should go to Regina or Saskatoon

It was agreed that top doctors should act as "traffic policemen" in Regina and Saskatoon to assure the polio clinics were not jammed with patients who could be kept at home or in hospitals of smaller communities.

Nova Scotia Finds Eels Good Business

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eels are providing Nova Scotia with a small but rapidly-growing industry.

Some 106,000 pounds—valued at $18,000—were exported to the New England states last year, and indications point to a record catch this season.

They don't sell too well in Canada, where housewives apparently will not cook a fish that resembles a snake and has a reputation for terrifying gymnastics in the frying pan.

It's different in Boston, New York and other large American cities, where they sell like hotcakes.

Most Nova Scotia eels come from the Mersey and LaHave rivers on the province's south shore. The best season is just before Christmas.

CRAWLING WITH EELS

"Our rivers, lakes and shores are actually crawling with eels," says one fisheries department official. "We could supply a far greater market."

Inshore fishermen, with the herring, mackerel, cod and lobster seasons behind them, now are preparing their spears and traps for eels.

The fish usually swim up the rivers to settle in the muddy riverbeds for the winter. The spear resembles a long-handled pitchfork with barbs, and is probed into the muddy depths through the ice.

A dozen eels often are taken from one hole in the ice.

The eel traps—called pots—look like slender willow baskets. They have a small entrance at one end and are filled with fish waste as bait.

When chef Edward Giberstorf placed eel matelote on the menu at a large hotel here during the summer, only six servings were sold—all to tourists.

Giberstorf was a bit discouraged. He knew 17 other ways to prepare them. From roast stuffed conger eel to stewed eels, and from braised and broiled eels to orly of eels and eel salad.

Plant Workers Top Labor Group In 1951

OTTAWA (CP)—Reflecting Canada's industrial might, manufacturing and mechanical workers moved into first place in 1951, replacing farm workers as the country's top labor group, the bureau of statistics reports.

It was the first time in history that farm workers were replaced as the top labor group.

The historical transformation, accompanied by a spectacular drop in farm workers, developed as Canada's total occupied labor force jumped to 5,286,153—a boost of a record 776,000 from 4,510,000 in 1941.

During that decade, Newfoundland entered confederation. Along with increased immigration and population growth, this boosted total population to 14,000,000 from 11,500,000.

FARM GROUP DECIMATED

With increased mechanization and the trend towards urban employment, the farm labor group, historically the country's biggest force, suffered heavily during the decade, its ranks decimated by almost 300,000 to 830,441 from 1,132,565.

Meanwhile, the manufacturing and mechanical group surged ahead by almost 100,000 to 841,368 from 744,921. With increased industrial production and a higher standard of living, the occupied labor force showed some other sharp readjustments.

For instance, the number of women workers, majority in the clerical field, jumped to 1,164,321 from 833,972.

Born at nearby Bishopgate, Mr. Telford lived in this city for 40 years. He was owner and operator of the Brantford Pattern Works for many years, later starting a second business, Brantford Wood Specialities. He retired a year ago.

Forced Down By Fog Plane Lands Safely

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Norseman plane, forced down by dense fog yesterday over Mathieson Channel, 350 miles north of here, has landed safely at Ocean Falls, 50 miles to the south.

It was bound from Kemano to Vancouver with seven persons aboard when forced to land because of the bad weather.

48 Canadians Mentioned In Dispatches

OTTAWA (CP)—The army last night topped its longest decorations list of the Korean War with announcement that 48 Canadians have been awarded mentions-in-dispatches for services in that theatre.

Earlier in the day, headquarters announced that 21 officers and non-commissioned officers have been decorated for gallantry and leadership in Korea, the biggest number on a single periodic list yet. This also was the longest M.I.D list.

Mentions-in-dispatches don't rate a special ribbon and medal like decorations. But the winner is entitled to wear a bronze oak leaf on the appropriate campaign ribbon.

The 48 raised to 111 the number of Canadians so far mentioned in dispatches for meritorious services in the Korean War.

ONTARIO MENTIONS

Mentioned in dispatches were the following from Ontario: Maj. John F. Peterson, D.S.O., Dundalk and Maj. Samuel M. Pinkerton, Belfast, Northern Ireland and Hamilton; John H. Howard, Montreal and Penetanguishene; Capt. Fernand G. La Rose, Quebec and Kingston; Capt. Jack I. Moldaver, Brantford; Capt. William B. Stoddart, Woodville; Capt. William R. Urquhart, Ottawa.

Radio Stations Launch Exchange Of Programs

TORONTO (CP)—Five Ontario radio stations have launched a system of program exchange, the Central Canada Broadcasters Association was informed yesterday. The stations at Owen Sound, Barrie, Orillia, Guelph and Wingham record half-hour programs on tape, add script and distribute the results to one another.

As a result each station has a series of programs to broadcast to the public, Vin Dittmer of CKNX Wingham told delegates to the Association's annual convention.

The only disadvantages in the exchange are that the programs are non-musical and not timely.

Other officers are Grant Hyland, Sault Ste. Marie, first vice-president; W. T. Cruckshank, Wingham, secretary Bob Lee, Toronto, treasurer J. A. Dupont, Montreal, Jack Davidson, Toronto, J. E. Campeau, Windsor, representatives to the board of directors of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters.

Value of ice skates manufactured in Canada in 1950 totalled $1,277,000.

Campbell Wins By-Election

BELFAST (Reuters)—Sir David Campbell, Ulster Unionist (Conservative), won a Parliamentary by-election at South Belfast yesterday with a majority of 15,412 over his Socialist opponent.

This was nearly 10,000 fewer than the Unionist majority in last year's general election, but yesterday's polling figures showed that only 48.7 per cent of the constituents voted compared with 74.9 in 1951. Campbell's total was 23,067 Samuel Napier, labor, polled 7,655.

The by-election was caused by the resignation through ill health of Conolly Gage.

Campbell's election brings standing in the House of Commons to: Conservatives and allies 319 Labor 292 Liberals 6; Irish Nationalists 2; Irish Labor 1; vacant 5; total 625.

Youth Sunday Held At St. Aidan's Church

SELWYN (ENS). — At the Sunday evening service at St. Aidan's Anglican Church, Young's Point, Youth Sunday was observed with some of the children taking part in the service. Mr. Monks spoke to the congregation on the subject of the Twenty-third Psalm and told the story of David. He pleaded with the children and the adults, too, whenever the problems of life become too much, to read the Twenty-third Psalm over and over and they will receive strength.

Master Barry Fitzgerald sang a solo, The Lord's Prayer, with his mother at the organ; Miss Pauline Fitzgerald read the lesson, and Andy Wilson received the collection. Children's hymns were sung throughout the service.

Sees Civilian Morale Bad In North Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilian morale in North Korea is so demoralized that the majority of the population would welcome a United Nations offensive to end the war, a United States defence department analysis said yesterday.

It added that should such an offensive develop, "the United Nations command would meet either civilian co-operation or at the least passiveness on their part."

The report was prepared by headquarters of the Far East Command. It said the morale of the destitute civilian population of North Korea is at its lowest point.

British Writer Frankau Dies

HOVE, England (AP)—Gilbert Frankau, 68, British writer who had averaged a novel a year for the last 40 years, died today at his home.

Frankau, who started out as a cigaret salesman and became a best-selling novelist, published his first book "One of Us" in 1912 when he was 28.

His mother bought him a tobacco business and he travelled the world but after his first success he turned to writing for a living.

His better-known books include "The City of Fear," "The Woman of the Horizon," "Christopher Strong," "Three Englishmen," "Experiments in Crime," "The Dangerous Years," and "Winter of Discontent."

A man of fixed views, Frankau hated music, never listened to the radio if he could avoid it, and rarely read novels or went to the movies.

Britain's Grocers Ask More Canadian Cheese

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's grocers today appealed to Food Minister Lloyd George to "make every effort" to get cheese from Canada and increase the ration, now a meagre one ounce a week.

The national federation of grocers and provision dealers said in a telegram to the minister:

"The grocers' federation records country-wide discontent with the cheese position and otherwise. We urge every effort to get the cheese piling up in Canada, and some relaxation of the ban on imports of speciality cheeses."

The government has blamed its dollar shortage for not buying Canadian cheese, and imports of "off-the-ration" speciality cheeses from the continent were reduced last year.

Hasn't Tasted Food For 15 Years Girl May Eat Normally Again

By STEVE HERDER
Canadian Press Correspondent

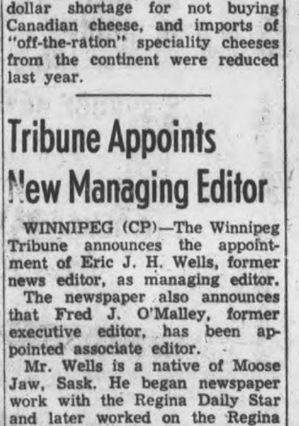
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—An 18-year-old girl who hasn't tasted food for 15 years is soon to have an operation which may enable her to eat normally.

Fay Parsons of Sandy Point, a tiny settlement on Newfoundland's west coast, had her last meal when she was three years old. She can't remember how it tasted.

But after years of being fed through a tube inserted into her stomach, Fay is still alive . . . and hopeful.

Fay will soon receive treatment which may allow her to take food like other people. The Newfoundland health department is sending her to London where Dr. R. N. Raven will perform a delicate operation which may cure her.

DRANK CUP OF LYE



When Fay was a tot she drank a cupful of lye. Her life was saved, but the searing liquid destroyed the digestive passages in her throat and left her unable to swallow.

During the long rest after her accident, Fay became a keen reader. One day, in a London newspaper, she came across a story that gave her new hope.

It told of Dr. Raven's treatment of an Italian whose injury was similar to hers. In a series of operations, the doctor rebuilt the man's throat and he was able to eat and drink normally again.

Fay's grandfather studied the story and came here to see the health department.

TOASTMASTER

WORLD, EUROPEAN and Hungarian figure skating champion, Ede Kiraly will be putting Peterborough Figure Skating Club members through their paces this year. Coming to Canada two years ago, Kiraly has been club professional at Oshawa and instructor at the Cobourg Summer School. From 1944 to 1950 he was regarded as one of the world's best skaters, winning singles and pairs championships for the world, Europe and Hungary. He turned pro in 1950.

Former Europe Champion Teaches Skating Club

Peterborough figure skaters will be doing their whirls, spins and other ice acrobatics this season under the watchful eye of the former world, European champion, Ede Kiraly.

Rated as one of the best figure skaters in the world, Kiraly comes to the Peterborough Figure Skating Club this year as club professional from Oshawa. There, since he came to Canada two years ago, he has been teaching figure skating and ice dancing as club professional. A year ago he also taught at the summer school held in Cobourg.

Kiraly started his skating career when he was four years old in his native Budapest, capital of Hungary. His interest in skating was inherited from his mother who, although not a champion skater, took an active part in the sport.

When he was 10 years old, Kiraly started to practise in earnest, aiming for championships.

He spent "quite a bit of time" on the ice. There school finished at 1 p.m. and "we had the afternoon free"; this extra time was spent on skating.

SHORT SEASON

Mr. Kiraly explained that the skating season in Hungary is shorter than in Canada, only four months on artificial outdoor rinks. These skating surfaces are much larger than in Canada, about six times the size of a hockey cushion, and ideally located in beautiful parks.

His first taste of competitive skating was when he was 10; then he skated in pairs exhibition and the acclaim received gave him further incentive to study figure skating more thoroughly.

When 14 he made his first real bid for international honors during a meet of Hungarian, Austrian and German skaters. He finished fourth.

But the honors really came his way when he was 18 years old. Then, 1944, he won the Hungarian men's championship and also the pairs championship with partner Andrea Kekesy, now of Ottawa. They repeated their achievement annually until 1949 while he won the country's men's honors through to 1950.

His world's championship was in 1947 when in Switzerland, Kiraly won the Academic world championship; only university students were allowed to enter.

RUNNERUP IN OLYMPICS

Skakting with partner Kekesy, Kiraly won the world's championship for pairs in 1948. He was runnerup in the Olympic games in 1948, also runnerup in the world championship the same year and in 1949 and 1950 was runnerup in the world championship to United States' Dick Button. In 1950 he added the European men's championship again to his laurels.

Kiraly starting working with Peterborough figure skaters on Saturday at the Civic arena and his impression is "that the club [illegible] particularly pleased with the "juniors' interest in figure skating and dancing on ice."

About a possible national or international champion from Peterborough, Kiraly said that the Peterborough club is young yet and that "it takes years to build a champion". He added that there are some good senior skaters and that he has high hopes for club members.

To become a champion, Kiraly said that a child should begin skating at six or seven years and then really concentrate on figure skating at 10 or 11 years.

Kiraly pointed out that Canadians don't get the ice time they should and explained that if a skater has championship ambitions he should make the best of summer skating schools to overcome the lack of ice time in the winter.

Ted Johnson Leading Jockey In Canada

TORONTO (CP)—Ted Johnson of Brantford was the leading jockey in Canada during the 1952 racing season, it was learned yesterday. He rode 766 mounts, 135 winners, 119 seconds and 106 thirds.

He replaces veteran Pat Remillard who fought a title battle until the summer meet at Fort Erie, then had to retire due to illness.

Johnny Passero saddled the most winners for the second year in a row with a record of about 60. William Turner and Gordon McCann were runners up to Passero.

TORONTO (CP)—C. F. (Pat) Patterson, 39, of Norval, Ont., has been appointed referee-in-chief for the Ontario Hockey Association's 1952-53 season.

Patterson has been refereeing O.H.A. and Canadian Amateur Hockey Association games for 15 years. For the C.A.H.A. he has officiated at Ontario and Canadian finals and Eastern Canadian finals. Last year he refereed the all-Canadian finals between Quebec and the Maritimes.

During the '30s he played hockey for industrial leagues in Toronto and an O.H.A. team, the Young Rangers.

Arrest Midland Man In Toronto Hotel Fire

MIDLAND (CP) — William H. Campbell, 72, was arrested last night on an arson charge in connection with a fire in a Toronto hotel a month ago.

He is accused of sprinkling gasoline outside the door of a woman friend's hotel room and setting fire to it. Firemen saved the woman and extinguished the flames before any damage could be done.

RIDES FOUR WINNERS

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP)—Tony Dispirito, leading U.S. jockey, brought four of his seven mounts into the winner's circle yesterday at Lin- [illegible] 325 for the year. He has had 22 winners here since the meeting opened Oct. 27.

NOMINATED FOR TROPHY

TORONTO (CP)—Halfback Ted Toogood and snap Red Ettinger of Toronto Argonauts have been nominated for the Jeff Russel Trophy, presented each year to the player in the Big Four football union judged most valuable to his team and most sportsmanlike. Johnny Fedosoff, who broke into Big Four [illegible] Montreal last Sunday, was nominated for the Gruen Trophy, awarded to the league's best rookie.

N.Y. Newspaper Lauds Canada On Economy

NEW YORK (CP)—The Times in an editorial today compliments Canada on the manner in which her economy has safely steered through inflationary reefs following the outbreak of hostilities in Korea.

"The government's policy, in the words of Finance Minister Abbott, was 'designed to guide the economy in the right direction without dictating the details of economic activity.'"

The Times says Canada's "strictly economic" approach to the inflation problem "is typically exemplified in its policy in the field of taxation.

"In contrast with our own government," the Times continues, "it (Canada) has sought to maintain a good balance between taxes on earnings and taxes on spending.

"Of the latter, the bete noire of our politicians in Washington, Finance Minister Abbott has wisely observed:

" 'This type of taxation has the advantage that it does not adversely affect the incentive to earn income—that is, to produce—and it does offer the consumer some choice as to whether he will spend, and pay the tax, or whether he will save, and thus avoid the tax.' "

Boyd Boasted Of Escape

TORONTO (CP) — Edwin Alonzo Boyd boasted for long hours on the night of his recapture about how he and three others of the gang escaped from Don jail Sept. 8, Sergeant of Detectives William Bolton said yesterday.

He testified before the Royal Commission inquiring into conditions at the jail that while guarding Boyd, Steve Suchan, and William and Leonard Jackson, Boyd told him they got through the sawn bars of the window. At the time, he didn't believe him

"I asked how they got through such a narrow space. Boyd told me: 'We dieted for a week. When they brought us food we took a little, but the rest went down the toilet. We took off about 20 pounds.'

"Boyd said you put your feet through the hole first, do a half turn, slide through and that brings you into a position facing the bars, standing on the window sill. Then it was just a couple of steps over the wall."

Bolton said Boyd told him it took them 1½ minutes to get out of the window and the time was about 4:30 a.m. They crawled along the wall and got off that at about 6 a.m.

Judge Ian Macdonell asked how Jackson had negotiated the drop with his stump.

Bolton said Boyd told him each had been lowered to the ground. Jackson had wrapped the stump in a sock and then jammed it into a tin cup.

J. M. Corrigan, one of the suspended guards, told the commission that at the time of the departmental investigation in September, the interrogated guards had been "on their feet with nothing to eat" for many hours. This was probably the reason for some confusing evidence, he said.

Big New Plant

UNITY, Sask. (CP)—Resources Minister J. H. Brockelbank presided at opening ceremonies of the Western Potash Corporation Ltd. plant here. The company's 3,450-foot shaft 13 miles from here marks the inauguration of potash mining in Saskatchewan.

Canadians Watch Voting Closely

TORONTO (CP)—If Canadians had cast ballots themselves their interest couldn't have been higher.

Lights burned in countless homes across the Dominion well after midnight last night as their occupants stuck by their radios or television sets until the United States presidential race was decided.

Perhaps more than in any previous American campaign Canadians absorbed the major issues and became ardent sideline rooters for Dwight Eisenhower or Adlai Steyenson.

But even the Democrats' cheering section didn't appear too downhearted over the general's Republican victory. Some Canadians may have preferred Adlai, but almost all of them like Ike.

Guilty Plea To Charge Of 2nd Offence Drunk

Norman Graham, 52, 599 Water St., was fined $50 and $2.50 costs or one month, when he entered a written guilty plea on a second offence drunk charge Tuesday in police court. He was previously convicted of being drunk on September 2 and the charge to which he pleaded guilty charged him with being intoxicated in a public place on September 3.

He also faces another second offence drunk charge. When Graham's name was called in court today, Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw asked that it be adjourned for another week.

Instal New Lights In Public Library

The new lights are replacing the hanging chandelier type of lights in the main section on the ground floor and are also going up in the basement. New lights will not be installed over the stacks.

Fluorescent lights were placed on the second floor of the library in 1947.

BAD LUCK STREAK—The crash of a Chipmunk trainer near St. Michel des Saints recently, was one of the three air force accidents within two days in the Montreal-Ottawa district. A reserve pilot, J. K. Meagher, bailed out of the Chipmunk and was picked up by searchers. The only fatal crash occurred at St. Mathias, 35 miles east of Montreal, when a young Sabre jet pilot was killed. R.C.A.F. guards alone search the 40-foot wide crater left by the exploding Sabre.

Electric Brain Has Right Answer But Operators Don't Believe It

NEW YORK (AP)—Univac, the electric brain which has been counting votes and making predictions for CBS, suffered a "slight aberration" last night but its master blamed it on human failure—not Univac's.

The people running the machine just wouldn't believe what "Univac" said early in the counting, changed the "past-trend" information they were feeding the machine, and threw it off balance.

The electric brain's man-made aberration was disclosed by CBS commentator Charles Collingwood about 12:30 a.m. EST.

He told CBS television viewers that Univac had given the odds on Eisenhower an hour earlier as only 8 to 7.

"But he shook himself, all 5,500 electronic tubes of him," Collingwood said, "and came up a few minutes later with a prediction the odds were beyond counting, above 100 to 1 in favor of Eisenhower's election.

"He gave Eisenhower 40 states and Stevenson only eight: gave Eisenhower a considerable lead in both the electoral vote and the popular vote."

GIVES EXPLANATION

Then CBS-TV presented Arthur Draper, expert on the machine.

This was Draper's explanation of the "aberration":

"In a prediction like this you have to assume certain facts about past trends.

"When univac made its first prediction with only 3,000,000 votes in, it gave five states for Stevenson, 43 for Eisenhower; 93 electoral votes for Stevenson, 438 for Eisenhower.

"We just plain didn't believe it, so we asked Univac to forget a lot of the trend information that we had put into it, assuming that that was wrong. So Univac worked on a smaller margin of knowledge.

"This won't give a wrong answer, but it will throw the odds to the extent that you saw.

"As more votes came in the odds came back and it was obviously evident that we should have had nerve enough to believe the machine in the first place.

"It was right. We were wrong."

Farming Said Most Haphazard

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Agriculture is the most haphazard industry in the modern economy, J. A. Ferguson of Port Stanley, declared at the annual meeting of Caradoc branch Middlesex Federation of Agriculture in Mount Brydges community hall last night.

Vice-president of the Ontario Federation, Mr. Ferguson pointed out that other big industries — for example, clothing and car manufacturers—plan their production in advance, one eye on demand for their particular product, the other on the economic picture in general.

Farmers, in his opinion, should do the same. Instead of going ahead blindly and growing 29,000,000 bushels of grain, they should look ahead and, from prevailing conditions, ascertain that they may only be able to dispose of 25,000,000.

"It's time the farmers abandoned this 'hope for the best' policy," he declared.

Ship Canals Close For Winter Months

OTTAWA (CP)—The busy St. Lawrence River-Great Lakes ship canals will close down for the winter early next month, the transport department announced today.

On the main Montreal-Lake Superior route, the Lachine and Soulanges canals in the Montreal area will close Dec. 4, a day later than last year.

The Sault Ste. Marie canal will close Dec. 13, two days earlier than last year, while the Welland ship canal will shut down on Dec. 15, unchanged from a year ago.

Secondary canals will close a little earlier. The Trent canal is already closed and the Ottawa section of the Rideau canal is scheduled to close Nov. 19. The Chambly, St. Ours and the Carillon on the Richelieu in Quebec and the Grenville on the Ottawa River will shut Nov. 22, two days earlier than last year.

The Ste. Anne canal, also on the Ottawa, will close Nov. 29, a day earlier than last year.

Fire Destroys Supplies For 650 Men

SMOOTH ROCK FALLS (CP)—A $1,000,000 fire in this Northern Ontario mill town yesterday destroyed the Abitibi Power and Paper Company commissary, the Hudson's Bay Company store and the Town Works Department shops.

The store was the only one in the town, 100 miles northwest of Timmins, and supplies of food, clothing and other goods are being brought in by truck from nearby communities.

The blaze was the worst in the history of the town. Mill and H.B.C. officials have yet to reach a complete figure of the loss, at present estimated at close to $1,000,000. H.B.C. spokesmen said loss in the store would be more than $350,000.

WINTER SUPPLIES LOST

Supplies for the 650 bushmen working for the Abitibi company in the district will be brought in from the company's store at Iroquois Falls, 60 miles southeast. All the winter supplies for the bush camps, heavy clothing, food, tobacco, saws and axes, were lost in the burned commissary.

Plan New Parish At St. Catharines

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A new Church of England parish will be established here, Rt. Rev W. E. Bagnall, bishop of Niagara, said last night.

He told the annual meeting of the Anglican Laymen's Association of the deanery of Lincoln and Welland that a new layman's association called the Brotherhood of Anglican Churchmen will be formed to unify the work of various laymen's groups in the deanery.

W. B. C. Burgoyne of St. Catharines was appointed president of the new group.

Two Plead Guilty

Success At Last

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—N. S. March spent two years and dug eight wells in his search for a good water supply. The eighth well has just turned out successful for the 78-year-old digger.

European Officials Approve US Vote

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Many European officials expressed happiness today that an old friend had won the United States election. Areas where feelings for Adlai Stevenson had run high were at least hopeful that a Republican victory would mean no U.S. withdrawal into isolationism.

In the Middle East there was hope the Republicans would provide a better deal than the Democrats.

Officials in western Europe, most of them on the Conservative side, voiced belief that the new administration [illegible] major role in European affairs. Socialists and left-wing groups which favored Stevenson weren't so happy. They were concerned over the extent of Republican old guard influence in the new administration.

There was no immediate comment from Moscow where the press has described both Eisenhower and Stevenson as fronts for America's "ruling financial and industrial circles."

CANADIAN VIEW

In Ottawa a spokesman for Canada's federal cabinet said:

"There is not the slightest doubt that we will have the same friendly practical co-operation under a Republican president—especially one like Eisenhower—that we have had in the past."

Reaction by countries included:

Britain—foreign office: "We are happy at Gen. Eisenhower's success. He will continue, we are sure, the policy he followed as supreme commander of the Atlantic forces in Europe." Most Labor members of Parliament were disappointed.

West Germany—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer saluted Eisenhower as a man who "thoroughly knows the problems of Europe." The Socialist press was caustic.

France—Former Premier Paul Renaud recalled Eisenhower as France's "liberator" and said the new American president would make his own decision undeterred by pressure groups. Socialist leaders expressed disappointment.

WILL WIN PEACE

Belgium—Prime Minister Jean Van Houtte: "We are convinced that Eisenhower, who won the war, will also win the peace."

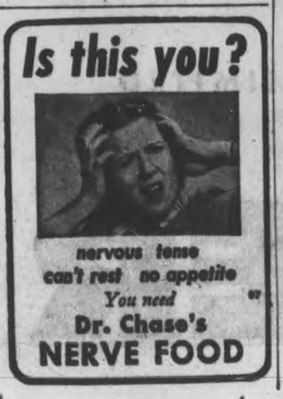
Italy—Premier Alcide de Gasperi: Eisenhower "vividly desires peace" and "has shown maximum interest for Italy and the political unification of our continent."

New Zealand—Prime Minister [illegible] people of New Zealand to the new president."

India—Indians had generally favored Stevenson and were disappointed at the outcome. Government officials would not comment.

Korea—South Korean President Syngman Rhee: "The American people have chosen the best as their president."

Iran—Hossein Fatemi, foreign Fatemi, foreign minister, expressed hope of a reverse in U. S. policy toward Iran. "Up to now, despite the Iranian nation's expectations for assistance and aid from the U.S., with the exception of very minor help, nothing has been gained from the policy of the present U.S. government."



Australia—The Labor opposition leader, Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, described the Eisenhower victory as of world-shaking importance. "I believe it was due to his promise to try and achieve peace in Korea" Evatt said. He warned against gaining peace through appeasement of Communist aggression.

Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies declined comment.

Norway—Prime Minister Oscar Torp said that from Norway's point of view "the most important factor of the violent political fight in the U.S. is that no great difference has been expressed on foreign policy."

GUARDSMEN ENTER RIOT-WRECKED PRISON — Grim-faced National Guardsmen march inside the walls of riot wrecked Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus, O., to help put down a rebellion of some 1,600 convicts. The Guardsmen carry M-1 rifles with fixed bayonets.

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

OTTAWA (CP)—Gen. Eisenhower's presidential victory in Tuesday's United States elections sends to the White House a man well known and well liked in Canadian official circles. Also he is known by name and reputation to virtually every adult Canadian as the victorious supreme commander under whom Canadians fought in the Second World War. Adlai Stevenson, the defeated Democratic candidate, was virtually unknown both in official and private circles here, but his campaign had been closely followed. He had won many friends and admirers while Eisenhower's popularity had suffered a bit because of his association with elements in his party not popular in Canada.

If there were any partisan feelings in Canadian government circles undoubtedly they favored a continuation of the 20-year-old Democratic regime, in spite of their personal regard for the Republican candidate.

NO COMMENT

But in the main this was one U.S. election in which Canadians could sit back and enjoy the spectacle, share the thrill and excitement of their friends across the border, and not worry about the outcome.

Traditionally Canadian prime ministers and their responsible associates do not comment publicly on the internal politics of their friendly neighbors.

But one highly placed minister said early today that "there is not the slightest doubt that we will have the same friendly, practical co-operation under a Republican president—especially one like Eisenhower—that we have had in the past."

That seems to have been the consensus ever since the July conventions in Chicago sent Eisenhower and Stevenson into the presidential race.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and party workers may see an evil omen in the fate of the Democrats. Their Liberal party has been in power 17 years.

Similarly it may bring hope to the official opposition—the Progressive Conservative Party which, like the Republicans, argues that "it is time for a change."

PERSONAL POPULARITY

But it seems fairly obvious here that Eisenhower's victory was largely due to his great personal popularity as a household hero, rather than an indication of resurgence of the Republican Party.

The close fight for control of the Senate and House brought anxiety to Eisenhower's Canadian friends lest he find himself in the White House with an antagonistic Congress at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue.

"He will have troubles enough because he is a political novice," a seasoned Canadian politician said, "without having to cope with a Democratic Congress."

In the major international problems involving Canada and the United States, United States policy is largely dictated by circumstances which prompt, and have brought, bi-partisan action in the U.S.

Observers here see no reason why that treatment of the great questions of defence co-operation should not continue.

Under present circumstances of trade and production officials here see no reason why there should be any question of serious tariff changes.

However, it is true that Canada would, on the record, have reason to fear a Republican more than a Democratic regime if there were a move to raise U.S. tariff barriers.

CLOSE INTEREST

Probably no other neighbor in the world community takes a more friendly and understanding interest than Canada in U.S. politics.

The U.S. is Canada's best customer, but similarly Canada is the States' best customer. They have no serious border difficulties and no quarrels and they are deeply involved in the most intimate co-operative efforts for defence of the continent.

Thus it was that from Prime Minister St. Laurent right down through all walks of life in Canada the people have watched with greatest interest the progress of the campaign and the results of the voting.

Although there are no plans, official or unofficial, it would seem a certainty that Prime Minister St. Laurent will visit Washington soon after the inauguration in January and that he will try to have the new President visit Ottawa at his earliest pleasure.

Plan To Make London City Of Gaiety For Coronation

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON (CP)—Plans have been completed to transform London into a city of gaiety and magic for the June Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

Westminster City Council, responsible for the major share of the pageant's organization and financial outlay, already has been asked by the Coronation Planning Committee to approve an expenditure of some £50,000 for the decoration of its historic streets.

This figure reflects the sharp rise in cost of labor and materials since the 1937 Coronation of the late King George VI when the bill for decorations came to approximately £20,000.

Assisted by a team of expert designers, Sir Hugh Casson, director of architecture for last year's Festival of Britain, has already released some preliminary sketches of next summer's Coronation color scheme to test reaction of public opinion.

In its assessment of what has been shown consensus has been mainly favorable.

Sir Hugh and his colleagues hope to turn London into the liveliest and most colorful city in the world for the duration of the celebration.

"We have tried to assess the character and history of each street," Sir Hugh said. "The Coronation is a religious ceremony, but equally it is an occasion for national rejoicing."

The famous architect said he would seek to devise a decorative scheme that is dignified while the Coronation procession is in progress, but become a little more light-hearted when night falls.

"We might almost make the Lion and the Unicorn wink a bit after dark if we are clever with the lighting," he said.

Many imaginative, colorful designs with historic associations will be mingled with traditional display of pomp and pageantry.

Parliament Square, along which the royal procession will move to and from the Coronation ceremony in Westminster Abbey, is to be given a Commonwealth motif, details of which have not yet been worked out.

Most of broad Whitehall, leading to the Parliament Buildings, will have for its theme "Her Majesty's Government."

Cockspur Street, where Canada House is located with a number of other Canadian business establishments, is to be decorated to impart a special reminder of the sea. There will be a lavish display of signal flags and naval pennants in honor of Admiral Nelson on top of his towering column in Trafalgar Square.

A maypole in a flowered setting is planned for the junction of the Strand and the entrance to Waterloo Bridge, where historians say, a maypole stood in medieval times.

Waterloo Place in the Pall Mall, site of the Crimean War Monument, will be fittingly dressed to represent the armed services and of the Strand near Charing Cross plans call for erection of two giant statues of Gog and Magog, legendary colonizers of Britain.

In Piccadilly Circus, often described as the "Heart of the British Empire," Sir Hugh proposes to place a gilded cage around the famous statue of Eros and entwine Cupid's messenger in a bower of flowers.

Festoons of crowns are to be suspended overhead between flag-draped buildings on some streets, while others, such as busy Oxford Street, will display an assortment of old time trade signs, alternating with civic arms on decorated masts.

Lamp posts will be dressed in varied and novel color schemes, with one of the more original designs— a plume of white and crimson from a Life-Guard-type Helmet —suggested for the light standards in Whitehall.

Meanwhile, plans have been laid to begin preliminary work by Nov. 3, on 80,000 seats that will accommodate spectators along the Coronation route.

MARINE CHIEF—Maj-Gen. V. D. Thomas (right), British chief of amphibious warfare and an officer of the Royal Marines, shakes hands with Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chairman of the Canadian Chiefs of Staff Committee, during a visit to defence headquarters at Ottawa. Gen. Thomas will visit the Canadian Army Staff College at Kingston, Ont., before leaving for the United States.

Quebec Pioneered TB Fight

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec has clung to its faith in a living non-virulent bacillus to fight tuberculosis and it's beginning to pay off.

Tuberculosis, still one of the principal causes of death in Quebec has dropped behind heart disease and it is believed that within a relatively short time will drop back to "eighth or tenth" place.

Average death rate credited to TB per 100,000 population between 1926 and 1930 in Quebec was 119.6.

Today's provisional rate on the same basis is 46, a 60-per-cent slash.

FRENCH VACCINE

Success of Quebec's long and costly fight is unanimously attributed to B.C.G.—the bacillus developed and created in France and announced to the world in 1924.

While the medical world debated the merits of the vaccine Canada's National Research Council picked up the discovery quickly, a year after it was announced, and gave the job of manufacturing the vaccine and studying its effects to the University of Montreal.

The letters B.C.G. stand for Bacillus Calmette Guerin, from Albert Calmette and Camille Guerin, French bacteriologists who made the discovery.

Quebec was fortunate in having Professor Armand Frappier, a pupil of Calmette, and Professor J. A. Baudouin, first Canadian to use the vaccine on new-born infants, both of the University of Montreal's medical faculty

FAMOUS CLINICS

They are largely responsible for the organization of the B.C.G. clinic in Montreal and establishing use of the vaccine on a stable and sound basis.

Hard hit by tuberculosis, Quebec in 1926 was the first Canadian province to use B.C.G. Saskatchewan followed in 1934.

British Columbia, Manitoba and Ontario started using it in 1946 and all the others followed suit the following year.

Today the University of Montreal's Institute of Microbiology and Hygiene supplies B.C.G. to most parts of Canada, and to many parts of the world.

1952 Election Mild Compared With Old Days

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—So you think this election was a rugged one: You should have been around in 1828.

"The contest between Adlai Stevenson and Dwight Eisenhower was mild compared to other presidential races in the past," remarked Irving Stone, noted author and expert on presidential history.

"At least we have reached the point where wives are no longer brought into the arena for slaughter. The most shocking example of this was in the 1828 election between Andrew Jackson and John Quincy Adams."

Stone wrote a biography of Mrs. Jackson, called "The President's Lady." It has just been filmed with Susan Hayward and Charles Heston as the Jacksons. The story tells how the 1828 campaign killed the president's wife.

DIGGING DIRT

"Henry Clay, who was running the Adams campaign, decided the only way to beat Jackson was through his wife."

Rachel Jackson had previously been married to a cruel landowner from whom she fled. She heard later that he had divorced her, and so she married Jackson. But the divorce was found to be incomplete, and her former husband then divorced her on grounds of adultery.

"Clay dug up the trial and publicized it throughout the country in newspapers and pamphlets," Stone recounted. "She was called 'adulteress' and worse. Copies of obscene songs about her were distributed on street corners.

"Despite these efforts, Jackson won by an electoral vote of 178 to 83. But he lost his wife. As she was preparing to leave for the inauguration, she overheard two women calling her vile names. Already shunned by Nashville (Tenn.) society and weakened by the attacks, she fell in a coma and died two days later."

NEW STAMP—A new series of Canadian stamps, bearing the Queen's image, likely will appear next March. This photograph of the Queen, taken by Yousuf Karsh, of Ottawa, will be used on the stamps. It was one of a series taken by Mr. Karsh before the Queen embarked on her Canadian tour in 1951.

Hitler's Picture Making Comeback In Germany

By JACK HENRY

FRANKFURT (Reuters)—Adolf Hitler's picture, once as common in Germany as Stalin's in Russia and her satellites, is staging a comeback on German news stands and advertising billboards.

Pictures of Hitler, unshaven and haggard, clean shaven and "heroic," now greet the man-in-the-street all over West Germany and West Berlin.

The Munich picture weekly "Revue," which has a circulation of 573,000, is running a series of articles on Hitler's life and character. Some West German weeklies have long specialized in revealing the "secrets" of the pasts of the Nazi leaders and their families, but until "Revue" gave Hitler his "come-back," the secrets seemed to have dried up months ago.

The "Revue" and other West German weeklies have been under fire for allegedly keeping alive myths of the Nazi regime. They reply that the public is interested in Nazi leaders' past, just as it is in former members of the German monarchy and military leaders like the late Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, commander of the Afrika Corps.

The fate of convicted German war criminals is a favorite subject of the weeklies, and the public is not allowed to forget these men, who in any case get plenty of publicity in the daily press.

After criticizing former Allied war crimes courts and their "inhuman sentences of hatred," the magazine Stern said that its pictures of two escaped prisoners were not intended to help to secure their arrest but to warn all Germans not to become "beadles of injustice" by giving information which could lead to their recapture.

Walkout At Briggs

DETROIT (CP)—Operations at the Conner plant of the Briggs Manufacturing Company were halted yesterday by a walkout of 3,200 employees.

Officials of the United Automobile Workers Union (C.I.O.) charged the company uses "discriminatory" hiring practices and threw a picket line around the company's employment office. A company spokesman said the walkout was the result of "an organized effort on the part of a group of employees which is attempting to incite racial unrest."

Hebrew Religion Explained In New Books

By SHERRY BOWEN

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of New York business men is trying to make it easy for Christians to understand the Hebrew religion.

John Myers, a financer, has been arranging for funds to print the complete Torah (Torah Shelemah) in English.

The book has been in preparation for 30 years. Fifteen volumes of it have been printed in Hebrew. It is expected to run to 35 or 36 volumes when complete. The English version will be about 18 volumes.

It is built around the Torah (law) of the Jews contained in the first five chapters of the Old Testament—Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

FIRST TIME GROUPED

Much of the vast body of Hebrew thought has been written as commentary on the Torah, but the many comments never before have been assembled where they can be read with the Torah.

The job of assembling books and manuscripts was started by Dr. Menachem M. Kasher, who found manuscripts in Yemen, in the libraries of Paris, Rome, London, New York and other cities.

"This is a living religion," he says. In the appendixes to the first volume are articles on time, evolution, the atom and on love of mankind in which the works of modern scientists and thinkers has been linked with that of the Hebrew sages.

Edward I. Slater

NORWOOD (ENS).—The funeral of Edward Isaac Slater was held at 2 p.m. Monday at the McConnell-Warner funeral home, Norwood, with the Rev. R. D. Duncanson officiating. Burial was in Norwood cemetery. Mr. Slater died Friday following a lingering illness.

Pallbearers were Harry Rogers, N. S. Rogers, William Stares, A. A. Waddell, Walter Bitten and W. B. Tucker.

Flower bearers were Gordon Parker, Roy Parker, Bruce Parker, Gerald Robson, Charles Puffer and Fred Tredree.

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP)—A modern downtown street-lighting system was put into operation here by the Saskatchewan Power Corporation. The new system of luminaries mounted on steel poles replaced the 40-year-old five-cluster lamps.

Have No Regrets Sparkman Declares

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama, Democratic candidate for vice-president, said today: "the American people have spoken, and I concur fully in their choice."

"I have no regrets over the outcome of this election," Sparkman said. "The American people have spoken and I concur fully in their choice. I believe in the necessity of presenting a united front and will do my best to co-operate with General Eisenhower and his administration to fulfil the responsibilities facing the country."

Worry About UN When Polite Pearson Says

OTTAWA (CP)—The time to start worrying about the United Nations is if and when the violence of its debates softens to "meaningless courtesies," says External Affairs Minister Pearson.

In a foreword to an official publication on "Canada and the United Nations, 1951-52" just issued, the man who now is chairman of the U.N.'s central body, the General Assembly, says:

"We should not be too distressed because its meetings are often acrimonious and contentious. At times the very violence of the disputes is evidence of the fact member states are deeply concerned about the effect produced by their arguments.

"There would be more cause to worry about the U.N. if the debates ever degenerated into an elaborate exchange of meaningless courtesies which avoided any realistic reference to outstanding issues and disputes. Then, indeed, futility would have been reached."

After seven years, says Mr. Pearson, the U.N. "is still a young organization, still largely an experiment."

"But one thing has become increasingly evident. . .there is no doubt that the spirit of interdependence in the world is growing."

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CV. No. 106 — WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1952

MAIN STREET TOPICS

POSTER DEADLINE

The deadline for Young Canada Book Week posters is Saturday at 6 p.m. The posters are to be turned in at the Public Library by that time.

JUDGING POSTPONED

Charles Comfort, R.C.A., Toronto artist, who was to have judged the Examiner's summer painting class work today, is still confined to his Toronto home by illness. His assessment of the work will be made as soon as his health permits. Advance notice of the arrangements will be given.

ASK UNION HELP

Cecil Searles of the Peterborough Musicians Protective Association (A.F.L.) has asked the support of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (C.C.L.) to have union musicians hired to play at local dances. The Council will probably discuss this request at the November meeting Nov. 10.

SHORT BLACKOUT

Firemen shortly before 8 p.m. Tuesday were called to Park and McDonnel Sts. where it was reported some hydro wires were burning. It was not a job for them so they called the Peterborough Utilities Commission and a repairman found that the excitement was caused by a junction fuse that blew out. Householders in the immediate vicinity of the intersection had a brief blackout until a new fuse was installed.

I.U.E. TRIUMPH

Minor Shaw, I.U.E. international representative, has given the voting results in the recent balloting at the R.C.A. Victor plant in Montreal. The plant, which has had troubled labor relations for several years, voted for the I.U.E.-C.I.O. by more than four to one. Results: I.U.E. 684 votes, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (A.F.L.) 156 votes. Twelve ballots were spoiled.

PAY FOR SERVICE

"Do I even have to pay for the coffee?" queried a man today, as he paid a fine for being drunk. "You have to pay for everything here," replied the constable collecting the fine. "Look at the accommodation and service you get."

"The service is fine but the coffee was rotten," grumbled the man as he pocketed his change and left the sergeant's office.

I.U.E. 570 Asks 40-Hour Week, Wage Increase

The union and management at the Western Clock Co. will meet again Nov. 20 to discuss the new collective bargaining agreement. Local 570, International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), are the bargaining agents at the plant for some 400 production workers.

Union demands for the 1953 contract include:

A substantial wage increase (the amount not specified):

A reduction of the work week from 42 to 40 hours and an eight-hour day.

Three weeks vacation with pay after 10 years of employment, and four weeks after 25 years.

RECENT DISCUSSIONS

Discussion at a recent two-day meeting of the two parties included talks on union shop, checkoff, the vacation clause, time study, hours of work, provisions for layoff and recall, health and welfare, payment for jury duty.

When the union and management meet on Nov. 20 the important subjects of wages and job progression will be discussed.

The existing contract ends Dec. 1. Since June the parties have been negotiating on a wage-opener clause and "inequities" in job rates. Minor Shaw, I.U.E. international representative, said that some of the rates have been raised, effective August 14, but wage opener negotiations will be merged into the general subject of wages.

Major Jack Peterson Cited In Dispatches

Two former Peterborough men are named in the list of awards to 48 Canadians in Korea which appears today elsewhere in this paper.

They are: Major Jack Peterson, former reporter for The Examiner and ex-mayor of St. Thomas, and Lieut. Douglas T. Smith of York, England, and Peterborough. Both were mentioned in dispatches.

Fined $50 For Crash Killed Wife

Toronto Man Pleads Guilty of Carelessness 2 Died In Accident

After being found not guilty of dangerous driving, John D. McDonald, 32, of Toronto, pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $50 and $7.50 costs Tuesday.

McDonald was the driver of one of two cars involved in a head on collision seven miles south of Peterborough on Highway 28 in which two young women, one of them McDonald's 21-year-old wife, were killed and four others were injured.

The accident occurred the night of July 25, as McDonald pulled out to pass a panel truck on the brow of Springhill Hill. McDonald was travelling north and collided head-on with a southbound car driven by Ross Clarke, 19, of Woodville.

Winston Williams of Elcombe Crescent who was driving behind the Clarke car told the court "it was more like an explosion than two cars hitting each other."

Williams said he had followed the Clarke car for some miles after it passed him just south of Peterborough and estimated its speed at between 60 and 65 miles an hour just before the collision.

Both drivers agreed they saw a flash of headlights in front of them only seconds before the fatal crash in which McDonald, Clarke and Miss Gertrude Hogan, 22, of 186 Lansdowne St., were seriously injured. Miss Marion Clarke, 22, of Port Perry who was sitting beside Ross Clarke in the front seat, was fatally injured and a fourth passenger in the Clarke car, Clare Keown, 23, of Woodville, was so critically injured he lay in a coma for weeks and is still in hospital.

O.P.P. Constable Wally Mohns and Cpl. Fred Rawlings who investigated agreed with McDonald's defence counsel J. Donald Bell of Toronto that the brow of the hill where the accident occurred is a dangerous spot on the highway. A Peterborough executive was killed there a year ago and there have been several minor accidents in the same place.

Fred Riley of Toronto, driver of the panel truck McDonald was passing, said the two cars met head-on right opposite where he was sitting behind the wheel of his truck. He said McDonald was passing him and he didn't remember seeing the headlights of the car coming until the last minute." He said he was going between 40 and 45 when the accident happened.

McDonald said he had been following the truck for some distance and "edged out" to see if he could get by. A Toronto cab driver, McDonald said he saw no headlights coming, then "just as I got even with the other car the headlights zoomed up out of nowhere. There was nothing I could do," he said and denied seeing a solid white line extending south of the scene of the crash.

"No court could hand out a punishment for any offence that would be worse than what he (McDonald) has gone through," declared Mr. Bell in reminding the court that McDonald's young wife died in the crash. Mr. Bell emphasized that dangerous driving required proof of an element of criminality — of wanton recklessness and disregard for the safety and rights of others.

"The only thing open to criticism is for his failing to see the solid white line," declared Mr. Bell.

"While at first glance, until all the evidence is heard, it would appear that pulling out on the brow of a hill would constitute that element," Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw told Magistrate E. A. Gee of Lindsay who heard the case, "If you are satisfied that with the contour of the highway such as it is, the accused's story could be true, he should be given the benefit of the doubt.

On the evidence, that the accident occurred at a recognized danger spot and that the other driver was "partly at fault in going between 60 and 65 miles an hour," Magistrate Gee said he was dismissing the charge. "There doesn't seem to be any evidence of a criminal nature," he said but there is no question the accused "should be convicted of careless driving."

MANY HUNTERS AND DOGS and few deer, so far, is the Kawartha hunting picture on the Haultain section of Highway 28 north. Early morning walks to the watches shows the dogs with more energy than the sleepy sportsmen. The position is reversed in the afternoons (centre photo); Ed Villeneuve and Peter Jones, both of Whitby, and Wilfred Snale of Hampton pose with a heavy buck and two weary dogs. Marvel Wilson, 17, of Mount Julian (lower photo), shot a doe without becoming ruffled in the least. It was her first.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Deer Hunt Disappointing

Deer hunters in the Kawarthas after the first two days of trying are beginning to wonder where all the animals are that were promised them. They are getting very few.

A survey of the firing line on both sides of Highway 28 from Haultain to Apsley on Tuesday revealed hordes of hunters and dogs, very few deer on the meat racks and a general air of depression about the whole thing in camps everywhere.

It was not hard to find two reasons about the poor kill so far. A 6½-mile highway construction program in the area that was so productive and quiet before, roars and clanks 'round the clock, enough noise to keep deer within

CROWDING SPOTS

Too many hunters are congregated in the favorite spots. On Sunday as many as 35 cars and four trucks were counted near the Haultain Park picnic grounds. Weather has been against them, too, but is improving—there was a light drift of snow in the bush on Tuesday morning.

The congregated hunters were mostly visiting novices who, tiring of waiting quietly on their watches, resorted to target practice. Steady popping could be heard on the west side of the highway all afternoon.

Further north from the concentration zone, hunters are having better luck. At Herb Payne's camp six hunters had three deer by Monday. A party of three—Don Church, Ed Boiler and Clarence Lipsett—also took a deer each in the woods west of Haultain Post Office. Several settlers' homes along the highway are accommodating week-long hunting parties and have as many as eight and 11 sportsmen in each camp. Reservations for the following week are also satisfactory, camp hosts say.

FIRST TIME OUT

Marvel Wilson, 17, of Mount Julian went out on her own Tuesday morning early and potted a nice doe. It was her first and she said that the sudden appearance of the animal did not ruffle her a bit. "I just plinked it twice," she remarked casually.

Reports from other parts of the Kawarthas are better. In the newly-opened southeastern section of the Game Preserve, east of Stony Lake, nine deer were shot on Monday. There were still more than 5 hunters in that immediate area and of course more deer to shoot at. Luck is reported good in the country north of Madoc.

Another excuse that the Haultain hunters had for poor luck this year was that the area has been given too much publicity and thereby attracted too many hunters. They had no answer to the suggestion that it might be wise for them to spread out more thinly over the considerable hunting area.

Conservation officers are on the job and are already setting up road blocks for the checking out of killed game. Department spokesmen will not tell where their location will be but it is safe to assume that one will be located at the Burleigh-Oregon Trail highway corner.

Youth Swept From Car Roof After Plunge Into River Body Found 3 Hours Later

Car Crashes Through Railing Into River At Minden; Grant Stamp Climbs To Roof Citizens Hear Shouts See Victim Slip In

LINDSAY (ENS)—Attracted by the calls for help of a youth whose car plunged over an embankment at Minden Tuesday night, several people arrived in time to see him disappear in the Gull River. Three hours later, the body of Grant Stamp, 17, of Minden, was recovered 100 yards downstream. Minden is 40 miles north of Lindsay. Stamp, a non-swimmer, was last seen by spectators arriving at the scene as he slipped from the car roof into the water. There is a fairly strong current at the spot and he was not seen again, after he disappeared beneath the surface.

A blowout may have caused the fatal mishap. When the car was hauled out of the river, the right rear tire was blown out.

PLUNGED INTO RIVER

The youth was alone in the car and it apparently went out of control on a curve leading onto the bridge which is right in the village. After going through a guide post and cable railing along the north side of the road, the car continued down a 15-foot dirt embankment and ended up in the river.

Stamp was apparently not injured in the car's plunge into the river, as nearby residents who arrived after hearing his calls for help, reported he was on the top of the car. It is believed he climbed out through a window of the car and had climbed to the top, before he slipped off, or the current swept him into the river.

LEVEL LOWERED

The water level of the Gull is controlled by a dam about a mile and a half north of the bridge. Power house officials lowered the water level by three or four feet, to aid in the search and Stamp's body was recovered by Harry Cowan and Lance Eastman at 10.15 p.m. The accident is believed to have occurred shortly after 7 p.m.

O.P.P. constables Al Hardy of Minden and H. Langton of Haliburton investigated.

The youth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stamp, who operate a small farm on the outskirts of Minden.

Local Americans Glad To See Republicans Win

Reaction of most American citizens and former Americans living in Peterborough to the U.S. election results was that it was a good thing to see Gen. Eisenhower elected.

Mostly Republican in sentiment, all but one voiced the thought that it was time for a change, particularly in view of the "mess in Washington."

Only one former U.S. citizen expressed disappointment at Stevenson's loss. He was Art Cauley, manager of the Capitol Theatre, who came originally from Gov. Stevenson's state of Illinois.

Robert Abbott, vice-president and general manager of Canadian Raybestos Co. Ltd., said:

"It should be a very healthy thing for the United States unless Eisenhower flops, and I think he's too shrewd a man to flop. But it's going to be no bed of roses for the Republicans, taking over that mess in Washington.

GREAT POSSIBILITIES

"It's more than a popular win," said Mr. Abbott. "It has great possibilities. As far as a reason for it goes, people must be fed up with the Democratic 'grab-all'. There's been a lot of crooked business down there and they shouldn't get away with it."

Robert Hanscomb, engineer in the C.G.E. laboratory, said "I'm a conservative, and so I'm glad to see Eisenhower in. It's a good thing, especially when you consider all the unnecessary expense in Washington."

Hugh M. Campbell, former head of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. here, said "They were due for a change. Of course Eisenhower will need Congress; he can't do anything without it."' (The Republicans had a slight lead in the Congress.)

Democrats Fall In Illinois Vote

CHICAGO (AP)—Republicans, paced by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's presidential victory, smashed Democratic domination in Illinois today with a nearly clean sweep of major state offices.

Governor Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, lost in his home state, giving the Republicans the state's 27 electoral votes. It was the first presidential victory in Illinois for the Republicans since 1928.

In the races for Congress, returns showed 14 of 17 incumbet Republicans and seven of the eight present Democrats re-elected.

Eisenhower, showing strength in normally strong Democratic Cook county (Chicago) piled up a lead of nearly 250,000 today with all but 700 of the state's 9,680 precincts reported.

Returns from 8,048 precincts gave the Republican nominee 1,908,334 and Stevenson 1,650,855.

It was a crushing defeat for Stevenson compared to his smashing triumph in his first bid for an elective office four years ago when he was elected governor. In 1948 the 52-year-old governor defeated Republican Dwight H. Green by 572,067 votes.

Tumbling to defeat with the Democratic presidential nominee was his personal choice as the party's candidate for governor, Lieutenant-Governor Sherwood Dixon. Returns from 8,447 of the state's 9,680 precincts gave Republican William G. Stratton 1,922,570 votes to 1,786,824 for Dixon.

JOHN A. MARSH, 56, son of the late Dr. D. B. Marsh, a former minister of Springville Church and graduate of the P.C.I., died in Toronto today. Mr. Marsh has had a colourful career in Canadian business and political life.

John A. Marsh Dies Aged 56, P.C.I. Ex-Student

TORONTO— (CP)— John A. Marsh, 56, general manager of the Canadian Exporter's Association, and former member of parliament died today. He had been ill six months.

To place a finger on one single achievement in the life of John Marsh would be a difficult task. The young Canadian lad who wanted to be a doctor, but was thwarted because of a war just at the wrong time in his life, was to occupy many prominent positions in his 56 years. He gave the best of his considerable ability to each, and made a lasting contribuation to the land of his birth.

He was born in Guelph, Ont., in 1896, the son of Rev. Dr. Daniel Brand Marsh, Sc.D., F.R.A.S., and Mrs. Marsh, the former Jean Webster. He received his early education at the old Ryerson Public School in Hamilton and at Peterborough Collegiate when his father was minister at Springville. During 1917-18 he studied at the University of Toronto, shaping a career which would eventually turn him into a doctor.

TRIED TO ENLIST.

During this period, however, he tried nine times to enlist, but a low medical category prevented this. He obtained a job in a munitions factroy, "slugging shells." Before the war was over his older brother was killed in combat.

In 1919 he went to the Canadian Westinghouse as a transformer maker, and from there he went to the purchasing department of Proctor and Gamble. In 1927 he became general purchasing executive in the Canadian Porcelnin Company.

Despite his business interests he found time to delve into politics, and in 1935-37 he was an alderman in the city of Hamilton. In the general elecction of 1937 he was elected to the House of Commons for Hamilton West. He was defeated in 1940.

In 1939 he was chosen first citizen of Hamilton, and was awarded a gold medal. The same year he was selected by the Association of Canadian Clubs for a speaking tour that took him to more than 70 clubs from Halifax to Prince Rupert. During this tour he talked on various subjevts, including his hobby, astronomy.

LIKED IN U. S.

Following the Canadian tour he made various visits to American cities, where he gave further addresses which received favorable editorial comments in the different newspapers.

In 1948 he became general manager, Canadian Exporters' Association, a position he still held at the time of his death.

Besides his many tours, he spoke at 200 Institutes for International Understanding in 24 of the United States, under the auspices of Rotary International.

At the request of the British Government he toured the British Isles in 1945, speaking on various phases of Canadian life and business. He was the Canadian speaker at the United States-Canadian goodwill congress in 1942.

GOVENMENT OFFICIAL

Between 1940 and 1941 he was director of Purchase Investigation for the Canadian Government and from 1942-1945 was a special assistant deputy minister Department.

He was a commissioner of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross from 1945 to 1947.

Mr. Marsh is survived by his widow, the former Marjorie Anderson; three daughters, Jean C., Reg. N., Mrs. Helen Davie, and Rosalie, and two sons, James A. and John, Jr., all of Toronto and one sister, Dr. Ina Marsh, Buffalo, N.Y.

Crush Democrats In N. York State

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's landslide victory margin in New York soared beyond 850,000 today as late returns accented the most crushing defeat the Republican party has dealt the Democrats in this state since the election of Calvin Coolidge.

With only 31 of the state's 10,181 precincts unreported, the next president of the United States had rolled up 3,915,040 votes to 3,064,521 for Governor Adlai E. Stevenson for a plurality of 850,519. Ike's reward was the state's 45 electoral votes.

The general shared yesterday's vote-getting honors with U.S. Senator Irving M. Ives. The Norwich Republican buried Democrat John Cashmore of Brooklyn under an avalanche of votes to win re-election by a margin of more than 1,300,000 votes.

In Republican up-state, Eisenhower polled 2,420,627 and Stevenson 1,207,434. This gave the general an amazing plurality of 1,213,193.

In Democratic New York City, Eisenhower also demonstrated his ballot-box appeal. He trailed Stevenson by only 362,674. The complete vote in the city was 1,857,087 for Stevenson and 1,494,413 for Eisenhower.

Stevenson ran on the Liberal party as well as the Democratic ticket in New York State. The minor party gave him 393,063 votes.

Nootka Silences Guns On Red Korean Coast

LONDON (Reuters)—The admiralty today credited the Canadian destroyer Nootka with blasting a Communist gun position on the Korean mainland.

The Communists had been firing at an adjacent island when the Nootka "came to the rescue with such accurate gunnery that four out of six shells scored direct hits on the gun position and caused a big explosion in a cave," the admiralty said.

The Nootka also silenced heavy enemy guns shelling another island, and covered a successful raid on the mainland, killing and wounding many enemy troops, the statement added.

Veteran, Family Return To Sudbury

TORONTO — [illegible] five children today were believed on their way back to Sudbury in their 1929 model car. The family was evicted yesterday from a house in suburban Scarboro.

Albert Madder, who suffers from a nervous disorder which prevents him from working steadily, said he would return to Sudbury where he served as a policeman for three years following the war. He, his English wife, and the five young children, have moved seven times in the last seven years.

"I can hold a job for a while then something happens," said Mr. Madder. "The job gets too hard or my nerves get too bad. I try so hard to get on my feet but nothing works out."

Reg't C.O. Steps Down

LINDSAY (ENS).—After serving a year over the customary three year term as commanding officer of the Fourth Field Regiment R.C.A., in Lindsay, Lt.-Col. B. C. Maidens Tuesday night stepped down from his post and accepted the congratulations of the company on a job well done. Lt.-Col. Maidens' successor will probably be Major Everett Smith, who had been indicated by Lt.-Col. Maidens as his choice.

Electoral Vote to Win: 266

G.O.P. Near Largest Margin Of State Power Since 1929

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans today swept toward possibly their biggest margin of power in state capitals since 1929, winning or leading in 21 of 30 governorship races.

The Republican triumph in yesterday's elections — if present trends continue—would capture six governors' seats now held by Democrats. Fifteen Democratic governorships were at stake.

Meanwhile, Republicans won or held a lead in all the 15 contested states where Republicans already control the statehouse.

But several of the races were still close.

The upshot could be to increase the number of Republican governors from the present 25 to 31; Democrats would drop back from control of 23 statehouses, to 17.

MATCH 1929 MARGIN

A 31-to-17 count for Republicans would match the Republican margin of 1929, when the GOP had 31 governors to 17 Democrats.

TWO MORE UPSETS

Two more Democratic upsets were definite and final—in Indiana, Republican George N. Craig, former national commander of the American Legion, beat Democrat John A. Watkins; in Delaware, Republican Rep. J. Caleb Boggs ousted Democratic incumbent Gov. Elbert N. Carvel.

Aside from the solid south, Democrats were elected only in Ohio, Missouri, and Rhode Island, and were leading in West Virginia.

Among Republican governors who were in the forefront of the Eisenhower nomination battle at the Republican national convention, Dan Thornton of Colorado was re-elected and Arthur B. Langlie of Washington held a small but steady lead.

The Democratic margin in governorships reached a peak of 39 to seven in 1938, with minor parties holding two seats. Republicans pulled up to a 25-23 margin after 1942, but dropped back to 19-29 after 1948 elections. Those elections put Democrats into this year's races with a 25-23 edge.

Buying Orders Flood New York Exchange

Demand was so heavy that the high speed ticker tape fell as much as two minutes behind in reporting actual transactions from the trading floor.

Gains went to between $2 and $3 at the outside among leading issues and huge blocks of stock were traded at the advancing prices.

Heads Kiwanis

LINDSAY (ENS).—Lindsay Kiwanis Club elected their officers for the coming year at their meeting this week. Agricultural representative for the county, Leroy J. Brown, succeeds Stuart Bryson as president. Lou Walker is first vice-president and William Whyte the new second vice-president of the club.

U.S. Labor Takes Bad Licking In G.O.P. Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. organized labor's long era of influence in government, such as it enjoyed under the Democratic "New Deal" and "Fair Deal," appears over. The union bosses took a terrific licking in yesterday's elections.

All the union leaders, with one or two exceptions, supported the Democratic cause and urged workers to do likewise.

But it seems apparent from the record vote and what happened in the big industrial areas that the workers largely ignored their leaders.

The victory of Dwight D. Eisenhower demonstrated that labor unions lack the power, to a far greater degree than was often claimed, to deliver worker votes in key elections.

Most of the union leaders declined any comment when the proportion of Eisenhower's victory became known.

But one, Jack Kroll, director of the C.I.O.'s political action committee, said: "Gen. Eisenhower has been selected as the president of all the American people. He is entitled to their support in carrying out the duties and obligations of that high office."

These are a few of the things the election results will probably mean for union labor:

1. The unions likely won't have the same degree of sympathy at the White House under Eisenhower that they had under Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. Eisenhower has pledged to befair to labor and every other element of the population. But this sounds like a far different approach than the frank partisanship in behalf of labor which the unions enjoyed under Roosevelt and Truman.

2. There won't be any repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law. Eisenhower has promised to make needed changes in the law, without being specific.

OBITUARIES

MRS. ANNIE REDDICK

Word was received on Tuesday of the death of Mrs. Annie Reddick who died that day at her home in Regina following a prolonged illness. She was born in Bonarlaw 79 years ago daughter of the late Bartholomew Stiles and Margaret Ann McKeown. Before moving to the west 45 years ago she lived in Rawdon township. Her husband, Hiram Reddick, predeceased her.

G.O.P. Fighting Avalanche At Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower won Michigan's 20 electoral votes Tuesday but Democrats stayed in the fight today for the posts of governor and U. S. senator.

Governor G. Mennen Williams, seeking a third term, built up a 14,000-vote lead over Republican Fred M. Alger Jr., in capitalizing a late vote from heavily Democratic Wayne (Detroit) county.

With 3,801 of the state's 4,480 precincts reporting, this was the score: Williams 1,186,257, Alger 1,171,925.

It was nip and tuck between Senator Blair Moody, leader of the "loyalty oath" fight at the Democratic national convention, and Republican Charles E. Potter.

With 3,723 precincts reported, it was: Potter 1,153,432, Moody 1,140,737.

Republican leaders waited to see whether heavy Democratic pluralities of 60 to 65 per cent in Wayne (Detroit) county would offset the Republican record - breaking run outstate.

A total vote of 2,600,000, a new mark, was indicated for the state, with Detroit contributing a record 862,000, or about 83 per cent of its registered voters.

Eisenhower's lead over Gov. Adlai Stevenson was approaching 250,000 votes with 2,855 precincts counted.

Foreign Policy Change Assured

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A determined effort to take the offensive in the cold war with Russia, a vigorous shakeup in the state department, and a prompt attempt to trim the U.S. battle-load in Korea seem assured by Dwight Eisenhower's election victory.

The basic pattern of United States foreign policy—building anti-Soviet power in alliance with friendly countries—is due to be continued by the new president, although a new emphasis seems likely on anti-Communist measures in the Far East and Asia.

On specific foreign or military problems he is expected to strike out boldly in search of new paths even before he takes office Jan. 20.

He is pledged to go to Korea for a first hand look at the military situation in a few weeks. Diplomats here do not think he will find any new clues to an armistice there, but his own statements indicate he plans to step up military training of South Koreans to maximum speed as soon as he can, with the aim of relieving American combat divisions.

Eisenhower has given no bint of the man he will name to succeed State Secretary Dean Acheson. The name of John Foster Dulles, one of Eisenhower's chief advisers on foreign policy, has led speculation.

Match Misconduct Penalty Handed Out

MONTREAL (CP) — George Horwood, president of the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association, said today a match misconduct penalty was given to Montreal Canadiens defenceman Gordie Hollingsworth in an interlocking-schedule game against Barrie Flyers last night. Canadiens won 5-2.

It was reported last night that Hollingworth had been given a match penalty, which would have made him ineligible for Canadiens' next game. A match misconduct only puts him out of action for remainder of the game being played.

Horwood said the penalty was awarded after Hollingworth swung at spectators with his hockey stick when they taunted him while he was serving a minor penalty for

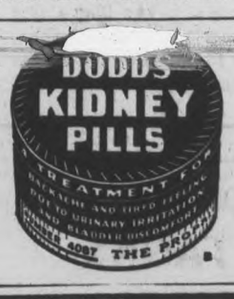
Truman Offers Plane For Trip To Warfront

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN (AP) —President Truman invited the victorious Dwight D. Eisenhower today to use the White House plane, the "Independence," for a flight to Korea.

Eisenhower's announcement he would go to Korea in an effort to find a way of bringing the war to an honorable end was a highlight of the bitter campaign.

This first gesture of co-operation with the Republican president-elect was made in a telegram of congratulations which also invited Eisenhower to have a representative meet with budget director Frederick Lawton to go over the budget figures for the next fiscal year starting July 1.



Denies 12 Douks Out Of Prison

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson, commissioner of penitentiaries, said today there is no truth in a report that 12 Doukhobor women have been released from Kingston penitentiary.

He said that within the next few months three or four Doukhobor women will complete their sentences and be released.

The report that 12 women had been released originated in Vancouver Oct. 30. David Kahma, member of the consultative committee on Doukhobor affairs, said then that 12 women, sentenced to five-year terms in 1947 for incendiarism in the Kootenays, had been released.

in 3 out of 4 cases in test by doctors!

How Lydia Pinkham's works
It has a "calming" and soothing effect on the uterus . . . quieting the contractions (see the chart) that so often cause menstrual pain, cramps, other distress.

• Here's wonderful news for women and girls who — each month — suffer the tortures of "bad days" of functionally-caused menstrual cramps and pain — headaches, backaches, and those "no-good," dragged-out feelings.

It's news about a medicine well-known for relieving such suffering!

Here is the exciting news. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — gave complete or striking relief of such distress in an average of 3 out of 4 of the cases in doctors' tests!

Yes! Lydia Pinkham's is scientifically modern in action!

Thousands benefited!

This news will not surprise the thousands of women and girls who know the relief Lydia Pinkham's can bring.

And it should encourage you to see if your experience doesn't match theirs... to see if you, too, don't avoid the nervousness, tension, weakness, irritability—and pain—so often associated with "those days"!

Try Lydia Pinkham's Compound . . . or new, improved Tablets (with added iron).

Both are grand, too—for those "hot flashes" and other distresses common to "change of life"!

WEARY FROM HER MATERNAL CHORES but proud as punch is Beauty, pedigreed French poodle owned by Roger Huard, of Montreal. Looknig down at her "very unusual" litter of 12 pups, she probably is a trifle worried about the feeding problem. But needlessly, though, because her master already is at work rigging up a feeding station that will hold 12 filled and easily-reached infant feeding bottles.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

ST. JOHN'S FIRST

Both pack and troop meeting were held two nights ahead in order that all boys would be free for the revels of Hallowe'en. As the troop ran a program of games in the upper hall of the Sunday School the old wolves were trying to identify the cubs in their fancy costumes down stairs. Twelve boys were able to withstand all attempts of identity and received chocolate bers as an award. Then came the hidden treasure hunt. Bagheera conducted a peanut roll which ended with many of the boys having black noses pushing peanuts over the finish line. Next came musical bumps with Skipper G. tickling the ivories. Time passed quickly and some of the games on schedule had to be omitted. Shortly after 8 p.m. the Cubs gathered around the old story teller (Mr. E. Trueman) to hear the tale of the mystery train of Dead Man's Creek. The troop came and joined the pack as the members of the Mothers' Auxiliary served hot dogs and soft drinks.

ALL SAINTS' FIFTH

The last meeting took the form of "fun parade" when even Akela came dressed as a Hoodoo, to mix with the girls, pirates, Indians and even Aunt Jemima was floating about with that pleasing smile. The tough boy of the evening turned out to be the Sisco Kid firing his six shooters at everyone until he was laid low by Akela and then carried out with assistance of Aunt Jemima. Graham Sutton, leader of the Red Six conducted the game of pussy cat, Graham being dressed as a girl. Then came the whispering game with the message staring from Akela: "There is one boy here with a cub uniform on" and the time the message was whispered round the circle came back to Akela: "There was a boy with his shirt off." Mr. Howard Len Foskett and Dave Hatton acted with Akela as judges for the best costumes, first prize going to Murray Wilson as Aunt Jemima, the prize being a Cub writing kit; Ernie Carre received a Cub handbook as second prize for the best hoo-doo; then came refreshments of hotdogs and soft drinks prepared and served by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

7th ST. PAUL'S

The regular meeting of the Pack was held on Friday, starting off with a musical march, accompanied by Mrs. W. R. Philp at the piano. Mr. Anderson, chairman of the group committee, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Minty, judged the costumes, prizes being awarded to Jimmy Anderson, Bill Gordon, Frank Montgomery, Daird Minty and Warren Dunfield for the best dressed, and to Michael Philp, Tom Caldwell, John Gordon, Peter Philp and John Hewitt for the funniest.

The game of treasure hunt was won by the witches, made up of Larry Greig, Bill Oliphant, Terry Higgins, David Wilson and John Hewitt. Witches in the forest were Frank Montgomery and Bill Oliphant, the game being won by John Hewitt, Daird Wilson, Michael Philp, Daird Giles, Bill Watters, Peter Philp, Warren Dunfield, Bill Oliphant, Ron Earle and Basil Downer. The nose bowling relay was won by the team under Basil Downer.

Skits were acted, the Red Six putting on the "Big Family," and directed by Michael Philp, Frank Montgomery directing the Blue Six in "The Good Samaritan." Bill Turner of the Grey Six ran a riddle quiz, with the final play being "The Six Tramps" by the Green Six, under direction of Sixer Barry LeRoy, the program ending with the recitation, "The Fighting Temmeraire" by Senior Sixer Bill Watters.

Mrs. Philp convened the ladies, who served lunch, and every lad received a gift of candies as he left for home.

16th PETERBOROUGH TRINITY TROOP

The opening ceremonies were conducted by the Beaver Patrol, the duty patrol for the evening, following which a talk on hikes, scouting, etc., was carried out in the patrol corners. This formed part of the patrol competition and the Beavers gained most points. The Eagle Patrol came through to win the competition games conducted by P. L. Sydney Dinsdale. Instruction followed at which we were pleased to learn that some "Queen's Scouts" were in the making. Some members of the troop are contemplating going to the 2nd Canadian Jamboree to be held near Ottawa from July 16 to 26, 1953. Only first-class Scouts can attend this affair, and we hope to be represented among the three thousand Scouts expected to be present from all parts of Canada and other countries. To finish things off the Scouts held a camp-fire very effectively in the scout hall. Scouter Gord. Thompson gave a message to all present on "Just for Today."

BRIDGENORTH PACK AND TROOP

The Scouts were joined by the Young People's Union as a Hallowe'en party got underway in the basement of the church last Tuesday, the evening's program being under the leadership of the officers of the Y.P.U., assisted by the Rev. D. P. Morris. Some twenty members were present in fancy costume, and the evening ended with refreshments.

Wednesday evening found the Cubs having their entertainment in masquerade costume in the old school-house. Assistant Cub Master Claude Hewitt was ably assisted by Mr. Morris. It was a hard job to pick the best actor of the evening. Twenty Cubs attended, the Mothers' Auxiliary serving cocoa, sandwiches and cake as the evening drew to its close.

HAVELOCK W.I. MEMBERS hear Miss Margaret Myer (in white uniform), home economist with the Department of Agriculture, conduct a short course on supper dishes, assisted by Mrs. G. Hubbel and Mrs. Harry Pollock, president of the W.I. The course was held in the basement of St. John's Anglican Church, and more than 40 women attended. From left to right are Mrs. R. Jones, Mrs. W. Stevenson, Mrs. F. Bennett, Mrs. R. Richards, Miss Beverley Bennett, Mrs. L. H. Cooke, Mrs. A. Buckland, Mrs. G. Bales, Mrs. W. Youmans.

Lack Of Laughter Worrying Communists

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP)—The Communists have suddenly become worried about the lack of laughter behind the Iron Curtain.

They complain they can't find anyone to amuse them—because the type of laughter they want has to be political.

Western diplomats in Communist capitals say nobody has been laughing for years. Faced with the general grimness of life, overwork, food shortages, the people of Moscow, Budapest, Prague and Bucharest rarely crack a smile.

On trains and buses, passengers sit in virtual silence, staring before them. Young couples rarely laugh in public. Night club humor is impossibly dull.

"Everybody seems to be afraid to laugh for fear someone will report them to the police," said a diplomat recently. "It seems to me that laughter is considered almost a sin."

"NOT ENOUGH OPERETTAS"

Concern about the lack of merriment recently forced the Czechoslovak newspaper Prace to complain there weren't enough new operettas to amuse people. The old ones, it said, couldn't be played any more because they were "bourgeois."

"Many Czechoslovak musicians," it said, "would like to write music for an operetta, but there are no authors to write the text."

The newspaper gave on reason hy funny writers apparently can't be found. It said that "laughter and satire must be raised to be weapons exposing the traitors of the people and a means of educating people."

This means no spontaneous humor, nothing funny that hasn't first been censored by the government.

The Moscow "Literary Gazette" also expressed worry recently about the lack of humor on the stage and in movies.

The magazine complained: "Nobody wants to write comedies for the movies or for the theatre. If one turns to a prominent writer with a request for a comedy, one is refused quickly and categorically.

"This fear of the comedy is due to the fact that several critics, who lack any sense of humor, attack almost every new comedy that is written. They declare everything funny to be unauthentic and enstranged from reality.

"DANEROUS SUBJECT"

"That is why old and young authors are shrinking from dealing with such a 'dangerous' subject. We are going through a serious crisis in the comedy."

In Hungary, too, the newspaper Szabad Ifjusac said:

"We need optimistic, merry young people who love life It is the duty of our youth organizations to see to it that our youth is properly amused."

The newspaper suggested gaiety could be instilled among young people if it were "organized correctly."

MAY SAVE HIS LIFE — George Botot, eight, of St. Clairsville, Ohio, flashes a big smile as he grasps one of the water melons which may save his life. George is suffering from nephritis, a kidney disease, which the vitamins supplied by the melon may combat. Appeals already have resulted in three carloads of melons and more have been promised.

Watson Convicted Of Bribing Officer

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Watson, 34, last night was convicted of bribing a peace officer and of being in possession of counterfeit money.

Each charge carries a maximum penalty of 14 years. Mr. Justice G. A. Gale postponed sentence until Monday.

During the jury trial James Morrison, former Don jail guard serving a two-year term for attempting to help convicted murderer Leonard Jackson escape, testified that Jackson had arranged a meeting between him and Watson.

Watson had given him $40, he said, counterfeit bills totalling $100 and six hacksaw blades which he had taken to Jackson's wife, Anne.

Canada in 1666 had 3,215 white inhabitants.

Republicans Grab Southern Bloc

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dwight Eisenhower's landslide ride to the presidency in yesterday's general election ripped from the solid south a larger hunk of votes than any Republican ever won in Dixie.

With four states in the bag and two others teetering, Ike already had far more popular votes than any other Republican nominee ever polled although he ran a bit shy of the electoral total won by Herbert Hoover in 1928.

Florida, Oklahoma, Virginia and Texas, with 54 electoral votes, were firmly in his column early today.

HAIRLINE STRUGGLE

He was in a hairline struggle for Tennessee's 11 electoral votes and Louisiana's 10. The Republican choice was about 1,600 up in Tennessee this morning, about 2,000 down in Louisiana.

The other seven states of the traditionally solid south—Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi and North and South Carolina—with 71 electoral votes appeared safe for the Democrats' Adlai Stevenson.

Yet in over-all popular vote, with many precincts still missing, the general counted 4,000,000 which was more than twice the total gained by Thomas E. Dewey in 1938—and fewer than 100,000 behind the Stevenson total at this point.

Famous Fleet

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Newfoundland's once proud fleet of banks' fishermen is slowly vanishing. Only three vessels remain and these are landing their catches at Halifax. Only draggers are bringing their catches into Newfoundland ports.

Many Sad Faces Seen On Truman Train

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman kept his thoughts to himself today as he rolled toward Washington on the campaign train that started out during the Labor Day weekend carrying high Democratic hopes.

Men with long faces and stenographers fighting back tears moved slowly through the cars this post-election day.

They had figured the odds favored Dwight D. Eisenhower when they left Washington that Sunday in September. But the champion of 1948 was their ace in the hole and they had counted heavily on his "give 'em hell" campaigning.

Harry Truman gave them all he had from one end of the country to the other.

For 18,000 miles he travelled, making a total of 212 speeches for Adlai Stevenson, driving himself even harder than when he campaigned for his own election when he was four years younger—64 instead of 68.

REFLECTED OPTIMISM

When the campaign ended in his native Jackson county, Missouri, the grey-haired, bespectacled Missourian reflected optimism.

When he dropped his ballot into the box at Independence, Mo., Tuesday morning, he was asked whether he was sure that "is a winner."

He replied with a grin: "Of course, no question about it."

But the tidal wave of votes swept Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower into the presidency, and drowned Truman's hopes of keeping the Democrats in control of the White House.

Truman was in bed before 9:30 p. m. and apparently slept while his staff sweated out the returns in an atmosphere of steadily-increasing gloom.

He moved toward Washington today and the difficulties of adjusting to this changed political world.

Whatever plans he had in mind for the future, including his consideration of a trip abroad, likely will undergo revision. He hasn't talked much of his plans.

Until Jan. 20, he still is president.

Canada had 1,180,500 farm horses in June, 1952, a reduction of 15 per cent from June, 1951.

Found Relief From SCIATIC PAIN

"I began to suffer with a dull, continuous ache from my hip down my leg", writes Mr. Geo. F. MacGregor, 1604 E. 8th Ave., Vancouver. "The steady pain gave me no rest day or night. One day when my leg was so painful I could hardly get about, a stranger stopped me. He had once suffered much the same thing until he tried Templeton's T-R-C's. He recommended T-R-C's to me. I wish I could thank him, for in a short time T-R-C's gave me longed-for relief from my sciatic pain."

Don't suffer from Sciatic, Rheumatic or Arthritic pain. Take Templeton's T-R-C's—Canada's LARGEST-SELLING proprietary medicine specially made to bring quick relief from such pain. At drug counters, only 65c, $1.35. T-847

Tea Proceeds Now In Use

Girls' Auxiliary of St. John's Anglican Church met Tuesday after school in the parish hall with 22 of the 27 members present. Proceeds of their Hallowe'en tea has made a sizeable amount in the treasury. Already, leather and leathercraft tools have been purchased, and $20 sent to the Diocesan Girls' secretary. Leader Mrs. W. C. Boate spoke briefly of G.A. work, pointing out the Toronto Diocese supports three missionaries out of pledge money. "Purpose of the G.A. is to train ourselves to serve in His service," she said, and urged the girls to keep before them the G.A. motto "Putting service before self." All members are keen to work for the Dorcas badge and Dorcas secretary Sherry Hope was asked to write for more information about this study. Mary Sutton was appointed clarion secretary. Following business, the girls continued their leathercraft classes, waxing and polishing their change purses and commencing the buttonhole stitch in lacing. They are taking evident enjoyment in this work and are getting good results.

Worship service was conducted by Mrs. D. Hubbs, assited by Mrs. G. Myles and Mrs. Wm. McCracken. Part two of the study book, "Villages of Angola" was presented by Mrs. Stan Whitfield who gave a vivid description of life in a pagan village as contrasted to life in a christian village. Miss May Morton moved a vote of thanks to the hostess and to those taking part in the program. Refreshments served by Mrs. Ross, assisted by Mrs. Don Hubbs, Mrs. G. Myles and social committee convener, Mrs. Stan Whitfield.

MAMIE AND HOBBY—Shopping for bargains has been another of Mrs. Eisenhower's hobbies. Here she looks at hats in a Washington store, but now her shopping will be curtailed by her new job.

America's New First Lady Had Good Preparation For Job In White House

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA).—What manner of woman is the nation's new First Lady?

One thing is sure. Whatever Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower was, did, liked or disliked before, it's going to be a lot different for her for the next four years at least.

Mamie Eisenhower has probably has as good a preparation for the job as any one woman can get. But it happens that being First Lady of the Land involves a combination of responsibilities and duties for which there is only one adequate training course: the job itself.

Caesar's wife had it easy by comparison. Cornelia's job description didn't specify keeping above suspicion in an age of television, gossip columnists, women's magazines, the League of Women Voters and the New York Dress Institute which takes it upon itself to select the country's ten best dressed women. A woman in high position today can come under suspicion if her dress happens to be a half-inch longer than yesterday's accepted length.

Today's First Lady is expected to be the living symbol for motherhood and wifehood to all the Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts, Brownies and Job's Daughters. Yet about noon each day she must also become the leading hostess or most honored guest in a town which has the fastest party pace in the country.

SPEAKING DIFFICULT

It's not easy to be your sweet same self under these conditions. Take everything that's been written about Mamie—and there has been plenty—and you can start from there guessing as to what kind of a First Lady she will be.

For instance, Mrs. Eisenhower abhors the thought of making a public speech. When it comes to facing a crowd, smiling, waving and saying hello, she's the best. But the longest actual speech she has ever made contained 20 words.

For better or for worse the First Lady has to make some publis speeches—without her husband at her side. Mrs. Truman probably abhorred the idea more than Mamie does now. But Mrs. Truman, with all her Missouri independence and distaste for the public platform, quickly had to hire herself a public speaking teacher and learn the rudimentary tricks of the trade.

Mrs. Ike has always claimed that her principal hobby is taking care of Ike—to the extent, it has been reported, of buying his clothes. That's something Mrs. Truman said she did, too.

Unfortunately, the President of the United States is well insulated against a devoted, helping wife by Secret Service men, staff physicians, personal secretaries, aides, assistants and a fantastic burden of work.

* * *

The answer? The First Lady finds herself another main hobby.

Stated hobbies two, three and four for Mamie are lying in bed reading mystery books, shopping around town for bargains and redecorating.

The simple administrative chores of running the White House preclude the time for reading in bed. They will also probably cut into her favorite habit of a leisurely breakfast of fruit juice, toast and coffee followed by reading the papers and writing her letters—all in bed.

Bargain hunting, another of Mrs. Truman's pre-First Lady favorites, is denied the President's wife. Haggling over the price of a bit of feminine finery is robbed of its charm with two Secret Service men and a fast-growing crowd of rubbernecks monitoring the transaction.

* * *

ANOTHER CURB

That leaves redecorating. But the only trouble there is that it's against the law to do any redecorating in the White House wtihout having nearly every idea approved first through channels by the Commission of Fine Arts.

So the First Lady can't have a hobby. But isn't there any fun being the wife of the most important man in the world? The answer to that is yes, if what you call fun happens to coincide with the rigid dictates of the job, like it did for Mrs. Roosevelt, for instance.

Fortunately for Mamie Eisenhower, and in spite of the above mentioned somewhat unpleasant adjustments she is going to have to make in her new life, she has real talent for, and takes great pleasure in, much of the routine which will be hers at least until 1956 is she and Ike survive the strain.

Basically, Mrs. Ike is a gregarious person. She loves being surrounded by good friends. She enjoys meeting new people. She sparkles and enthuses in the middle of a gay throng. Small chitchat and exchanging the latest gags with the girls can keep her enchanted for hours. She loves long afternoons of bridge and canasta.

* * *

CAN TAKE ADJUSTMENTS

White House protocol will limit and take some of the gay edge off of those activities for Mamie. She admits complete ignorance of "heavy" subjects like economics or politics. And a good share of White House company will be persons who seek a more intellectual brand of conversation.

Also, a First Lady is so busy she has to devote less time to real old friends than to visiting delegates from the Federation of Women's Clubs, for example.

But Mamie has proved on many Army Posts, as well as in Washington and Paris, that she can take those adjustments in her social life in stride, still keep the affection and loyalty of her old friends, and continue to enjoy life.

The real key to the true perconality of the new First Lady is the fact that she has been the wife of a career Army officer, say those who have been close to Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower.

Today its popular on the part of Mamie's more casual friends to claim that she has emerged from Ike's campaign with a brand new personality. They say that they never thought (1) that she was physically strong enough to take the rigorous efforts in stride, and (2) that she would take to the limelight the way she has. They are announcing a new-found Mamie.

Her really intimate friends don't see it quite that way. They agree that they are terribly relieved that she has been able to stand up so well physically under the strain. As one puts it:

"Let's hope that Ike's campaign proves once and for all to the gossips that Mamie isn't frail and that she can be a real First Lady with the best of them.

Like almost every American wife with a husband overseas, the war proved to be a great physical and emotional strain in Mamie's life. Before the war she had developed a non-critical heart murmur, which only prohibited such things as running upstairs and violent outdoor activity. But this tended to confine her to her apartment in the Wardman Park Hotel in Washington where she put in endless hours of mahjong.

* * *

Had she wanted to tap the gay honors of Washington's war-wild social life she could have had the town at her feet. Plenty of wives of other important officers overseas yielded to this exciting alternative.

She lost weight, began suffering from the same headaches which bothered her during much of the G.O.P. convention, and did her best to fight boredom and frustration. At the end of the war her health really broke. A case of pneumonia which was near-fatal kept her in bed for a long time.

That she is now completely recovered from her war ordeal can be testified to by millions of Americans who were charmed and delighted during the campaign by her vivacious and warm personality.

To Pack Clothing For Korea At Legion Hall

School poppy day will be this Friday, November 7th and through the efforts of members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion it is possible for all school children in the community to participate and wear a poppy in remembrance. Arrangements for distributing the poppies at the school were completed at the regular meeting Monday evening in the Legion Hall.

The Auxiliary will pack a bale of warm clothing for Korea on November 15th. Articles of clothing for men, women and children, also blankets, can be left at the Legion Hall prior to this date.

Arrangements were nearly completed for the annual tea and bazaar being held December 4th in the Legion auditorium with Mrs. A. Parrington convening the tea room. Veterans' children are again to be entertained at a Christmas party the evening of December 11th, seven to nine o'clock.

Mrs. M. Kernohan who was delegated to attend the Provincial convention at Brockville in October gave her report of proceedings there.

Mrs. J. Buchan was winner of a cup and saucer draw. Proceeds of such monthly draws are used as postage on food parcels sent to local men on active duty.

Home-made do-nuts and tea were served during a social hour by Mrs. Kernohan and assistants.

Scouts, Guides To Have Uniform Exchange

The Association of Scout and Guide Auxiliaries met Monday afternoon in St. Paul's church parlour. President Mrs. J. McLeod was in the chair.

It was decided that the Association will have a Uniform Exchange depot, possibly in St. Paul's, with one of their Auxiliary members in charge. Until this member is appointed and announced, secretary, Mrs. E. J. MacDonald, telephone 9297 can be contacted by anyone who has a uniform (Scout, Cub, Guide, or Brownie) to exchange or sell, and likewise by anyone who wishes to obtain a used uniform.

After some discussion it was decided that in future only the president, or her representative, of each Auxiliary, will attend executive meetings, as it is felt this will not hinder in any way the operation of the Association. The membership fee payable by each Auxiliary to the Association will be the same as before, and will become due as of the next meeting.

Next meeting will be the annual meeting, and will be held in the evening of January 12th, 1953, in St. Paul's auditorium, unless otherwise announced later. Installation of new officers will take place, and also at this meeting it is hoped to have a guest speaker. All Auxiliaries, who are members of this Association, and group committees, are invited.

New officers elected at this meeting for the coming year, are as follows:—

President, Mrs. J. McLeod; vice president, Mrs. W. K. Meagher; secretary, Mrs. E. J. MacDonald; treasurer, Mrs. B. Baker; lady representative to Local Association, Mrs. W. K. Meagher.

Home and School Association News

HAVELOCK

HAVELOCK (ENS).—Mrs. A. W. Nelson of Peterborough, district chairman of the Home and School Association gave a very informative talk to the local branch of that organization on Monday evening.

The three main environments that are responsible for the child's character, she said, are the church, the school and the home. In the latter the main part of character building is accomplished for the school can only build on the structure begun in the home. A good home is of prime importance in the training of children. One, she said, in which all its members feel they are wanted and understood.

Mrs. Nelson stressed adult training through study groups where their own problems and school problems could be discussed. She spoke on the seven-point program the H. and S. Federation is sponsoring and recommended the study of the constitution and manual. She recommended building up the H. and S. membership in keeping with the enrollment of the school.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Nelson by Miss S. Dolden of the teaching staff.

Mrs. J. Wilde gave the health topic "The Skin," in the absence of the health convener Mrs. W. Nobes Sr. Mrs. W. Corneil, the publications secretary, spoke on the publications on her Fable, soliciting subscriptions to the various magazines there. Mrs. L. Bigelow was the soloist with Mrs. D. Kirk as accompanist.

The attendance shield and prize of $1 was won by Miss Dolden's room. The president Mrs. B. Johnson presided and Mrs. J. Beatty was the program convener. Refreshments were served by the social convener Mrs. F. Chase and her committee.

CENTRAL SCHOOL

Central Home and School Association met Monday in the kindergarten room. As it was the annual "Fathers' Night," president Mrs. L. Horning conducted only the preliminary business session before turning the meeitng over to Mrs. S. J. Rowe. As chairman, Mr. Rowe gave a few opening remarks pertinent to "Fathers' Night," then called on Mr. Donald Crawford for readings from Robert W. Service. These were much enjoyed as were several lively selections by an instrumental trio led by Mr. H. Vinette, representing the fathers of grade 8 pupils from King George school who are being accommodated this year at Central school.

Mr. L. Bird introduced Mr. Campbell Rowatt, who spoke on "Conservation—Our Business." Admittedly a vast subject, Mr. Rowat presented especially the seriousness of soil erosion and of the reduction of water supply, through indiscriminate overcutting of forested lands.

"Soil erosion arises from two principal factors," he said. "One is the washing away of our topsoil or productive soil by flood, and the other is wind. Soil does not blow if it is adequately covered by vegetation, and it dotse not wash out if there are forests to soak up rainfall on the heights.

"The trees, their roots and the humus of the forest floor act as great sponges. The result is a tendency to equalize stream flow, to reduce the gap between high and low water stages and to lessen the seriousness of floods. It is upon a steady flow of water in the rivers that we depend for our supply of electricity.

Mr. Rowatt pointed out also, that according to the Kennedy report, there are two and a half million acres of land in southern Ontario, not suitable for farming, which should be returned to forest; that any conservation plan needs widespread public co-operation; and that conservation means not merely prohibition but wise use, as well as purposeful development, which makes things secure for the future.

A Department of Lands and Forests film entitled "Return of the Trees" which followed, served to illustrate the grave effects of erosion in the Ganaraska Watershed area, within 30 miles of this city. It showed, also, the improvement made by the planting of trees on high land.

At the conclusion of the film, refreshments were served by Mr. C. Sarginson and his committee of fathers.

Stewart-Ferguson

George Street United Church Saturday at 6 o'clock was scene of the marriage of Elizabeth Mae Ferguson of Toronto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Woodcock, Peterborough and John Stewart, son of Mrs. James Stewart and the late Mr. Stewart of Toronto.

The church was decorated with pale blue satin bows and streamers on the pews while on the altar were red roses with the candles lit on each side. The Rev. E. W. Rowland officiated at the double ring ceremony assisted by the Rev. A. A. Mathews. Wedding music was played by Mr. Charles Allen and during the signing of the register he played "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of pale blue slipper satin with fingertip sleeves. Her skirt fell to a court train, and a matching satin cap held her full-length pale blue veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses with pale blue satin ribbon. Her only attendant, Mrs. G. Pinch, wore a similar gown of pale mauve taffeta and carried a nosegay of mauve, pink and white 'mums with matching streamers.

Herb. Stewart of Toronto was groomsman for his brother and the ushers were Lloyd Woodcock and Bob Stewart of Toronto, brothers of the bride and groom.

At the reception held in the church reception rooms the bride's mother received wearing a dress of Autumn green with corsage of red roses, while the mother of the groom, wore a dress of black with a corsage of pink roses.

Afterward Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left on their wedding trip and on return will live in Toronto.

Parent Ed. Group Gives Tea At Q.M.

The kindergarten mothers of Queen Mary School were entertained at tea Tuesday afternoon by the parent education group of the Home and School Association. Mrs. R. C. Honey, the president, received.

Principal Mr. O. M. Steer spoke a few words of welcome to the mothers, saying "It is important to make the child's life happy at school and teachers and parents need to know each other and work together for the good of the child to make this happen."

Parent education convener, Mrs. D. Rostocky invited the mothers to the first group meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. R. C. Cole, 678 Hopkins Ave., on Wednesday, November 12th.

Mrs. H. Wells and Mrs. O. Phillips were in charge of the refreshments. They were assisted by Mrs. Cole, Mrs. G. Batley, Mrs. J. Comstock, Mrs. S. S. Heard, and Mrs. C. Northey.

Mrs. A. Purdon convened the event.

Hastings News

Mrs. W. Scott Fife is a patient at Civic Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Milford McGee and family were weekend guests in Toronto, of the former's sisters Mrs. Kenneth Dunn and Mr. Dunn, who were celebrating their first wedding anniversary, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hebor.

Mr. Douglas Thurston, principal of the Public School, was a week-end guest at his home in Dunsford.

The executive of Trinity United Church W.A. met at the home of the president, where final plans were made for a chicken supper to be held on November 14. Mrs. J. G. Thompson and Mrs. C. Oliver are to make posters.

DOROTHY DIX

Ready To Forgive Wife Afraid What Friends Say

DEAR MISS DIX: Last year my wife went off with another man, and it almost killed me. Shortly afterward she realized her mistake and left him. I tried in every way to hurt her and I succeeded. I even allowed myself to be talked into a divorce. Now the ashes leave a bitter taste. I have seen her at several parties and had a few dates with her. I realize I love her as much, if not more than ever.

We were married almost 15 years and it is hard to put a woman away from you after all that time, regardless of what she has done. I am very lonely and need her. I know she is sorry for what she did and has learned her lesson. I'm sure we would be happy this time.

The trouble is I'm afraid my friends will laugh at me. I listened to them when this happened and did what they advised; now I am afraid they'll tease me about it. I have told my wife that I might give her another chance and I know she's building her hopes on it, but, as I say, I am afraid I'll lose face with my friends. They don't know I have been seeing my wife.

WORRIED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: What makes these so-called friends so important that you are willing to stake your own and your wife's happiness against their kididng Their advice didn't work out so well when you took it so why continue to put so high a value on their opinions? Few people get through life without learning at least one bitter lesson from experience; the wise ones are those who can profit by what they have learned. Both you and your wife (and I notice that not once do you refer to her as "ex-wife") have had a lesson in life's hardest school, and God has given you a chance to rectify it.

GIVE HER A SECOND CHANCE

Not everyone has a second chance! Don't be such a fool as to throw away this golden opportunity merely to escape a few wisecracks. The friends may laugh at you, all right, but why rate their attitude so high? It is your future happiness and that of your wife which are at stake.

Take her back, and announce to the world, proudly, that you are re-marrying her. Begin a new married life with no regrets, no recriminations. Good luck to you!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I recently read an article of yours concerning a lonely widower. I belong to a club for just such people and feel there are many others who would be interested. If you could find a place in your column to give us a write-up, I would be appreciative. The club is in Philadelphia.

S. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Bravo for the wise folks who organized your club! I know of no social need greater than to provide friendship for older, lonely people. I'm sure my readers in your vicinity will be very interested in visiting the club, whose name and address may be had for a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and perhaps others would like advice on how to organize one. Thanks for the help.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going with a boy for a manth, and love him very much. Sometimes he acts as though he likes me, and sometimes he seems to prefer my girl friend. I know I'm jealous of her, but hate to tell her not to come around when he's visiting. Should I break off with the boy, or with my girl friend?

A. M. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Aren't you foolishly jumping to conclusions rather quickly? After one month's acquaintance, you certainly don't have exclusive rights to the boy. Why not accept his friendship on a comradely basis, and keep your girl friend, too? Friends are not so plentiful that they can be discarded at random.

Rush Pt. Club Holds Oct. Meeting

HAVELOCK (ENS)—The Rev. R. G. Newman told a story of Thanksgiving and harvest festivals from early Biblical times to the present day at a meeting of the Devotional and Handicraft Club of Rush Point held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Pollock.

The worship service was in charge of the president Miss Helen Cooke. After reading a message concerning the welfare of the ancient Hebrews, by the president, the scripture lesson was read by Joan McGowan.

A girls' chorus comprising Misses Helen, Dorothy, Frances and Roberta Cooke and Marie Newton sang and a poem of thanksgiving was then read by Ruth Morrow. Mrs. R. G. Newman sang a solo.

A recreational period followed the program during which crokinole, checkers and Hallowe'en games were enjoyed. An interesting contest was conducted by Mrs. Cora Curtis, when each lady received a paper doily with toothpickes, jelly beans and prunes with the request to make a place decoration suitable for Hallowe'en. Judges were the Rev. R. G. Newman and Ray Sharpe who awarded the prize, a lace doily, to Mrs. Ray Pollock.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Williams and sons Mervyn and Douglas of Hamilton spent the weekend with the former's mother, Mrs. L. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Randal Wood and daughters Sharon and Carolyn of South Porcupine are the guests of Mrs. William Stevenson. Mrs. Wood's father, Mr. William Haddon of Virginia Beach is critically ill in Civic Hospital at Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Crofton Richards and children of Omemee visited the former's mother, Mrs. Ross Richards over the weekend.

Mrs. G. Grimmer and daughter Wendy have returned to their home in Minneapolis, Minn., via Malton airport after visiting their aunt Mrs. W. M. Campbell and Mr. Campbell.

Mrs. J. Cooke and Mrs. Charles Dufour left Wednesday to spend a few days in Toronto, the guests of Mrs. T. Lloyd.

Mrs. Cora Curtis visited friends in Port Dalhousie recently and while there attended the centennial of the St. Andrew's United Church.

What's Right?

You pride yourself on being an "individual" and enjoy standing out from the crowd.

WRONG: Feel it is quite all right for you to wear old clothes or the most casual of sports clothes to a party where you know others will be dressed up.

RIGHT: Don't make yourself conspicuous by deliberately wearing clothes that announce you feel you are above conforming to the customs of your community.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Boiled Brisket, Onion Gravy On Special-Purpose Menu

I am demonstrating to you again today how our own Canadian products can be made glamorous at low cost—but with a little extra thought and care. Funny isn't it that I can't discover one Scottish ancestor in my family tree.

Boiled Brisket with Onion Gravy (see soup from broth below)
French Style Spinach
Fluffy Mashed Potatoes (French method)
Head Lettuce with Green Pepper Rings
Cheese French Dressing (see notes)
Frosted Concord Grapes
Crackers and Cheese
Coffee

DIRECTIONS

I bought a piece of lean brisket with small bone in weighing 2 pounds for 72 cents. I washed it, covered it with 3 cups cold water, covered it and simmered 3½ hours. I sauteed ½ cup chopped onion in 2 tablespoons butter for 5 minutes, add 2 tablespoons flour, stirred to blend and added 1 cup of the broth, stirring until thick, then added salt and pepper to taste. I sliced the brisket and served the onion gravy over it. When the broth was cold next day I skimmed off the fat and added ½ cup each finely chopped celery and carrot, 2 tablespoons macaroni alphabets, 1 tablespoon rice, 1 chopped tomato and 1 teaspoon finely chopped green pepper. Salt pepper, MSG to taste. We had the soup the next night and I served a cheese souffle instead of meat.

FRENCH STYLE SPINACH

Cook spinach in the water which clings to leaves after washing—turning it over 2 or 3 minutes after heat is turned on. Do not overcook. Drain and chop while it is in strainer. For each 1 cup spinach add 2 tablespoons thick white sauce flavored with nutmeg and a little grated onion. Reheat.

FLUFFY MASHED POTATOES
(French method)

Wash medium large potatoes well and steam with skins on in 1 inch boiling water until very tender, covered. Drain well and place over low heat and gently shake to dry them. Peel. Place in large bowl and beat (with electric beater if you have one) until perfectly smooth, then slowly add hot whole milk (2 lbs potatoes will take 1 cup milk). Return to low heat, and add ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt and stir until of soft mashed potato consistency—but be sure they are very hot. For special occasions turn 2/3 of these into oven-proof dish, and pipe remainder around edge in fancy border with pastry tube. Place under broiler to brown. Browning is facilitated if border is brushed with egg.

Cheese French Dressing is made by adding grated cheese to French Dressing—we like grated skim milk cheese for this purpose.

To "frost" Concord grapes, brush them with beaten egg white, then dredge them with icing sugar and let them stand until dry. Tasty and pretty.

DINNERS FOR PATIENT ON SOFT DIET (for Elizabeth M.)

1) The soup made from brisket broth under above directions could be used by Elizabeth M. for her patient on soft diet. Since what she described is actually a light diet she could serve with this Cheese Souffle, Fluffy Mashed Potatoes (French Method above) and Blanc Mange with canned apricots and tea.

2) Cream of mushroom soup, breaded sweetbreads, French style spinach (above), floating island or English trifle, cafe au lait (half hot milk and half strong coffee) or Postum.

The first prohibition law in the United States was adopted by Maine in 1846.

MR. AND MRS. HOWARD F. KIDD, former residents of Peterborough, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary in Winnipeg Nov. 10. Most of their married life was spent in Saskatchewan.

Married In Peterborough Lived 49 Years In West

Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Kidd, western pioneers, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home, Winnipeg.

Both are natives of Peterborough, where they were married November 10, 1902. They still have many friends and relatives in the city.

In 1903 they went west to what is now Saskatchewan, and with the exception of the past two years, when they moved to Winnipeg, have lived in that province ever since.

Mr. Kidd attended McMaster and Queen's Universities, started teaching in 1908, is now superannuated. He is past president of the Teachers' Association, and for several years was on the Provincial Council of the Saskatchewan Teachers' Federation. He is a Mason and an Oddfellow.

Ontario Offers U.K. 10 Million Lbs. Cheese

TORONTO (CP) — Ten million pounds of top-quality Ontario cheese today was offered for immediate delivery to Britain by Agriculture Minister Kennedy of Ontario.

The offer followed a request of the British National Federation of Grocers to the British food ministry for additional supplies of Canadian cheese.

Mr. Kennedy today cabled Major Gwilym Lloyd-George, minister of food for Britain, that Ontario could supply the cheese at a price to be negotiated.

"If the British government decides to act upon the offer we could have the cheese in England in time for Christmas," he said.

Find Production Zooming In British Plant

OLDHAM, Lancashire (CP)—A 250-year-old local paint manufacturing firm whose entire staff of 70 employees was dismissed a month ago because of "collective inefficiency," reports a 70-per-cent boost in production since reorganization.

W. Pethybridge, managing director of the company, Cartwright limited, said the drastic action had produced results far beyond his expectations.

When notices were handed to the workmen, they were given the opportunity of applying for reinstatement. Ninety per cent of the employees did so and subsequently returned to their posts.

Under the reorganized scheme of operations, Pethybridge said the employees were being trained to think for themselves. Foremen had been dispensed with while pay rates beyond the prevailing union scale were introduced, with additional bonus incentives.

As a result, output increased and orders were being completed in two days against two weeks for the same operations before reorganization.

"The policy we introduced is definitely not one of slave driving," Pethybridge said. "Our present staff is 100 per cent in favor of the step we took and I think it has proved conclusively that once a British workman has been told what to do, he does it better than anyone else in the world."

Anniversary Marked At Oak Heights Church

WARKWORTH (ENS).—Anniversary services were held Sunday in the Oak Heights United Church with large congregations at both services. In the morning the Rev. G. J. A. Whitehorn of Seymour, chairman of the Presbytery, was the guest speaker, taking for his text "The Parable of the Rich Fool." He pictured him as a successful man in any phase of activity, sitting on the pinnacle of his success. He went on to show the man's weakness when the hand of God confronts him. Being faced with this he finds his position suddenly falling. The speaker said that he made three mistakes: 1 He mistook himself for God, 2 he mistook time for eternity, 3 he had the idea he could feed his soul on goods and barns.

The music in the morning was sung by the Dartford male quartette composed of John Coggins, Jack, Ambrose, and Carman Atkinson, with Mrs. J. S. Atkinson, pianist. Miss Eleanor McMurdo of Oak Heights sang, with Miss Ferne Killingbeck piano accompanist.

In the evening Mr. Whitehorn chose for his text "How to be Happy," as taken from Philippians 11, 14. He said in part: "Security and adequacy within ourselves was necessary. If man has anchorage in God, it is the secret of true happiness."

FIRST TO BE X-RAYED among industrial workers in the city this year are these employees of the Peterborough Canoe Co. The city-wide survey started Monday. Students and others not working in industry also have an opportunity to have a check. Waiting for his turn is Paul Sullivan, 176 Adeline St., while George Bowring, Toronto, technician in the caravan, adjusts Bob Killingbeck, 548 Sherbrooke St., into the correct position. — (Examiner Staff Photo).

Charges Federal Gov't Plunders Citizens' Pockets

OTTAWA (CP)—E. D. Fulton, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for the British Columbia constituency of Kamloops, said last night the federal government is "plundering the taxpayers' pockets."

The government, he said, has been overtaxing the Canadian people at the rate of $1,000,000 a day.

Mr. Fulton's speech was prepared for broadcast over the Trans-Canada network in the CBC's series "The Nation's Business." He spoke from Vancouver and the text of his speech was released through his office here.

Finance Minister Abbott and other members of the cabinet have changed their tune, said Mr. Fulton. A few months ago they were saying there could be no tax cuts because of high defence costs. Now the ministers were saying tax cuts were possible.

Mr. Fulton added:

"With any luck, the government is hoping that Canadians will forget—in the joy of getting back a portion of their own hard-earned money—will forget that over a five-year-period, personal income tax rates could have been slashed 54 per cent and the budget still balanced. Will forget those excessive hidden taxes that have made the cost of living a nightmare."

Tax reductions should have been given in last year's budget, in this year's budget and not "just in next year's election budget."

If tax reductions are not given until before the election, the government's policies will be clearly seen for what they are—"Liberal political budgeting."

Pleads Guilty

OTTAWA (CP)—Leopold Fournier, 40, Ottawa street cleaner, yesterday pleaded guilty in magistrate's court to setting fire to his own residence to collect $2,000 insurance on the contents. He was fined $300 or one month in jail. Damage in the fire, set last Oct. 2, was estimated by police at $500.

Rat Invasion Moving West

EDMONTON (CP)—W. Lobay, crop protection supervisor for the Alberta agriculture department, has warned that a slackening of interest can mean that rats will be well established in all parts of Alberta in the next 20 to 25 years.

Mr. Lobay said it took 30 years for the rats to cross Saskatchewan. They first invaded Canada when the first white settlers came in and have slowly followed man westward since.

In western Canada, rats first were noticed at Emerson, Man., in 1900. By 1914 reports of the rodents in Manitoba came from Deloraine, Winnipeg, Portage La Prairie and Brandon. The movement continued northwest until by 1919 they were seen near Yorkton, Sask.

In 1929 rate were established in the Regina and Moose Jaw areas. Saskatoon and Swift Current in western Saskatchewan were infected by 1939 and by 1949 the westward movement reached Loverna and Alsask, 10 miles from the Alberta boundary.

In 1950 the first colony of rats in Alberta was discovered west of Alsask.

Marmora Legion Plans Remembrance Day

MARMORA (ENS)— Under the presidency of Roy Moss in the absence of the president, Stanley Kerr, the executive of Marmora Branch 237 of Canadian Legion met with members of the Ladies' Auxiliary in the Legion Hall Monday evening to complete arrangements for various forthcoming events in which these organizations are jointly concerned.

First on the agenda was the visit of local schools on Thursday and Friday at which a representative of the Legion will give a short talk on the significance of Remembrance Day and present a poppy to each pupil. The sale of poppies will take place on Saturday.

Remembrance Day services will be held at Marmora Memorial Hall and Deloro village hall, and the attendance of all clergy has been solicited at one of these two places that day, as well as the parade of ex-servicemen and members of the Auxiliary. Also that evening there is to be a social gathering for Legionnaires and their lady escorts in the Legion Hall.

Sidelights Of Election

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—An unidentified woman had to take off her "I like Ike" skirt yesterday before election officials would allow her to vote. They told her she couldn't take campaign propaganda into the voting booth. So she calmly removed her skirt, stood in line in her slip for 15 minutes, then voted.

+ + +

NEW YORK (CP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., Democrat who had Liberal party support, was re-elected yesterday to the House of Representatives.

+ + +

TRENTON, N.J. (CP)—Republican Peter H. N. Frelinghuysen, Jr., was elected to the House of Representatives yesterday. He filled the seat held for 26 years by Nova Scotia-born Charles A. Eaton, a Republican who retired from politics this year.

+ + +

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP)—An absentee ballot from a soldier in Korea turned up here yesterday with a write-in vote for coroner. Spelled out in big letters was the name "Harry S. Truman."

+ + +

WEEHAWKEN, N.J. (AP)—Hubert Daly of Jersey City was let out of jail here for four hours yesterday to vote. Daly was charged with failing to provide $300 for the support of his children.

+ + +

CHICAGO (AP) — Mrs. Ellen Borden Stevenson, divorced wife of Governor Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee showed up at the polls near the closing time yesterday and may have voted a split ticket.

She had announced earlier she intended to vote for Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee, and for a "change of government."

From her booth, Mrs. Stevenson called through the curtain to ask an election judge the mechanics of voting a split ballot on a voting machine. The official gave her the information.

+ + +

NEW YORK (CP)—Emanuel Celler, Democrat, chairman of the House judiciary committee, was re-elected to the House of Representatives yesterday. Celler at one time demanded that Canadian newsprint companies make their books available to his committee.

+ + +

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. secret service agents took over protection of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower early today shortly after his election as president was assured. A group of agents had been standing by at the general's campaign headquarters in the Commodore Hotel while the election returns were tabulated. Once the outcome became apparent, the agents moved into the corridor to guard Eisenhower's third-floor suite.

+ + +

BOSTON (AP) — Representative John W. McCormack, House majority leader, easily was re-elected to his seat from the 12th Massachusetts district in yesterday's election. The 12th is the most heavily Democratic congressional district in the state.

+ + +

HARRISBURG, Pa. (CP)—Senator Ed Martin, 73-year-old Republican, was re-elected to the Senate yesterday. He defeated a former Democratic federal judge, Guy K. Bard.

+ + +

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—William A. Purtell, Republican, won a U.S. senate seat, but lost his title as senator today in a political oddity.

He was appointed to the senate recently by Governor John Lodge to succeed the late Senator Brien McMahon, Democrat. The appointment ran only until a permanent successor was elected to finish out the last four years of McMahon's term.

Prescott Bush was elected to that seat, and becomes Connecticut's senior senator today.

Purtell won the full six-year term, but doesn't take office until next January.

+ + +

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Buffalo voters yesterday rejected a proposed city charter amendment which would have permitted top elective officials to succeed themselves. The charter prohibits the mayor, city council president and city councilmen-at-large from running for re-election after one four-year term.

+ + +

COLUMBUS, O. (CP)—Democrat Governor Frank Lausche was re-elected in yesterday's election, defeating Charles P. Taft. Taft is a brother of Senator Robert A. Taft.

+ + +

SECAUCUS, N.J. (AP)—Henry Krajewski, pig farmer turned presidential candidate on his own Poor Man's ticket, got a total of 71 votes in his home town yesterday.

Other candidates on the ballot did better. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower got 2,286 votes and Gov. Adlai Stevenson 1,608.

+ + +

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA (AP)—Maj. John Eisenhower, son of the president-elect, today sent the following message to his parents in New York: "Dear folks: My heartiest congratulations. My thoughts were with you all the way. (signed) Johnny."

+ + +

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who resigned from the Republican party to support Governor Stevenson, said last night "Eisenhower and Nixon fooled the people and won the election." In a telephone conversation with the Portland Oregonian, Morse said from Washington [illegible] election.

+ + +

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—President Truman's home precinct here gave Gen. Eisenhower 197 votes to 124 for Adlai Stevenson in the presidential election yesterday. In the 1948 vote, the precinct gave Truman 197 votes to 135 for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

+ + +

BOSTON (CP) — Edith Nourse Rogers, veteran Republican congresswoman, was re-elected to the House of Representatives for Massachusetts yesterday. Mrs. Rogers, 71, has served in congress 27 years and has shown keen interest in affairs of war veterans.

+ + +

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Charles R. Jonas was elected to the House of Representatives from North Carolina yesterday, becoming the first Republican North Carolina has sent to Washington since 1928.

Paper Industry Accused Of Price-Fixing

OTTAWA (CP)—Virtually the entire $50,000,000 fine paper industry in Canada was accused of operating an illegal price-fixing combine in a report made public today by Justice Minister Garson. Forty-four companies—seven paper-making mills and 37 merchant companies spread from Vancouver to Halifax—were named in the report by Combines Commissioner T. D. MacDonald, prepared after four years of investigation. Mr. MacDonald alleged that the companies used "loyalty" discounts and other means to restrict competition and combined in one or more groups to maintain prices at fixed levels "detrimental to the public interest."

He suggested that tariffs on imports be cut as one way of infusing new competition into the industry which allegedly had maintained the combines in one way or another for the last 17 years.

Mr. Garson, in making the 200,000-word, 433-page report public, said he will seek legal advice before deciding whether to launch court prosecutions against the accused.

RUBBER COMPANIES TOO

He already has under consideration a previous report alleging the existence of a combine among 19 rubber companies. A decision as to whether prosecution will be launched against this group likely will be made tomorrow.

Today's report was made under provisions of combines investigation legislation which was superseded Nov. 1 by a new law. Under the former law, Mr. MacDonald investigated alleged combines and reported directly to the Justice Minister. The new law provides for a three-man board to hear argument from accused companies and persons before a report is made.

Fine papers include paper used in publishing books, magazines, writing paper and envelopes, but not newsprint.

Those alleged to have been involved either through assistance or through direct operation of a combine in fine papers:

Gen. Eisenhower Seeks Plane For Korean Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence headquarters today worked on plans for one of Dwight D. Eisenhower's first tasks as president-elect of the United States—a personal inspection of the stalemated Korean War.

Eisenhower turned to the military Wednesday to provide transportation for his trip, still unscheduled, after declining President Truman's offer of a White House plane.

The gesture marked the first move toward what was expected to become the closest liaison in modern times between a president and the sprawling Pentagon, the building where the country's military leaders work.

The general is the first professional soldier to reach the White House since President Grant.

Truman offered to put the four-engined "Independence" at Eisenhower's disposal, "if you still desire to go to Korea." The general declined.

Eisenhower said in an address Oct. 24 "I shall go to Korea" to seek a way to an honorable conclusion of the war.

PLAN KOREAN TRIP

Defence Secretary Robert Lovett, Gen. Omar Bradley and other high military officials already have shaped tentative plans to take Eisenhower on his Korean journey.

Eisenhower no longer holds his general's commission or any other direct connection with the army.

In Korea, Eisenhower will come to grips with perhaps most difficult question of his presidential term:

What to do about an unpopular war almost 28 months old, stalled on a heavily-defended front, fought against an enemy with major supply sources outside the theatre of combat, and supported by Russia, the potential major and powerful enemy of the United States?

May Revise TV Coronation Ban

LONDON (Reuters) — Televiewers in Britain may see the actual crowning of Queen Elizabeth in Westminster Abbey next June 2 after all.

The coronation joint executive committee, responsible for coronation planning, yesterday issued a statement that it had "reviewed proposals" for filming and televising the ritual.

Chairman of the committee is the Earl Marshal, the Duke of Norfolk, whose statement last month banning TV cameras from the two-hour crowning ceremony caused a public outcry. An estimated 12,000,000 Britons would have watched the ceremony on TV.

Prime Minister Churchill, whose cabinet approved the ban, later told Parliament the decision might be modified.

It is expected television cameras will be allowed to record everything but the more sacred moments of the service—such as the anointing—and close-up shots will be forbidden.

Investigating Offer Of Ontario Cheese

[illegible] said today his department is "investigating" Ontario's offer of 10,000,000 pounds of top-grade cheese for immediate delivery to Britain.

The spokesman said the offer sounds attractive, "but the catch is what do we use for money?"

Reports here said Agriculture Minister Thomas Kennedy of Ontario cabled the offer yesterday to Food Minister Gwilym Lloyd-George, saying Ontario could supply the cheese at a price to be negotiated.

Police, Hunters Push Search For Youth

HUNTSVILLE (CP)—An army of police, hunters and district residents scoured bush country near the southwest corner of Algonquin Park east of here today for Hubert Lake, 17, of Toronto, lost for more than 72 hours.

Hope waned that the youth, clad in light clothing, with no matches and inexperienced in the bush, still is alive. He disappeared Monday while on a hunting trip with two uncles.

Hunters said it rained all night in the area Monday and sank below freezing Tuesday. Frost was on the ground again last night.

Countess Describes Shooting By Butler

PRESCOT, Lancashire, England (Reuters)—The Countess of Derby entered the witness box here today and told how a 19-year-old footman shot her through the neck with a sub-machine-gun bullet, then shot and killed two men servants.

The footman, Harold Winstanley, has been charged with murder. He stood handcuffed in the dock while Lady Derby described the shooting at the Derbys' family home, Knowsley Hall, the night of Oct. 9.

Lady Derby, 32, said she was having supper by herself that night—and watching TV at the same time when Winstanley entered the room, the gun over his arm.

At his order she turned her back to him. He felled her with a shot but she remained conscious long enough to hear him shoot and kill Walter Stallard, 40, and Douglas Stuart, 29, the butlers.

Live 3 Days On Frozen Vegetables

Find 2 Girls Using Vacant Cottage, Barn For Hideout

TORONTO (CP)—Two teen-aged girls who ran away from school at nearby Highland Creek Monday because they were strapped were found and brought home yesterday.

They spent two nights and most of three days living on frozen carrots and cabbages and sleeping in a barn and a vacant cottage.

Karen Sheppard, 13, and Jean Raymer, 14, said they had sworn on a schoolgirl "code of honor" not to return home.

After being bathed, fed and put to bed at their homes, they both said they would "never look a carrot or a cabbage in the face again."

General Agrees Meet Truman

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President-elect Dwight Eisenhower suggested today that he meet in about 10 days with President Truman to discuss the problem of peace.

Eisenhower replied this morning to a telegram received yesterday from the president in which Truman proposed such a meeting. The president-elect messaged back that "we tentatively plan the proposed meeting for the early part of the week beginning Nov. 17."

Meanwhile, he said, he plans to appoint representatives "for indoctrination in several other departments in the federal government. In this way our own conference can achieve maximum results."

Police Seek Crippled Plane

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — Police are searching for a twin-engine plane which residents of the bush country north of here reported flying with one engine dead and the other on fire.

Two men first reported that the craft just missed crashing into a farmhouse Tuesday night at Lancelot near Huntsville, 180 miles north of Toronto. Police who checked the reports yesterday said some 50 persons saw the plane in the area.

Checks with airports and the department of transport showed no planes missing.

Radio Traces Man Bitten By Mad Dog

LONDON (Reuters)—A radio and press appeal to trace a man bitten by a rabid dog while in Nigeria was successful today.

Ronald Harrison, on a motor tour in the north of England, read the appeal in the newspapers and immediately reported to health ministry officials [illegible] artillery bar-covered that a dog which had bitten him had developed rabies.

Not everyone bitten by a rabid dog develops hydrophobia. But if they do, the disease may not show itself for weeks and lack of early treatment can prove fatal.

Two U.S. Scientists Win Nobel Prize In Physics

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Two United States scientists were awarded the 1952 Nobel prize in physics today for their development of a new refined method to measure magnetic fields in atomic nuclei.

The winners are Dr. Flix Boch, 47, of Stanford University, Calif., and a Harvard University physicist Dr. Edward Mills Purcell, 40, who helped develop radar during the Second World War.

Each of the prizes carry a cash award of 171,134 Swedish crowns ($33,037). Bloch and Purcell will share the physics cash prize between them.

Bloch and Purcell developed their prize-winning method of measuring magnetic fields in atomic nuclei independently of each other. The technique enabled atomic scientists to increase a thousand-fold the precision of measurements of fundamental importance to the study of the structure of atomic nuclei.

This technique is known as the nuclear induction method. It is unrivalled thus far for precision among all other methods used by atomic scientists.

TECHNIQUE UNRIVALLED

The technique devised by Boch and Purcell is, briefly, a method of eliciting important information about the properties of atomic nuclei by radio waves. Simply by observing which radio frequency the nuclei could absorb Boch and Purcell were able to measure its magnetic forces with a precision of one-millionth. Information of this kind is fundamental to the understanding of the structure of matter.

Girl 17 Lives 5 Months Without Food

Indian Doctors Making Exhaustive Physical Examinations

MERCARA, India (Reuters)—A 17-year-old Indian girl whose parents say she has lived without food or drink for the last five months, underwent an exhaustive physical examination at a state hospital here today.

Later, physicians said they were baffled by the case which has stirred up interest throughout India. They surmised the girl, Dhanalakshmi, may be drawing some energy from gland secretions.

T. B. Medappa, chief medical officer of Coorg state in southwest India, said after the examination: "The girl is quite normal for her age and very cheerful and sociable."

Dhanalakshmi appeared the picture of health when she greeted a reporter in the hospital here. She said she felt fine but was tired of constant physical checkups in various hospitals.

Her father, 61-year-old K. P. Ayyanna, said her appetite began falling off in 1949 after she developed a distaste for food. From August, 1951, to the end of last May, he said, his daughter ate "hardly anything."

Since then, Ayyanna said, she has not touched food and vomits up any water she takes when thirsty. All efforts to feed her have failed, he said.

Otherwise, the parents said Dhanalakshmi has proved an "ideal daughter and attends to all our comforts."

Ayyanna said she cooks and serves the family food and gets up at 5 a.m. every day to draw water from the well.

Dhanalakshmi has two sisters and one brother who eat normally.

Russian Note Charges U.S. With Blockade

MOSCOW, AP—A Russian note to Washington charges the United States with an illegal and aggressive new blockade in Korean waters and warns that the U.S. must take the "responsibility consequences."

Moscow Radio last night broadcast the text of the note and announced that it was delivered by the Russian Embassy in Washington Tuesday.

The State Department in Washington acknowledged receipt of the protest last night but officials declined comment until it is studied.

The Soviet Union objected to an order Sept. 27 by the United Nations commander, Gen. Mark Clark, which established a "sea defence zone" in South Korean waters, to "eliminate infiltration of enemy agents" into Allied prisoner-of-war camps on Koje and other Korean Islands, as well as to prevent attacks on the South Korean coast, protect U.N. command lines of communications and halt smuggling.

CHARGES VIOLATION

The Russian note contended that establishment of the zone "represents a violation of the freedom of sea, trade in the open sea and also a violation of the rights of the U.S.S.R. and other states." It charged that the order was "a new act of aggression in the Far East," which "proves once again that the U.S. government is not only unwilling to stop the war in Korea, but is following the path of new acts of aggression."

Savage Fighting Eases In Korea

SEOUL (AP)—The savage fighting that has raged over the frozen hills north of Kumhwa for 24 days slackened off today. Battered assault forces retired to rest and regroup.

For the moment at least neither side showed any will to renew the bloody central-front struggle.

South Korean troops held grimly to Sniper Ridge after throwing back a pre-dawn assault by 150 Chinese Communists. The attack was the only Communist offensive move in 24 hours.

The Reds held the crest of nearby Triangle Hill without opposition. Allied leaders ordered the South Koreans to halt their suicidal charges up the slope and called [illegible] artillery bar-

ALLIES WERE OUTGUNNED

An artillery officer said Allied big gunpower had been built up in the Kumhwa sector to equal that of the Battle of Hurtgen Forest in Germany in the Second World War. When Allied troops launched their limited offensive against the Kumhwa ridges last month, they ran into an amazing concentration of Red artillery and for the first time in the Korean War were outgunned.

Fighting for the shell-scarred slopes has been costly. The Reds have lost more than 12,000 killed and wounded. U.N. losses have not been announced, but they are severe.

Hon. Ray Lawson To Be Consul-General

OTTAWA (CP)—Hon. Ray Lawson, former lieutenant-governor of Ontario, is going to New York as Canada's consul-general, the external affairs department announced today.

Although technically he will not be a diplomat, he actually will fill one of the top half-dozen official posts Canada maintains abroad.

He succeeds Kenneth Greene of Ottawa.

European Experts Decide Eisenhower Popularity Thing That Brought Victory

LONDON (AP)—European political commentators took a second look at the United States election returns today and decided the landslide was not so much a victory for the Republicans as a personal triumph for Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. Stress on that interpretation pleased factions which had shied in alarm during the campaign at support of Eisenhower by what they regarded as more reactionary, and isolationist elements. Commentators were quick to point out that the congressional results gave the Republicans only narrow control of the House of Representatives and Senate.

The Liberal News Chronicle says editorially: "There may be a tendency in some quarters in Britain to regard Eisenhower's election as a triumph for 'reactionary conservatism.' But it is not likely that the supreme commander in war and architect of N.A.T.O. will falter in his international faith."

DON'T WANT FAVORS

Lord Beaverbrook's mass circulation independent Daily Express plugs one of its favorite themes—no further U.S. aid for Britain, saying: "There is one thing the British people do not ask of Eisenhower. They do not want favors. Let Americans understand Britain's desire to secure economic independence."

In France, which received the election news with reserve yesterday, the rightest Paris Aurore says the result was a good choice. The centrist Parisien wonders whether Eisenhower's "sense of compromise and gift of persuasion" will enable him to succeed in the White House as he did in army headquarters. The Communist L'Humanite declares Eisenhower probably will base "preparations for a new war in Europe on the priority of rearming Germany."

Uneasiness remains evident in many remarks:

"Will Eisenhower keep the wild men of his party in check and persuade them to follow him?" asks the pro-Labor Daily Herald of London. "All liberal and progressive Americans and organized labor in particular will accept the election verdict with dismay and foreboding."

CALL FOR STRONG MAN

The Stuttgarter Zeitung, an independent West German newspaper, declares: "Whatever the policy of the new American government may be, the call for a strong man will become louder, too, in other countries."

The independent Conservative Aftonposten of Oslo says uncertainty has been created by the co-operation with Eisenhower of "forces which we know to be aiming at American isolationism."

Had Two Wives 60 Miles Apart

TROY, N.Y. (AP)—The death of a 31-year-old truckdriver has unfolded the tale of his two wives, four children by each wife, and two homes 60 miles apart.

Eugene Wood's seven years of double life were revealed yesterday, when Mrs. Anna Wood of Saugerties and Mrs. Jean Wood of Schaghticoke tangled over his estate.

Wood was killed last Sept. 30 in a collision at Paramus, N.J. Anna's lawyer, Max Goldstein, said that until then neither wife knew about the other.

Goldstein said Wood worked it this way:

He drove for a trucking company which ships produce to New York City and New Jersey. On trips, Wood stayed with the wife and four children in Saugerties, about 45 miles south of here.

Otherwise he was at home with his family in Schaghticoke, about 15 miles north of Troy.

Goldstein said Wood married Anna in 1941, Jean in 1945.

Kitchener Announces Three-For-One Deal

KITCHENER (CP) — A three-for-one deal to gain offensive strength was announced today by Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league. The trade is being made with Galt Black Hawks.

The Hawks get Doug Thiel, formerly of Waterloo Hurricanes, in exchange for centre Doug Vaughn and winger Buddy Horne.

Tony Parisi, Galt sub goalie, also comes here on a lend-lease basis. He will play the next few games to give Bill Harrington, Kitchener netminder, a rest. Harrington has been bothered with an injured leg. When he is better Parisi will return to Galt.

The newcomers will make their first appearance next Tuesday.

Former Goalie's Son Killed In Accident

DETROIT (AP) — Norman J. Smith, the son of former Detroit Red Wing goalie Normie Smith, was killed last night in an auto accident while celebrating his 15th birthday.

The youth, driving with five friends around suburban Grosse Isle, lost control of his family's car on a sharp curve and smashed into a tree.

Canadian Wins £4,200 On Vote

LONDON (CP) — Lady Dunn, wife of the Canadian steel magnate, was reported today to have cleaned up a cool £4,200 betting on the United States presidential election.

The Evening Standard quotes her as saying she started betting on Gen. Dwight Eisenhower even before he won the Republican nomination.

She said she won some of the money from her husband—"but I will not disclose how much."

Lady Dunn is the wife of Sir James Dunn, 78-year-old native of Bathurst, N.B., who controls the Algoma Steel Corporation in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. He has been in Britain for two weeks on business. The Dunns return to Canada today by way of New York.

Popular Standing

WASHINGTON (AP) — At 12:30 p.m. EST today returns from 139,918 of 146,370 voting units showed the popular vote: Eisenhower 32,497,888; Stevenson 26,158,658.

Republicans Have One-Seat Edge In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Congress has returned to Republican control by a margin so thin that president-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower probably will depend upon bipartisan support to put through many of his policies. While the general was winning with a landslide vote Tuesday, his supporters fought bitterly and in some cases neck and neck for seats in the 83rd Congress. Eight Congressional races went into vote-by-vote counting, with at least three of them dependent upon absentee ballots. In some close races, defeated candidates have indicated they may contest the outcome.

48-47 IN SENATE

Complete Senate returns gave the Republicans 48 seats and the Democrats 47. Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who resigned from the Republican party to support Governor Adlai Stevenson, was listed as an independent. His vote cast with the Democrats could in theory force a deadlock, which the Republican vice-president, Richard Nixon, could break with his vote as Senate leader.

The Democrats held a 49-47 edge in the 82nd Congress. In the last Republican - controlled 80th Congress of 1947, the Republicans had a 51-45 advantage in the Senate.

Republicans Tuesday won 220 seats in the House of Representatives, two more than necessary for control. The Democrats took 206 but one of these became vacant with the death early today of Representative Adolph J. Sabath of Illinois, dean of the House who had just been elected to his 24th consecutive term. A House vacancy can be filled only by a special election.

One independent who usually votes with the Democrats was re-elected, and Democrats were leading in all eight undecided districts.

The Democrats held 232 House seats in the last congress, but this advantage was largely nullified by an anti-Truman voting coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats. In 1947, the Republicans controlled the House by a 245-188 margin, with one vacancy and one American labor party member.

VOTING EDGE IN HOUSE

The victory gives the Republicans a voting edge, but they will gain greater power by controlling committee chairmanships and other top positions in both Houses. From these posts, Republican leaders can direct the progress of legislation.

The Republicans captured 23 of the 35 Senate seats at stake, with the Democrats winning 12. This was a net Republican gain of two seats.

Four incumbent Republicans were beaten—Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, who was Eisenhower's pre-convention campaign manager; James P. Kem of Mis-

Served Under 8 Presidents Sabath Dies On Re-Election

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adolph J. Sabath, one-time poor immigrant boy who rose to serve 45 unbroken years in the United States Congress died early today.

The 86-year-old Democratic dean of the House of Representatives, known as "the congressman with a golden heart," had just been elected Tuesday to his 24th straight term from a Chicago district.

Sabath had served under eight presidents, starting with Tneodore Roosevelt in 1907. His term was the longest on record.

For many years he had been chairman of the powerful house rules committee, which decides what bills will come up for floor action.

He was a prime figure in "New Deal" and "Fair Deal" legislation—author of a Workman's Compensation Act, sponsor of the first old age pension plan, champion of social security benefits and the eight-hour work day.

Death came as a result of complications from a major operation last June.

A special election must be held to name a successor.

Sabath saved pennies as a sawmill helper in Bohemia, now Czechoslovakia, to pay his way to the U.S. He became a salesman, cashier, bookkeeper and later entered the real estate business.

U.S. State Dept. Prepares For Shake-up

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States state department, target of Republican attack for six years, today got ready to face an inevitable Republican shake-up.

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's election victory Tuesday unquestionably means that heads in the department will roll. Estimates of the number of high officials and diplomats who will be ousted range from 40 to 100 or more.

That Secretary Dean Acheson is cut no one disputes. He has planned for months to return to his Washington law practice whether Eisenhower or Governor Adlai Stevenson succeeded Truman. The top echelon under Acheson embraces upwards of 20 persons.

There are also men who have been closely identified with Acheson's policies, such as Philip Jessup, ambassador at large, and the policy planning chief, Paul Nitze.

Abroad 72 ambassadors and ministers head U.S. diplomatic missions. Of those, department officials said today, approximately 50 are career foreign service officers and the rest are political appointees.

SEE MANY CHANGES

Many changes in foreign posts are expected to be worked out by the Eisenhower administration. Speculation is that he will accept resignations of all the political appointees including such ambassadors as Walter S. Gifford in Britain and William O'Dwyer in Mexico.

The big question in the department is what will happen to two career diplomats who have been assailed by various Republicans in congress. They are John Paton Davies, now attached to the diplomatic staff in Germany, and John Carter Vincent, diplomatic agent and minister in Tangier.

Both men are identified with China policy prior to the loss of China to the Communists. Both have been repeatedly investigated by the state department's loyalty and security board. Both have their clearances pending for review.

Chinese Nationalists Report New Revolt

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist sources said today 21,000 Chinese revolted against the mainland Communists six weeks ago, temporarily captured three towns, killed 3,000 Communists and burned 1,000 homes.

The report came from Tatao news agency, which operates under the Ministry of the Interior. The Ministry claims to have good underground contacts in Red China but such reports are impossible to confirm here.

The agency said the revolt, in northwest China, was the biggest since the Reds over-ran the country in 1949. Red reinforcements recaptured the towns.

Southern Group In House Likes Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower probably could count today on a friendly Congress to underwrite the domestic and foreign policy changes given the green light by the volcanic eruption of votes that gave him the United States presidency. It was not so much that the Republicans had gained practical control of both Houses as a result of the general's landslide victory. The friendliness of Congress — Republican by only one vote in the Senate and thus far by only two votes in the House of Representatives — lay in the warmth of regard for the general shared by Southern Democrats in the coalition with Republicans which has controlled legislation for the last four years.

This coalition rode intact through the greatest country-wide sweep ever made by a presidential candidate, a 39-state popular-vote total rolled up by the general who turned politician only last spring.

CLOSER TO IKE

Although most of the Southeners publicly supported Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, there was little doubt that many of them felt more closely aligned with Eisenhower's views on domestic problems than to those of the Democratic nominee. Thus they could be expected to provide the margin of support needed to push through legislation which might be opposed by many Northern Democrats and a few Republicans from that area.

Eisenhower's views on foreign policy have paralleled on major issues those advocated by the Truman administration and approved —sometimes reluctantly—by Congress.

He will find strong support from both Southern Democrats and the Republicans in the controlling coalition for additional emphasis on Far Eastern policy—including Korea—and for cutting down and revising aid to Europe.

DOMESTIC ISSUES TEST

It is on domestic issues, outside of his announced intention to clean out communism and corruption in Washington, that Eisenhower will face his greatest test in congress. Perhaps the general's program on that score was best spelled out when he met with Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio in New York in September. Taft said then he couldn't agree with all of Eisenhower's foreign policy views, but insisted their differences were only on degrees.

Taft said in a statement which Eisenhower endorsed that there must be a reduction in federal spending and taxes.

Taft said in Cincinnati Wednesday that the tremendous majority given to Eisenhower "show the determination of the people to restore a government believing in American principles of liberty as opposed to the growing bureaucracy, spending and taxation of the so-called Fair Deal."

TO HELP DRAFT BUDGET

The president-elect has agreed to send a representative to sit in with President Truman's experts in the drafting of the budget to be submitted to Congress next January. This budget will have much to do with any possible reduction in taxes.

Taft, who will be the actual if not nominal leader of the Republicans in the Senate, has said the budget ought to be cut from $79,000,000,000 this year back to $70,000,000,000 in the next year, with a goal of $60,000,000,000 the following year.

He and Eisenhower agreed, Taft said, that there should be some amendments to the controversial Taft-Hartley labor law, but that its "basic principles" were sound.

Forthcoming appointments—plus plans for this trip to Korea—were occupying some of the president-elect's time as he golfed and fished at Augusta, Ga.

It was cabinet picking time—the first for any Republican in 24 years —and Eisenhower had a wealth of material.

CABINET PROSPECTS

Among cabinet prospects could be listed Governors Thomas Dewey or New York, Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, Earl Warren of California, Edward F. Arn of Kansas and Dan Thornton of Colorado; Senators Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., defeated for re-election in Massachusetts, Frank Carlson of Kansas, Fred Seaton of Nebraska, James Duff of Pennsylvania; John Foster Dules, former state department adviser; Paul G. Hoffman, former Marshall Plan director; retired Summerfield.

Eisenhower had an invitation—yet to be acted upon—to sit down with Truman for consultations which Truman said would demonstrate to the world that "our people are united in the struggle for freedom and peace."

There were indications that Eisenhower may take Truman up on his invitation before the end of the year.

Rev. D. Demille Dies In Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Rev. Donald W. Demille, minister of Chalmers United church since 1947 and well-known in Windsor community affairs, died early today at Victoria hospital, London, Ont.

Mr. Demille, who was 45, had been a patient at the London hospital since early September.

A veteran of overseas service with the Canadian chaplaincy service, he had also served as chaplain of the Essex Scottish Regiment since 1949. He had been president of the family service bureau since its foundation.

Mr. Demille was born in Roblin, the son of the Rev. C. W. Demille and Mrs. Demille. His father, now retired and living in Toronto, has been supplying in the pulpit of Chalmers church since the son fell ill.

ENLISTED AS CAPTAIN

When World War II broke out, Mr. Demille was serving as pastor of Dundas Street United church in Woodstock. He enlisted as a chaplain in the Canadian Army on February 12, 1943.

After almost two years of service after the war in his old charge in Woodstock, Mr. Demille accepted a call to Chalmers United church.

Besides his wife and parents, he is survived by two brothers, Robert and John, both of Toronto, and one sister, Ruth.

Burial will be in Brighton where Mr. Demille lived as a boy.

Admiralty Praises Canadian Destroyer

LONDON (Reuters).—The Admiralty Wednesday credited the Canadian destroyer Nootka with blasting a Communist gun position on the Korean mainland.

The Communists had been firing at an adjacent island when the Nootka "came to the rescue with such accurate gunnery that four out of six shells scored direct hits on the gun position and caused a big explosion in a cave," the Admiralty said.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office in Toronto at 9:30 a.m.

Synopsis:

The pleasant fall weather which covered all of Canada and the United States a few days ago has pushed far to the south as colder air moved down from the polar regions. The storm which dragged most of this cold air southward is now moving slowly eastward into northwestern Quebec this morning. Strong west and northwesterly winds continue to sweep across Ontario bringing showers and cooler temperatures. The showers will turn to snowflurries as the temperature drops to freezing. Although the snowbelt area south of Lake Huron may expect one or two inches of snow tonight and early Friday, only light flurries will occur in other Lower Lakes regions. Snow will continue most of today in Northern Ontario but will end on Friday.

Temperatures will remain nearly steady today in most of Ontario and will be 5 to 10 degrees cooler on Friday.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Friday:

Lake Erie, Lake Ontario, Niagara regions; Windsor, Toronto and Hamilton cities: Cloudy, clearing Friday afternoon. Continuing cool. A few showers today, a few snowflurries tonight. Winds west 20 today, northwest 15 tonight, northwest 20 Friday. Low tonight and high Friday at Windsor, St. Thomas, Toronto, St. Catharines and Hamilton 32 and 40, Trenton 32 and 35. Summary for Friday—Mostly cloudy. Continuing cool.

Northern Georgian Bay, Haliburton, Kirkland Lake regions, Sudbury and North Bay cities: Cloudy and continuing cool today and Friday. A few showers today. Light snow tonight, becoming snowflurries Friday. Winds west 15 today, northwest 15 tonight and Friday. Admits Broke Window

Jack Morgan, 38, 249 Stewart St., pleaded guilty to wilfully damaging a window Wednesday night.

Alfred Tully testified Morgan had been a roomer at his house and broke the window during an argument over rent he said Morgan owed.

Morgan was fined $10, and $5.50 costs and ordered to pay Tully $4.25 to repair the window, or spend the next 15 days in jail.

R.C.A.F. Officers Bear Cadet To His Grave

Nearly 250 people Wednesday afternoon attended the funeral at the Comstock funeral home of 21-year-old Flight Cadet Garth B. Jopling who was killed Thursday in an R.C.A.F. training flight accident.

It was a semi-military funeral with the pallbearers being six commissioned officers, wearing their service medals, from the R.C.A.F. base at Trenton. At the graveside in Little Lake cemetery an R.C.A.F. bugler played the Last Post.

KILLED IN CRASH

Flight Cadet Jopling, son of Mrs. Madeline Jopling of 380 Armstrong Drive, was killed, together with an instructor, when his training aircraft crashed into a field near the Claresholm base, some 75 miles south of Calgary.

Those who attended the funeral included students who had known Flight Cadet Jopling at P.C.V.S., teachers, friends he had made in Peterborough sporting circles, business men, close friends and relatives.

The Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church said that this world is a "natural jungle" but God has put order into it: the means of law enforcement.

These law enforcement agencies operate both inside and outside a country. And Mr. Boyd said that when Flight Cadet Jopling had "given his life" it was while maintaining God's order.

"We come here to lay away with reverent hands this young man who gave himself into the services of his Queen and Country," said Mr. Boyd. "He gave his life freely and . . . we can give thanks for his sacrifice."

The casket was borne from the funeral home by the six R.C.A.F. officers. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

IDENTICAL PRICES

"Documentary evidence," said Mr. MacDonald, "indicated substantially identical prices and practices among the mills, and among the merchants in the five different regions—Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario, Prairies (where prices varied uniformly from province to province) and British Columbia."

At one stage, he found a compilation of common prices in a publication called the Book and Writing Schedule. He found agreement on such side issues as finishing charges and packing differentials.

Mr. MacDonald said he found "the existence of a so-called 'loyalty discount' which was given by the mills, under joint arrangement, to the merchants and certain other customers on the stated condition that they import no papers which the mills ordinarily made." This discount was about five per cent.

QUANTITY DISCOUNT

He also claimed existence of a "quantity discount" under joint arrangement and other evidence indicating the mills and merchants were interested in supporting uniformity in over-all prices

The fine paper wholesale trade had seen comparatively few new entrants during the period covered by the investigation."

Mr. MacDonald noted that the wholesale trade was almost exclusively in the hands of members of the Canadian Paper Trade Association. In 1950 it had 36 members, including seven affiliates. Between 1935 and 1941, only three new members were admitted.

12 Forest Fires Being Put Out

TORONTO (CP) — Twelve forest fires are being extinguished throughout Ontario today, the department of lands and forests reports.

Six fires are burning in the Quinte district, two in the Algonquin district and four in the Trent fire district. Two fires have been extinguished during the last 24 hours, and the fire hazard is considered normal for this time of year.

Charged May Have Broken Man's Neck

Isaac Taylor, one of two men charged with assaulting Clayton McCue, occasioning him bodily harm, appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp.

The other man, Irving McCue, has not yet been arrested.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw asked for bail of $2,000. He said Clayton McCue was seriously injured as a result of a beating he received on October 30, and it is believed he may have a broken neck.

But 11 members of the Republican "class of 1946"—prominent in the last Republican Senate victory —survived. They included Senators Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin and William E. Jenner of Indiana, who drew heavy Democratic fire during the campaign.

Four Democratic senators also were overturned—Ernest McFarland of Arizona, the majority leader; the veteran Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming; William Benton of Connecticut and Thomas Underwood of Kentucky.

Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, top-ranking Republican for seniority, will become a key figure in the new Republican majority. He can become the majority leader and also can have his choice of the chairmanship of either the appropriations or armed services committees.

Senator Robert A. Taft, who lost the Republican nomination to Eisenhower, could take over either the tax-writing finance committee or the labor and public welfare committee.

Stock Market Prices Slip On Exchange

Volume for the first three hours totalled 771,000 shares.

Western oils declined, Souris Valley recording one of the few small gains. Losses ranged to about 40 cents with Dome Exploration, Federated, Home and Pacific among the losers.

Base metals traded lightly for a wide majority of losses. Consolidated Smelters dropped more than $1 in the first three hours and International Nickel and United Asbestos lost smaller amounts. International Nickel Pr. and East Sullivan gained.

Utilities and Papers led the industrials decline. Steels slipped. Foods were strong and banks held firm.

All golds lost strength in scattered trading. East Malartic led juniors downward and, among the prospects, Gunnar dropped pennies and Placer slipped.

Mysterious Death

WALLACEBURG (CP) — Mystery surrounds the death of Jean Mather, 35, whose body was found early today in a hotel room. The body was discovered by hotel attendants who called a doctor.

Child 3, Left In Hospital Police Can't Find Father

OTTAWA —(CP) — A police search has failed to find the father—or any other relatives—of a three-year-old girl who has been in hospital here since Oct. 8.

The frail child, believed to be Mildred Hall, aged about three, was brought to the Civic Hospital by her father. She has been cured of her ailment and ready to go home since Oct. 28—but her father has not been seen since she was admitted.

At the hospital, the man gave his name as Raymond P. Hall, of Cornwall district. He said he worked for the Canadian National Railways.

Letters to that address have been returned marked "addressee unknown". The C.N.R. said it has never heard of him. He left his Ottawa hotel the day after the girl entered hospital.

During the child's stay in hospital, she has not been visited by anyone.

Police, called in yesterday to investigate, learned that a man carrying an ailing girl registered in a lower town hotel Otc. 8. He called a doctor, who had the girl transferred to hospital. The man checked out next day, leaving no forwarding address.

Heavier Fines For Leaving Accident Scenes

Magistrate W. R. Philp warned today that heavier penalties will be imposed from now on when a hit-run motorist is convicted of leaving the scene of an accident.

Commenting that there were "a lot of charges" of leaving the scene of an accident lately, the Magistrate said. "In future we will have to increase the penalty, I regard it as a very serious offence. There is very little to be said for anyone who leaves the scene of an accident."

The Magistrate served notice that anyone convicted of driving off after an accident will be severely dealt with, after Clare McGill, 2 Leahy's Lane pleaded guilty to two Highway Traffic Act charges.

McGill was fined a total of $40, including costs. He pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident on George St., the night of October 18 and also to a careless driving charge.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said McGill was driving south on George St., and struck a parked car, knocking it over the curb, then drove away. He said McGill had paid the damage to the other car.

Israeli Head Sends Cables, No Favorites

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Prime Minister David Ben Gurion today sent congratulatory cables to Washington and Moscow—one saluting Dwight D. Eisenhower's presidential victory, the other thanking Marshal Stalin for the "support" he has given Israel.

The telegram to Eisenhower said he had "conducted with courage, wisdom and success the crusade against the most foul and criminal tyranny that ever darkened the annals of mankind."

It congratulated him for his "profound humanity and penetrating insight" in dealing with the postwar problem of displaced persons and victims of Nazi persecution, and concluded with a prayer that he would be able to consolidate world peace.

In a cable to Stalin on the anniversary of the October revolution, Ben Gurion said: "In this period of development of our historic fatherland, we remember the part of the Soviet Union in defeating our nazi enemy, and our gratitude for the Soviet Union's support of Israel since her birth."

The premier concluded: "Let happiness and prosperity come to the peoples of the Soviet Union and lasting peace reign over the world."

CHICAGO WHEAT

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat maintained a firm undertone but most other grains were slightly easier at the opening today.

Dry weather continued as a major factor in wheat. Fairly heavy marketings of cash corn and reports Canadian oats were moving into the East depressed feed grain.

Wheat started unchanged to ¼ cent higher, December $2.36¾-⅞; corn was unchanged to ¼ lower, December $1.65¾, and oats were unchanged to ¼ lower. December 88⅜-¼. Soybeans were ¾ cent lower to ¼ higher, November 2.95 ¼-½.

Ottawa Expects US Attitude Same

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent was reported authoritatively yesterday to feel the Eisenhower triumph will not materially alter the course of Canadian-American relations. But he also is reported sharing Ottawa hopes that a number of important developments are in the wind now that the U.S. election is over. Mr. St. Laurent is understood to hope that the U.S. will lift the ban on imports of Canadian meat and livestock "very soon" thus reopening the American market to producers who have been shut off from it more than nine months because of the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak.

His cabinet also is understood to be pleased with the U.S state department's reaction to Canada's election-day note which said, in effect, that the old 1941 agreement for joint development of the St. Lawrence seaway has been superseded.

AWAITS U.S. STEP

As a result, there's hope here now that something will be done soon to name an American authority—possibly the State of New York—to co-operate with Canada on construction of the power phase of the seaway project.

In Washington, information officer Michael J. McDermott of the state department, said Canada should receive full co-operation from the United States in its present seaway plans.

Canada's note made clear that Canada now considers that the 1941 agreement embracing a similar joint development of the navigation phase of the seaway is dead and that she will go ahead alone. If the question of joint action on this second phase is raised anew, officials said, it will have to be the U.S. which takes the initiative.

The cabinet met yesterday for its regular mid-week session amid widespread Parliament Hill speculation about the effects of the rout of the Democratic government that has run the United States for 20 years—and, in doing so, has brought Canadian-U.S. co-operation and relations to unprecedented levels.

Beyond a seaway discussion, there was no sign that the cabinet either launched or plans any full-dress study of the effects of the return of the Republicans although ministers have discussed them at length informally. Informed Mrs. Tillson advises light pastel vernment will quite likely handle issues as they arise rather than trying to anticipate any broad pattern.

Manslaughter Charge Laid Against Driver

COLLINGWOOD (CP) — Henry White, Collingwood shipyard worker, today was charged with manslaughter, dangerous driving and careless driving as the result of an accident last Friday night on the eastern outskirts of Collingwood.

Mrs. Loretta Stewart, 55, of Toronto died of injuries suffered when White's car crashed into the rear of a parked transport, police said.

The charges were read to White as he lay in a hospital bed here with two broken collar bones and chest injuries.

The driver of the transport truck had stopped to give aid at a previous accident scene.

Given Extra Year On Car Theft Charge

OTTAWA (CP)—Owen C. Dulmage, 30, of Ottawa, today was sentenced to one year definite and one month indeterminate in reformatory on a charge of car theft.

Dulmage also was ordered to serve the six-month unexpired portion of the term imposed last year when convicted of having custody of a young Kingston boy without his parents' consent. He served one year of the term and was paroled last June.

He was arrested here Oct. 8 after a highway chase by R.C.M.P. constables.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The American dollar was at a discount of three per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Wednesday's noon rate was 96 29-32 cents. The pound sterling was $2.71 11-16, against $2.71⅜ on Wednesday.

Order 2 Men Stand Trial For High-Grading

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP)—Magistrate Felix Allard yesterday ordered Romuald Laflamme and Paul Plouffe to stand trial at criminal assizes next September on charges of high-grading.

Judge Allard also directed that a charge of conspiracy be laid against the two men and Maurice Davignon, caretaker of Val d'Or's post office.

Plouffe already faces trial at the next assizes at Amos, Que., on a charge of purchasing gold bullion stolen from the East Malartic mines at Malartic, Que.

Plouffe, who describes himself as an aviator, and Laflamme, a well-to-do business man of nearby Bourlamaque, were arrested Sept. 5 last on a complaint by Rodolphe Paterson, 44, Val d'Or postmaster.

Paterson, main witness in the crown's case, testified at preliminary hearing he saw Laflamme, Plouffe and two other men—presumably from Timmins, Ont.—in the basement of the post office building early Sept. 5. He said he saw their refining equipment, found out how they had entered the building, ordered them out and reported the incident to the R.C.M.P. No action was taken against the two other men who apparently did not figure in the case.

Baby Contest 275 Entries

Some 275 babies have passed the first hurdle of the Baby Show sponsored by the Loyal Order of Moose, Peterborough lodge Health examinations took place last week where some 300 youngsters were checked. Babies rating ninety per cent. or over in health will be eligible to compete in the Baby Beauty Judging to be held Friday, November 7, at the Knight of Columbus Hall, Simcoe St.

At the preliminary beauty judging, the babies will be judged on (1) hair and shape of head; (2) eyes, (3) personality, (4) physical form and posture, and (5) facial features and complexion. Babies will be divided into six age classes: Under six months, six months to one year, one year to eighteen month, eighteen months to two years, two to three years, three to four and four to five. There will be five judges that will select the prettiest little girl and the handsomest boy baby from these different age classes. The winners selected by the judges will receive first place beauty cups and will go on to compete for the titles of Miss and Master Peterborough the night of the coronation pageant. Miss and Master Peterborough will receive large statuettes and will be the very top beauty winners of the show.

Also scheduled for presentation of awards the night of the pageant are the kings, queens, princes, princesses, dukes and duchesses and other court members of the royalty division.

The date of the Coronation Pageant has been postponed to November 13.

Fear New Cobourg School Too Small To Take Overflow

COBOURG (ENS) — Cobourg's new east end public school, which is to cost over $200,000 when completed, may not be big enough to take care of the overflow of pupils in the local public school system, the school board was told last night.

Ordnance depot officials have informed principal Grant Sine that new families coming here in connection with the depot would mean that at least 92 new pupils would be enrolling before the next school year starts.

This figure includes neither kindergarten pupils nor children of families engaged in construction work at the depot, or families that might move in because of work to be obtained out at the depot. The 92 figure applies only to ordnance depot personnel.

The board has authority from the Municipal Board only to proceed with a school the size of the one at present under construction, but the matter will be taken up with the town council.

A sick leave and retirement plan has been approved by the public school board and will come into effect as of September 1, 1952. The scheme provides five days sick leave a year for each year of service prior to 1946 at which time teacher attendance records came into effect, and in addition 50 per cent of all unused statutory days from Sept. 1, 1946 to June 29th, 1952, up to a maximum of 150 days. Sick leave benefits will be limited to a maximum of 200 days and these will be acquired on a basis of 50 per cent of the unused portion of sick leave days allowed per years. Teachers get 20 days a year sick leave.

A teacher with 10 years' service would be paid 20 per cent of the unexpended portion of sick leave credits at the rate of $8 a day. For each additional year of service over 10 years, an extra two per cent would be allowed up to a maximum of 50 per cent. To qualify a teacher must retire by reason of age, health or superannuation. Teachers resigning to get married, or to take another position, or those dismissed, do not qualify.

MAJOR JACK PETERSON was mentioned in dispatches for his service in Korea. Major Peterson was a former reporter on the Examiner and later mayor of St. Thomas.

Eight Per Cent Boost For Hydro In Cobourg

COBOURG (ENS) — An eight per cent boost in electric rates will likely come into effect on January 1, next year as a result of the increase in power costs, it is revealed by the Cobourg Public Utilities Commission. Starting the first of next year, the local utilities will pay approximately $1,000 a month more for their power. This represents an increase of $3.50 per kilowatt hour, bringing the price up to $44.50 per kwh.

Present New Contract For P.U.C. Employees

COBOURG (ENS)—New proposed contract to replace the one which expires December 1, has been presented by the employees of the Cobourg Public Utilities for consideration by the commission.

The new contract asks for an across-the-board increase of 25 cents an hour. In addition the contract asks for the incorporation of the present cost-of-living bonus into the basic wage rate with an escalator clause providing for a new cost-of-living bonus. The commission will meet the union representatives in the near future to discuss the new contract.

AWARDED D.S.O.—Maj. Victor W. Jewkes, of St. John's, Que., has been awarded the Distinguished Service Order for gallantry and leadership while commanding the armored squadron of the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry in Korea. Maj. Jewkes was one of 21 men decorated in the army's longest awards list of the Korean war.

Bread Left At Door Man's Body Found

Uncollected bread led to the discovery of the body of Charles J. Porter, near Cadmus in Cartwright township, about 23 miles northeast of Oshawa.

A Lindsay baker's delivery man noticed that the bread he had previously left at the home of Mr. Porter had not been used.

Neighbors were contacted and they saw through a window Mr. Porter's body in a bedroom.

Coroner Dr. J. McArthur of Blackstock was called. He reported that Porter, who lived alone, had apparently died more than a week before of a heart attack.

Hold Masquerade

BONAR LAW (ENS) — St. Mark's Sunday school staged a Hallowe'en masquerade Monday night in the parish hall. Nearly 100 were present. Charles Willman was chairman, Mrs. W. J. Barlow, Mrs. Charles Philips, Everitt Heath and Harold Trowse were the judges for the various groups in costume. Mr. Peter Reaper, dressed as a Dutch lady with her wooden shoes, was very attractive, and sang a solo in Dutch language. Canon J. M. Brownlie was in charge of the games.

Mrs. D. A. Lawrence

The funeral for Mrs. David Lawrence, the former Nancy Elizabeth Thompson, 86, of Toronto and formerly of Peterborough was held Wednesday from the Comstock funeral home.

Mrs. Lawrence died Tuesday in St. Joseph's Hospital, Toronto.

Born in New York State, Mrs. Lawrence came to Peterborough at the age of 19. She lived here until 1937 when she moved to Toronto. While in Peterborough, she was a member of St. Luke's Anglican Church and was an active member of the W.A. of that church.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Helen Fulton and Mrs. Amy Rogow and one son, Harold, all of Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. W. McKean of New York State. Her husband, David A. Lawrence, predeceased her in 1933.

The funeral was conducted by Canon W. J. Gilling of St. Luke's Anglican Church. Pallbearers were Fred and Roderick Reid, Gordon Maniece and Will Potter. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

With Afternoon Of Golf Eisenhower Starts Holiday

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gen. Dwight Eisenhower began a 10-day vacation today with a date for golf.

The president-elect put aside for a moment numerous pressing problems. His plans for the day included nothing but an afternoon round of golf at the National Golf Club where he is staying. His schedule so far embraces more of the same plus some fishing and a complete rest.

Eisenhower flew here from New York Wednesday.

Two communications from President Truman were addressed to him and he replied immediately to one of them. Aides said he was drafting an answer to the second.

WORLD PEACE TALK?

Truman proposed an early discussion at the White House on the problem of world peace. In the earlier message he reminded Eisenhower that the next national budget is being prepared and suggested that Eisenhower have a representative confer with the director of the budget.

The general replied before leaving New York: "I shall try to arrange within the next two or three days to have a personal representative to sit with the director."

Eisenhower's staff officers were silent on the president's proposal for a discussion of peace problems. His personal idea for a beginning is to go to Korea himself to study the situation there and search for a solution.

Meanwhile, the general is simply taking it easy.

A Form Of Municipal Conservation

For the past eight years this newspaper has published editorials from time to time which have urged the necessity for conservation of the considerable quantities of valuable organic matter which every municipality provides either as garbage or sewage. We have not made any appreciable impression with our articles on this subject but we are by no means discouraged; we have not yet begun, and we do not consider it likely that what we have to say will be taken seriously for at least another generation. We reckon that another twenty-five years will pass before there is any widespread recognition of the folly of taking vital elements from the earth, passing them through the human body, and then washing them away to sea, or burning them in huge incinerators. Meanwhile we are encouraged by signs that this problem is being recognized and dealt with, even on a small scale.

* * *

For two years Toronto has been composting the leaves which it collects from its streets in the autumn, and selling the resultant leaf-mould as a dressing for lawns and gardens. The sales up to the present have amounted to $5,000, and it is hoped that this will be greatly increased when Toronto has a stockpile of 50,000 tons of leaf-mould. Now this is conservation as we like to see it. Every amateur gardener knows that leaf-mould is easy to make and of great value once it is made. But not every gardener has the place in which to put his mould pit, and many are glad to buy mould at a reasonable price. A municipal supply of mould can also be used effectively and cheaply on municipal parks and gardens. Burning autumn leaves is wasteful when they may be used for enriching soil and beautifying gardens. Toronto is to be congratulated on a conservation move which could be widely copied.

* * *

The problem of conserving sewage and garbage, and turning it into dry organic fertilizer is a more complex one, but trivial in comparison with the systems we employ to provide our municipalities with water or electric power. We hope to see the day when every municipality has a sewage-plant capable of performing this task, so that the vital elements which are taken from the soil may be returned to the soil for its betterment. Our present system of wasting hundreds of thousands of tons of organic matter, and fouling our watercourses with sewage, is medieval in principle, however ingenious it may be in practice, and the sooner we wake up to what we are doing, the sooner we can begin an intelligent and extensive program of conservation.

Indestructible Textiles

We have read with interest a letter written to an English newspaper by a Mr. Rooke-Lay, of Surrey; he says that he owns a coat made in 1865 for his father from Welsh Frieze, a kind of heavy tweed; "Even after 87 years of use it is still an indispensable part of my wardrobe," he writes. Interesting though this is, it is not a record for long-wearing cloth. We have seen lengths of woollen cloth in Scotland, woven in the familiar "shepherd's plaid," which date from the eighteenth century, and are still in excellent condition.

Such cloth is not manufactured now, and we cannot say that we regret it. Novelty in clothing is pleasant, and most people, we imagine, are tired of a garb [illegible] years. But anyone who is interest in the history of clothing, and who has visited a few exhibitions of historic costumes, must have marvelled at the superb materials which used to be made into garments; such silks and velvets are not to be found now, and even our leather, owing to changes in methods of tanning, is not as durable as leather used to be. Nor is it among the more expensive materials alone that this superb quality is to be observed: a show of peasant costume from South Africa which was recently on view in New York contained clothes two centuries old in rough linens and cottons which were in first-rate condition.

Modern textiles are not durable, we presume, because people tire of their clothes more quickly than they used to do, and also because durability is hard on the industry. Readers who saw the moving picture The Man In The White Suit will recall the consternation caused in the textile trade by the invention of a material which was not only dirt-resistant but indestructible. We live in a world where waste and destructibility are important economic factors.

Canada Well Satisfied With The Election Results

General Eisenhower's election to the American Presidency is pleasing to Canadians. So would Canadians have been pleased if Governor Stevenson had been chosen by the American people. We do not say this because of a fine impartiality of Canada towards American politics, but because both candidates were known friends to Canada, and unlikely to raise walls or a rumpus against this country.

On the whole, Canada may prefer the Democratic Party's low tariff policy to the Republican tendency to massage American industrialists and businessmen who want their profits protected from foreign (including Canadian) competition, but General Eisenhower is not a typical Republican. His victory was not a triumph for the Republican Party but for General Eisenhower himself. His great name as a plain hero, his honesty and his paternal appeal, rather than the Republican party machine won the hundreds of thousands of independent votes necessary for a Republican win.

It is true that the General called in the Taft old guard and condoned the notorious Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin (who, we are sorry to see, was again elected a senator), but these election tactics need not necessarily be repeated in office. As an Allied General, Eisenhower knew how to choose his advisors and when to take and when to refuse counsel. He is a big enough man to control the Republican party and not have it control him.

Another indication that General Eisenhower and not the Republican Party won the election is the composition of the next Congress. In neither Senatorial nor House of Representatives elections was there a clear sweep for Republican candidates.

Seldom in the last hundred years have the two main candidates for the Presidency been of such excellent calibre. The American voters and indeed the whole Western world were fortunate in the two nominees. Governor Stevenson, little known abroad and we suspect only slightly better known generally in the States before his election, showed himself to be exceptionally gifted in mind, word and action. His administrative capacity and statesmanship as Governor of Illinois confirm his fitness for the highest office. He is still a comparatively young man; if he allows his name to stand again, he may yet grace the White House, for a man of grace he is.

One negative and one positive campaign issue, apart from the personality of the General, may have clinched his election. The Republican slogan that it was time for a change did not have full force in the Congressional elections (judging from the results), but it did carry weight against what they called "the mess in Washington." And General Eisenhower's promise to go himself to Korea was a major domestic stroke. The American voters are distressed and disgruntled at having to wage war and send their 'boys' overseas in time of peace; General Eisenhower offered them hope.

We notice with a smile that the public opinion pollsters again failed to gauge the voters' intentions accurately. The Truman victory four years ago so upset them that they cringed this time behind ambiguities, permitting themselves only to guess that the results would be close. They were not close; General Eisenhower won a decisive and a solid majority. Perhaps now the pollsters will retire to the woods for good and engage in predicting the weather and how many fish will bite on one worm.

Breakfast In Bed

A news dispatch from Trieste tells us that U.S. soldiers there who contribute ten dollars to the Army Charity Fund are allowed to have breakfast in bed for a week, and the meal is brought to them by any officer they choose. The result has been a huge increase in the Fund.

Democracy is a wonderful thing, and works in many wonderful ways. We wonder, however, what happens in the mind of a soldier who finds that he can turn his officer into his valet for ten dollars? We wonder how funny he would find it and how [illegible] his Congressman [illegible], if private soldiers were expected to serve breakfast in bed to officers? We wonder if, in a pinch, an officer who has served breakfast in bed to his men (even for a charitable cause) carries quite the same weight as an officer who has never ceased to be an officer? And we wonder, as we have wondered so many times before, why charity is used as an excuse for so much fat-headed nonsense?

NOTES AND COMMENT

An Alabama judge suggests longer courtships. Presumably as a prelude to longer marriages.

A Florida church uses rocking chairs instead of pews. And we presume that the parson takes a seasick pill before going into the pulpit to address that wildly heaving throng.

We read that a skilled bartender can save up to three drinks per bottle by careful pouring. But a careful host can make a quarter of a bottle of rye serve twelve guests by adding a cup of cold tea in the kitchen.

Fleming Found Tears Deadly

By CHARLES DAVY

MOST OF Sir Alexander Fleming's life has been too retiring and uneventful to make a conventional biography, but the story of his career ("Fleming: Discoverer of Penicillin." By L. J. Ludovici) has a curious, ironic pattern, and considerable scientific interest. The discoverer of the most valuable of modern antiseptic drugs was the great opponent of antiseptics in the First World War—or at least of the way in which they were used in hospitals behind the battle-front

"At the beginning of the war in 1914," Fleming has written, "all the old antiseptics were used in military hospitals, in just such a manner as when I started surgery. Carbolic acid, perchloride or biniodide of mercury, boric acid, and hydrogen peroxide were poured into septic wounds once or twice daily, either singly or in mixtures of two or more, according to the fancy of the medical officer."

✧ ✧ ✧

FLEMING BELIEVED—and showed convincingly by laboratory tests—that these drugs were very much more potent in destroying the body's natural germ-killers, the leucocytes in the blood, than in destroying the germs themselves. He fought hard for his case against the obstinate traditionalism of the Army doctors, but it does not appear that he had much success. Many lives might have been saved if Fleming's recommendations—he favoured the use simply of a 5 per cent. salt solution, which stimulated the body's healing agencies—had been widely followed.

✧ ✧ ✧

AFTER THE war Fleming returned to his modest laboratory at St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington: he discovered that certain human secretions, especially tears, were rich in a substance, lysozyme, which was harmless to tissues but deadly to some bacteria. In this sense it was a precursor of penicillin; unfortunately the bacteria it kills best are mostly not those which injure human health.

This line of work had an indirect value in concentrating Fleming's attention on germicidal substances of this kind and in giving him experience in the technique of testing them. Hence he was unconsciously ready for the crucial moment when, in the late summer of 1928, a spore of the mould Penicillium floated in through his laboratory window and settled on a culture of staphylocci, which promptly began to wilt under its influence.

BUT THERE was more irony to come. Fleming was equipped to observe this surprising effect, but not to turn it to practical account. He was a bacteriologist, not a chemist, and he had no chemist on his staff. His efforts to extract from Penicillium its bactericidal factor in a stable, manageable form met with baffling obstacles. The patient Scotsman (he was the son of an Ayrshire farmer) never gave up, but his efforts gained little attention from the medical world.

Eventually the work of extracting penicillin from its parent mould was carried out, early in the Second World War, by the Florey-Chain team at Oxford, and the production of it on a large scale was done mainly in the United States. Twelve years—twelve fruitless years from a medical point of view—had passed since the spore floated in.

✧ ✧ ✧

HOWEVER, there were some compensations. Speaking in America in 1945, Fleming said: "Concentrated penicillin came just when it was so badly needed in the midst of a bloody war. In wartime, production is not limited by economic considerations, and risks in manufacture were taken which, in peace, would have been considered unpardonable. Had it developed in peace I suppose the free exchange of information between manufacturers on both sides of the Atlantic would have been impossible."

✧ ✧ ✧

THE STORY has some bearing on the frequently debated question of how to organize scientific research. "Suppose," Fleming has said, "I had been part of a team at the beginning and was being directed on a certain piece of research which I was engaged on, and the accident happened which led to penicillin. In these circumstances I would have chucked the thing away and gone on with my reasearch. Fortunately I was an individual. That's where a team might have been disastrous."

On the other hand, if a team of bacteriologists and chemists had been there to work with Fleming on the isolation of penicillin, it would probably have begun to save lives after one or two years, instead of twelve. Both ways of research, by independent individuals and by teams, are obviously necessary; there should be no conflict between them.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN THE final chapters of the book, a little more emphasis might have been given to the dangers, now increasingly recognised, of overdoing penicillin. Although it is so kind to tissues, it can, in certain cases, harm sensitive persons, or persons sensitised to it by earlier doses, and not only by creating bacterial resistance to its action.

Fleming himself has always been well aware of these dangers; throughout his medical life, under the stimulus of his first great teacher, Sir Almroth [illegible] drugs as a second-best [illegible] body's natural powers of resistance, and to find ways of stimulating these powers has been his constant aim. The more medicine can learn to do without germ-killing drugs, the better will the discoverer of penicillin be pleased.

Tom Moore Stamp

(Ireland Bulletin)

The Irish Post Office will issue on the 10th November a special stamp to mark the 100th anniversary of the death of the Irish Poet, Thomas Moore.

Moore, who was born in Dublin in 1779, is probably best known for his Irish Melodies in which he set lyrics of great beauty to traditional Irish airs. In his youth, Moore was a close friend of the Irish patriot, Robert Emmett, and one of his songs, She is far from the land, laments Emmet's tragic end.

The stamp will be issued in two denominations, 2½d. wine colour, 3½d. green. Printing is by the recess process, on paper watermarked "E", by Messrs. De La Rue at Clonskeagh, Dublin. This is the first occasion which Irish postage stamps have been printed in Ireland by the recess process.

"First Day" covers will be serviced by the Controller, Philatelic Section, G.P.O., Dublin, provided they are received by him not later than the date of issue. A special "First Day of Issue" mark will be impressed on such covers.

Letters To The Editor

KEEPS AWAY FROM POLLS

Sir: I sincerely hope that in the future we will be allowed to vote as we wish. It has always provoked me to have to vote for an alderman or aldermen whom I did not wish to be elected, in order to vote for the one or two of my choice. In fact, lately I haven't bothered to go to the polls for that reason.

The same thing hold true for my husband. So let's hope for some "liberty" in the future.

Yours,
"VOTER"

HIGH-RIDING DEVILS

Sir: On your editorial page of Nov. 3 issue of Examiner you complain of neckties, forks and rayon cloths, etc., that the armed forces are squandering the people's money on, seemingly by oversized orders. However I am very much surprised that you should complain at all, for you want a "large standing force." So you quoted in answer to letter I sent about a year ago concerning the fact that no country needs an army at all, just a police force for national and local protection from "within" and not "without."

I ask you and anyone else for that matter, how can any outside nation sneak up on you with jet planes if they haven't any; battleships of they haven't any or any other "lousy contraption" if they haven't the "contraption." Neither would there be truce bickering, no troubles over P.O.W. future status.

So Mr. Editor when you're beefing in future about 48c on the dollar being spent for destruction, not protection, think of the fact that most people do not want any part of it but at the moment the cost is fousted on most nations by a group of devils who are still riding high. The proof that well armed nations ultimately engage in war should be only too vivid in the memories of anyone of 20 years or over without requiring any "wait and see slogan." The proof nations without large armies do not war is one logical point that hasn't been tried yet but which to my mind is the only sound requirement for peace and a stabilized society of peoples the world over.

"MUDDLES".

(Ed. Note: This writer's memory must be at fault; certainly we have no record of ever having said in answer to him or anybody else that we want a large standing army.)

ON THE FARM

Sir. That news story from Ethelton, Sask., caught this Westerner's fancy. I thought I should write in and say that I agree heartily with that opening note, intimating that "Mrs. Nancy Adams" (only woman member of a Saskatchewan Royal Commission to investigate agricultural problems in that province) "thinks it's high time someone started to point out the advantages of living on a farm".

For my own part, I have long felt that the nation as a whole is inclined to forget, not alone the basic function of Agriculture to the economic and social structure of Canada, but, also, the fact that 'the rural woman' plays a vital and indispensable role in the productivity of the nation's farms? Without her endless activities, Jack Canuck's immense farm tonnage would wither fast; and yet, when the statistical experts survey the rural work scene, they come up with the fact that "there are 1,045,000 gainfully-employed Canadians on the farms"—while the 937,000 farm women (without whose endless work, agriculture, and the nation, would nosedive fast) don't rate a mention in the record. Why this one-eyed approach to the farm-work scene?

As one of the farm editors points out only this week, in dealing with a discussion theme (Farm Women In Public Life): Sometimes you hear the remark, "You can't tell a farm woman from a city woman these days. She's just as smartly dressed and talks just as well." Our grandmothers spent a lot of their time churning butter, rubbing clothes on a washboard, baking bread, and milking cows. Today, many farm women have electric washing machines and irons. They don't make butter or bread. And the men look after the milking-machines. In most cases, too, families are smaller than in the old days."

On the other hand, as regards the number of women in Parliament, in a group of countries, the following list is thought-provoking, in thes days when, as one modern writer puts it, "Women's Place Is Everywhere": Sweden, 27; Finland, 24; Denmark, 23; Great Britain, 21; United States, 9; Canada, 1 M.P. and 2 Senators.

STUDENT

SARCASTIC

Sir: Referring to your editorial of October 30th, "To Plump or Not to Plump" the inference seems to be that, in this instance, the Peterborough Labour Council is to be saddled with the honour of digging up what you seem to find so fat and juicy in the mouth, the word "Plump". I see that the word has taken you by storm, since it or its variant appears in your editorial not less than twelve times. However, as we did not think of it first, in this case, we refuse to accept any of the glory which is due wholly to staff of Examiner. Alone they did it!

For our part, in discussing the question of election procedure in Peterborough Municipal Elections, we were of the opinion that a voter should have the right to vote for those candidates in whom he has confidence and not, possibly, be compelled to vote for a candidate who in his opinion is not suitable.

As for the question of a petition, we have considered this only in the event that law should state that it is necessary.

Certainly logic and democracy are not very apparent in your editorial, since you say of democracy, "but its variety and disorder are its saving grace," and then right away you raise your voice in horror when any change is suggested.

You suggest that it might be reasonable, if other groups had the same idea. You list them, bankers, doctors, teachers, business men or managers.

Let us suppose that our list of minorities decided to pool their efforts, (and I would not dream of saying that they do,) they could form a very powerful pressure group, in which case, our present system of voting would be most satisfactory.

Hoping that this will correct what was possibly a little loose reporting,

Sincerely yours,
EDMUND S. HUMPHREY

(Ed. Note: Oxford Dictionary. Plump: "rounded with sufficient flesh; fatten; deposit or fall or sit abruptly (often with down); avoid splitting one's vote, vote only for one candidate.)

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good. (Rom. 12. 21.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your lust . . . Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded . . . Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up. (James 4: 3, 7, 8, 10.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour: whom resist stedfast in the faith, knowing that the same afflictions are accomplished in your brethren that are in the world.

But the God of all grace, who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you. To him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen. (1 Pet. 5: 8-11.)

Traffic Patrol In The Dark Hours

(Ottawa Citizen)

Ottawa's police officials have recommended to the Board of Police Commissioners that a night traffic patrol be organized. The request merits the most sympathetic treatment. Traffic violations and accidents occur frequently between 6 p.m. and 8 a.m. Raised headlights, use of the wrong side of the road, disregard of "Stop" signs, and impaired drivers are all common enough to Ottawa night traffic. Yet as far as this newspaper is aware, Ottawa is the only major city in North America without a night traffic patrol.

German POW Escped In UK Joined And Served In RAF

DUBLIN (Reuters)—A German now living here disclosed how he escaped from a wartime prison camp in Britain and joined the R.A.F. posing as an Irishman.

Leo Dalderup, 28, now living under the adopted name of George Winston Gallagher, said he had written a voluntary confession of his secret to R.A.F. authorities.

They confirmed the story in London.

"I decided to make my exploit public in order to show how spies and saboteurs could fool the defence authorities," said Dalderup, who now works in a Dublin store and is married to an Irish girl.

Dalderup said he was captured by Allied troops in November, 1944, and brought to Britain. In August, 1946, he escaped and stowed away to Dublin.

In October, 1947, Dalderup walked into a registry office, said he was Gallagher and got a birth certificate.

With the birth certificate "Gallagher" then joined the R.A.F.

He served at 13 different R.A.F. stations, among them advanced radar stations and jet plane depots.

"I picked up a lot of information about the location of atom bombs and about the British and American air forces," he said.

He later got his discharge in the ordinary way.

Millbrook W.A. Plans November Tea, Bazaar

MILLBROOK (ENS)—The town group of St. Andrew's United Church Women's Association met at the home of the Misses Clarry on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. C. Fisher, the president, opened the meeting with a poem.

Miss Gertrude Clarry was in charge of the devotional period, which had as its theme "Self-discipline." Notes of thanks were read for boxes sent at Thanksgiving to sick and shut-ins. It was announced that afternoon tea would be served at the home of Mrs. John McKnight, president of the W.A., on Friday.

It was announced also that the annual meeting would be held in December at the home of Mrs. H. J. Armstrong.

Mrs. Arthur Fallis gave a reading and Elinore Crowley also entertained with readings. Tea hostesses were Mrs. John Barringer, Mrs. Arthur Fallis and Mrs. John McKnight.

Changes Format

MONTREAL (CP)—Le Canada, French-Language newspaper of the Liberal party in Quebec province, announced yesterday it will adopt tabloid format next Monday. The daily paper, published eight-column size since 1903 when it was founded, said the change is being made at the request of readers.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Football fans around town are still talking of last Saturday's game in Morrow Park, when Orfuns beat Hamilton Panthers by 15 points. It was a fine playoff, producing first-class football, and close enough till the last quarter. It would be nice if a lot of these grid followers took in the return tilt in Hamilton on Saturday as Orfuns go after the provincial intermediate "A" title. It always encourages a team to have plenty of vocal support on a foreign field. Saturday's winner goes into eastern finals the following weekend against the Ottawa-Montreal victor. Orfuns expect to present that production to a home audience on Nov. 15. Canadian final is in Winnipeg Nov. 22.

This item is clipped from the Brantford paper: "An unknown writer in an article in a recent sports magazine was evidently an umpire. In stating the case for the arbiter he wrote: 'I'm tired of being the whipping boy for incompetent players, short-tempered managers, and ill-informed fans who are misplacing their sympathies. I'm sick of being a sitting duck for bad jokes told in poor taste by some biased writers and radio commentators who don't know a ball from a strike. I rebel at being pointed out as the reason a disgruntled manager's wife didn't get her new mink. I resent being a TV target and an ingredient in Laraine Day's recipe for whipping up a rhubarb to spice her program'."

Forms the Aces A. C.

Angus Bradley has been associated with minor hockey here for quite a few years. The last two seasons he has operated the Martin-Hewitt midgets in the P.M.H.A. and that team won the city title last winter, the Eastern Ontario championship and only bowed out in O.M.H.A. semi-finals, winning 20 of 22 games. One lad, Bob Gardner, is still young enough for midget but has stepped up to the junior Oddfellows. Angus has now started a club known as the Aces A. C. with the boys forming the executive along with an advisory committee. Officers are: President, Stew Brooks; vice-prexy, Bill Godfrey; secretary, Lloyd Mongraw, and treasurer, Don Masterson. Juve and midget teams are picked and the bantams will be soon for hockey, the boys being coached by Joe Rochetta and Bill Crowley.

Lindsay plays the local Oddfellows at 8:30 Friday night in Civic Arena to open the 1952-53 O.H.A. junior "B" schedule. It runs till the middle of February, with group playoffs following. Kingston and Belleville are the other entries in this Central Ontario hockey setup. The K's go to Bells Villa on Monday to start their season, and Triple Links are away to the Limestone City next Thursday. There'll be a layoff of more than a week around Christmas. Coach Doug Mortimer has a promising pack of husky, young pucksters in the I.O.O.F. camp and some fast and exciting hockey will be dished up by the juniors this semester, beginning here Friday.

Pre-Season Puck Play

T.V.L. pre-season schedule opened last eve in Civic Arena before a fair-sized crowd. Jack Jopling's homebrew Lakefield club surprised quite a few folks by outscoring Red Creighton's Norwood entry 11-7 in the first fixture, latter team having a number of former Eagles aboard. Nightcap saw Jack Harris' Havelock bunch earn a 7-4 triumph over Sheeny Stevenson's crew from Hastings. Play was clean, fast and generally exciting, with good and bad hockey served up to commence the season for these teams. Three of the clubs used a number of Peterborough players in their lineups, but Lakefield stuck to home talent. Rock Batley was the only casualty, getting a gash on the head. Games next Wednesday are: Hastings vs. Norwood, and Lakefield vs. Havelock.

* * * * * *

Always something new seen at the mat bouts. The pro grapplers returned to the Brock last eve and Chief Big Heart came up with a bells-and-feather pre-bout dance, accompanied by his old man on a war drum, before the main scrap. Then he settled down to business and polished off rough Lee Henning in straight falls with a bow-and-arrow hold, forcing the villain to concede. Quite a colorful showing, those head-dresses being really something. Lou Plummer got an unpopular semi-final win o'er Jim Coffield, while the prelim went to a draw between Dick Raines and Jack Pesek. Referee Joe Gollab was highly unpopular with the fans throughout the three-bout wrestling card. Even the Chief wouldn't say "How" to him—just "Ugh!"

Racing Driver Dies

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Joe James, 27-year-old racing driver from Van Nuys, Calif., died late yesterday of injuries suffered when his car cracked up Sunday in a 100-mile championship race here. James suffered a fractured skull when his racer flipped over four times as he was leading on the 47th lap.

MOMENTOUS OCCASIONS during the Lakefield-Norwood T.V.L. hockey opener Wednesday night at Civic Arena were a diving stop by Norwood's Ross Nicholls and a smothering catch by Nicholls, both in the first period. Nicholls, flying through the air (top photo), stretches out for the puck while Lakefield's Murray Patterson attempts to shove it into the open corner. Nicholls was successful in clearing. Meanwhile, Joe Sabatino (4) (lower photo) waits for the rebound off Nicholls' pads but the Norwood goalie smothered it.—(Examiner Photos by Grant).

Lakefield and Havelock Capture First Frays To Open Pre-Season Set

Hockey fans, young and old, had an exciting time at Civic Arena Wednesday night as the four Trent Valley League teams squared off in the first of three twin bills to be played prior to the opening of the regular T.V.L. schedule; these are to condition the teams for the winter grind. Jack Jopling's Lakefield Indians, brightly arrayed in red regalia and looking every inch a potent pack of puck-chasers, took a free-scoring curtain-raiser from Red Creighton's Norwood squad — featuring some former Eagles — by a score of 11-7; while Jack Harris' Havelock Greenshirts, erstwhile Brintons, nosed out Sheeny Stevenson's battling Hastings' squad 7-4 in a ginger-packed struggle from start to finish.

Both games were clean, hard-fought battles unusually fast and spicy for early season play. Only three penalties, one to Indians, marred the first game; and two miscues to the winners alone, [illegible] after one thrilling period of play as Bert Hill, Moon Wootton and Lefty Doris aided by Buckton, Stewart, Crowley and Rochetta respectively, more than offset sparkling thrusts by Dick McCracken from Gord Coyle, and Cam Wasson unassisted. In the mid frame, however, Indians (who boast strictly home brews), burst forth like a spoiled child and whistled pucks past Nicholls like peas through a shooter, to forge well ahead.

RAFT OF GOALS

Doug Hunter from Herb Knox; Tommy Birch, Hunter again, then Coyle from Birch and McCracken, Murray Patterson from Doug Evans and Bob Chittick from John Hockaday, all tallied; with Reg. Stewart from Hill, the only visiting counter.

In the final frame, Norwood came back to play more effective hockey both ways and each team scored thrice. Patterson from Evans, Wasson from Hunter, then Coyle tallied for the visitors, while Crowley from Doris, Gary Robinson from Wootton, and Crowley again from Rochetta, wound it up for the losers in a good two-way battle. The players showed good team play as a whole on either squad for a start.

The second game proved equally fast and though Havelock took a fair lead in the first two frames, Sheeny Stevenson's men came back with great force in the final stanza to almost stem the tide, with a five-goal rally. The victors held however and edged out a well deserved victory.

Lorne Eakins took a neat pass from Ab Caravaggio to open for Havelock midway in the first period after some close two-way action. Then Alfie Griffin took a pass in front of the twine from Buck Legrow three minutes later, after the latter had made one of [illegible] parked the cue behind Rockley. Despite several hard thrusts, the Stevenson gang were unable to dent Gord Byce's armour as the former Oddfellow rose to heights on all attempts. Lennie Williams from Bill Laing and Crowder made it 3-0 late in the frame on a smart backhander from short right wing close in.

A NEAT SOLO

Ab Caravaggie, who played a smart game for the winners, tallied midway in the second frame on a neat solo effort for the only tally of the period as both squads gave it all they had with nice defence work at either end. Rock Batley suffered a bad cut on the head in the second and following intermission, a long third-period of 28 minutes was played.

Grant Burns and Bud McDougall all scored early to put Hastings back in the game then Williams regained one goal from Laing. Stevenson and Blake later tallied but Richlark and Caravaggie neutralized these as play hit a withering pace with little to choose betewen the two teams. Havelock's early margin stood them in good stead and enabled them to win by a tidy margin.

Norwood: Goal, Nicholls; defence Kelly, Tompkins; centre, Hill; wings, Stewart, Buckton; alternates, Crowley, Doris, F. Mortimer, G. Robinson, Rochetta, Wootton, D. Mortimer, Ferguson.

Referee, Scriver; linesman, Joe Blewett.

Caccavella Leads

A. Caccavella rolled an 824 triple and 330 single to lead individuals this week in the Major Bowling League. Odeon's 1363 team single was high as Herb's boasted best pinnage of 3597. The 7-0 victories went to McLeod, Plaza, Herb's, Deeth & White and Selkirk over Examiner, Silents, U.E.W., Brewers and Hollingsworth; as 5-2 wins were taken by Cherney, Irwin-Godson, Clapper, Revenoors, Stude and Edwards from Burtol, Sunshine, E. & B., O.P.P., Wonder and Bickell. Crowley edged Odeon 4-3.

Good scores included: H. Killen (305) 819, A. Basciano (308) 814, D. Abraham (311) 792, R. Parnell (329) 787, J. McKenzie (318) 783, W. Boone 748, W. Harris 744, A. Mattucci 743, B. Hershey Clips Barons 6-1, Tied For 2nd

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears are tied for second spot in the American Hockey League with St. Louis today, thanks to a 6-1 decision over Cleveland Barons Wednesday night.

In the only other game scheduled, last place Syracuse turned back Pittsburgh 5-2.

Providence heads the league with 11 points, one more than Hershey and St. Louis. Pittsburgh and Syracuse trail.

At Hershey, the two teams finished the first period tied 1-1, Bobby Chrystal opening the scoring for the Barons and Arnie Kullman tallying for the Bears.

HERSHEY ALL WAY

From there on it was Hershey all the way. Kullman scored another and Joe Schertzl and Leon Ferguson collected two each.

At Syracuse, the Warriors snapped a six-game losing streak in a game that saw 21 penalties handed out. Wild Bill Ezinicki drew five minors and mixed in a fist fight with Syracuse's Sid McNabney seconds after the game was over.

Armand Lemieux scored twice for Syracuse, others going to Bill Gooden, Harry Pidhirny and Keith Allen. Pittsburgh scorers were Frank Sullivan and Ezinicki.

Bow-And-Arrow Hold Used By Indian Grappler To Win Main Bout Of Card

A professional wrestler with a new hold was unveiled at the Brock Arena last night. He was Chief Big Heart from over Oklahoma way and he won the main bout in straight falls over rough Lee Henning from parts unknown, with his "bow-and-arrow hold." After considerable softening up, it boiled down to an armlock and leglock applied on the helpless opponent from behind, pulling the arm and leg back, with the victorious Chief pushing a foot into his rival's back. In each case, Henning conceded the fall as fans cheered.

The Chief and his drum-beating father staged a pre-bout war dance and they wore ornate headdress. The drum beat warnings and encouragement to the warlike son throughout the two rounds, and had Henning quite unhappy.

REFEREE PANNED

Referee Joe Gollab, of Hamilton, came in for severe panning in every bout on the card as pro wrestling returned to the city after a layoff of about six months. The talkative and gesticulating Joe—bedecked in white shirt, grey trousers and a trim moustache—either forgot the old rules or made up some new ones in his return here. He was in constant hot water with the customers and interfered to damaging extent in some of the scraps.

The 234-pound Chief took the first fall over lumbering Lee Henning, scaling 252, in just 14 minutes. He had bounced back into the ring after being tossed through the hemp to cuff Henning around, clip him with the knee and then slam him hard twice to the floor, finally applying his specialty. Lee used tape on his arm, a hidden rope from his trunks, eye rasps, knees and fists in a typical rough exhibition by him. The Indian was faster and clever, besides being popular, and he drew a big hand with his feathers-and-bell dance and his win.

THE SAME GRIP

The same bow-and-arrow grip turned the trick for the second straight fall in slightly less than 12 minutes. Lee had been giving Big Heart (he had big muscles, too) a real going-over with the disappearing rope, chokes and fists, following an earlier punishing head-scissors by Henning. But the Chief danced angrily about and tore into him once more, using the bull-dogging smash to slow his opponent up, cuffing him a few to the chops and then slamming him several times before tying him up for target practice. It was a fairly lively session, with the angry Lee threatening to crown the Chief's dad with his drum at one time. The fans cheered the Indians at the finish.

Lou Plummer, of Texas, 247, downed Jim Coffield, of Georgia —weighing 227—in 17 minutes of the semi-final with a rolling choke hold that drew the fans' ire, but the referee apparently didn't notice it. Coffield worked hard but generally took a beating from his bigger opponent, the latter throwing plenty of fists while the ref kept stopping Jim when he tried to retaliate in kind. It was a rough stanza most of the way, and the strutting Texan got no hand at the end. He and a fellow Texan, Dick Raines, tried to tell the crowd they were the tag team champions of that state and would wrestle any pair in Canada. However, they were booed down and never did get their message across to the crowd.

SO-SO PRELIM

The prelim between Raines, at 251, and the 230-pound Jack Pesek, of Nebraska, went to a time limit draw. They mixed it briefly and evenly after the bell. Fans had quite a time making up their minds which one to cheer for, as some rough stuff was pulled by both and it was a "cold match" inasmuch as neither had appeared here before. Raines was much rougher as the bout progressed, yanking hair to hold Pesek down and using rope leverage, paying no attention to the inept referee. Gollab got one smash to the jaw as they used their fists but the action generally was fairly even and spotty.

Maple Leafs Grab 4-1 Win From Weak N.Y. Rangers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sparked by veteran Max Bentley, who fired two goals, Toronto Maple Leafs last night grabbed a 4-1 victory from a weak New York Rangers team. The win, before 12,454 fans, moved the Leafs into a 15-point tie with Chicago Black Hawks atop the National Hockey League. The tail-end Rangers have won only one game in 12 encounters.

MIGHT BE DAYS

Doctors said it might be three days before the extent of the injury can be determined. The eye was haemorrhaging badly with its sight temporarily gone.

The injury came at a time when the Rangers were just getting some of their casualties back in shape. Veteran goalie Chuck Rayner, who battled a tide of 31 Toronto shots, was making his first appearance of the season after an early injury.

REISE IS BACK

It was also the first appearance in six games for defenceman Leo Reise and he was far off his regular form.

The Leafs battled through a scoreless first period before rapping in two clever goals while Rangers collected one. The Leafs' other goals came in the third.

Bentley banged in both second-period counters, with Sid Smith and Rudy Migay getting the others. New York's lone goal was by Wally Hergesheimer.

Marlies Lash Oshawa With 9-1 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The fans are still throwing programs in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series when they don't agree with the referee.

A shower of programs in the third period of last night's Marlboro-Oshawa clash didn't keep referee Louis Lecompte from handing Bud Hillman of Oshawa an impressive list of penalties after a brawl with Eric Nesterenko.

The programs didn't stop Marlies from handing the Generals a 9-1 shellacking either. The win put them in a fourth-place tie with Guelph Biltmores, four points behind the league-leading Barrie Flyers.

Flyers get a chance to stretch their margin tonight when they go into action in an interlocking schedule game with Quebec Citadelles. Barrie made a bad start on the tour Tuesday when they lost to Montreal Canadiens 5-2 The Barrie game is the only one in either province tonight.

The Marlies were never in trouble in Oshawa. Wally Maxwell and Dave Reid scored two each for the winners. Singles went to Tom McCarthy, Nesterenko, Billy Harris, Parker MacDonald and John MacDonald. Jack Armstrong scored for Oshawa.

Alouettes Nominate Staton And O'Quinn

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes football club yesterday announced that Jim Staton and John O'Quinn are their nominees for the Jeff Russel trophy and Andre Brunet Als' candidate for the rookie award.

The Jeff Russel trophy goes to the most sportsmanlike player in the Big Four League.

All three are first-year men with Alouettes. Staton and O'Quinn are both products of Wake Forest College in North Carolina. Staton is a 240-pound middle wing, O'Quinn a 205-pound outside and Brunet a halfback, weighing 178.

Sarnia Sailors Knock Off Chatham 5-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

First place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series changed hands last night as a battle of the two top clubs saw Sarnia Sailors knock off Chatham Maroons 5-3.

Sarnia is alone on top for the moment thanks to a surprise win by Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen who took an easy 9-2 decision from Owen Sound Mercurys.

In Hamilton it was a familiar but painful story. Stratford Indians poured it on to win 11-1.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior southern group Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Indians won their first of the season from their neighbors, Sault Ste Marie, Ont., Greyhounds 4-3. The win leaves the Indians still in the cellar but only one point behind the Greyhounds. Sudbury Wolves are on top.

BROOKER GETS THREE

It was the second victory of the season for the Dutchmen against Sailors knock off Chatham Ma scored three for the winners. Al Buchanan tallied twice while other goals went to Bill Mitchell Billy Cupolo, Pierre Cadieux and Maurice Levesque.

Bill McComb and Roy Leckie scored for Owen Sound.

Sarnia's win gave them 10 points and shoved Chatham into a second-place tie with Owen Sound and Stratford. Jim Wilson, Rolly Beauchamp, Mac Beaton, Chuck Glaab and Don Savage scored for Sarnia. Carl Liscombe, Jack Price and Joe Carveth notched goals for Chatham.

Mickey Roth had a good night for Stratford in Hamilton with four goals. George Aitken and Schultz added a pair each while Billy Flick, Dinny Flanagan and Dejordy each got one. Dunnette laced one home for Hamilton in the last period.

FOUR GOAL ATTACK

The Indians staged a four-goal attack in the second period for their win. Laurie Petersen led the way with two markers. Ron Rubic and John Lumley added others. Ron Lay slammed home two for the losing Greyhounds, then Terry Biocchi got a single.

Indians will try their luck against the Trappers at North Bay in the only senior action in the province tonight.

Ford Frick Clears Up Details Of Baseball Rule Proposals

NEW YORK (AP)—Commissioner Ford Frick yesterday cleared up the beclouded details of the radical legislation changes to be presented to the baseball executives for approval at the annual convention in Phoenix, Ariz., next month.

At a press conference, Frick outlined the proposed new bonus law recommended by a committee legislation including changes in the trade and waiver rules.

An important rule change provides for the trading deadline to be extended from June 15 to July 15, after which no player transactions can be made other than by the waiver route. That also includes inter-league exchanges.

After July 15, a club desiring to send a player to another league would first have to obtain waivers from all clubs in both leagues, with the lowest club in the standings getting first crack at him.

He emphasized the bonus proposal was merely a recommendation of the executive council, and must be approved by the executives before it can become law.

Under the proposed rule, the bonus tag is applied to any lad paid in excess of $3,000 by a club in class B, C, or D. This includes salary, except in the case of a major league player, whose minimum salary is $5,000.

A major league bonus player must be retained at least two years before he can be optioned out to the minors. A minor league bonus player cannot be recalled by a major league club for one year and is subject to unrestricted draft. Once he survives this probationary period, he is no longer to be considered a bonus player.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

We were advised early this morning that all seven sheets of ice at the Charlotte St. curling rink will be ready for curling this evening. And the suggestion has come forward that it would be a good idea if the skips or vices would bring their new members down for a couple of hours of instructions. There is no schedule and all ices will be available. The same holds good for Friday evening.

PROGRAM FOR THIS WEEK

Thursday and Friday nights—open for instructions to beginners.

Saturday, 2:00 p.m.—Men's bonspiel. Draw from the board.

Saturday, 7:30 p.m.—Mixed rink bonspiel, Mrs. H. Baptie, convener.

A.A.U. Begins Three-Day Annual Meet

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAMILTON (CP)—The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada starts its three-day annual meeting here today and from pre-session gossip, delegates have left the controversial subjects at home. Everything appears to be hearts and flowers with officials.

Canada's disappointing showing at the Helsinki Olympics may be brought up, but the feeling appears to be that the Maple Leaf standard bearers did okay although the country was 24th in the unofficial standing with a total of 30 points. It's almost certain, however, that the subject of assistance from the Dominion Government in the form of increased playing fields will be sought to help out amateur sports.

Detailed reports on the showing of track and field athletes at the Summer Games are expected to be given by officials who attended the world's sports festival. And it is almost a cinch that representatives from British Columbia will detail arrangements made for holding the 1954 British Empire Games at Vancouver.

DAWES TO RESIGN?

It was expected that A. Sidney Dawes of Montreal, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, would be on hand, but the Montrealer has advised officials he will not be around. It is strongly rumored that Dawes will resign as C.O.A. president later this month and that he will be succeeded by Ken Farmer of Ottawa, chief de mission of the Canadian team at the Helsinki Games.

Today's session will be taken up mostly with the registration of delegates expected from Quebec to British Columbia and reports of various committees. The big work is expected to start Friday and conclude early Saturday.

Arnprior Soldier Tells Story Of Fierce Korean Battle

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA (CP)—Lieut. Russ Gardner, tall, handsome Military Cross winner from Arnprior, Ont., who has been wounded four times in Korea, isn't sure he killed six Chinese in the battle of Gibraltar Spur as his comrades reported.

But he's positive he mowed down five of them with the tommy-gun he is reputed to take to bed with him.

Wounded in the right arm and both legs by shell fragments in the Oct. 23 engagement, the 25-year-old former Algonquin Park summer-time guide was well enough to sit up in a field dressing station and tell his story of the battle. He suffered his first wound in an earlier action.

When the Chinese began pouring in shells at the rate of 100 a minute at 6 p.m. Oct. 23 Gardner and Lieut. John Clark of Beebe, Que., were talking with Maj. E. L. Cohen of Ottawa and Pembroke, Ont., commander of "Baker" company of the Royal Canadian Regiment's 1st Battalion, which suffered heavy casualties in the engagement.

EVERYTHING BURIED

"When the shelling began we went to ground in the ammo dump—and we really went to ground," Gardner said.

"The shelling buried everything. Everything was blown in. Everything was smashed to blazes. Boxes of bren-gun magazines and grenades were scattered. At one point I found a phosphorous grenade burning beneath my knees.

"When the barrage was over I went around kicking fellows' behinds to get them into position to defend themselves. I went around to the rear and arranged with Knobby (Clark) to cover that side while I took on the front. I had 10 or 15 men.

"The fellows fought very well as long as they had ammo. That was about 15 minutes. I ended up with the only weapon still working among the five men in our bunker. Up to that point my job had been to direct their fire. Now I still had my tommy-gun and five magazines. . .

"I'm positive I killed five Chinese.

"The others had been firing at point-blank range, so they must have killed some. We were grenaded four or five times, some landed right in amongst us."

SLITHERS SAFELY BACK

When his ammunition was expended, Gardner—who won his M.C. recently for leading a patrol which captured a prisoner—slithered along to barbed-wire defences. Stealthily, and watchful of both minefields and Chinese—at times only 10 feet from him—he worked his way back into the main defences.

Holed-up higher up in the position were Sgt. David Rennie of Halifax and Pte. A. J. White of Montreal, who said the Chinese left their particular area about 9 p.m. However, they still were in position lower down when the R.C.R. sent in its first counter-attack, under Lieut. Mel Feraday of Toronto. That was at 1:15 a.m. Oct. 24.

Feraday said: "We were about three-quarters of the way up when we were fired on by machine-guns. At a conservative estimate there were 14 of them. (The official estimate is 18.) They started to throw grenades, too, and we retired to regroup."

HAGAN WOUNDED

Cpl. Tom Hagan of Aylmer, Ont., was wounded in that assault. Both his hands were damaged, so he carried out his weapon crooked between his elbows.

The second attack—a co-ordinated program with Feraday's platoon on the left and one under Lieut. M. E. Goldie of Pembroke on the right—went in without a shot being fired.

Pte. Gerald E. P. Shaw of Billings Bridge, Ont., got a trophy out of the action. Shaw was credited by Lt.-Col. Peter Bingham, officer commanding the R.C.R., with killing a Chinese standard-bearer and was awarded the flag.

William Mildenhall

NORWOOD (ENS) — The funeral of William Mildenhall was held Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m., from the McConnell-Warner funeral home, with the Rev. H. E. Peasgood, of Christ Anglican Church, officiating. Burial was in Norwood cemetery.

Mr. Mildenhall died Sunday following a long illness. He was born in England 67 years ago, the son of the late Richard Mildenhall and Ellen Mason.

Pallbearers were Armar Weir, Perrin Rork, William Kavanagh, W. H. Hudson, Bert Lockhead and John Knox.

Peter Tully

The funeral for Peter Tully, lot 20, con. 6, Smith township, who died Sunday, was held Wednesday from the Comstock funeral home.

The Rev. D. P. Morris of Fairview United Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were Harold Lewis, Frank Trude, Everett Cockburn, Ernest Mahood, Elmer Milburn, Stanley Boyce. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Leaves $125,000

BOSTON (AP) — Philosopher George Santayana, who died Sept. 26, left an estate valued at $125,000. The will, filed Wednesday, bequeathed $10,000 to Harvard University. The bulk of the estate was left to a niece and three grandnephews.

Seek To Suspend Injunction On Mine

VAL d'OR, Que. (CP)—Barvue Mines Limited, a new zinc development about 30 miles north of here, yesterday took action to suspend an injunction threatening to halt part of its operations.

Five property holders alleged rights were infringed and property endangered by blasting at the mine pit. Mine officials asked the suspension of the injunction until it is heard by a superior court judge.

Andrew Robertson, general manager for Barvue, expressed hope blasting could start again soon. He said rigid precautions were taken. "This was nothing but an open field when we started work," he said. "Settlers followed us here."

VICTORY SMILE — The General goes home with another victory. With the battle and the shouting over, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is one big grin as, hand raised in the V for victory sign, he heads for his Columbia University home this morning. The President-elect of the United States is leaving his Commodore Hotel headquarters after a great ovation by his loyal workers who worked so hard to help him win.

Plastic Pipe Considered To Carry Oil

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oil pipelines of the future probably will be bigger and longer. Experiments are under way in the use of plastic pipe to carry crude oil. The oil industry is applying the principles of transporting fluids to the problem of moving solids.

These were some of the topics touched upon by Eugene Holma, president of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey), in a talk to the Executive's Club of Chicago during the recent Oil Progress Week.

Mr. Holman said that pipelines 32 inches in diameter—big enough for a husky two-year-old to walk through—now are in service as against the 24-inch diameter of the pipeline now being built between Edmonton and Vancouver. There was no reason why larger pipelines should not be laid, provided the volume existed to utilize them.

WOODEN PIPELINES

The oil executive recalled that the first oil pipelines were of wooden sections, liable to damp rot. Then came metal pipes subject to corrosion. Now the principle of electrolysis is being used to deposit continuously a new coat of metal on pipe in the ground or even at the bottom of the sea.

"These all mean that pipes weigh less and use less steel," Mr. Holman said. "And, as I talk, experiments are being made in the use of plastic pipe to carry crude oil."

Plastic pipe is being tried out in the Redwater Field, northeast of Edmonton.

Describing how the principles of transporting fluids are being applied to the problem of moving solids, Mr. Holman said that in the oil refining process of catalytic cracking, air is mixed with a powdered solid to give it all the characteristics of a fluid.

"An affiliate of my company in Venezuela mixes air with dry cement so that it can be transported much as a liquid would be," he said. "Perhaps oilmen are making here a significant contribution to the advancement of transportation. I have noticed that other industries now are beginning to experiment with the same principles."

Re-Elected Mayor

SASKATOON (CP)—Mayor John S. Mills last night was conceded re-election to his fifth straight term after only seven of 81 polls reported in the municipal elections. His opponent, Labor Progressive William Berezowski, conceded the election when Mayor Mills rolled up 1,283 votes to his own 81 in early counting.

Province Has Rejected Grade 13 Supplementals

TORONTO—Toronto board of education's request to give a second chance to Grade 13 students who fail one or two final examinations has been spurned by the only body which can do anything about it, the provincial department of education.

A letter to the board from C. F. Cannon, deputy minister of education, outlines the department's opposition. The local board had asked the Students who failed one or two of the Grade 13 finals be allowed to write a supplemental exam in late summer so the student would not have to repeat the full year.

Mr. Cannon said it is not possible to announce the results of the June exams before Aug. 8, which leaves insufficient time for preparation on the part of students who might want to try again.

Even if the supplementals started immediately after Aug. 8, it would be impossible to have the results announced in time for students to submit their applications for admission to universities and Normal Schools, he added.

Mr. Cannon suggested the difficulty of securing qualified examiners late in the summer and the cost of administering the exams would be out of proportion to their value.

The deputy minister told the Toronto board the present system may actually be better than the proposal they suggested. Supplemental exams in Grade XIII were abolished in 1924 and in their place a special revising board was set up.

The board deals with cases where illness, accident, bereavement or other circumstances beyond the control of the student have prevented him from writing the June exams.

But it is also able to grant standing to many otherwise good students who have failed on one or two papers.

As an illustration, Mr. Cannon said that in one Toronto collegiate where 126 students tried the finals, 38 of them were granted standing in 45 papers which they had actually failed on the written exam.

Finally, a student who fails may appeal his results and thus have his paper re-read and his standing again revised by the revising board.

U.K. Will End Gurkha Recruiting

NEW DELHI — Britain has agreed to discontinue the present practice of recruiting Gurkhas from Nepal on Indian territory, Prime Minister Nehru told the lower house of parliament Wednesday.

Under a tripartite agreement signed between Britain, Nepal and India soon after this country became free, Britain as a temporary measure was permitted to use former British Indian Army recruiting depots for processing Nepalese recruits. When Communists raised the subject last August, Nehru promised to take up the question. Later Britain was notified of the decision to withdraw recruiting facilities on Indian soil.

As In[illegible] Nepal's only link with the [illegible]de world, the government, according to authoritative sources, will continue to permit transit of recruits across the territory.

Premier Replaced

LONDON (AP)—Removal of B. N. Chernousov as premier of the Russian Soviet Federal Socialist, the largest in the Soviet Union, was announced last night by the Moscow Radio. The announcement said the praesidium of the Supreme Soviet of the R.S.F.S.R. had replaced him with Alexander Mikhailovich Puzanov.

Find Britain Big Competitor With Textiles

QUEBEC (CP)—George H. Carr of Sherbrooke, Que., president of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association, said today that the main competition to Canadian wool textiles comes from the United Kingdom where wage rates are only 41 per cent of those paid in Canada.

In his report, prepared for delivery before the association's 30th annual meeting, Mr. Carr called for Canadian tariff policies that would give the industry a "fighting chance" to survive the increasing imports from the United States and Britain.

He said consumption of woollen cloth in Canada has been decreasing since 1949 and Canadian producers were getting a smaller share of such business as does remain.

"The share of the domestic civilian wool cloth market held by Canadian mills fell from an average of 66 per cent in 1946-48 to 58 per cent in 1951. Our share this year will be about 51 per cent."

STOCKING PRODUCTION

Production of full - fashioned stockings for women was the largest single business in the Canadian knitting industry and continued unloading in this country of surplus stocks by mills in the United States was one of the major problems of Canadian producers.

Mr. Carr said 444,000 pairs of full-fashioned hose were imported into Canada, mainly from the U.S., in 1950. The number increased to 2,376,000 pairs in 1951 and it was estimated that shipments this year will total more than 4,320,000 pairs.

He said this situation is not unique to the hosiery industry. Producers of socks, sweaters and other knitted goods were also feeling the impact of heavy U.S. imports.

LAWS NOT ADEQUATE

Present Canadian anti-dumping laws were not adequate to deal with such cases. The spirit, if not the letter, of the anti-dumping legislation was being broken.

Mr. Carr said the revised Japanese textile industry also presents a problem to Canadian producers. Several producers of knitted gloves have already been driven out of business and should Japan succeed in her efforts to obtain most-favored-nation trading status "the result will certainly be felt even more in the growing unemployment rolls of Canadian textile workers."

Thelma Ritter Promising Comedienne

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Thelma Ritter is the most promising mature comedienne to come along in many years, but don't call her a "second Marie Dressler."

"I don't want to be called a second anything," commented the salty actress.

Miss Ritter, who speaks in tones that would seem at home in a ball park, admitted that she receives a volume of mail that surprises her.

"For some reason, I get a lot of mail from people in Scotland. That amazes me. I'd think they could not even figure out what I was saying."

TOO MANY MAIDS

Miss Ritter maintains a home in the east with her husband, advertising man Joseph Moran, and two children. She commutes here for pictures and remains aloof from the Hollywood hubbub. In fact, it looked a few months ago as though she would chuck the works because of the roles she was getting.

"I was playing too many maids," she commented. "Or at least it seemed as though I was. I was a maid in 'A Letter to Three Wives,' but that gal was right out of left field. Then there was 'All About Eve.'"

Her insistence on a switch in casting brought results. In "The Farmer Takes a Wife," she played "the richest woman on the Erie Canal, a gal who was widowed five times." In "Pickup on South Street," she plays a panhandler. Now she's a millionairess in "Nearer My God to Thee."

FROM THIS THRONE in the House of Lords, Queen Elizabeth Tuesday made her first speech from the throne to Parliament.

Marmora News

Mrs. Arthur Fleming of Hastings is spending a few days the guest of the Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Glover.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McKinney and Mr. and Mrs. John Bullock of Portland, Ont., were guests of the Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Glover on Sunday and atended the anniversary services of St. Andrew's United Church.

Weekend guests included Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pratt and daughter Janice of Warkworth, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson and daughter Merelyn of Peterborough, with Mr. and Mrs. T. Moffatt.

Mill Walls Said Unsafe Order Removal

NORWOOD (ENS).—The municipal council of Norwood met Monday with Reeve Rork Ferguson in the chair and all members present.

Walter Hageraman asked for tile for driveway to replace those taken up when watermain installed. Councillor Begg was authorized to investigate.

The clerk was instructed to write the county engineer with regard to snow fence on certain portions of county road and in respect to cleaning up the gravel pit on Ridge St.

Complaints were received by Councillors in respect to nuisance created by an epidemic of rats at the seed cleaning plant on Colborne St. Moved by Councillors Webb and Begg that the clerk notify the secretary that something must be done by way of concrete floor or other preventative measures at once.

Correspondence was also received complaining of the unsafe condition of the stone walls at the old mill building. Also many verbal complaints had been made to members of the council on different occasions. It was therefore moved by Councillors Parker and Webb that the clerk notify the owner of this property that these walls must be taken down to at least the first storey level within 30 days or the council would have the work done at the owner's expense.

Dr. Jordan Says

Cleansing, Attention To Diet Helps Rout Adolescent Pimples

Acne (adolescent pimples) does not constitute a problem in diagnosis. Anybody can tell what it is. But it is not a condition to ignore, and thousands of youngsters in their teens become afflicted with it each year for the first time.

Although the majority outgrow acne eventually without scarring of the skin, it comes at a time of life when youngsters are terribly self-conscious anyway, and blemishes on the skin can and do make this self-consciousness much worse.

Acne appears for the most part on the face, neck, upper part of the chest and shoulders. The pimple usually starts as a reddish lump which is slightly tender to touch. It often develops into a "white head," which actually consists of a mixture of pus, germs, skin oil, and destroyed tissue cells. The pimple may be near the surface of the skin or quite deep.

In the milder cases, the pimples are spaced rather widely apart and are near the surface. In more severe ones they are closer together, break out more frequently and burrow deeper into the skin.

When a white head forms, the top of the pustule finally breaks open, the pus escapes, a crust forms and healing takes place. If the pustule has been large and deep, a permanent scar may be left, though this is fortunately the exception rather than the rule.

Infection alone almost certainly does not explain the development of acne. Because acne is most common and usually most severe during the period of adolescence in both boys and girls it almost certainly has some relation to the changes in the glands and hormones which take place at that time, but hormone treatment is almost invariably disappointing.

Diet plays a part. Many, if not most, adolescents have a craving for sweets, and sweets (especially chocolate) almost invariably make acne worse, as do nuts and cheese.

MAINTAIN ACTIVITIES

Cleansing treatments applications to the skin and general attention to the health are all indicated.

A youngster with acne should make a special effort to overcome the self-consciousness which acne brings, and should force himself or herself to take part in all social functions to which he or she would like to go otherwise.

Family and friends should be careful not to make remarks which will add to the self-consciousness. Comments on the pimples, even if done with the best of intentions, only make matters worse.

Bagged His Deer Early First Day

APSLEY (ENS) —Eric Whitmore left home at five o'clock on Monday morning for the deer hunt. He motored 15 miles to the Blue Mountain country in Methuen township and had his deer by eight o'clock. He was home at noon. E. Nesbitt was another Apsley hunter who shot his deer on the opening day, about three miles south of the village on Highway 28.

Sarnia Arrest Made Test Case

TORONTO (CP)—Eugene Volpe, 40, was arrested here yesterday and held without bail on order of the Ontario attorney-general's department in connection with a high-grading charge.

Officials said the department will make a test case at Sarnia in the arrest. Volpe and another unidentified Toronto man still sought by police were arrested nearly two years ago in Detroit. Police said they had about $2,000 in gold in their possession and that it had been taken from Northern Ontario mines.

The men were arrested shortly after entering the United States from Sarnia. Both were held for hearing before a grand jury. Then, police said, on being granted bail of $2,000 each, they returned to Canada.

The decision to make a test case came, officials said, after it was learned the high-grading charge was not one on which the men could be extradited.

Saves Two Children

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Carol Steadman yesterday dashed twice into her burning home to save her two youngest children, Donnie, 3, and Fred, 2. Called from a neighbor's home where she was telephoning, Mrs. Steadman groped her way to her children's second-storey bedroom after the house burst into flames.

2 Get Jail Terms For Car Stealing

BRANTFORD (CP)—Two men arrested here recently after a 90-mile-an-hour chase, were sentenced yesterday to jail terms on a charge of retaining the stolen car in which they were riding.

William Peters, 27, was given two years in penitentiary and concurrent terms for breaking, entering and theft at a garage in Callander, and for a reckless driving charge.

Albert Wheeler, 21, drew a term of 17 months definite and three months indeterminate in Burwash Industrial Farm on the retaining charge; the same term concurrent for his part in the Callander breakin; and three months concurrent for carrying a concealed weapon, a hunting knife.

Growing City

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—The Red Deer district planning commission has approved an aerial survey of the city at a cost of about $1,000. Red Deer, with a population around 6,000, is Alberta's fifth largest city.

FASHIONS FOR MERMAIDS—Dale Cole's fashions are all wet, but the prospective customers love her submarine modelling at a Las Vegas, Nev., hotel. Spectators view the underwater show through heavy glass ports in the swimming pool, from an underground "fashion salon."

Says Canadians Need Community Feeling

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Dr. A. R. M. Lower of Queen's University yesterday described Canadians as "very good second bests" and said the city of Toronto was an "amorphous mass."

He spoke to Thunder Bay Historical Society and other groups. In an interview he said Canadians needed a great sense of community or they would be absorbed by the "real community across the line."

Professor Lower said his remarks applied largely to British Canadians and Toronto was a typical example of British Canada. "I have no doubt there is a real community feeling in French Canada," he said.

Shipping Ports Expect Record

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's ocean shipping ports are looking for a record post-war season this year.

With the inland shipping just about over for 1952, they are moving into full swing to handle Canada's bumper grain crop as well as the normal quota of lumber, coal, newsprint and foodstuffs.

Traffic in Vancouver, Saint John, N.B., and Halifax is expected to be heavier than in previous years. More ships of old lines and one new firm—the Fjell line—will use Canadian ports for the first time this year.

A Canadian Press survey showed all ports, including Montreal with only about a month to go before winter closing, anticipating heavier grain movement and a normal flow of most other commodities.

Cabinet Changes

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier D. L. Campbell yesterday announced the appointment of deputy speaker Ronald D. Robertson, 32, independent Liberal Progressive member for Roblin constituency, as minister of agriculture and immigration. Health and Welfare Minister Ivan Schultz becomes Attorney-General, replacing Hon. C. Rhodes Smith. Agriculture Minister F. C. Bell becomes minister of health and welfare.

Costly Joke

BENONI, South Africa (CP)—An entertainer here offered £5 to any man in the audience who had a picture of his mother-in-law in his pocket. One man produced a picture which he swore was that of his wife's mother. Paying up, the comedian said it was the first time he'd lost.

Turn Boulder To Bar Devil

SHEBBEAR, England (Reuters)—Six sturdy farmers armed with crowbars turned over a large boulder last night to keep the Devil away from this Devon village for another year.

The stone lies at the foot of an old oak tree near the 12th century church where it was dropped, according to local legend, by the Devil on his way to hell.

The legend says the stone must be turned over every Nov. 5 night, for if it stays in the same place for two years evil will come to the village, the crops fail and misfortune beset inhabitants.

Only once within living memory has the ceremony been neglected—during the First World War when most of the young men were away. The following year the crops were bad, cattle fell ill and several mishaps occurred to villagers.

Bombers Have Brisk Workout

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winter issue was worn last night as Winnipeg Blue Bombers worked out in preparation for their Western football playoff against Edmonton Eskimos here Saturday.

With the temperature hovering around 30 above and strong, biting winds, coach George Trafton sent his charges through a brisk three-hour session behind locked doors at Osborne Stadium.

Bombers' injury list was cut to nil as rookie fullback Lorne Benson turned out for practice. Benson, a graduate of Winnipeg junior ranks, was taken to hospital on his return from Edmonton last Sunday suffering a mild concussion. He was released Tuesday.

At Edmonton, playing coach Frankie Filchock is looking for another miracle such as carried Esks past Calgary Stampeders in the Western semi-final.

Filchock, with a bad shoulder, and snap Eagle Keys, by way of Montreal and Kentucky State, suffering a charley horse, have been the only Eskimos to miss recent workouts.

Sarnia Imperials Get Special Workout

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia Imperials, defending Ontario Rugby Football Union champions, have been working out hard this week for the opening of the 1952 final against Toronto Balmy Beach Sunday in Toronto.

Coach Red Douglas was not entirely pleased with his team's showing here last Saturday when it wound up the regular schedule with a close 14-10 win over Beaches. He has been drilling his Imps in the various departments in which he figured they looked bad last Saturday.

"We will have to do better on Sunday," says the coach "Our blocking wasn't crisp enough."

Speedy half-back John Sells will be back in the lineup for the game.

Blackburn Leaving Stampeders This Year

CALGARY (CP)—Bill Blackburn, import snap of Calgary Stampeders for the last two seasons and selected to the Western Football Conference's first all-star team this year, will not be back with the club next season.

Stampeder president Cec Chesher said Tuesday that Blackburn, from Rice Institute at Houston, Texas, asked for his release when he left Calgary recently. Chester said he was "only too glad to give it to him."

Blackburn, he said, was fined $800 during the season, $500 for his deportment during one game and $300 for general deportment and performance over the season.

Roberts, Simpson Trophy Candidates

OTTAWA (CP)—Gene Roberts, hard-running backfielder, and Bob Simpson, brilliant pass-catching end, have been selected as Ottawa Rough Riders' candidates for the 1952 Jeff Russel trophy. The trophy is awarded annually to the most sportsmanlike player in the Big Four. Each team in the loop votes two of its players as candidates.

Rough Riders also voted Roberts as winner of a local trophy presented annually to the player judged most valuable to his team.

MUSTANGS WIN 9-6

HAMILTON (CP)—Western Mustangs, league leaders in the senior intercollegiate football league, last night downed McMaster Marauders 9-6 in an exhibition game.

A strong wind dominated play and all the scoring was made at one end of Civic Stadium's gridiron.

Both game majors were scored off passing. A pass from Joe Kosakowski to Danny Pugliese climaxed a 65-yard push by the Marauders for the locals' only major.

Western's pass was thrown by Don Getty to Cam Church in the fourth quarter for the lone Mustang major. Jimmy Carroll kicked two first quarter points and one in the victory.

McMaster attempted 18 passes and completed five. Western, relying mostly on a ground attack, completed two out of eight pass attempts.

Ex-Hockey Trainer Harry Westerly Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Harry Westerby, 65, former professional boxer and a trainer of hockey, football and baseball teams, died yesterday.

He was born in Toronto. At one time he fought in bantam and featherweight ranks, holding the Canadian bantamweight title.

When New York Rangers of the National Hockey League were organized in 1926, he joined the club as trainer, holding the position until 1949. He also served as trainer with the Argonaut football club and the Maple Leaf baseball team.

Pat Egan Suspended Indefinitely From Reds

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Pat Egan, defenceman of Providence Reds, has been suspended indefinitely, Emory Jones, president of the American Hockey League, said yesterday.

Egan was involved in a brawl in Cleveland during which he was accused of assaulting the two linesmen, Patsy Callighen and Bobby Carse, last Saturday night.

Jones handed down his ruling after studying reports from the referee in chief, Carl Voss, the referee of the game, Red Storey, and the linesmen.

"DEAD" HORSE WINS

FONTWELL, England (AP)—A dead horse—and that's official—galloped to victory in the first race at the Fontwell track yesterday. Paid 6 to 1, too.

The anhimal, an eight-year-old named Crisel, was described as dead in a jockey club list of horses issued Thursday. Said a jockey club official: "There seems to have been a clerical error."

Ban Neon Advertising Signs Around Trafalgar Square

LONDON (CP)—The dazzling, twinkling lights of advertising signs that nightly flash the merits of their wares over London's famous Trafalgar Square, are to be blacked-out by an official edict of Westminster City Council.

Initiated by the town planning and improvements committee, the ban involves removal of some 13 signs which for years have illuminated Nelson's Column, Admiralty Arch, the National Gallery, Canada House as well as other buildings and monuments.

No date has yet been set for the black-out order as the question of existing contracts has still to be considered. Appeals are also expected to be lodged by the firms concerned.

EVEN C.P.R. AFFECTED

The Canadian Pacific Railway's London headquarters, across the road from Nelson's towering column, is among the companies affected. Its officials, however, have protested the order requiring removal of the system's familiar nameplate which glows from the building's roof-tip.

Maj. Claude Davis, chairman of the committee, said Trafalgar Square has been given priority in the "clean up" drive because of the special place it holds in the heart of the Commonwealth.

"It is the committee's sincere wish that all these advertisements, tawdry by night and sombre by day, are removed and that property owners will floodlight their buildings," Davis said. "We shall then restore the square to its proper dignity."

Opposing the move, Councillor Hugh Sterling described the ban as "grandmotherly interference" with the interests and liberties of the ordinary citizen.

He was supported by Mrs. Ball-Wilson, who said the square without lights would become an architectural blackout which would strike a blow at legitimate commerce to which London owed its very existence.

Three Missing Hunters Walk Out Of Bush

HUNTSVILLE, (CP) — Three hunters walked out of district bush today after being reported missing but Hubert Lake, 17, of Toronto still was sought in dense woodland on the border of Algonquin Park.

The youth disappeared two days ago. He left an uncle and two other men, saying he wanted to try his luck alone.

Frank Talhurst, 54, of Toronto, emerged from the bush after 16 hours of wandering after he saw a big deer and chased it.

Tony Proracki, 60, of Waterford, and guide Fred Doyle, 60, found their way out of the bushland. They were lost near Dwight.

Bubbles Acquitted

TORONTO (CP)—John Sublett, the "Bubbles" of the "Buck and Bubbles" song-and-dance team, was acquitted yesterday of a charge of possessing narcotics. Sublett and his vaudeville partner, Ford Lee Washington, were arrested two months ago in a raid on a downtown hotel. Police found marijuana cigarettes in their room. Washington was convicted of being in possession and sentenced to six months.

MacTavish Resigns

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent yesterday announced that Duncan K. MacTavish of Ottawa, newly-elected president of the National Liberal Federation, has resigned as chairman of the Federal District Commission. He will be succeeded by Maj.-Gen. Howard Kennedy, also of Ottawa. Gen. Kennedy in 1946 and 1947 headed a Royal Commission which investigated and reported on conditions and needs of Ontario forests.

Tobacco Buying Gains

DELHI (CP)—Buying of flue-cured tobacco picked up substantially here yesterday as officials said between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 pounds had been purchased by the end of the market's second day. Total crop as been estimated at 123,821,811 pounds. Prices ranged from a high of 46.75 cents a pound to a low of 37 cents.

Killed While Hunting

PERTH (CP)—George Cain, 42, of Niagara Falls, Ont., was accidentally killed yesterday while hunting at Mosquito Lake, 50 miles west of here in Frontenac county. No details were available. Cain is a foreman at the Ontario Hydro project at Niagara Falls. His parents live in Perth.

Wildcat On Prowl

A roaming wildcat has been seen occasionally and heard frequently at nights in swamps about a mile and a half south of Stewart Hall settlement, Otonabee township. The animal seems to travel that general area west as far as the Otonabee River. Small school children have become alarmed at circulating stories and take the precaution of waiting for rides to and from Stewart Hall school.

One Slight Case Of Active TB In County Survey

Only one active case of pulmonary tuberculosis was revealed by the recent X-ray survey of 3,321 persons in rural Peterborough, including its villages.

The classification of that case is "minimal active," and minimal is the adjective of minimum.

Evidence of trace of TB was found in six other persons. Five were listed as inactive, and one as being of questionable activity. The total of seven instances is .2 per cent of the total number of persons examined.

That information was obtained from Harold Lewis, fieldman of the Federation of Agriculture in Peterborough county.

Total number of persons X-rayed, 3,321.

No evidence of disease or abnormality, 3,215 or 96.5 per cent.

Pulmonary tuberculosis, 7 or .2 per cent.

Pulmonary TB suspects, 1 or .03 per cent.

Other diseases and abnormalities, 106 or 3.1 per cent.

These include:

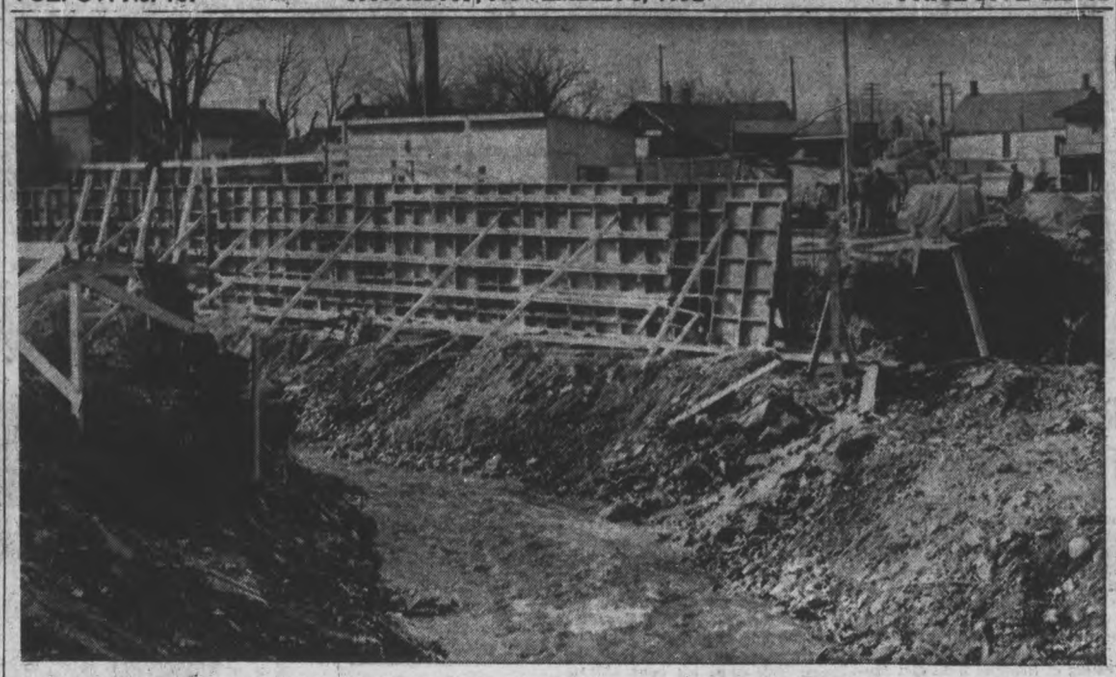
Evidence of previous pleurisy, 11.

Possible lung tumors, 2.

Heart abnormalities, 13.

NUMBER DOUBLED

Mr. Lewis said the total number of persons X-rayed was more than twice as many as those examined in the previous survey.



The total of 3,321 compares with around 1,500, or an increase of approximately 100 per cent," he said. "It is more than that percentage, but a great many people in the country continue to avoid the free X-ray examination. I am just stating a fact, without any comment. I can't understand why anybody should pass up this service.

Only one case of minimal active pulmonary tuberculosis appears to me to be a very low incidence.

"Then there is the one case of questionable activity, and five inactive. The finding of two possible

1,200 Veterans To March November 11

Depending on the weather, 1,200 or more ex-service men and women this Nov. 11 will march in Peterborough's annual Memorial Day parade.

The order of the day will be a parade through the downtown streets of Peterborough, with six bands providing martial music. A service, probably lasting 40 minutes, will be held at the war memorial in Confederation Park. A two-minute silence will be observed there and throughout the city.

About 100 organizations are expected to lay wreaths in honor of the men and women who died in Canada's wars.

ANNUAL DINNER

Then at 6.30 p.m. the annual dinner will be held in the auditorium of the Legion Hall. H. J. Harvey of Ottawa, vice-president of Ontario Provincial Command, will be the guest speaker.

But there are two other events that are part of the memorial observances.

This Saturday canvassers will be on the streets of Peterborough soliciting money for the poppy fund. The money obtained is used in relief work among veterans and their families—not just Legion members. During the last year about 60 families received food, clothing, shelter or actual financial assistance from the poppy fund.

And on Sunday, Nov. 9, a Remembrance Day church parade will go to All Saints' Anglican Church on Rubidge St. The veterans have been invited by the rector, the Rev. M. P. Poole, and a good turnout is expected

Silver Cross Mothers and the Ladies' Auxiliary of Branch 52 of Canadian Legion will assemble at the church. The Legionnaires will fall in 10 a.m. at the Legion Hall. The Salvation Army band will accompany them as they parade to All Saints'

Here is the schedule for Nov. 11:

Markers will report to parade marshall Harry Gabbutt, 9:30 a.m., at the Legion Hall. They will be posted 15 minutes later, and promptly at 10.05 a.m. the parade will move off from the parade grounds in front of the Armouries.

Each unit will receive individual instructions. Dress will be berets and medals.

FOUR COLUMNS

The marchers will be divided into four columns.

The first column will be headed by the 50th A.A. Band and the 50th A.A. Regt. Following them will be the R.C.E.M.E., Legion executive, branch 452 (women's branch), branch 52, color party, and the wreath-bearers.

In the second section will be the fire department, city police, provincial police, R.C.A.F. Association and the Citizens' Band.

Third section: C.G.E. Co. 2nd section, Salvation Army Band, C.G.E. Co. 1st section, and C.G.E. Pipe Band.

Fourth Section: Boy Scouts, R.C.A.F. Cadets, Grove School Band, Grove School Cadets, Sea Cadets and Sea Cadet Band.

Parade Marshall Gabbutt hopes that at least 1,500 will take part in the parade and service.'

Route of the parade will be west on McDonnel to Aylmer St.; south on Aylmer to Charlotte St.; east to Charlotte to George St.; and north on George to the War Memorial.

The column should arrive at the War Memorial at 10:30 a.m.

An opening prayer will be given by either Padre W. C. McCarney of Otonabee Township or Padre A. E. Larke of Springville. President Lou Durkin will give a brief address to the assembly and, if there is time, a hymn and an address by one of the padres will follow.

LAST POST

After the Last Post, at exactly 11 a.m., the two-minute silence commemorating The Fallen will be observed. Then there will be the Reveille. Wreaths will be laid on the War Memorial and this will be followed by "God Save the Queen."

Edward Davis, chairman of parade activities, will say a few words and Parade Marshall Gabbutt will lead the parade away. Leaving the War Memorial it will go north on George, east on McDonnel to Water, south on Water to Murray, and west on Murray to the south end of the parade grounds.

The dinner will follow at 6:30 p.m.

Mellis Sees Improvement In Employment Situation

Employment conditions in the Peterborough district during this coming winter are expected to be better than last year, William Mellis, manager of the National Employment Office, said today. But at the same time Mr. Mellis added that unemployment will still increase probably as soon as winter officially arrives.

During October, Mr. Mellis said that conditions in Peterborough factories were better than in 1951. But in spite of that unemployment insurance benefits were paid to 816 as compared with 743 last year.

A year ago Peterborough factories, said Mr. Mellis, were working shorter time in many cases due to a lack of sales. This caused workers to seek short time insurance payments. These claims are fewer this year, but several factories, the Western Clock Company and the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Company, still have some working shorter hours than usual.

MOSTLY LABORERS

The increase over last year, said Mr. Mellis, is mostly composed of laborers and older men, from 65 years and up. He explained that there isn't the construction in Peterborough and district this year and therefore more men are out of work.

The older men, said Mr. Mellis, are in the position where "nobody wants them" because they're past their working days. These men are willing to take light work such as janitors, watchmen and gatekeepers.

Unemployed in the city in October numbered only 475 as compared with 506 last year; the decrease due to a few short-time factories. Meanwhile the district claims have jumped to 341, more than 100 over October, 1951.

Mr. Mellis said that conditions throughout the district are not too good, especially in Campbellford and Havelock, and in the Haliburton district.

Jobs available at the office increased in October to 52, six more than in 1951. But these opportunities still require skilled help such as carpenters and machinists for men and typists and stenographers for women.

Slippery Pavement Blamed For Accident

Slippery pavement was blamed by a truckdriver, Ronald Hodson, 29, of R.R. 2, Oshawa, for an accident in whch his truck rolled over early today on Highway 7.

The accident was about 5½ miles east of Peterborough and it the five-ton dump truck skidded on the rain-soaked highway and it went out of control and rolled over on its right side in the left ditch.

Hodson was unhurt and damage to the dump truck was $15.

O.P.P. Constable Wallace Mohns investigated.

Buck Fever Nearly Spoils Kill

Buck fever, so common a disease in hunting season, infected a woman hunter east of Apsley this week.

Mrs. Bernice Wagner, operator of a fur farm on Silver Creek Lake, shot at a doe. The doe dropped and Mrs. Wagner dropped her gun and ran ahead with her knife to bleed the deer. The deer got up again, Mrs. Wagner ran back for her gun and fired a second time, killing the doe.

When she finally reached it, she was shaking so badly she couldn't hold the knife still and other members of her party performed the rite. Don Barringer, 491 Bolivar St., brought this story back from the hunt.

A YOUNG ECONOMIST

There's a Peterborough aunt who's very proud of her young three-year-old niece Cathie who for her years has her own ideas

The young lady's mother invited a few people for dinner recently and on the menu was Cathie's favorite dish, creamed cauliflower. Two boys at the dinner, not being too fond of cauliflower, left it on the side of their dish.

Just before the dinner dishes were taken away, young Cathie saw the plates and said to her mother:

"My, what a waste!!! And with the price of food so high."

Many Entries In Cattle Shows Hitting Finances

Projects of Peterborough Shorthorn Club turned out so well this year that they were somewhat embarrassing, financially, President Lou Shaw of Otonabee told the directors of the Federation of Agriculture Tuesday night.

The Club had agreed to give a two-dollar bill to each of the 4-H beef club boys and girls who showed a Shorthorn. On Achievement Day at Morrow Park there were eighteen youngsters, and Mr. Shaw personally distributed this little extra recognition and encouragement.

"If I had to pay it myself, I'd have thought it was money spent in a good cause," he said.

Then, there was the county Shorthorn show at Lakefield Fair. It was expected that at least 50 head would be brought out. But, with extra effort and propaganda the total was 74 Shorthorns. The club was involved to the extent of $5 a head.

"Louis Cadesky contributed $180 and the Lakefield Fair board gave us $125. We set sail this year to create more interest, and we'd like to get the regional Shorthorn show for Peterborough. So we accomplished both, because I understand we can get the show which was at the Beath Farms near Oshawa this year. But, we are around $100 in the hole, and we were wondering whether the Federation would give us a little help."

Previously, the Federation directors adopted a motion to make "the usual grant" of $100 to the East-Central Ontario Holstein championship show which was held here last month. Mr. Shaw followed that lead, and when Clarence Mann stood up at the meeting he was greeted with laughter that apparently expected an appeal for the Ayrshire men.

However, Mr. Mann suggested as a caution that the Federation should be careful about the extent of its financial help in these matters. It was all right, he said, in the case of a regional show, but should not apply to the ordinary county breed show.

President Henry Sharpe agreed with that remark. "I think it is understood that this is just a stop-gap to help out the Shorthorn Club in what they accomplished this year, and it is not establishing a policy or precedent."

With the prospect of getting the regional Shorthorn show pos-clicked for $100.

Smith Land Best Available Witnesses Tell Board At Annexation Hearing

Municipal Board Convenes Again To Hear All Sides On City's Bid To Annex 1,256 Acres From Township

Today witnesses for the City of Peterborough said that the Smith township land the city wants to annex is the best available from the standpoint of supplying electrical power and water and sewage services. And because of the housing development in the Queen Elizabeth subdivision it is also the logical place for a new school.

Evidence was given at the second day of the Municipal Board hearing to consider the application for annexation of some 1,256 acres in Smith township. The city wants this land so it can expand its housing development to the north.

Chairman of the board is George A. Lister and the other member is C. F. Nunn. The first day of the hearing was September 8 and it is expected that the evidence will be all in by Friday afternoon.

W. F. Huycke is presenting the case for the city; Ralph Standish for a large number of protesting Smith township ratepayers; and Walter Howell is counsel for Smith township council, a third party in the hearing.

OTHER SITES

Mr. Standish claims that there are other sites in the city — for example, the 200-acre Dixon property in the southeast, running down to Downer's Corners—that could be used for building homes. And the city doesn't have to annex the land of ratepayers in another municipality.

Moreover, says Mr. Standish, the city cannot be sure of rapid development of the land and the ratepayers will be carrying heavier taxes with little or no benefits.

Ross L. Dobbin, manager of the Peterborough Utilities, said he was a member of the committee that looked over sites for the proposed housing development. As an engineer he was principally concerned with their suitability so far as the supply of water and electricity was concerned. His No. 1 choice was the annexed area.

The nearby Auburn power house could supply electricity and the filtration plant, about two miles away, could supply the water without difficulty, he said.

DIXON SECOND CHOICE

"It was more desirable from the point of view of the Utilities than any other site we looked at." His No. 2 choice was the Dixon property, but it would be more difficult to service with water because the Otonabee River would have to be crossed.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Standish he conceded that the job could be done and that the Dixon property would be a "good place" for a subdivision.

K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, said that School Section No. 13, Smith township, would be included in any annexation.

Already the Queen Elizabeth school has an overflow of 27 pupils going to city schools, said Mr. Wightman; and now that 126 lots in the subdivision have been sold and building going ahead a large influx of school children can be expected in a few years.

Anywhere from 100 to 150 children would have to be accommodated in a few years. Already the three rooms at Queen Elizabeth School are overcrowded with 118 pupils. And if to these are added the 27 now being looked after by the Peterbroough Board of Education and the 100 to 150 anticipated in a few years, it brings the total to about 300.

If there were no annexation the Smith ratepayers would be faced with building, with their limited assessment, an eight-room school costing about $200,000 ($25,000 a classroom).

The Board of Education is also having to provide accommodation for 11 pupils from S.S. No. 4.

"Somebody will have to make a great capital expenditure," said Mr. Wightman. He said that Parkhill Road and Queen Alexandra Schools are already filled to capacity and the situation will be worse next year.

The hearing is continuing.

Real Art Lies In Cornfields Hoglots Of Midwest U.S.A.

MILWAUKEE — (NEA) —For Felix Summers, whose murals adorn night-clubs and plush department stores, art for art's sake is like a plow in Times Square.

But real art, according to the former Iowa farmhand, lies in the cornfields and hoglots of the Midwest, or in a harvest crew working through the night, or in a farmers' hands and eyes.

In full agreement is the Soil Conservation Society of America, 4400 strong. This group of agricultural experts has conferred on Summers its highest award for his emblem depicting man's relationship to the earth and the elements.

Artist Summers—called the coming successor to Grant Wood—has been trying to capture the sweat and strain and worry of farming for most of his 43 years.

He began art study with the pictures in his grandmother's family Bible on a Mills County farm in Iowa. He pursued the study in Teacher's College at Peru, Neb., and later at the University of Nebraska and Yale University's School of Fine Arts.

For years, though his easel was stored while he followed a plow in Wyoming and rode freight cars through the Midwest.

When he returned to his drawing board, it was as a cartoonist and later as a muralist. Finally he took up agricultural drawing, working for seed and farm implement companies.

"By that time," he said, "I knew that farmers are interested in the basic things of life: their crops their land, the weather, the markets."

With his work as a soil conservation artist, and his illustrations for farm manuals, Summers still finds time to pursue his remembrance of things past.

"You read of bumper crops," he says, "and parity prices. But you don't see a farmer's eyes when a hail storm cuts his cornfields flat in minutes. You don't see his hands, either, or get up before dawn with him, or work all night under tractor lights to get the crop in."

SOIL CONSERVATION is one theme of Felix Summers' paintings of the farmlands. ←

Barbara Brent's BUYS AND WHYS A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, Nov. 6th—It's still not too late! . . . Yes, you can still do yourself a favor by buying a Canada Savings Bond! Part of my Personal Planning programme is to buy Canada Savings Bonds at my BANK OF MONTREAL branch each year—in fact, half my savings go into these bonds . . . and I've never regretted it. Far from it! You see, you can buy Canada Savings Bonds for as little as $7.50 down. And by holding on to them until they mature, you can benefit from the excellent return of 3.44% on your investment. What's more, Canada Savings Bonds can't fall below face value. So you can see why I'm so enthusiastic about this "best buy of the year" . . . and why I urge you to buy a bond now, if you haven't already done so. It's still not too late . . . you can still buy your Canada Savings Bond on the instalment plan at your nearest branch of the B of M.

No Doubt About It . . . a meatless main dish is easy on the food budget That's just one reason why KRAFT DINNER takes top place on my shopping list. Another reason—it's just plain good. M-mmm—a wonderful macaroni-and-cheese combination that cooks to tasty lightness in only 7 minutes! And, did you know?—every package of "Kraft Dinner" contains a wholesome main dish for 4 that costs less than 5 cents a serving. Ask your grocer tomorrow for "Kraft Dinner" in its brand new, eye-catching package with the bright new red-and-yellow design.

These Dark, Chilly Mornings you'll want something specially good to brighten your breakfasts and cheer up your family. Why not try your favourite "CREAM OF WHEAT" topped with raisins, brown sugar and cream or milk? It's a dish calculated to wake up the gloomiest sleepyhead . . . and a wonderful way to begin your day! For, in addition to other benefits, Quick "Cream of Wheat" provides Iron, Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. It's good for you. So have a "Cream of Wheat" breakfast tomorrow. It's so easy to prepare . . . cooks to smooth perfection in just five minutes of boiling.

Sometimes that famous "quickest way to a man's heart" (food!) isn't so very quick. It takes time to cook a meal. But I've found a truly "quick" way to delight the menfolks. It's INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE. Takes no longer to make than heating the water . . . and how men love it! You see, Instant Chase & Sanborn Coffee is the instant coffee made by real coffee people. Nearly a century of coffee experience makes it the best instant coffee you've ever tasted. The flavour's there—and the body—and the real lift. And it's so easy on your food budget—saves you up to 40c a pound compared with ground coffee!

No Wonder it's been "Canada's Favourite" since 1893! WINDSOR SALT makes such a delicious difference in the flavour of food. It makes every part of a meal more enjoyable—even at breakfast-time. Add a pinch of Windsor Salt to the coffee before you brew it . . . add salt to the cooked cereal you prepare . . . and sprinkle Windsor Salt on grapefruit, too—it really improves the flavour. And another thing you'll like about Windsor Salt . . . it's always free-running . . . it makes all the difference between "dull" and "delicious".

Now Your Baby can learn to drink from a cup without spilling a drop! Just look at the tumbler illustrated here and you'll see why. It's a specially designed, plastic Baby Tumbler that's yours for just 25c with labels from any 3 tins of HEINZ BABY FOODS or from 3 Heinz Baby Cereals. Write to me for yours—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal. Gov't Questions Law Values

QUEBEC (CP)—Revenue Minister McCann said yesterday his department has been questioning the low values at which certain goods, particularly textiles, have been declared on importations from Poland and Czechoslovakia.

In an address prepared for the annual meeting of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association, Mr. McCann said: "We have not been able to obtain satisfactory information in regard to home-market selling prices in some countries since they have refused to permit our officers to examine records in Poland and Czechoslovakia.

"We have no alternative, therefore, but to appraise the goods to the best of our ability on whatever information is available.

"Accordingly, certain lines of merchandise which we have reason to believe are being exported to Canada at values which do not meet the requirements of the customs act will be appraised at an advance over the invoice value with the collection of dumping duty where applicable."

Busy Builders

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—New construction values in Medicine Hat this year point to a record total. In the first nine months of 1952 the city issued 377 building permits valued at $1,569,000, equal to the whole year's total in 1951.

Professional Pollsters Admit They Were Too Careful

NEW YORK (AP)—The professional pollsters, who went off the deep end in 1948, admitted yesterday that they were too careful about getting their feet wet in the 1952 election campaign.

The public-opinion specialists, remembering their bitter lesson four years ago when President Truman scored an upset over Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, backed away from flat predictions in the final days of this year's campaign.

All appeared to give Gen. Dwight Eisenhower a slight margin, but two said the undecided vote before election day could have spelled victory for Governor Adlai Stevenson and the Democrats. None foresaw the Republican landslide.

CARRIED IKE TO WIN

Several newspaper surveys, including those conducted by The Associated Press, also found for Eisenhower. The AP survey which appeared 10 days before the election showed Eisenhower the probable winner in 20 states, with an edge in eight, with a total of 327 electoral votes. The general actually carried all 28 states.

Elmo Roper, head of the Roper poll, said beforehand: "There ought to be enough people still undecided to throw this election either way."

Yesterday, Roper conceded he is "open to the charge of being overly cautious this year." But, he added, "I made no prediction, and I don't ever intend to make a prediction until those undecided people tell us what they intend to do."

George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, confessed he underestimated the Republican victory, but said his poll "stayed within its normal margin of error."

COMPLETE LINK—Five thousand persons saw a train of the British Columbia government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway complete its inaugural run over the line's 81.9-mile, $13,000,000 extension from Quesnel to Prince George, B.C. The railway was started in 1912, heading into the then wilderness from Squamish, 30 miles from Vancouver at the head of Howe Sound. Quesnel became the northern terminus of the 347-mile line.

Warns Canada Must Show More Spending Restraint

QUEBEC (CP)—C. F. Fraser, director of the Institute of Public Affairs, Dalhousie University, Halifax, said today Canada must show restraint in spending or face economic destruction and political oblivion.

In an address prepared for delivery before the 30th annual meeting of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association, Mr. Fraser said present-day inflationary tendencies threaten to bring about either "a totalitarian system of price policy" or a "collectivist-Communist economic society."

"Unpalatable as such a conclusion may be, the fact remains that the blame for inflation rests upon the shoulders of the individual citizen."

Mr. Fraser said causes of inflation include huge sums of money paid out in social security measures, pressure by trade unions for higher wages and farm blocs for higher prices, expenditures to help economically - backward countries become industrialized to the point where they could become competitive with home industries, efforts to "share the wealth with other countries ostensibly because such international generosity will thwart communism," and "political me-tooism."

RAPS SOCIAL SECURITY

He said money paid out in social security has an inflationary effect because those in the higher income brackets pay their taxes largely out of money they would otherwise have saved, while those in the lower income groups largely consume the extra money they receive.

The rising strength of trade unions and farm blocs was an inflationary tendency because the power of both groups contributed strongly to the upward twisting of the wage-price spiral.

He said "inter-government charity" is inflationary because "equalizing incomes between countries, as between individuals, inevitably depresses the rate of saving, thus hindering the enlargement of investment for industrial expansion at home."

Political "me-tooism" was inflationary because "party labels have ceased to have any meaning as far as economic policy is concerned."

DENOUNCES CLAUSES

Mr. Fraser denounced efforts to solve the problems of inflation by so-called "escalator clauses."

Labor, he said, is striving to have wages go up each time the cost-of-living goes up. In Parliament, suggestions were made that a similar escalator clause be applied to old age pensions and family allowances.

"The economic consequences of such a course of action are so obvious as scarcely to need elaboration."

YOU WOULDN'T KNOW A WAR IS GOING ON—As bitter fighting rages in the bloody hills of Korea, the "Main Street" in Panmunjom, top, bears a sleepy, peaceful look. Only a few guards and liaison officers come and go at the site where the long-drawn-out truce talks, now indefinitely suspended, were held. Below, a Korean family calmly watches from a peaceful Korean hillside, as U.S. paratroopers float to earth from C-46 troop carriers, and land behind a protective smoke screen.

Find Big-City Transportation Growing Headache For Everybody

By WALTER BREEDE, Jr.

NEW YORK (AP)—What's wrong with the country's big-city transportation systems?

"Plenty," say the millions who fight their way into jam-packed buses, streetcars and subways every working day of their lives. "Every year the service gets worse while the fares go higher."

Transit managements, struggling to get out of the red, complain of mounting labor and equipment costs, "ruinous taxes," "inadequate fares," competition of taxpayer-subsidized city transit systems and private automobiles, and growing traffic congestion.

To probe the country's transit woes, and to find out what's being done about it, the Associated Press queried transit executives, municipal traffic experts and bus and subway strap-hangers in 19 major cities across the United States.

GLOOMY PICTURE

The picture pieced together is one of growing financial difficulties for both municipal and privately-owned transit systems, and of steadily-deteriorating service. Some of the companies are bankrupt; all but a handful say they are losing money.

High on managements list of gripes is the huge post-war increase in automobiles.

More people driving to work mean fewer bus and streetcar riders. More automobiles pouring into narrow, horse-and-buggy-era downtown streets slow trolleys and buses to a crawl. Riders, maddened by interminable delays, quit public transportation for car pools or take their own cars to work. The result is more congestion, disruption, and disgruntled riders.

Management offers a three-fold solution: restrict private car use of downtown streets. Ban all downtown parking. Build big parking ramps on the city's outskirts.

While downtown traffic jams and the resultant decline in rush-hour patronage are bad enough, many companies are worried even more by non-use of their facilities during non-rush hours.

One of the big things transit company officials say worry them is higher operating costs.

SOLUTION SIGHTED?

Labor costs in some cities are up as much as 118 per cent, and as living costs rise, more wage demands and new strike threats are in the offing.

It's common knowledge among transit officials that every fare boost results in a decline in the number of riders carried. Up to a certain point, the decline in riders is more than offset by the increased revenue. Then the law of diminishing returns comes into play.

A fed-up rider in Philadelphia offered this suggestion:

"Street cars, buses, subways—phooey," he said. "the only answer to this mess—and all big cities have it, I guess,—is helicopter service."

Bone-Crushing Handclasps Remove Mayoress From Line

BLACKPOOL, England (CP)—Official handshaking has ceased, at least temporarily, to be an occupational as well as a financial risk for Blackpool's first citizens, Mayor Peter Fairhurst and his wife.

In future they will confine their salutations to a polite bow when meeting guests at official functions.

Their decision to forgo the traditional form of greeting followed disclosure that Mrs. Gladys Parker, hostess daughter of their immediate predecessor in office, had suffered permanent injury to her welcoming arm, as the result of a bone-crushing handclasp at a reception about a year ago.

BROKE BONE IN HAND

At that function, petite Mrs. Parker's hand was given a robust squeeze by a 240-pound delegate to a weights-and-measures inspectors' conference. She winced with pain but passed on to greet some 400 other visitors.

A subsequent examination showed that a bone in her right hand had been fractured and her arm was placed in a plaster cast. Then and there she decided a welcoming bow would have to suffice as a sign of greeting.

INSURE MAYORS

The city's mayors are insured for £15,000 against injuries while on official duties and now the council of the corporation has voted to extend similar protection to mayoresses or official hostesses.

But forewarned by Mrs. Parker's experience, the present Mayor and his wife have given orders to their attendants: "No handshakes; We too, shall bow."

"Come on, Ruth! We're on our way to shop at Dominion. Why not join us?"

"But girls, I never shop at Dominion!"

"That's what we used to say too, Ruth. But we tried Dominion once and found we'd been missing plenty. Everyone's much more friendly at Dominion. And there's a greater variety from which to choose."

"Yes, and even more important, you really cut food costs at Dominion. Why, I've found that I save enough on food to buy more clothes . . . more entertainment . . . more things for the house."

"Okay, I'm with you, girls!"

In the past year an average of 1,000 women a week have switched to Dominion from other food stores. That's 50,000 in a year! Below are photos of just a few.

If you are like Ruth and never shop at Dominion, try it this week. Join the 1,000 who discover this week that they can feed their families better . . . for less . . . at Dominion!

Movies Given Pat On Back

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian movies, which have been confined to short subjects, educational films and propaganda pieces in the main, received a pat on the back last night from Immigration Minister Harris and Leonard W. Brockington, president of the J. Arthur Rank Organization in Canada.

Both spoke at a 25th anniversary dinner honoring Canadian film pioneers. Mr. Harris told of the importance the immigration department places on film strips. Films showing the advantages of Canada have encouraged immigrants to come here.

Mr. Brockington also referred to early immigration films and said that one made in the early 1900s was partly responsible for his decision to come to Canada.

The men honored at the dinner included Jule Allen of Toronto, who opened the Theatorium in Brantford in 1906.

Fenella Y.P.U. Guests At Roseneath Party

ROSENEATH (ENS) — A hard times party, was sponsored by Roseneath Y.P.U. on Monday evening when they entertained the Fenella young people. Hosts and guests numbering 40, were wearing their old togs, symbolic of the party.

The president, Miss Doris Robins, was in charge of the worship service and the business period. The Rev. J. R. Wheeler was pianist. Miss Donna Pringle presented the scripture reading.

The Fenella group presented two numbers, a vocal quartette by Misses Joyce Arthur, Gene Waldie, Margaret Duncan and Mary Jewell with Linda Arthur as piano accompanist; a mixed chorus, "Georgie and Frankie" was well dramatized by the vocalists with Harold Ingram playing guitar accompaniment. Miss Gene Waldie was pianist for a sing-song.

Miss Doris Robin was in charge of a scanvenger hunt with Carole McMillan's group winning. Shirley Rosebush was the winner of the lucky chair prize donated by Mary Skuce. Donna Pringle was in charge of a "paper hunt," following were the prize winners: Donald Robins, Terry Hogg, Ted Broadworth, Joyce Arthur, Phyllis O'Connell and Shirley Rosebush.

John Jewell, on behalf of the Fenella group, voiced his appreciation to the Roseneath Y.P.U. for the invitation and the pleasant evening spent.

United Church Films Shown

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — A large congregation gathered Wednesday night to see the Circuit Riders' Exhibit, featuring "The King's Man"—a full length motion picture in sound and color depicting the story of Frederico Mussili, and the church's work in Africa, plus a pictorial display, The Church at Work Around the World.

These films were sponsored by the United Church of Canada and were in charge of the Rev. William Fletcher, pastor at Wooler.

Mr. Fletcher was introduced by the Rev. V. M. Gilbert. Mrs. Gilbert was accompanist for the hymns.

At the close an offering was received by Fred Grieve and Albert Willis.

Big Housing Project

TORONTO (CP)—A $50,000,000 subdivision is to be started next March in suburban Scarboro. Plans call for its completion within two years. The project will provide 1,000 apartment units in 100 buildings and 4,000 houses on a 600-acre tract.

Lions Induct Three At Bancroft Meeting

BANCROFT (ENS) —Highlighting Monday night's meeting of the Bancroft Lions Club was the induction and initiation of three new members; Chester Wark, Gordon Wragg and Gordon Fresque. Mr. Wragg and Mr. Fresque are principals of the secondary and public schools respectively. Mr. Wark is the accountant at the local bank. The initiation ceremonies were capably conducted by Jack Follis, Everett Schramm and "Nub" McAlpine.

Considerable business was discussed at the meeting which revealed that a large sum of money had been disbursed by the club in the past year in the course of welfare work in this district and that many undertakings along this line are again underway.

Also discussed were plans for winter skating for local children, hockey games, and reorganization of the Boy Scout Troop. The latter group is not under auspices of the Lions Club and has, until now, been sponsored by the Canadian Legion. They are in need of assistance in reorganization and at the present time are being very capably handled by Reg. Wallis.

Arrangements have been formulated for the "Hunters Ball" to be held November 14, and "Turkey Bingo" at a later date. The ball committee, under the chairmanship of Jim Brown, predict a bigger success than ever. The bingo arrangements are being made by a committee under Whitney Martin.

The T.B. Christmas seals campaign, which is undertaken by members of the club, will commence soon under the direction of E. G. Thomas.

President "Mike" Burns presided at the meeting. The speaker for the evening was Duncan Grant who gave a very interesting outline of the history of Hamilton, Ontario.

SOUND START for good skiing is a boot that fits properly. This young lady (above) gets expert advice, learns that her boots should fit tightly at the heel, give firm ankle support. A beginner picks her first hickories (right) on the advice that they should be soft, light and reach only to the palm of the hand when the arm is extended.

Conservative Fashions Look Best On The Skiing Slopes

Want to learn to ski this winter?

Before you say yes, remember that there are easier ways to break your neck. There are tall buildings to be jumped from and thin ice to be crossed and, in a pinch, there's always Niagara Falls in a barrel.

But if you're really determined to join the slip-and-slide set, listen to some sound advice from an expert before you leap. Take it from Sigi Engl, instructor, who says the novice skier should know her business in order to avoid costly mistakes. Skiing, it seems, can be just as hard on the wallet as it sometimes is on the anatomy.

First bit of advice from Engl is to pick a reliable sports goods shop or department store where you can obtain competent advice. Then, frankly admit that you're a beginner.

Tell the man you want a pair of boots and don't ask him what brand he wears and then buy the same.

"There are many fine domestic and foreign boots on the market," Engl says. "Pick the one that fits and feels best. Be sure it fits tightly at the heel and gives the ankle firm support while permitting the wearer to bend the leg forward at the ankle."

Beginner's boots should be fitted as they will be worn —over one thin and one thick pair of socks. For comfort, allow a little wiggle room for the toes.

Now, for the skis. Whether you call them "shees" or skis, they should be light, soft and reach just to the palm of the hand when the arm is extended upward.

Oldtimers, when they aren't skiing, still debate the matter of regular versus safety bindings but the latest swing among those in the know is to the latter.

As for ski fashions, you'll want somethinng practical. You may be thinking of padding in your ski trousers in just the right place. Give up the thought and pick a parka and separate ski trousers. The all-in-one, or teddy-bear type suit, may be smart, but it's expensive, too.

So console yourself with one of the new quilted nylon parkas. Or have one in water-repellent cotton gabardine. You'll need it. They haven't thought of face and shin guards yet, but they may come later.

To avoid the devastating label of "snow bunny", trousers should be a conservative black, navy, gray or oxford. Careful fitting is important, too, since it pays off in trim good looks.

Plain dark sweaters are having a revival this year, worn with a vivid scarf knotted around the throat to achieve what's known as "downhill look".

What you wear after skiing really should be your own business. Liniment and bandages, probably. But if you're going to be up and about for dinner, glittery evening sweaters and velvet skirts are the thing this year. Or, there are printed cotton skirts in ballet length to be worn with matching vests and little puffed-sleeve blouses."

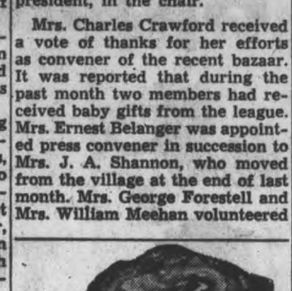
Marmora C.W.L. Plans For Regional Meeting

MARMORA (ENS)—The Catholic Women's League held a well attended monthly meeting at Sacred Heart Hall on Tuesday evening with Mrs. W. A. Shannon, president, in the chair.



Mrs. Charles Crawford received a vote of thanks for her efforts as convener of the recent bazaar. It was reported that during the past month two members had received baby gifts from the league. Mrs. Ernest Belanger was appointed press convener in succession to Mrs. J. A. Shannon, who moved from the village at the end of last month. Mrs. George Forestell and Mrs. William Meehan volunteered to visit the sick and shut-ins for the ensuing month.

Discussion followed regarding the regional meeting to be held in the parish hall in the near future. The Rev. J. O'Neill addressed the meeting, extending his hearty thanks to the members for catering at the bazaar and recent weddings. He also drew attention to the Catholic Register drive.

A belated gift was presented Mrs. Bert Crawford marking her golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Crawford expressed her deep thanks.

The Act of Consecration was read by Father O'Neill after which the program of the evening was presented. A piano solo was contributed by Mrs. Fred Paquet. A reading on "All Souls" by Mrs. Charles Cook was followed by a humorous reading by Miss Mary Hughes. Mrs. Jack McCrodan was the winner of the quiz contest.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Different Cookies For Your Party, Shower or Wedding

So you are going to have parties and showers and wedding receptions are you? and you want me to give you the latest in fancy cookies.

Sometimes I smugly cogitate on the reserve energy I have (and give thanks to the proper Source) but you women beat all get out. One gal saying, after asking for fancy cookie recipes "There will be over 200 at my daughter's wedding"— and she's going to make the cookies! and the sandwiches and the wedding cake and everything else edible. I quietly retire and take a back seat.

At a golden wedding anniversary yesterday I saw the most attractive array of fancy cookies and thought as I sampled them "that's for my ambitious gal".

There were ever so dainty cocoanut macaroons topped with a dot of cherry; golden nut bars, chocolate drops, almond rings, meringue kisses. All different, dainty and delicious, and I will give you as many as the column will hold today.

COCOANUT MACAROONS

Egg white should be room temperature—½ cup of them; 1¼ cups fine granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2½ cups well-packed moist shredded cocoanut. Beat the whites for 30 seconds—they must not be stiff. Remove beater and stir in the sugar, salt and vanilla, then the cocoanut. Place a sheet of wrapping paper on ungreased baking sheet. Drop macaroon mixture in 1-inch rounds, 2 inches apart on paper. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. about 18 minutes or until just delicately tinged with gold. Have ready a wet towel. Lift paper full of baked marcaroons from baking sheet. Place towel on baking sheet, replace paper of macaroons on towel, and let stand 1 minute. Steam forms, macaroons may be easily loosened with spatula. For party occasions, just before baking place ¼ or ⅛ of a green or red glace cherry at centre of each macaroon.

Of Interest to Women

GOLDEN NUT BARS (2-layer pan cookie)

One-half cup half-and-half butter and shortening, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 cup sifted flour. Cream together the shortening and sugar and mix in the flour. Have ready ungreased pan and line it with this rich crust, pressing it in evenly with palms,—pan should be 13 x 9 inches. Bake 10 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Then spread with this filling: Beat together 1 cup brown sugar and 2 eggs and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Sift together 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt and add them and 1 cup moist shredded cocoanut and 1 cup chopped almonds or pecans. Spread evenly on partially baked crust and bake 25 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Cool nearly to room temperature, then with very sharp knfe cut into small bars, or squares or diamonds.

CHOCOLATE DROPS

One-half cup shortening (or part shortening annd part butter), 1½ cups sugar, 2 squares (2oz.) unsweetened chocolate melted, 2 eggs, 1 cup thick sour cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2¾ cups sifted cake flour, ½ teaspoon each soda, baking powder and salt. Cream the sugar into the shortening, then beat in the eggs and melted chocolate. Stir in cream and vanilla. Sift together the sifted flour, baking powder, soda and salt, and sift over wet mixture and stir in. Chill dough 2 hours at least. Have ready lightly buttered cookie sheet, and drop dough in little rounds from tip of teaspoon —2 inches apart. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 8 or 10 minutes. Do not burn these. Frost with a little swirl of white butter or chocolate frosting. Top with a whole blanched almond or sprinkle with a few shreds of almond.

ALMOND RINGS (cookie press)

One cup soft shortening composed mostly of butter, ¾ cup sifted confectioners' sugar, 2 egg yolks, 1 egg white, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups sifted flour. Thoroughly mix together the shortening and butter, sugar, yolks, white, vanilla and salt. With the hands work into them the sifted flour. Put one of the narrow tips on your cookie press—preferably the one with 3 small teeth, which is about ⅜ inch wide. Force the dough through press onto cold cookie sheet in rings. Brush rings lightly with slightly beaten egg. Sprinkle with mixture of 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ cup very finely chopped almonds. Bake until crisp but not brown at 350 deg. Fahr.—about 10 min.

No room for Meringues. If you want them write to me.

India Missionary Speaks To Murray St. Circle

Fall thankoffering meeting of the Mary Nicholls Mission Circle of Murray St. Baptist Church on Tuesday evening was shared with visitors from neighboring churches. The guest speaker was Mrs. Eric Quirk who is home in western Ontario on furlough from India.

Mrs. Quirk was wearing a beautiful red silk sari, the graceful costume of India. She and her husband are missionaries in Vizagapaten, a large seaport city on the east coast of India which is also an important railway centre. She is manager and teacher in a school for Anglo Indians and her husband is minister.

Interesting facts about the work with this mixed race were related. "The christian teaching is a potent force in the evangelization of many," she said. Explanation revealed the Anglo Indians were largely employed when the British ruled and enjoyed a certain prestige then. They dress and live as Europeans and English is the language taught. Since independence came to India they have been discriminated against. "Their plight is pitiable" said Mrs. Quirk. "Many have migrated to Australia to get away from it."

Miss Ethel Smedmor introduced the speaker and she was thanked by Miss Margaret Eastwood.

The devotions were conducted by Miss Mary Ellis. Two pleasing piano solos were contributed by Miss Betty Lapp.

President Mrs. P. W. Johnson was in the chair. Business discussed briefly included the motion that a box of clothing be sent at Christmas to the Baptist port worker at Halifax.

Benediction was said by the Rev. G. E. Downing of Lakefield and afterward all enjoyed a social hour with Mrs. Quirk. Refreshments were convened by Mrs. Lewis Grant and served by other members of group one who were in charge of this meeting.

CGIT Doings

ST. ANDREWS'

The newly formed C.G.I.T. group at St. Andrew's United Church held an election of officers at the Wednesday meeting. The complete slate is as follows:

President, Judy Welsh; vice-president, Catherine Lewis; secretary, Diane Fletcher; treasurer, Judy Donaldson; social convener, Marlene Tilling; cabinet representatives, Donna Sanders and Dorothy Rowland; telephone committee, Catherine Lewis, Arlene Charles, Mary Jane Vilneff and Roxy Rusk.

Mrs. L. A. McLaren is the group leader, with Miss Ellen Murphy to lead the games and Mrs. O. Dalgleish handicraft instructor.

Meetings are to be held each Wednesday. Last week the girls enjoyed a Hallowe'en party.

Mrs. G. R. Pollock, Bethune St., has returned from Toronto where she was visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. Donald Pollock. Mrs. Donald Pollock is the former Anne Lillie of Port Colborne. Both are students at Victoria College.

✧ ✧ ✧

The marriage of Frances Joan Chamberlain, granddaughter of Mr and Mrs. Hewitt Davies of Peterborough, to Michael William Weatherall, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weatherall of Downer's Corners, will take place this Saturday afternoon in St. George's Anglican Church at four thirty o'clock.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. Theodore Courneya, 581 Chamberlain St., and her daughter. Miss Theresa Courneya of Toronto returned Wednesday from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, having been called east on account of the serious illness of the former's daughter, Mrs. Thorold Johnston (Rose) of Amherst, N.S.

✧ ✧ ✧

Knox Y.P.U. held their weekly meeting Tuesday evening in the church parlours. A lively singsong was led by June Drummond. Worship service was in charge of Bob Gardner and Marjorie Ross who chose as their theme "The Bible." The business was in charge of president June Drummond. The Rev. H. G. Douglas conducted Bible Study on the book of "Job." Recreation was led by Margaret Johnston.

✧ ✧ ✧

The Ladies' Auxiliary to St. John's 1st Peterborough Scout Troop met Wednesday evening in the parish hall. Mrs. B. Baker opened with prayer and the Mothers' Promise. After a short business session, the evening was spent in games, Mrs. Baker and Mrs. A. Barber being the prize winners. Refreshments were served by social convener Mrs. B. Calhoun, assisted by Mrs. W. Dawson and Mrs. Barber. The next meeting will be on December 3rd.

Sending Toys To Trinidad

The Jean Wagar Evening Auxiliary of St. James' United Church met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. S. Agnew, 558 Douglas Ave. Worship service was in charge of president Miss Gladys Langton and included a reading followed by the 23rd Psalm repeated in unison. A story was read from a missionary's transformed version of the 23rd Psalm. Temperance was given by Mrs. Agnew taking as her text the 23rd chapter of Proverbs, followed by prayer. The period was closed with a poem of "My Service." Study book was taken by Mrs. H. McCormack. A letter from Misses Connie and Marion Wagar, missionaries in Trinidad, was read. A large box of toys has been collected for distribution to the children in Trinidad at Christmas. Next meeting is to be held at the parsonage in the form of a supper meeting. After the benediction was said a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Agnew.

✧ ✧ ✧

Fete Bride-Elect

LAKEFIELD — (ENS) —Miss Joyce Hutt, whose marriage to Mr. Murray Patterson takes place on Saturday at the Church of St. John the Baptist, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower on Monday evening.

The parish hall was decorated for the occasion and Miss Betty Birch and Miss Florence Orr were hostesses.

Prior to the presentation Miss Barbara Hamblin extended the good wishes of those present to the bride-elect. Miss Hamblin and Miss D. Wilford assisted the hostesses in serving refreshments.

Bridgenorth W.A. Meeting

Bridgenorth United Church W. A. meeting Tuesday evening was at the home of Mrs. J. Johnston and was well attended. In charge of devotions Mrs. J. Hardill chose as her theme "Self-discipline" and read an article titled "There is a time" which dwelt on the fact of growing old. The W.A. creed was repeated in unison, followed by scripture read by Mrs. W. Nichols. The lesson thought, read by Mrs. Johnston, compared self-discipline to the mighty Mississippi. A short poem was read by Mrs. Reg. McConkey. President Mrs. C. Hartman presided for business. Mrs. C. Telford reported five visits made by her committee. Mrs. Earl Blewett gave details of success of the recent turkey dinner. It was decided to appoint a nominating committee to bring a new slate of officers to the December meeting, rather than hold an election at the meeting. Mrs. Hartman will be the hostess for this meeting. The Rev. D. P. Morris announced that the Rev. Herbert Yarr of Bailieboro will be guest speaker at the evening service this coming Sunday. Refreshments were served by the hostess and assistants.

Have Demonstration

The '38 Club had 21 in attendance at the meeting Wednesday evening when a lecture on facial beauty was given by Madame Lenart. A demonstration of her work was made possible by Miss Ruth Leach acting as a model. Door prizes for facials were won by Misses Winnie Hunter, Pearl Mullen and Joyce Harris. Tea was served afterward by Miss Hunter. It was planned to serve coffee and refreshments following a gym demonstration to be given December 4th.

✧ ✧ ✧

Y.W.C.A. Members' Council supper meeting was held Wednesday. A delicious supper was prepared by Mrs. Marlow Banks and Mrs. Stan McBride. President Miss Jean Hammond presided. Miss Helen Edmison gave an excellent devotional, reading on Armistice and on the United Nations. Y clubs are to recognize the Week of Prayer in their own programs next week. A gym demonstration was announced to be given December 4th.

✧ ✧ ✧

B.B. Mothers' Meeting

Mark St. Baby Band Mothers met in the church parlors Wednesday night. President Mrs. H. Guppy opened with a hymn and a thought for the month. Several busines sitems were discussed. It was decided to have a pot luck supper before the meeting in December. Mrs. J. Southgate took the chair for the devotions and scripture was read by Mrs. H. Bromley. A reading, "Facts about Angola" was given by Mrs. W. Beggs. Quartette singing by Mrs. D. Miller, Mrs. G. Craft, Mrs. B. Morwood and Mrs. K. Kidd, with accompaniment by Marilyn Pomeroy at the piano, was enjoyed. A reading about Angola Airlines by Mrs. K. Brown was taken from the study book. Mrs. M. Green gave a reading, "It isn't the church, it's you." Mrs. Southgate gave a concluding reading, also on Angola. A social hour was enjoyed, with Mrs. L. Rowland in charge, assisted by Mrs. Beggs, Mrs. Bromley, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. C. Ferguson, Mrs. Green, Mrs. D. Miller, Mrs. Southgate and Mrs. E. Toms.

St. Luke's Tea Room Festive With Christmas Decoration

Like a preview of the Christmas festive season, now just seven weeks away, was the tea-room in St. Luke's parish hall Wednesday afternoon.

The afternoon and evening branches of the W.A. emphasized this theme particularly at their bazaar tables, for the former were selling Christmas cakes, plum puddings and mincemeat, and the latter had a table of decorated boxes for Christmas gifts, festive table centrepieces of birch logs with red candles, and Christmas corsages and door decorations.

An elegant tea-table arrangement displayed the charm of large white poinsettas and white candles set in a bed of pine needles with silver highlights. An open lace cloth laid over green damask complemented the decoration.

Centrepieces on the quartette serving tables were specially made white candleholders decorated with tiny Christmas bells. Candles were the traditional Christmas red and the decoration included evergreen and silvery balls.

Pouring tea, in turn from three o'clock, were Mrs. D. H. Wyatt, Mrs. R. H. Turner, Mrs. Wm. King, Mrs. Donald Worboy, Mrs. R. G. Maniece, Mrs. G. R. Langley, Mrs K. Hamley, Mrs. Fraser Watson, Mrs. Mark Burnham and Mrs. W. J. Gilling.

Mrs. Cecil Campbell convened the tea room, assisted by Mrs. Reg. Tuck and others serving were Mrs. M. Perry, Mrs. H. Morrison, Mrs. H. Tunnicliffe, Mrs. D. Menzies, Mrs. M. A. Mesley, Mrs. Don Walker, Mrs. John Rogers, Mrs. J. Lee, Mrs. R. Sanderson, Mrs. J. Gemmell, Mrs. H. Starr and Mrs. M. Gates.

Mrs. Gilling was greeting guests, with Mrs. Ross Greenly and Mrs. Campbell.

The choir had a large "white elephant" table which was in charge of Mrs. F. Biddle and Mrs. F. Legon. The Chancel Guild had a "country store" and the choice of goods was wide. Mrs. Charles Hamilton was in chrage with Mrs. Bert McCarrell and Miss Marilyn Hamilton assisting.

Mrs. K. Hamley and Mrs. Don Worboy were in charge of the Evening Branch's table of gift boxes and decorations. Mrs. Herber Rogers was in charge of the fruit cakes and Mrs. W. Wiltshire and Mrs. G. Benton sold the puddings and mince meat.

The W.A. home cooking table was attended by Mrs. J. J. Turner, Mrs. A. Long and Mrs. R. G. Maniece.

The W.A. had on display the large bale that is now ready for shipment to Toronto headquarters for distribution to schools in the west. Mrs. E. Crofts who has made five very pretty cot covers in a variety of pastel colors with appliqued centres was on hand to explain the bale. It was remarked that the children's overalls and other garments in colorful denims and cottons now are making the work even more interesting.

Evening Branch has also a display of the layettes the members have made, including a few garments for one-year olds. They have a number of sweater and bonnet sets of individual design to accompany the quantity of nicely made up flannelette garments.

Home and School Association News

RIFLE RANGE SCHOOL

Rifle Range Home and School Association met Monday evening with president Mrs. W. Amos presiding.

Mrs. H. Hope led the devotional period with reading of the 84th Psalm. Mrs. S. Wood was pianist.

Plans were made for an oratory contest to be held in the new year to encourage the children in public speaking. The attendance prize was won by the Senior Room.

Mrs. Amos introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Poole, teacher of handicrafts in the rural schools. His topic was "Hobbies, Recreation." His definition of a hobby was: "Any occupation other than your regular line of work" from which you derive pleasure and enjoyment. Try a variety of hobbies to find one to keep your interest and enthusiasm, he advised.

For boys and girls, hobbies are many and varied, ranging from collecting colored stones, coins and stamps, to making and constructing things.

"Hobbies in the home where all can participate tend to strengthen the bond between parents and children, having fun together," he said.

"Hobby nights have their place in a community where people can get together to share and talk over their hobbies; getting new ideas and renewing interest. The individual with a hobby will have less time to worry thereby being a happier and healthier person."

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. M. Northey.

A social half hour followed, convened by Mrs. L. Welch and Mrs. H. Hope, assisted by Mrs. A. McLeod and Mrs. W. Muir.

Chapter News

MAJOR BENNETT CHAPTER

Three new members were welcomed into Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E., Tuesday night at the Y.W.C.A. Green Room by Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, honorary regent, and Mrs. Donald Murray, regent. Miss Jean Gillespie, membership convener, introduced Mrs. Charles Dobbin, Mrs. Don Irving and Mrs. O. Price, who pledged themselves to the I.O.D.E.

Mrs. Hall gave a brief outline of the founding of the I.O.D.E. in 1900, during the Boer War. At the present time there are 950 chapters of the I.O.D.E., functioning in Canada.

Mrs. T. Gaskell, convener for services home and abroad, reported there is urgent need for diapers in Greece and Austria. Each member was urged to help. Twenty pairs of golf hose were filled with toys for Christmas, and sent to England. Two needy families were helped with clothing and other donations. Sewing meetings to be held Thursday, November 13th. Contributions for food boxes were brought to the meeting. Cheese was mentioned as one item that is rationed, and the ration is very small.

Mrs. D. McIntyre and Mrs. D. Craig are to represent the Chapter at the Cancer Society's annual meeting, and also at the Civic Cadidates meeting.

Mrs. B. E. Metcalf, educational secretary, read a letter received from Mr. H. Knox, new teacher of the Chapters' adopted school at Burleigh Falls. Mrs. H. Fallis, empire and world affairs convener, gave a paper on "World Affairs and the Election in the U.S.A."

Mrs. D. W. Clark, convener of the recent harvest tea, thanked all those who assisted. Mrs. Hudson Hall distributed chapter calendars to the members to sell. Mrs. H. James and Miss June Fraser had on display the Chapter scrap book which won second prize last year.

Treasurer Mrs. William Nash reported that the sum of $162. to be disbursed to the various funds of the order: Peace Garden Fund, Wilehmina Gordon Fund, Commonwealth and Empire Fund, British and European Relief Fund, Cigarette Fund, Seamen's Amenities Fund, Endowment Fund, National Film Fund.

Nominating committee drawn up to elect the new slate of officers for the coming year is: Mrs. William Taylor, convener; Mrs. Jack Skitch, Mrs. A. E. Thompson, Miss Joyce Alexander.

Mrs. J. Ralph Clark, representative to Municipal Chapter, read Miss Mary Medd's report from the semi-annual I.O.D.E. meeting in Kitchener last month.

Coffee and sandwiches were served by Mrs. Harry James and committee in absence of convener Mrs. Frank Patterson.

What's Right?

You receive a note from a house guest, telling you how much he enjoyed his visit.

WRONG: Make no effort to answer the note.

RIGHT: Realize that the guest would appreciate hearing that you, too, enjoyed the visit and look forward to seeing him again.

MUST REMOVE CHICKENS

NORWICH, England (CP)—An auctioneer bought a piece of land at the foot of his garden to prevent it becoming a "lovers' lane," and constructed a chicken-run. He was fined 40 shillings for obstructing a right-of-way and ordered to remove the chickens.

The tuning fork to give a choir or orchestra the correct pitch was invented by John Shore in 1711.

Plain White And Cream Ceilings Out

REGINA (CP)—Next time the man of the house finds himself tangled up in a roll of wallpaper his wife may be able to give him a few pointers in the right direction.

It may all come about through a visit of Mrs. Lilla Tillson—or Kate Appleby, as she is called professionally—a wallpaper stylist on a western tour for the Canadian Wallpaper Association.

Mrs. Tillson, whose home is in Galt, Ont., says there's a lot of satisfaction "in doing a room yourself." Her demonstrations are to show short cuts to better home papering. She also illustrates new style trends.

For instance, Mrs. Tillson says wallpaper is very effective on ceilings. In kitchens where built-in cupboards leave little space for decoration, a gaily patterned wallpaper on the ceiling and one wall gives the room a new "zip."

The wallpaper stylist says the trend is away from plain white or cream ceilings in any room. "Colors are so much easier to live with."

Mrs. Tillson abvises light pastel colors for small rooms. In a large room "let your fancy roam and do some experimenting," she says.

Married Couples Enjoy Banquet

The annual banquet of the Married Couples Group of Murray St. Baptist Church was an enjoyable event Tuesday evening. The meal was served in Stewart Hall by the church ladies of the district.

A short program followed dinner, consisting of several numbers by the barber shop quartette, "Kawartha Four." An interesting talk was given by Mr. Alex Kay, member of the Department of Lands and Forests, the title being "God's Own Creatures."

Annual reports showed a very successful year past. Officers elected for the coming year are: president, Mr. Tom Smoothie; vice-president, Mr. Ted Nash; secretary, Mr. Kinsman Beeler; treasurer, Mr. Len Wilson.

Those attending the banquet were:

Mr. and Mrs. D. Lamers, Mr. and Mrs. L. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. G. Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. H. Tranter, Mr. and Mrs. D. Harwood, Mr. and Mrs. W. Loomis, Mr. and Mrs. E. McNabb, Mr. and Mrs. Russ Baer, Mr. and Mrs. L. Mullen, Mr. and Mrs. C. Boorman, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Graham, Mr. and Mrs. T. Smoothie, Mr. and Mrs. V. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. W. Tice, Mr. and Mrs. M. Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. F. Trotter, Mr. and Mrs. H. Doughty, and Messrs. George McKay, Bill Chevalier, H. Coulson, D. Montgomery, and R. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Club Installs Officers

One hundred members and guests attended the meeting of the Mr. and Mrs. Club at George Street United Church Wednesday night, when officers for 1953 were elected and installed in office. The installation ceremony was directed by the Rev. E. W. Rowland. The slate of officers is a follow

Honorary presidents—the Rev. and Mrs. A. A Mathews, The Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Rowland; presidents — Mr. and Mrs. Archie Townsend; vice president — Mr. and Mrs. Scott McFarlane; secretary—Mr. and Mrs. R. Foster; treasurer—Dr. and Mrs. Allan McDougall; press reporters — Mr. and Mrs. Doug Baker; group leaders——Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Howden, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Ellicott, Mr .and Mrs. Stewart Thompson.

The groups which won the attendance contests, led by Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Ellicott were entertained by the losing group led by Mr. and Mrs. S. Bowman and Mr. and Mrs. Doug Starke.

Announcement was made of the Christmas dinner and party which is to be held December 3rd at Warsaw.

The club also decided to purchase material to make curtains for the Primary Sunday School room. Mr. Stewart Thompson is chairman of this project.

Following the business, everyone particapated in lively games directed by Archie Townsend. Sandwiches, ice cream and cake were then served to and a very enjoyable evening.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Mamie Eisenhower Hopes To See More Of Husband

NEW YORK (CP)—Mamie Eisenhower's most fervent wish is that she will see more of her husband, the president-elect, than she has during the years he was a military commander.

Mrs. Eisenhower expressed that wish yesterday at her first press conference after the election returns.

Life in the White House, she said, holds no fears for her because she and Ike have lived "in a sort of goldfish bowl and we've had guards for years."

SIGHTSEERS GATHER

She got an idea during the day of what it is like to be wife of the president when sightseers clustered around their New York home on uptown Morningside Drive. She and Ike had to retire to the fifth floor to avoid the crowds, some of whom were even squinting at their windows through binoculars.

Mrs. Eisenhower is a 56-year-old grandmother who looks younger than her years. Tuesday night she put her grandchildren to bed before going downtown to await the election returns.

Meanwhile, the second lady of the land, Pat Nixon, wife of vice-president-elect Robert M. Nixon, was in Washington.

The 39-year-old Mrs. Nixon, who has seen more of political life in Washington during her husband's six years as a senator, campaigned strenuously with him.

She considers herself a "housewife." She has two children, Patricia, 16 and Julie, 4, and a home in a fashionable Washington suburb.

DOROTHY DIX

Few Neighbors Escape Trouble Makers

DEAR MISS DIX: We have lived in our present house for seven years. During that time we met and made quite a few new friends. However, there is one woman who visits one of us and talks, usually adversely against the other. She claims she wants to be friendly, yet she is very snobbish toward the rest of us. No one can do things quite as well as she can. No child is quite is good as her daughter, etc. What makes her that way?

P. N.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The fall of the year must be bringing out the worst in neighbors, for several letters in my mail this week dealt with this same theme. It is, of course almost an ubiquitous problem. Almost any block in any community harbors at least one troublesome woman who has nothing good to say about anyone, but delights in repeating (and enlarging upon) any derogatory tale she hears. She likes to run everyone else's business and has little or no charity in her for anyone.

The problem is particularly onerous in a community of home owners, especially if the homes are small and close together, as they are in most suburbs.

HOW TO HANDLE A GOSSIP

What to do? The remedy is ignoring the trouble maker and giving her as little material for her gossip as possible. You probably will have to resort to all but actual insults to achieve your purpose of keeping her out of your homes, but bad situations call for drastic measures. When she comes to the door, tell her you're sorry but have no time to visit just then and close the door. If all the other neighbors are as troubled over the situation as you are, get together in a concerted effort to bar the lady from your homes. In time she'll catch on and should mend her ways, at least to a more neighborly level.

There's no use pretending that life will ever be harmonious in a neighborhood with such a gossip, but it must be accepted on the best terms possible. You have good friends; make the most of them; keep the unpleasant one in her place.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a divorcee in my early forties. My husband deserted me ten years ago, leaving me with a child to support. About a year later I met a bachelor and have been going with him ever since. I am very much in love with him, but he has never mentioned marriage. Lately he has become somewhat indifferent, but still comes to see me.

PAM

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are most certainly wasting your time on the man if your intention is to marry again. In fact, it appears that he is drawing your nine-year-old friendship to a close, anyway. You assuredly must have suspected before this that he wasn't matrimonially inclined. Begin to see other people; your married friends will be so relieved that you are breaking off that they no doubt will be delighted to make it possible for you to meet other men and to invite you without him.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: In the near future I am to be married to a man who is very ambitious. He cannot get along with his fellow workers. He is jealous, holds a grudge, and is constantly complaining, though he is very good to me. I love him, although I realize he has bad qualities. I am interested in making our marriage last and would appreciate any advice you can give me.

RITA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The marriage should easily last a month. Maybe if you are a particularly long-suffering person, it might hold out for a year. Are you so hard up for a husband that you have to settle for taking chances on such an unpleasant piece of humanity? If he complains to others, he will soon be complaining to you and how you cook and keep house and make your life miserable. Better side-step him and his ways while you can.

6—In Memoriam

ELLIOTT—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. W. H. Elliott, who passed away November 6, 1950.
We are sad within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever been called away.
We think of her in silence.
No eye can see us weep,
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.
—Lovingly remembered by husband and family.

LLOYD—In loving memory of Emsley Lloyd, who passed away November 6, 1950.
O happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife and son Patrick.

MENZIES—In loving memory of Clara Hadley Menzies, who passed away November 6, 1940.
The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one we loved,
From memory pass away.
—Ever remembered by son David, daughter-in-law Marguerite and granddaughters.

Lindsay Juniors Name President

LINDSAY (ENS) — Lindsay Junior B's, although they still haven't a name, officially have a president and executive. They were named at a meeting of the directorate of the club last night. In addition, Coach "Sixty" Coombs named the players he'll use on Friday night for the team's opener in Peterborough.

Dr. R. H. Davies will head the executive of the club for the coming season. The new president, a newcomer to town, will take the reins of a club that is unsponsored to a certain extent, and is beginning a new season with totally local talent this year. The directors were asked at the outset of the meeting whether they thought the operation of a junior team possible and whether they would support such an effort if they decide it would work. They agreed that the town should have a team, although there were some doubts as to the potential calibre of the team. Several others, however, argued that the club, young as it will be, will be gaining experience that would be invaluable during the next two years since most of the team members are still of juvenile age.

As to finances, the members of the executive were told that the team should not run up a deficit this year, in view of decreased transportation costs, and the fact that the home talent will not be subsidised. They were informed that the reason for the large deficit last year had been the fact that transportation costs were high, and the imports who made up most of the team were either paid or given allowances to keep them in the town. Red Mitchell, secretary-treasurer of the club, and chairman for the meeting, pointed out that out of 32 hopefuls turning out for the team to date, there should be a good club this year, and a winning team during the next two years.

In regard to the team's finances, Mitchell read a letter from Eddie Shore, of Syracuse, guaranteeing his responsibility for any indebtedness the team might run into before the end of the season. Shore demanded, however, a monthly financial statement, and made it clear that the club must be run on a businesslike basis.

The team name presented another problem, one which will not be solved until the Kinsmen Club, sponsors of last year's team, make their position clear with regard to the equipment they still own. There were rumors voiced that the team would be again called the Kin Juniors if the club demanded that its name be used in return for the equipment.

Coach "Sixty" Coombs and manager Ab O'Neil announced the following team for Friday night's opener in Peterborough: Goal, Reg Truax; defence, Bill Williams, O'Neil, Packer and Hadley; forwards, Art Truax, Tom Hutton and Bill Burns or Packer, Hal Williams, Jack Graham and Hadley, Chidley, Teel and Teel.

Members of the board of directors named at last night's meeting were Stan Hogarth, Ted Hick, Graydon King, Harry Pierce, Lloyd Burrows, Don Dart, Marshal Stevens, Col. Jack Truman, Bruce Maidens, Ginger Davies, Al Picard, Sim Villeneuve, and Dr. Davies, the president.

Hold Funeral Service For Drowned Youth

LINDSAY (ENS)—Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for Grant Stamp, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stamp, who drowned Tuesday night in the Gull River at Minden.

Word has been received that the car which the lad was driving had just been paid for. The youth was visting his home for a few days during the hunting season, from his job at Thessalon.

Mr. Stamp, his father, was in the woods with a hunting party at the time of the accident. Searchers had to go in seven miles on foot to bring him the word of the tragedy and bring him home. The boy is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters.

Obituary

ROBERT SMITH

A familiar figure on Water St. for many years, Robert Smith, 64, 639 Lillian St., died today in hospital following a lengthy illness

Mr. Smith was caretaker and gardiner in the city and for several years was employed in the Bradshaw law firm offices and other offices in the Water and Hunter Sts. vicinity.

Born in Old Meldrum, Scotland, Mr. Smith has lived in Peterborough for the past 25 years. Formerly he lived in Los Angeles, Calif.

He was an adherent of George St. United Church.

He leaves one daughter, Mrs. F. Magee, (Ethel), Peterborough; and two sisters, Mrs. W. Watt and Mrs. Barron, both of Scotland. His wife, the former Ethel Hall, predeceased him.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. from the Kaye funeral home. The Rev. A. A. Mathews of George St. United Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

lung tumors is also worth noting as being probably important information for those two persons."

Mr. Lewis said the survey had not yet been made in North Monaghan township and the southern area of Smith.

"I'd like to mention the preliminary work that was done in the county, especially by quite a number of women," Mr. Lewis said. "Their effort deserved a larger response by the people. The survey is for the benefit of everybody, but for their own reasons far too many stayed at home or were otherwise indifferent."

Union Pickets Have Withdrawn

SARNIA (CP) — Union pickets withdrew today and work on 250 defence homes here resumed in accordance with yesterday's court injunction.

The injunction, which stops picketing for eight days, is being studied by union lawyers.

W. A. Donohue, counsel for the seven contractors concerned, said application will be made to extend the injunction.

Some 3,000 construction workers left their jobs Oct. 29 to protest hiring of non-union labor and substandard wages.

Most of the men returned to work last Monday leaving "flying squads" of unemployed members to picket a different project each day.

The injunction was issued against Arthur Steinberg, president of the building trades council; W. W. Tiller, vice-president, and five other persons.

Michigan Sends Potter To Senate

DETROIT (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's sweep of Michigan helped to put Republican Congressman Charles E. Potter in the U.S. Senate today while a race was still on for the governorship

Potter, legless war veteran who campaigned in part on a fight-communism platform, beat out the incumbent Democrat, labor-backed Blair Moody.

With unofficial returns almost complete, Potter pulled out ahead in late tabulations swelling his margin to more than 47,000.

This restored to Republican hands the Senate post once held by the late famed Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg. Moody was Vandenberg's appointee - successor.

To the very last, Michigan's governorship battle remained hot between Democratic incumbent G. Mennen Williams and Republican Fred M. Alger Jr.

Votes For Eisenhower Broke Record In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower drew more popular votes Tuesday than any other presidential candidate in United States history in an election which also set a new high for total votes cast.

The Republican president-elect received 31,875,451 votes with 10,842 of the country's 146,361 precincts still to be heard from. The previous high was piled up by Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936—27,751,597 when all returns were in from his race with Alf M. Landon

Tuesday's incomplete total vote cast for both Eisenhower and Democrat Adlai Stevenson added up to 57,544,367, compared with the previous record of 49,820,312 set in 1940 when Roosevelt defeated Wendell L. Willkie.

Engineers To Hear Of Tapping Problems

Speaker at tonight's meeting of the American Society of Tool Engineers, Peterborough branch, will be Glen S. Stimson, chief engineer and sales manager of the Greenfield Tap and Die Corporation of Greenfield, Mass.

His topic will be "Taps and Tapping Problems." Also present will be R. D. Elmslie, president of the firm's Canadian branch; W. Lacneilson, export manager of the American firm, and V. A. Mitchell, sales manager for Canada, of Galt.

Time is 6.15, and the meeting is at the Empress Hotel. A film will be shown for early-comers.

11,130 Folk Punished Were Pro-Cominform

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP)—Interior Minister Alexander Rankovic, boss of Yugoslavia's security police, disclosed today that 11,130 persons have been "punished" for pro-Cominform sympathies since this country's break with Russia and the Soviet satellites in 1948.

He told the sixth congress of the Communist party of Yugoslavia that 4,089 persons of that total still are serving their terms, "doing socially useful labor."

Rankoviv said Communist party membership has been increased by 311,000 members since the last congress in 1948 and now represents 7.43 per cent of Yugoslavia's population.

CONGRATULATIONS

When Dwight D. Eisenhower received word that he had been elected president of the United States, he also received a telegram of congratulations from a Peterborough resident, Harold Gilbert, 87 Hunter St. W., which read: "All goes well. God bless you and Mrs. Eisenhower."

French Novelist Awarded '52 Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Royal Swedish Academy today awarded the 1952 Nobel prize for literature to French novelist Francois Mauriac, a leading Roman Catholic author.

Mauriac, 67, is known for such novels as "The Desert of Love" and "Vipers' Tangle." He also is a poet, playwright, essayist, biographer and contributor to newspapers. He will receive 171,134 Swedish crowns ($33,037) from King Gustav Adolf at a presentation Dec. 10.

The award for medicine, announced Oct. 23, will go to U.S. Dr. Selman A. Waksman of Rutgers University, co-discover of streptomycin. A committee of the Norwegian Parliament announced earlier that no peace prize would be given this year.

Mauriac, considered an outstanding interpreter of human psychology, writes principally of French provincial families, split by hatred and desire for vengeance and ruled by greed for material gain. His characters are portrayed with acute perception in all their misery and meanness.

But most of them have at least one redeeming feature. Mauriac emphasizes throughout his writings a belief that a sinner may come in for a share of God's grace if he can face truth in his life.

The academy selected the winner from among more than 40 candidates, including Prime Minister Churchill of Britain, Italian philosopher Benedetto Croce and French novelist Albert Camus.

Last year's prize went to Swedish author Par Lagerkvist.

Mauriac recently finished two novels, "Le Sagouin" and "Galigai," his first since before the Second World War. During the war he wrote articles for the underground resistance movement under the name of "Forez."

Lindsay Balks At Fee For Audit Of Books

LINDSAY—An audit fee of $300 charged by a Toronto firm for auditing the Lindsay Recreation Centre books was questioned Tuesday night by the town council.

The discussion arose following a complaint by Ald. Harry Pierce that the fee was too high. He explained that the fees for auditing the Recreation Centre books had been $300 while the fee for the Hydro books, which involved a quarter million dollar business, was only $275.

The council found no other fault with the Toronto firms work. This firm has been auditing the town's books for the past 20 years.

Two Lindsay audit firms were called in. They assured the council that they had an adequate staff to carry out the audit. But it was decided to write to the Toronto firm asking for an explanation for their fees before any action was taken.

Blocked Highway With Lumber, 5 Held

LINDSAY—Common nuisance charges have been laid against five teen-age boys of the Fenelon Falls district for a Hallowe'en prank.

The charges were laid by Chief Constable David Gordon of Fenelon Falls. He reported that the five, all 17 and 18 years of age, scattered nearly 100 pieces of lumber over the highway in front of Handley's Mill at the west end of the village.

The chief constable first saw the lumber at 2.30 Saturday morning. He and an assistant cleared it off the road. One hour later he returned to find the lumber on the highway again.

He decided that the joke had gone too far and laid a nuisance charge under the Criminal Code for endangering the safety of others.

Three of the boys are from the village and two are from Verulam township.

Board Of Directors For Osteopaths

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government today announced the establishment of the first Canadian board of directors of osteopathy.

Classed for 26 years with physiotherapists, chiropractors and masseurs under the Drugless Practitioners' Act, about 90 Ontario osteopaths now will have the right to govern, license and examine their members. They previously were governed by a common board of regents.

Chairman of the new board will be Dr. Douglas Firth, director of public relations for the Ontario Osteopathic Association. Board members include Norman Burbridge of Guelph.

Dr. Firth said the organization will press for legislation to permit broader practice rights. These would include surgery and use of the title "doctor."

U.K. People Take Bath Once Week

LONDON (AP)—The Ministry of Works reported today half the people in Britain take a bath once a week—or say they do.

The figure was obtained from a survey made to determine how many homes have an automatic hot water supply.

Critics Praise Return Of Star After 8 Years

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK (AP) — Margaret Sullavan returned to the stage last night at the Morosco theatre in her first flesh-and-blood performance in eight years and gave a memorable performance.

In the role of Hester Collyer in the Terence Rattigan play, "The Deep Blue Sea," Miss Sullavan lifted what might have been a minor play into one of the most enchanting dramas of the season.

Miss Sullavan played the role of a woman desperately in love with a younger man for whom she has left her husband, a man of distinction. She is very much in love with the younger man, but to him she is only another conquest.

At the beginning of the play she is trying to commit suicide by means of gas, and at the end of the play she is again trying to commit suicide. In both cases, her efforts are frustrated because she doesn't have the necessary coin to turn on the gas.

"The Deep Blue Sea" is a highly emotional drama and much of its strength is based upon superb performances, especially those of Miss Sullavan, Alan Webb, James Hanley and Herbert Berghof.

Drive 100 Miles To Hear Manning

BARRIE (CP)—Premier Manning of Alberta told a revival meeting last night the world is in a sorry condition and nations are looking for a solution everywhere "except up."

About 1,000 persons heard him speak in Collier Street United Church. Some said they had come as far as 100 miles.

Premier Manning, a lay preacher, is touring Ontario and Quebec in connection with his "Back to the Bible" weekly radio broadcast.

Dr. K. McElroy Tours Europe

Dr. Keith McElroy, formerly of Peterborough, and now of the Presbyterian Hospital and Columbia University, New York, has been attending medical meetings in Paris and Genoa.

Writing from Europe he says, "We find all through France, Switzerland and Italy there seems plenty of everything—good food, good transportation, lots of meat, gasoline, clothing, candy, soap, woollens, etc. I hope to take some soap, kleenex, eggs and candy over to England. Prices vary greatly. Paris is expensive, but not as bad as New York. Switzerland is very inexpensive as are parts of Italy. However gasoline is $1.00 a gallon so the cars are small and give 40 miles to the gallon. In Italy it is forbidden to manufacture cars of more than four cylinders. All Kinds of motor scooters are common.

In a later letter from England he tells of visiting a cousin of his mother, Dr. Allen Conn, who is on a one-year fellowship in anaesthesia at the Great Ormond Street Hospital, London, before returning to the staff of the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto. Dr. Conn suffered a broken leg in the Harrow train wreck which claimed the lives of 110. He is at present wearing a walking cast and hopes to resume his duties in two months.

Told Governors Jail Guards Not Adequate

TORONTO (CP) — Alexander Noble, 60-year-old veteran of 25 years as a Don jail official, testified yesterday he told succeeding governors at the jail that the number of guards and system of surveillance were inadequate.

Noble was suspended as deputy governor along with Governor Thomas Brand and several guards after the escape of four members of the Boyd gang in September. The four were later recaptured, tried, and sentenced on various charges.

A swollen prisoner population at the jail was tended by a skeleton staff, Noble told Judge Ian Macdonell, Royal commissioner appointed to inquire into conditions at the jail.

Noble, who served through the terms of six governors, said the spectacular escape of Edwin Boyd, Leonard Jackson, Steve Suchan and William Jackson was not altogether unexpected. Guard morale had deteriorated and proper liaison was lacking between several governors and their chief lieutenants.

He said it was nearly four months after the appointment of Brand before he was introduced to him, and then the introduction was made by a bookkeeper at Noble's request.

GUARD SUBJECT TO FITS

—Noble said that at one time he found a large group of prisoners entrusted to the care of a guard subject to fits. Twice after that he found the guard unconscious in a corridor and the prisoners in possession of the keys.

A previous witness, suspended guard Peter Joseph Lee, said he was offered a $30,000 bribe to facilitate the escape of the Boyd gang but did not take the offer seriously.

He said he met a casual acquaintance known only as Moxie in a hotel beverage room.

"He asked if I knew the Boyd gang," said Lee. "I said yes. Then he asked if I wanted to make $30,000. I figured he was kidding. . . I told him no dice."

OBITUARIES

THOMAS EDWARD BARRIE

Assistant road master with the C.P.R., Thomas Edward Barrie, 300 Wolfe St., died Wednesday in hospital after a short illness in his 54th year. Born at Watson's Corners in Dalhousie township (Perth), he was the son of Mrs. James Barrie and the late James Barrie. His wife, the former Elsie Marget Lee, survives him.

Mr. Barrie came to Peterborough 14 years ago from Lavant Station, Lavant township. He was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and the Sharbot Lake Lodge 621, A.F. and A.M.

Besides his mother and wife surviving are: a son, T. Lee Barrie, at home; three sisters, Mrs Louis Arnold (Susan) of Kentucky, Mrs. Cam Elmitt (Elma) of Ferris Mrs. Clarence Duncan (Rena) of Perth; three brothers,. Henry and Rankin of Perth, and Wesley of Sudbury. A daughter, Margaret, died in 1948.

The funeral service will be conducted by the Rev. C. G. Boyd, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Comstock funeral home. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

FREDERICK WILLIAM BATE

A grocer in Peterborough for many years, Frederick William Bate, 82, 563 Walnut St., died Wednesday in Civic Hospital after an illness of one month.

Mr. Bate was born in Peterborough, son of the late William M. Bate and Rebecca George, and has lived here a lifetime. He owned and operated the F. W. Bate Grocery Store on Stewart St. for many years and also operated Bate's Bakery.

A veteran of the First World War, Mr. Bate was a member of the 557th Regiment Band. He was also a member of George St United Church.

He leaves one daughter, Mrs. H. P. Adams (Lillian), Detroit, Michigan; two sisters, Mrs. R. Finley (Lillian), Barrie, and Mrs Mabel Graham, Mimico; one nephew, Richard H. Bate, Toronto; two grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 2.30 p.m. from the Kaye funeral home. The Rev. E. W. Rowland of George St. United Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Confiscate Cars Of Drunks Being Studied

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec government may confiscate the automobiles of motorists convicted of driving under the influence of liquor.

Solicitor - General Rivard said in an interview yesterday the provincial government is considering a recommendation along these lines made by Chief Judge Thomas Tremblay of Quebec Sessions Court.

Mr. Rivard said it is one of a number of steps under study by the government planning a drive against traffic-law offenders.

Information regarding physical and visual tests for new drivers already has been announced as a government intention.

Mr. Rivard said the government also plans to amend existing legislation covering the suspension of drivers' permits.

"If you are found guilty of illegally transporting beer or cigarets you can lose your car now," he said. "Someone whose car causes death should at least suffer the same penalty."

He said provincial police strength in Montreal and Quebec districts would be greatly increased with stress on new men for the traffic divisions.

Special courts where traffic offenders may be arraigned immediately also are under consideration, he said. This system had proved effective in the United States.

Wolves Not To Blame For Scarcity Of Deer

BANCROFT (ENS)—Only a few deer have been seen coming through this village on hunters' cars so far this week, the first of the deer season. Some hunters believe that the dearth of deer may have been caused by an increase in the number of timer wolves.

However, the Lands and Forests office at Bancroft doubts this theory, and believe that the weather has played a greater part than anything. They say that there were plenty of deer signs in the district during the summer and early fall.

U.S. Election Briefs

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—The results of the presidential election were hard to swallow for Carolyn Howard.

She had to pay off an election bet by eating the front page of the pro-Eisenhower Montgomery Advertiser yesterday.

Mrs. Howard, who does publicity for the Montgomery chamber of commerce, had her chips on Governor Adlai Stevenson in a friendly wager with one of the newspaper's reporters.

She tackled the problem shrewdly though. She burned the page, crumpled the ashes in a cup of coffee and followed it with apple pie.

✦ ✦ ✦

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower yesterday got the first of a stream of presents he will receive as president: a broom which bore the message "to clean up the mess." A secret service agent took the wrapped broom at the door of Eisenhower's Columbia University residence. It was sent by a Brooklyn wholesale brush firm.

✦ ✦ ✦

LONDON (AP)—Radio Moscow finally told the Russians the results of the United States presidential election at 2 a.m. today—about 18 hours after most other European radio stations had broadcast the news of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's victory. The Moscow broadcast was a brief announcement that the election had been held and that soon after the vote counting began "the candidate of the Democratic party (Adlai) Stevenson admitted defeat."

✦ ✦ ✦

MAIN DUCKS (CP)—John Foster Dulles, Republican foreign policy adviser, said yesterday friendly foreign people need not have any fears of the forthcoming Eisenhower administration policies. Dulles is being mentioned as a possible choice for secretary of state under Gen. Eisenhower.

Dulles called the U.S. election verdict a "mandate to seek better foreign policies."

He gave his post-election views to William E. Pearson of the Watertown, N.Y., Daily Times, who flew here to Dulles' summer home on a secluded St. Lawrence River island for an interview.

16 Students Sent Home In Wrangle On School Costs

ARNPRIOR (CP)—Sixteen pupils, sent home Tuesday from public school here, yesterday continued an enforced holiday amid conflicting statements from authorities as to how the cost of educating them should be shared

In Toronto Education Minister Dunlop of Ontario ordered that a full report on the wrangle between this Ottawa Valley town and neighboring McNab township be sent his office.

He said a decision will be made when the report is received.

The pupils—all from McNab township—were sent home Monday at recess in the latest round of a lengthy dispute between the two communities.

PAYMENT SQUABBLE

Arnprior claims the 16 aren't within an area covered in a 60-year-old agreement, amended last year after a four-year fight. McNab township was allotted payments of 13.72 per cent (about $7,000) yearly of Arnprior public school costs. Arnprior civic officials said McNab hasn't paid last year's $7,000.

Parents of the 16 were informed two weeks ago they would be assessed $7.95 a month for each child attending public school here. Those with more than one child of public school age claimed they couldn't afford that much

The parents hired a lawyer who was told by McNab township officials that parents should send their children to the township school. The parents said their homes were at least three miles from this school and roads weren't open to it during the winter.

Hunter Shot At Haliburton Dies On Way Out Of Bush

Companion Wounds Him In Leg

Friends Get Doctor To Bind Wounds; But Injury Fatal

HALIBURTON — First fatal accident of the deer season in this district occurred Thursday when 32-year-old Oliver Favereau was shot in the left leg and died of loss of blood.

Favereau, who lives in Summerville, just west of Toronto, was hunting with four companions. They saw a deer and spread out. Leo Risch, also of Summerville, is believed to have fired the shot that hit Favereau.

Two of the party, which was hunting near Buck Lake, 25 miles northeast of Haliburton, went to another camp on the lake where they found Dr. J. W. Tomlinson of Toronto. Dr. Tomlinson went with them to the spot where Favereau had been shot.

After putting a tourniquet on the injured man's leg they fashioned a crude stretcher and by 7 p.m. Thursday were taking him out of the bush. Dr. Tomlinson went with them and reported to police that Favereau died about 7:20, slightly more than three hours after he was shot.

The bullet had fractured the hunter's left leg and severed an artery.

Dr. L. H. Carroll of Haliburton was at the Red Cross Hospital when they brought the dead man there about 10:15 p.m. He said he expected there would be no inquest.

Others in the hunting party with Favereau and Risch were Herman and Barry Risch, brothers of Leo Risch and also of Summerville, and Michael Porter, of Toronto. O.P.P. Constable Gordon Langton of Haliburton investigated.

A 19-YEAR-OLD TRUCKER DIED in this tangled wreckage Thursday afternoon when the empty trailer of a car transport whipped around and was struck by a dump truck driven by Norman Aulthouse of Picton. Aulthouse, pinned in the dump truck's cab, is believed to have died instantly. This photo is taken from the rear of the empty trailer and shows a part of the dump truck cab and a corner of the truck's box, which was loaded with eight tons of sand. Driver of the car transport, Gordon Ellison of Calgary, was unhurt.—(Murray Smith Photo)

Windsor Hospital Badly Run; Head Lashed By Inquiry

TORONTO (CP)—A Royal Commissioner today voiced sharp criticism of the administration of the East Windsor hospital for incurables. He recommended that the East Windsor Health Association which operates the hospital be abolished and that a new organization be set up to run the institution as an affiliate of the Metropolitan General hospital which is owned by the city of Windsor. The recommendations were made in a report from Gordon L. Fraser, Windsor lawyer who acted as commissioner. His 60,000-word report summarized more than 2,000,000 words of argument and testimony he heard from eight lawyers and 128 witnesses in 58 days of hearings this year.

The report made no specific recommendations concerning Dr. J. P. G. Morgan, the hospital's medical superintendent and secretary-treasurer, whose administration was criticized by witnesses and in the commissioner's summary of evidence.

However, the report called Dr. Morgan a virtual dictator who dominated a "weak-kneed" board of directors. He was "totalitarian, resentful, antiquated, unco-operative, belligerent, arrogant and a belittler."

"I am convinced that the present corporation known as East Windsor Health Association and its board of directors is a non-workable, effete and desiccated thing," said the report, made public here by Attorney-General Porter.

CHRONICALLY ILL

"That zeal and vigor it had in the days gone by, it has outlived. It itself, is 'chronically ill' to the point of being incurable."

The commissioner found that the hospital as now operated is a "good old person's home, in which nourishment, comfort and cleanliness abound. . .but as presently it is not exercising its proper function as a hospital for the chronically ill or as a public hospital."

Separate accommodation should be provided for aged persons whose disability was due entirely to old age. All facilities and space were needed for treatment and cure of the chronically ill.

Among recommendations and observations in the report were:

Efforts were directed at the comfort of the patients—94 per cent of them indigents—with scant attention to their cure. There was also no medical staff.

Dr. Morgan took complete control of the hospital. All matters were referred to him and all his actions approved.

Two Prisoners Escape Guards On Train

SUDBURY (CP)—Two convicts who escaped yesterday from a passenger train between here and Chalk River still are at large, the R.C.M.P. said today.

Jean Paquin, 29, and Real Poirier, 21, both of Montreal, were being transferred to Stoney Mountain penitentiary in Manitoba from St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary near Montreal. Montreal police say Paquin is one of the men who touched off the $500,000 riot Aug. 1 at Bordeaux jail.

Poirier was serving a seven-year term and Paquin eight years. Both were wearing blue denim prison garb and one was still wearing chains when he made his escape.

The escape was made from a coach of a Canadian Pacific Railway's trans-continental train. The men were in the custody of penitentiary guards who were stationed at either end of the coach, filled with prisoners being transferred to the Manitoba prison. Officials said it's routine procedure to transfer prisoners once or twice annually to Stoney Mountain when St. Vincent de Paul becomes crowded.

The men were known to have been in the coach when the train stopped at Chalk River but were missing when a prisoner-by-prisoner check was made at Sudbury.

Police said they were shackled together originally but it was believed they picked the lock on one set of shackles, leaving one of the men free and the other with chains on his wrist.

Yesterday the search centred around North Bay although there was no definite indication the two escaped in that area. The train made stops at Two Rivers, Mattawa and North Bay between Chalk River and Sudbury.

Ottawa Decides To Prosecute Rubber Companies

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has decided to prosecute rubber companies alleged to have participated in illegal price-fixing combines, Justice Minister Garson announced today. Trials likely will take place in Toronto. Altogether, 19 companies and The Rubber Association of Canada were named in a report made public by Mr. Garson last June, alleging the existence of six combines in the rubber industry. However, not all of them may be prosecuted.

Mr. Garson said the number of companies to be prosecuted will depend on evidence obtained under search warrants recently issued against the accused parties.

In other words, the government wants to make sure it has a strong case against each company before it goes into court.

TO DROP WEAK CASES

If the evidence indicates the government's case may be weak against any particular company, charges against that company likely will be dropped.

The rubber combines will be the first cases to be tried under the combines laws which went into effect Nov. 1.

Under the new law, all ceilings on fines are lifted. The amount of the fine is at the discretion of the presiding judge.

Previously the ceiling was $25,000 against a guilty corporation and $10,000 and two years in prison against an individual.

T. N. Phelan and D. D. Carrick, Toronto lawyers, have been selected as prosecuting attorneys

Mr. Garson's announcement on the rubber combine followed publication Thursday of a report alleging the existence of an illegal combine in the fine paper industry. Forty-four companies were named. A decision on prosecution will be made later.

In the case of the rubber combine, Mr. Garson said he could not make public the exact nature of the charges or the companies to be charged until the prosecuting lawyers settle certain details. This would include the nature of the evidence obtained through the search warrants.

COVERED ALL INDUSTRY

The rubber combine inquiry, launched in September, 1947, covered the six divisions of the industry. These are:

Mechanical rubber goods, such as fire and garden hose; tires and tubes; accessories and repair materials, such as windshield wipers and tire repair kits; heels and soles; rubber footwear; and vulcanized rubber clothing, such as that used by firemen and fishermen.

Picton Trucker Killed In Truck Crash

COBOURG (ENS) —Wed only a few weeks ago, 19-year-old Norman Aulthouse of Picton was killed Thursday when his heavy dump truck crashed into a car transport just east of Grafton.

Driver of the other truck, Gordon Ellison of Calgary, was unharmed.

So well were the two vehicles locked together that it took two heavy tow trucks an hour to pull the wreckage far enough apart that the body of Aulthouse could be removed.

Aulthouse had been driving his dump truck, loaded with eight tons of sand, on Highway 2 when an empty car transport approached him from the east.

TRAILER WHIPS AROUND

The tractor of the transport cleared the dump truck without difficulty, but suddenly the trailer whipped around on the wet pavement and collided with the westbound truck.

The trailer buckled in the centre and wrapped itself around the dump truck. With the front of the trailer locked to the southeast anchor post of the bridge's guard rail, the tractor jerked free and hurtled across to the north side of the road, ripping out several guard posts before it stopped.

Ellison, driver of the car transport, climbed out of the tractor cab and went to the dump truck. He found the cab of Aulthouse's truck crushed around the driver.

"ALL BEHIND ME"

"I don't know what happened," Ellison said after the fatality. "I passed him all right in the tractor and then the next thing I knew he was into the side of the trailer. Maybe the trailer skidded around; I don't know just what happened. It was all behind me."

Dr. J. M. Fleming, of Grafton, managed to squeeze himself close enough to the dump truck driver to see that he had been killed, perhaps instantly.

Police who investigated said the accident was the most damaging in that area in years. The front of the dump truck had torn into the empty car trailer until the trailer was a mass of jumbled wreckage.

The eastbound dump truck, owned by the H. J. McFarland Co., had been hauling sand from Haldimand township to the Department of Highways storage depot at Salem, just east of Col-

H-Bomb Test Believed Made

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States may be keeping secret an explosion of the world's first full-scale hydrogen bomb.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced last September that a series of nuclear weapons tests would be conducted at the Eniwetok proving grounds during the "autumn months." Those months are nearing a close, with the probability that the tests have been completed or are approaching an end.

This year's mid-Pacific tests were generally expected to include atomic bomb would be used to touch off quantities of hydrogen sufficient to produce a super-sized blast. Such a blast, it was figured, would be many times more powerful than a nuclear fission bomb.

Jail Customs Officer For 18 Months

DETROIT (CP)—A Canadian customs officer drew an 18-month jail term after conviction on charges of smuggling aliens into the United States in the trunk of his car.

Stanley Carley, 40, of neighboring Windsor, Ont., was described Wednesday as "the dupe of a Windsor racketeer" by federal Judge Thomas P. Thornton as he passed sentence. The judge did not name the racketeer.

Carley, employed since 1945 as an inspector at the Canadian end of the Ambassador Bridge, was arrested Oct. 9 at the U.S. end of the Detroit-Windsor tunnel by immigration officials who said they had been waiting for him to set foot on U.S. soil.

They said they acted on information supplied by aliens smuggled into Detroit by Carley.

Claim French Jet Exceeds Speed Record

PARIS (AP)—Paris newspapers claimed today that the new French jet fighter plane Mystere IV has exceeded the world level-flight speed record of nearly 671 miles an hour.

The reports said the plane reached a speed of 683.54 miles an hour several days ago in a flight made at a height of 60 feet from the ground.

The official record of 670.981 miles an hour was set by a United States Air Force colonel in September, 1948, flying an American F-86 jet.

French experts said the timing of the new speed flight was not official but they added that "an opportunity must be given to the Mystere to officially beat the world speed record."

Mistaken For Deer Man Shot By Nephew

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Alex Rydall, Lions Head farmer, yesterday was carried five miles through the bush after being shot in the leg by his nephew Alvin Rydall.

The nephew said they were hunt- in the [illegible] north of here when he mistook his uncle for a deer when he heard the underbrush crackling.

Bomber Crashes No Survivors

DUNMOW, Essex, England (AP) —A United States Air Force B-50 strato bomber with a crew of 11 crashed and burned here last night. An air force spokesman said no survivors have been found.

The plane was on a training flight from a base at Upper Heyford, about 40 miles from here.

Firemen braved exploding ammunition and roaring flames from the plane's gasoline to drag out seven bodies.

An air force spokesman said reports that some members of the crew had parachuted to safety had not been confirmed and it was believed the bodies of the four missing men were in the wreckage.

Jailed Two Years In Cruiser Shooting

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) —Robert Souliere, 21, captured in a police raid with two other young men after a police cruiser was fired upon from a stolen car two weeks ago, today was sentenced to two years in penitentiary for robbery of a district store.

He will appear in court tomorrow on a second robbery charge and a car theft charge.

Delmar Lund, 19, and Roland Rivard, 21, the other two youths arrested in the raid, faced similar charges.

Russia Reviews Armies On Revolution Anniversary

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russia sent its armed might on parade today before the watchful eye of Premier Stalin on the 35th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

The big parade in Red Square was inspected by Marshal Semeon Timoshenko, one of Russia's Second World War heroes and now a probationary member of the central committee of the Soviet Communist party.

He opened the show, prancing across the square on a spirited roan horse. In a speech from Lenin's mausoleum, a boxy granite building in the shadow of the Kremlin walls, Timoshenko said "warmongers should recall that Russia is stronger than ever."

Her armed forces were ready to answer any aggressor with a "smashing blow."

After his seven-minute speech he took the salute at a half-hour march-past, which began to the booms of guns in the Kremlin.

A 1,000-piece military band blared as company after company filed past Lenin's tomb, through the square and past St. Basil's cathedral.

Stalin and political and military leaders stood by the mausoleum. Among them were Deputy Premier Vyacheslav M. Molotov and Georgi Malenkov, a top Communist.

Because of low clouds there was not the usual display of air power.

Stalin, who will be 73 on Dec. 21, walked up about 40 steps to a landing, where he raised his right hand in greeting to foreign diplomats, including those of the United States and other western powers. Then he walked up the remaining 30 or 40 steps to the usual reviewing place. Stalin made the long walk up the steps with no apparent exertion.

90 MPH Gales Batter Europe

LONDON (CP)—Storms that ranged from the North Sea to the Mediterranean today have claimed at least 18 lives in Europe and left considerable property damage, especially to ships and dock installations. Winds of up to 90 miles an hour buffeted the British Isles, the English Channel, the Irish and North Seas. Almost all ports along the North Sea coast reported dike and dock damage. Four men in an emergency dike-repair squad were drowned at Wersabe near Wesermuende, Germany. Two persons were killed in Berlin when winds toppled bomb-damaged buildings. Lightning killed a West German woman in a field.

ABANDON SHIP

The 6,379-ton Panamanian ship Faustus ran aground off the Hook of Holland yesterday and the crew abandoned ship.

In England, a dozen ships were torn from their moorings in the Thames. The channel boat Hampton Ferry made a storm-tossed crossing with 107 passengers from Dover to Dunkerque but was unable to dock on the French side and returned to England.

Storms that have lashed the Ligurian and Tyrrhenian seas for three days have taken at least 10 lives. Fishing fleets scurried into port. Landing operations in the Atlantic Pact's big Mediterranean naval manoeuvres were postponed.

In Britain the storm was the worst in 25 years.

SHIPS GO AGROUND

Gusts of up to 90 miles an hour were reported in many districts. Ships were driven aground, trees and chimneys toppled, and roofs were damaged.

No fatalities were reported. A few persons were injured slightly by falling debris.

Port authorities at Liverpool said two ships heading into port from Canada—the Franconia and the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France—sheltered off the Isle of Man during the night. The 20,341-ton Franconia was out of Quebec with 225 passengers.

The Canada-bound liner Scythia and other liners were held up at Southampton. In the Thames below London the 9,000-ton liner Asia was blown ashore. Small craft broke their moorings in many [illegible]

Build Radiation Cave To Experiment With Food

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The University of Michigan disclosed today it is building a "radiation cave" to experiment with the preservation of raw meat and vegetables. Researchers said that experiments with radioactive cobalt-60 may lead to a new method for preserving packaged raw meat and vegetables.

The university said the cave will be the "most powerful experimental gamma ray source" in the country.

Gamma rays, given off by various radio-active materials, are deeply penetrating short-wave electro-magnetic rays similar to light rays, which kill micro-organisms.

CONTAINED IN RODS

The powerful cobalt-60, to be brought here from the nuclear reactor plant at Chalk River, Ont., will be contained in 100 10-inch metal rods in the cave.

A mechanism will lower the cobalt-60 to the bottom of a 16-foot pit of water to protect researchers when they enter the cave for experiments.

The raw foods will be canned in various sizes of commercially used tin cans.

This food will be sterilized inside the cave. This process will replace the extensive cooking required for canned food.

Animal feeding experiments will demonstrate the "wholesomeness of irradiated food," the university said.

Biggest Allied Guns Hammer Red Positions

SEOUL (AP)—The [illegible] in the United Nations' Korean arsenal hammered Communist positions on the central front today and jubilant artillerymen claimed they were winning the bloody battle of the hills.

Allied officers said about half of the 200 Chinese field pieces around Triangle Hill and Sniper Ridge have been destroyed or damaged.

Chinese Reds threw two feeble attacks at Sniper Ridge in the predawn darkness. Allied artillery and mortar fire chopped them to bits.

Unsuccessful Attempt Made To Rob Bank

OWEN SOUND (CP)—An unsuccessful attempt was made early today to crack the vault at a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada at Hepworth, 12 miles west of here.

Harold Powell, bank manager, said the safecrackers knocked the combination dial off the vault and drilled the door before they apparently were frightened off.

Explosion Kills 1 Man At Depot

MCALESTER, Okla. (AP)—One man was killed today in an explosion at the U.S. naval ammunition depot eight miles south of here.

He was identified as L. J. Yancy, Red Oak, Okla. Yancy was loading a five-inch projectile when the explosion occurred. There is no indication of what caused the accident.

Thirty-five other persons were working in the building but escaped with no worse injuries than cuts from flying glass.

All windows were blown out of the building and the roof was damaged. A small fire was extinguished quickly with little damage.

It was the second fatal accident at the depot since it was established in 1943. The other was Dec. 5, 1944, when 11 persons were killed in an explosion.

Students Damage Train Railway Files Suit

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian National Railways is reported to have taken legal action against seven Queen's University students [illegible] football train at Kingston two weeks ago.

The Queen's Journal, campus undergraduate paper, which reported the action, said the damage suit amounts to $514.97, involving 65 broken windows, stolen fixtures and labor replacement charges.

Says Russian Navy Can't Interfere Much

NEW DELHI (AP)—A reporter asked Admiral Arthur W. Radford today if the Russian Navy is capable of interfering with United Nations naval operations around Korea and got a brief "no" in reply.

Radford, who is U.S. commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet was questioned at a press conference. He did not comment further in his reply. The U.S. state department said yesterday it will reject a Soviet protest against the U.N. "sea defence zone" around Korea.

Radford, who is making a three-day visit to India, as part of an East Asian tour, said that in Korea both sides are so well dug in that a general offensive could not be resumed by either side "without very heavy casualties."

Insult To Italy's Defences Answered By Duel Offer

By STAN SWINTON

ROME (AP)—An angry Italian colonel today challenged an American magazine writer, James O'Donnell, to a duel for suggesting that Italian defences might as well be made of spaghetti.

Reserve Lt.-Col. Giuseppe Fanelli sent off his challenge to O'Donnell in care of the Saturday Evening Post. Just to make sure, he also had it published on the front page of Paese Sera, an afternoon paper in Rome. O'Donnell, in Paris, had no comment on the challenge.

It was the latest explosion in a chain reaction set off in Italy after publication Oct. 18 by the Saturday Evening Post of an O'Donnell article entitled "Yankee Boss in the Mediterranean," about Admiral Robert B. Carney and evaluating the Atlantic Allies' southern defences. Among other things, he wrote:

"A chain is as strong as its weakest link, and there are many caustic critics who feel that the Italian link in Admiral Carney's defence chain is made of spaghetti."

STORM OF PROTEST

It caused a storm of protest despite a generally friendly tone. The Italian press was bitterest over the spaghetti reference, a comment that in southern Europe N.A.T.O. headquarters "the Italians, fighting a rear-guard action. . . still control the green-and-blue tiled bathrooms" and comments about price gouging by Neapolitans.

Admiral Carney, N.A.T.O. commander-in-chief for southern Europe, issued a statement repudiating the article and saying he was "profoundly humiliated". Italian sources indicated O'Donnell would not be permitted to return to Italy.

The press carried on daily attacks on the American writer with unreprintable comments. Left, right and centre papers all joined in repudiating what they consider an attack on national honor.

Believe Gang Steals Television Sets

TORONTO (CP)—Police today said they believe a gang specializing in stealing television sets has begun operations in the Toronto area.

They said a woman yesterday reported two men took the television aerial from her house. Later men in overalls with a truck and ladder asked to take the set away for "minor adjustments."

When she asked for their credentials, they became nervous and left. A check with the company they allegedly represented showed they were not employed there.

Police said they believe the gang observes sets being installed and notes the [illegible] address.

Boy, 7, Struck Leg Fractured

Seven-year-old Leonard Minty was injured when struck by a car at Murray and George Sts., shortly after 1 p.m. today.

He was taken to the Peterborough Clinic for examination and later admitted to Civic Hospital. It is understood the boy has a broken leg. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Minty, 201 Murray St.

2 Car Thieves Jailed 1 Year

OSHAWA (CP)—John Brackenbridge, 19, of Oshawa and John Van Dusen, 16, of Madoc, today were sentenced to one year definite and one month indefinite for automobile theft. Each was given a similar sentence, to run concurrently, on a second charge of auto theft.

The boys, who pleaded guilty to the charges, were picked up last week near Paris, Ont., in a car owned by H. Dodd, Oshawa used-car dealer.

Another Earthquake Shakes Bakersfield

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—A rolling earthquake that shook buildings hit early today in this area of Southern California's San Joaquin Valley.

There were no reports of damage or injuries, although the tremor was felt 20 miles to the north and 30 miles to the south.

Residents have become more or less accustomed to quakes since the devastating ones July 21 at Tehachapi and Aug. 22 in Bakersfield.

Thirteen persons were killed in the Tehachapi disaster and two died in the big Bakersfield quake.

Ontario Candidates May Have To Place Election Deposit

TORONTO (CP)—Candidates for election to the Ontario legislature may have to put up a deposit in future. Harry Nixon, Liberal member for Brant, told the legislature's select committee on election laws yesterday that he has long thought a deposit similar to that in use in the federal elections should be put up by all candidates. Federal candidates have to put up $200 when nominated. They lose that deposit if they do not obtain a certain percentage of the votes.

Another change Mr. Nixon asks is that party affiliation be added after the candidates' names on the ballot papers. In this way, confusion between similar sounding names would be eliminated and even a voter who never read a paper would know what party he was voting for.

EXTEND TIME

The committee approved extension of the minimum time between the calling of an election and the actual voting from 37 days in summer and 44 in winter to 55 all the year.

During the meeting Thursday, it was revealed that there were several regulations which had to be overlooked in the haste of last November's elections.

Chief Election Officer Alex Lewis said that if the election had been called for October instead of November, there could have been no advance poll.

October, for purposes of the vote, is considered a summer month and therefore there are only seven days before nomination and election days. In November, a winter month, there are 14 days between. The complication cropped up when the election was set for a Thursday, and regulations called for advance polls to be held on the Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the week preceding the election. Thus the advance polls would have had to have been held on the same day as nominations—with no candidates and no ballot papers.

INCREASED COSTS

Major Lewis gave figures showing the increased cost of the 1951 election over the previous election exclusive of active service vote. The 1948 election cost $1,384,005, while the 1951 election cost $1,838,273. This was accounted for almost entirely in the extra cost of enumeration. The active service vote cost less than in 1945 due to a cut in the number of officials required for taking it. Costs were $37,492 in 1951 and $65,675 in 1945.

The revision of the Electoral Acts in 1950 doubled the number of enumerators in the urban ridings, and provided for enumeration in rural ridings where formerly a type of registration was used.

Another major change in procedure, recommended by the committee, is the appointment of permanent returning officers. This is following the lead of the federal government, and Major Lewis advised the move to enable returning officers to become familiar with 150 or more pages of statutes and regulations governing elections.

As chief election officer, Major Lewis would then brief returning officers on legislation in the period between elections and they would be ready to start work, and have much of the routine work done before issuance of the writs.

This may mean more pay for returning officers. They now receive $700 for acting, $100 for proof-reading the voters' lists, one cent per name for every name on the lists, and 10 cents per mile for their travel. To East York, with 11,000 names on the list, this meant about $1,900. Even the smallest riding returning officer received about $1,100.

Engineers Strike Ties Up Planes

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike of 300 flight engineers (A.F.L.) grounded many of United Airlines' biggest planes yesterday.

Thirty-six flights—some of them trans-Atlantic — were cancelled within a few hours at New York's La Guardia and Idlewild fields alone. Also affected were Chicago, Denver, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Windsor Locks, Conn. and Honolulu.

Only United's biggest ships, DC-6s and Stratocruisers, were caught in the tie-up. Its smaller ones do not carry engineers.

The flight engineers association struck late Wednesday after 10 months of deadlock with United over wages and working conditions.

Ava Greets Gable With Kiss On Cheek

Husband Frank Sinatra who flew here with his shapely wife stood back and smiled. He said nothing.

Gable was waiting for the plane in a tropical outfit of khaki shirt, shorts and broad-brimmed hat. He will star with Ava in "Mogamba," a film on Africa to be shot in this troubled British colony. Sinatra is not in the film.

Republicans Bicker Over The Spoils

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional Republicans bickered over the spoils of the Eisenhower landslide victory today as the president-elect prepared to send his first invasion wave into Washington.

Senate Republican members found themselves embroiled in a possibly bitter fight over their party floor leadership.

Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire spread the word he would rather be temporary president of that body—and third in the line of succession for the presidency—than keep the job he now holds. Bridges also could be chairman of appropriations or armed services committees in a Republican-controlled Senate.

Senators Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Homer Ferguson of Michigan, William Knowland of California, Homer Capehart of Indiana, Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa and Everett Derksen of Illinois were projected by speculation into the scramble.

TAFT INFLUENTIAL

It seemed likely that Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio—still commander of the Republican policy-makers—would have a great deal to say about the choice of the floor manager. Taft also indicated that he may take a seat on the Senate foreign relations committee in preparation for active participation in foreign policy decisions

The Ohio Senator lost the nomination to Gen. Dwight D Eisenhower, but his campaign support of the general assures him a major voice in senate affairs.

Senator Richard M. Nixon, who said Thursday he will resign before the new Congress meets, hinted that Eisenhower will interest himself personally in the selection of the floor leader. Nixon will take over as vice-president Jan. 20.

Nixon's hint was interpreted as a sign that Eisenhower might back Knowland.

Eisenhower said at Augusta, Ga., where he is vacationing, that he wants to put his men in touch with the operations of government as soon as possible.

ACCEPTS INVITATION

Accepting an invitation from President Truman for a White House conference on domestic and foreign problems, Eisenhower told his predecessor in a message that he would like to have others representing him go to Washington "for indoctrination in the several departments of government."

The general suggested the week of Nov. 17 for the White House meeting.

Truman already had invited the president-elect to send along a man to sit in final conferences on the annual budget. Eisenhower has promised to cut the budget back in four years to $60,000,000,000 from the present year's level of about $79,000,000,00. He hasn't said how much could come off next year's outlays.

While Eisenhower relaxed in Georgia, his vanquished opponent, Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, talked at Springfield, Ill., of mapping the Democratic party's future.

Stevenson has shrugged off proposals that he carry the party's banner again in 1956. The Illinois governor called Democratic chairman Stephen A. Mitchell and Wilson Whyatt, his campaign manager, for a conference Saturday to discuss the role of the Democratic National Committee in the next four years.

Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas was being mentioned as possible leader of the party in the Senate. Senator Ernest W. McFarland of Arizona, the party's floor manager, was defeated.

Eisenhower's lead over Stevenson mounted to more than 6,000,000 popular votes in late counts.

OBITUARIES

CECIL MATHEW GRAHAM

Cecil Mathew Graham, 72, formerly of Smith township and Peterborough, died in Toronto Thursday.

Mr. Graham was born in Emily township, the only son of the late Robert Graham and Sarah Green.

He was a retired farmer. While in Peterborough he was a member of George St. United Church.

Mr. Graham was not married and his closest surviving relatives are cousins.

The funeral will be held Monday at 2 p.m. from the Comstock funeral home. The Rev. A. A. [illegible] conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. RENE JACQUIER

Mrs. Rene Jacquier, the former Margaret Fitzgerald, 50, Fort Erie and formerly of Indian River, died suddenly Thursday.

Mrs. Jacquier was born in Indian River, son of the late Maurice Fitzgerald and Margaret Sweeney and has lived in Fort Erie for the past 10 years. Formerly she lived in Toronto and Indian River.

She leaves her husband, Rene Jacquier, two sisters, Mrs. A. Metcalfe, Toronto, and Mrs. John O'Brien, Douro township, and five brothers, Emmett, Indian River; James, Leo, Mark and Maurice, all of Toronto.

The funeral will be held Saturday from the home of her brother, Emmett Fitzgerald, Indian River, to St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Douro, for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro.

TORONTO FRUIT

TORONTO (CP)—Wholesale fruit and vegetable price changes quoted here today were: lettuce, leaf, three dozen $1.50; radishes 75; celery $3; mushrooms $2.50-2.75.

Potato prices were unchanged.

Gale Sends Ships Scuttling To Harbors

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Gale-force winds, ranging up to 50 miles an hour, whip-sawed across Lakes Huron and Erie yesterday, forcing several ships to take cover in harbors and making the going rough for other vessels which headed out into them.

High wav[illegible] on shipping lanes sent the grain-laden ship Superior, due in Goderich Wednesday night, into Harbor Beach, Mich.

The ferryboat St. Joseph Islander en route from Erieau to the Sault Ste. Marie area, took shelter Wednesday at Sarnia from Lake Huron winds. At Port Stanley, the American towing tug John Rowen IV and the barge Hilda tied up after being hammered by Lake Erie waves. They were en route to the upper lakes from Tonawanda, N.Y.

Windsor Hospital

A pension fund would provide Dr. Morgan with $75,865 on retirement in 1964. Mr. Fraser observed it favored Dr. Morgan as against other employees.

"HOPELESS MESS"

A Christmas Cheer fund, which accepted donations, conducted raffles and ran a canteen, suffered from a lack of adequate bookkeeping. The accounting of the canteen was a "hopeless mess" and the two funds should be separated.

He termed a "sorry practice" claims made by the fund against the money left by deceased indigents for comforts received from it.

The action of employees and others buying goods through the fund—and having Dr. Morgan sign certificates they were for hospital use—to avoid paying sales tax was "not proper."

The institution's system of bookkeeping needed closer supervision and inspection.

ORDER REINSTATEMENT

Reinstatement of two employees dismissed by Dr. Morgan after the inquiry was ordered. They were Mrs. Elsie Morley, for many years the superintendent's secretary, and Mrs. Frances Singleton, an employee for eight years, most of them as a supervisor.

Dr. Morgan received 58 windows from a Chatham firm at $27 less than cost. The same firm furnished windows for the hospital at a cost of $21,990 and for which no tenders were called.

He had awnings installed on his home for which he had not been billed before the inquiry started. The Windsor firm had installed awnings on the hospital and testimony was that they were included in the cost to the hospital.

The investigation was ordered by Mr. Porter last March 12 after he received an audit report from M. Frank Brobst, then chairman of the board of directors, showing that the hospital had a $62,000 deficit last year. Mr. Brobst was not re-elected to the board at the corporation's annual meeting.

"More than one witness proclaimed with some enthusiasm that the hospital had been on many occasions complemented by morticians as to the cleanliness of the bodies handed to them as compared with those received from homes or institutions. This is very commendable, but gives rise to the thought that, in future, pride quite as commendable could be taken in a better effort by way of medical care to keep the patient much longer quite away from the mortician and his comments."

OMITTED EXAMINATIONS

There was no medical staff and patients didn't receive examinations on admittance — "Such as would be routine in any well-organized general hospital."

"Under existing conditions, the evidence leads to the conclusion that it would be quite possible for many persons to come into this hospital, be certified as incurables with respect to some specific ailment; be well fed and kept clean for perhaps months; and throughout the whole duration never have a thorough examination—never a proper diagnosis."

Mr. Fraser suggested that the new board he proposed have nine members. The present board has 16. "A larger board is a hindrance, responsibilities are easily shifted and shunted, and the personnel of the quorum can vary too easily."

Of the present board, Mr. Fraser observed that there has been no discord between the board and the doctor ". . . and why not? The doctor took complete control and everything appeared to be running satisfactorily. There could be no dispute when there was only one opinion and that was Dr. Morgan's."

"Everything was referred to Dr. Morgan. Everything was left to Dr. Morgan; everything that Dr. Morgan did was approved—nearly always posthumously."

Dr. Morgan testified that monthly expenditures were approved by the chairman of the board and initialed by him and came to the board in that form. After approval of the board, and only then, were the cheques signed and sent out.

This was not the fact, Mr. Fraser said. In hundreds of instances, in fact in most instances, the contract had been given, the obligation incurred, the work completed, or was in the course of completion and the bulk of the money paid before the board ever discussed it."

Mr. Fraser noted that Dr. Morgan testified the cost of a new wing, built in 1950 and 1951, was $611,000 which included not only the new building, the concomitant and accommodating alterations in the old wing.

[illegible] ESTIMATES

[illegible] observed: "This $611,000 exceeded the early estimates main contracts which had been let by some $200,000 for which excess there are no minutes of the board, save and except as the items appear from time to time in the secretary-treasurer's monthly report of the items paid or to be paid. The approval of the board was signified only in the passing of the various successive accounts."

The Christmas Cheer fund was a matter "which by itself would justify the occupation of much time by way of enquiry."

Although the auditors reported they believed it was started in 1939, the first reference to it was found in the board minutes of Nov. 17, 1941, and no books were kept before Jan. 1, 1946.

In 1946 the board told the auditors that it had decided it had no responsibility for the fund and it was not subject to the annual audit.

"It is idle and foolish to say that the board of directors had no responsibility for the administration of funds gathered from the public for purposes such as these . . ." Mr. Fraser said.

Some Christmas Fund items, such as pictures, cases of whisky, a refrigerator, were not explainable by suppliers' invoices. Mr. Fraser noted that Dr. Morgan said that all were paid for by him to the fund.

"I accept Dr. Morgan's explanation of this."

"LAXITY ALL AROUND"

Referring to the operations of the hospital canteen—Mr. Fraser said "it would appear that there was a leak somewhere and laxity all around."

[illegible] A. Macdonald, commission counsel, suggested was "loaded" in Dr. Morgan's favor, was established Jan. 1, 1949, on a contributory basis. This was changed a year later to a non-contributory plan with past-service payments paid by the hospital in a lump sum.

Under the original contributory plan, Dr. Morgan would have received on retirement $16,277 or a monthly annuity of $76. In case of death $18,123 would be paid to his beneficiaries.

Under the revised scheme on retirement May 1, 1964, if his salary remains at $12,000 yearly, he would receive $75,865. If he had died Aug. 31, 1952, his estate would receive $49,486. If he had left the hospital last Aug. 31, he would have received $44,187 or a life annuity, guaranteed for 10 years, of $206 a month.

Mr. Fraser noted that when the matter was approved by the board four voted for it and two abstained because they wanted more time for study. Those who voted for it, he said, didn't understand the plan.

Mr. Fraser said he found baseless evidence given by Gordon Friesen, former administrator of the Kitchener-Waterloo hospital, who criticized narcotics records. "There had been a rigid check kept and the care has been vigilant," Mr. Fraser noted.

Grace United Hopes To Build New Church

Grace United Church, youngest of the United Churches in the city, plans the construction of a new church at Monaghan Rd. and Howden St.

Announcement of the plan was made in conjunction with the announcement of the present church's fourth anniversary. It will be a further step forward for the young church, which serves the southern section of the city as well as Stewart Hall in Otonabee.

For most of the church's four years, the work of the parish has been under the care of the Rev. E. W. Rowland, who was succeeded recently by the Rev. I. G. Pollock. Mr. Pollock came to Canada shortly before accepting the call to Peterborough, after spending seven years with the Congregational Union and Missionary Society of South Africa.

Anniversary services to mark Grace United's fourth birthday will be held Sunday.

Making Plans For Canadians To Wangle Seats Along Route For Coronation

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians planning to see Elizabeth II crowned Queen of England in June probably will be able to wangle a seat somewhere along the route. However, the delicate and protocol-protected questions of who will sit where still await decision by a Coronation executive committee which may not meet until shortly before Parliament convenes Nov. 20.

The committee rules on such details as the formation of the official party and priorities, prerogatives and protocol. It is headed by State Secretary Bradley.

Members include all cabinet ministers, the speakers of the Commons and Senate and George Drew, leader of the Opposition.

It has been difficult to assemble all members at the same time, since many are travelling in various parts of the country prior to parliament's opening.

MEET NEXT WEEK

However, the committee likely will meet late next week and hopes to make an official announcement on arrangements by Nov. 20.

Canada probably will be allocated nearly 9,000 seats at the Coronation, including 300 in Westminster Abbey, 500 in stands to be erected in front of Canada House on the Coronation route and about 5,000 along other parts of the route.

This is almost double the 5,000 seats Canada had at the Coronation of King George VI in 1937.

Pending final decision of seat allocation, the many Canadians inquiring about places are being told by the State Department that their application has been dated and noted with Canada House in London. They are informed that "in due time" they will receive formal application forms and that allocation will depend upon dates of the original request.

Their applications will be available to all persons interested.

The seats themselves must be paid for by the applicant at a price to be fixed by the United Kingdom government.

TRI-SERVICE PARTY

Canada's official representation is being studied by a number of committees. A tri-service committee is planning Canada's military contribution to the ceremonies. It is expected the chiefs of staff will attend and Navy, Army and Air Force contingents will be much bigger than in the 1937 ceremonies.

The Army may send a formation from its 27th Brigade, stationed in Germany, and a reserve formation from this country.

The R. C. M. P. is expected to send a troop of about 32 men and horses, some of which will be [illegible] form a guard of honor. Prime Minister St. Laurent and other Canadian dignitaries in the procession.

Canada To Buy HMS Powerful

LONDON (CP)—Canada has completed arrangements to buy from Britain H.M.S. Powerful, a light fleet aircraft carrier, Jane's Fighting Ships says today in its 1951-52 edition.

The authoritative naval yearbook says Canada is expanding her naval strength considerably and will use the new carrier to replace H.M.C.S. Magnificent, on loan from the Royal Navy. The yearbook adds that seven of Canada's 14 anti-submarine escorts have been laid down and most of 14 scheduled coastal minesweepers launched.

Jane's says that several navies, notably those of Britain, Canada and the United States, have had "second thoughts" about scrapping warships in the normal process of wastage and replacement.

Jane's described the U.S navy as a "colossal fighting force," as big as all the other navies of the world combined. It added that the U.S. has the largest peacetime fleet ever maintained by an country.

Missing Youth Staggers Out Of Bush

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — Hubert Lake, haggard and exhausted and his clothing in ribbons, yesterday staggered into the camp from which he was lost last Monday.

The 17-year-old Toronto youth, frostbitten and scratched from his four-day ordeal in bush east of here and about 180 miles north of Toronto vowed: "I'll never go into the woods again."

Doctors said gangrene had infected four toes of his right foot.

The youth, without matches or a compass to guide him, was lost on his first trip into the woods when he strayed from a hunting party.

COULDN'T EAT THEM

He said he managed to shoot a partridge and a rabbit, but without matches was unable to cook or eat them.

At one time he encountered five deer and another time met a moose.

"I waved at him and for a time thought he was going to charge me, then he trotted away.

"Thank God. I never thought I'd live to see anyone alive again."

More than 100 hunters who joined to search for the youth were reported still in the bush, unaware that he had been found.

Throughout his four days he said he was bewildered by the number of shots he heard and tried to follow. Early in the search, one search party fired shots and heard single-shot answers twice. They believed the youth might be conserving his meagre supply of ammunition.

Golds Lead Prices Higher On Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—A moderate advance in golds today led stock market prices slightly higher in early afternoon trading.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 670,000 shares.

Senior golds gained strength as Giant and Lakeshore advanced while junior producers attracted considerable interest and moved upward. Macleod and Campbell led the advance. Prospects slipped although Conwest and Kirkland Hudson gained. Holding companies held firm.

Western oils recorded a small majority of gains as Calvan, Gridoil and Royalite rose. Central Explorers and Triad slipped.

Utilities led industrials. Steels, liquors and refining oils also gained. Foods and miscellaneous issues slipped. International Paper gained $1.75.

Higher priced base metals gained but others weakened. Hudson Bay and Consolidated Smelters gained but Opemiska, Quebec Copper and United Asbestos slipped.

Jackson Pulls Escape Gag On 'Creeper', Nervous Guard

TORONTO (CP)—The guard they call the Creeper stole soundlessly into No. 9 corridor of the Don jail to punch the time clock, his nerves jumpy in the eerie night.

The Creeper had never liked No. 9. It had once been a death cell and just 99 steps down the corridor is the room where men are hanged.

The Boyd gang of bank robbers, recaptured after their September break, were in No. 9 and a policeman just outside their cells seemed insurance against another break.

But the Creeper was nervous, according to the story being told around town. He whispered into the cell occupied by William Jackson, doing 20 years for bank robbery: "Hey, Willie, are you there?"

"Yes," answered Jackson, "but I'll be gone tomorrow night."

Next night the Creeper slipped into No. 9 like a reluctant ghost. Again, "Willie, are you there?"

Only silence answered him.

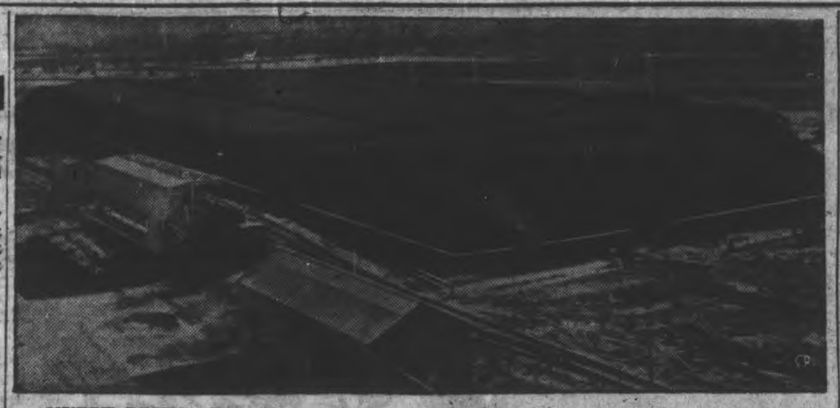
The Creeper shone his torch into the cell. The bed was empty, the blankets thrown back.

"Sound the alarm!" the Creeper screeched to the policeman. "Willie is out again. He told me he'd be gone tonight."

Lying cramped under the low cot, joker Willie Jackson couldn't hold himself any longer. He burst out laughing and crawled from his hiding place, grinning gleefully.

Snake Dancer Finds Partner Too Loving

READING, England (AP)—Snake dancer Betty Allen nursed a collection of bruised ribs today after one of her "partners" got too affectionate and hugged her on the stage of the Palace theatre.



Betty had just begun her act with six snakes when a 10-foot python coiled itself tightly around her and bit her wrist.

Theatre attendants wrenched the snake away. Betty went on with the act but collapsed afterward and was treated in a hospital.

SWEET BEETS—Enough sugar to provide a year's supply for more than 250,000 persons will be extracted from this pile of sugar beets stored alongside the $5,500,000 beet processing plant at Taber, Alta. The pile would weigh about 75,000 tons, each ton of which provides more than 300 pounds of refined sugar. A record crop of 478,000 tons, largest ever for any one province, has been taken by southern Alberta's 1,592 growers from 36,778 acres of irrigated land in the Lethbridge district. More than 130,000,000 pounds of sugar is expected from the crop.

Hot Frozen Pork Has Many Trips To Police Court

Whether it was a "hot" case of frozen pork, or a frozen case of "hot" pork, Clayton McIlwain, 37, of Lakefield, was charged with stealing the carton of boneless pork produced in police court Thursday.

The carton, weighing about 100 pounds, has been the key exhibit in a series of charges and has been the brought to the courtroom several times recently from the Canada Packers cold storage plant.

Ralph Wright, 22, has already been convicted of stealing the carton from the loading platform of the Canada Packers plant on George St., the night of September 25.

He is serving one month in the county jail. After hearing the evidence against McIlwain, who was with Wright at the time the carton of meat was taken, Magistrate W. R. Philp dismissed the theft charge.

BACK AGAIN

However, the package of fat sow bellies is scheduled to make another appearance in court, because in dismissing the charge, the magistrate said, "the position of McIlwain seems to be much more accessory after the fact."

Crown Attonrey John A. Bradshaw then asked for a recess and had a charge laid against McIlwain of being an accessory in the theft of meat by Wright.

W. J. Arthur Fair, who defended McIlwain, commented that in view of the magistrate's finding he would probably not want to hear the evidence again. The charge was then adjourned to November 12, when Magistrate R. B. Baxter, of Cobourg, will be presiding here. Mr. Fair and Mr. Bradshaw agreed they would arrange with Magistrate Baxter for a convenient date.

TOMATOES TOO?

The Crown also alleges that a case of canned tomatoes was taken from the packing plant loading platform the same night.

Jambes C. "Bill" Leggitt, 563 Brioux Ave., was charged with receiving the carton of tomatoes, knowing it to be stolen, but Magistrate Philp dismissed the charge some time ago, after hearing the evidence. It was found in the back kitchen of Leggitt's home the following day, after Wright and McIlwain had called at Leggitt's house for some beer.

Leggitt was also charged with accepting the tomatoes in consideration for a dozen pints of beer. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and Mr. Fair defended him also.

Detective Sgt. Bud Clarke testified he and Constable Farthing went to Leggitt's house the next day with a search warrant.

When Leggitt was asked if he had given McIlwain any beer, Detective Clarke said Leggitt replied that he had and that McIlwain had asked to leave a case of tomatoes until the next day. Constable Farthing said Leggitt told them he had loaned two men some beer the night before and "didn't know who they were. He said Leggitt stated he had not seen the case of tomatoes until the next day.

McIwain was then called by the Crown, and he denied leaving anything at Leggitt's on the night the tomatoes were alleged to have been given for the beer. McIlwain insisted Wright stayed in the truck and he took nothing into Leggitt's.

At the end of the Crown's case, Mr. Fair asked that the charge against Leggitt be dismissed for lack of evidence and the Magistrate agreed. Magistrate Philp commented there had to be a transfer of property to substantiate the charge and there was no evidence of this, since the evidence was the tomatoes were to be picked up the next day. The following is a summary of the events of the evening as related in court at the four trials:

PARKED NEAR PACKERS

McIlwain and Wright got out, according to Crowe and he overheard Wright say, "I haven't come this far for nothing". Crowe walked away from the truck. "I got the feeling things were not as they should be," Crowe explained to Mr. Bradshaw.

Wright admitted going with McIlwain to the loading platform and said he carried a carton back to the truck. He said he didn't know what was in the carton or which one it was but he believed it was the smaller one produced in court (the case of tomatoes). Wright denied seeing McIlwain bring the carton of pork to the truck and McIlwain said he did not bring it to Wright's truck either.

WENT TO WORK

Crowe was picked up in front of the C.P.R. station and the three went back to work. Crowe said McIlwain told him some time later that Wright was worried about a parcel he had in the truck. They wanted some beer to drink after work and Crowe said he arranged with Leggitt for them to borrow some beer.

McIlwain and Wright then checked out of the C.G.E. plant and went to Leggitt's. McIlwain said he had never known Leggitt before, and he went in and "borrowed" the beer. Then, McIlwain and Wright drove to McIlwain's brother's home on Park St.

The next day, the carton of meat was found in the basement of Melville McIlwain's home at 651 Park St.

There was also a carton with some empty and full bottles of beer in it which Wright and McIlwain are alleged to have left at the house of McIlwain's brother, which was produced in court.

Fred Innis, plant superintendent at Canada Packers, said a case of tomatoes was discovered missing the same night as the meat.

Jury Frees Wife Decide Crime Of Passion

REIMS, France (AP).—Traditional French gallantry toward a woman accused of a crime of passion came to the rescue Thursday of Yvonne Chevallier, 41, charged with the murder of her politician husband.

A jury of four farmers, a travelling salesman and a mason acquitted her, after 40 minutes deliberation, of the murder of Pierre Chevalier, 42. She was accused of firing five shots into him at Orleans, Aug. 12, 1951, the day after he had been named minister of youth and sports in Premier Rene Pleven's cabinet.

Wan and haggard, Yvonne received the verdict with a smile, her first of the two-day trial. A crowd of several hundred in the courtroom applauded the mother of two and another crowd of several thousand outside cheered when she left the building after her acquittal.

A plain but patient farmer's daughter who had failed to keep up with her husband's spectacular political and social career, Yvonne made no attempt to deny the shooting.

BLAMED MISTRESS

Her defence was that she committed the crime after her husband declared he was going to divorce her and marry his more glamorous mistress, pretty blond Jeanne Perreau, 34, married and owner of an Orleans candy store. He had returned home to pick up a change of clothing before visiting his mistress.

Defence lawyer Pierre Acquaviva pointed a finger at Jeanne and said it was she who should be in the defendant's box for breaking up the home. He pictured Yvonne as a perfect wife who suffered her husband's insults in silence.

Chevallier was one of France's most promising young politicians. He had been a doctor, a hero in the underground resistance to the Nazis, mayor of Orleans and a deputy in parliament.

Her lawyer said knowledge of her husband's infidelity had wiped out all desire for life and that she had threatened suicide. He said that on one occasion her husband told her to go find a lover.

Trade Union Leaders Accept Offered Raise

LONDON (Reuters) — Trade union leaders of 3,000,000 British shipyard and industrial workers today accepted an offered across-the-board raise of 7 shillings per week, removing the threat of a formal overtime work ban.

They overruled leftist pressure to fight for the union's initial demand of six times the offered figure.

Britons Intend Stay In Kenya

LONDON (AP)—Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton told the house of commons today that Britons are in Kenya "to stay" despite anti-white terrorism by the Mau Mau secret society.

Lyttelton, who returned from a visit to the British East African colony yesterday, told the House: "We are not to be turned aside [illegible] terrorists. We [illegible] country to develop it and to exploit it. Above all, we are in the country to stay."

He added: "We shall deal with this terror. We shall restore freedom from fear and we shall restore the Queen's peace."

The African Mau Mau terrorist outfit, he said, "is the unholy union of dark and ancient superstition, with the apparatus of modern gangsterism." He accused the organization of casting "the shadow of witchcraft, savagery and crime" across Kenya's history and warned the House of "some months of unrest ahead."

Reconsidering Highway Traffic Laws

The editor of the magazine Canadian Automotive Trade, Mr. R. Pepper, has recently expressed some opinions on the dangers of night driving which deserve widespread consideration. He thinks that many accidents are directly caused by improper lighting on personal cars and large transports; "on the low beam you can't see where you are going and on the high beam others can't see where they are going either," he writes. When the lights of a car are dimmed, says Mr. Pepper, it cannot safely travel at more than 35 miles an hour, because it cannot be stopped quickly enough at a higher speed, if it suddenly comes upon an obstacle in the road. A car travelling at 50 miles an hour or more cannot be stopped in less than 180 feet and may need 220 feet; the low beam of its headlights does not begin to reach this far.

* * *

Speaking of the glare from headlights, Mr. Pepper says that even when they are properly aimed (which is too often not the case) they reduce the seeing ability of the approaching car from 50 to 70 per cent. In such cases drivers are apt to take their bearings from the side of the road but—and this is the important point—they do not sufficiently reduce their speed.

* * *

Discussing this matter the Kingston Whig-Standard suggests that the Department of Highways should consider imposing a lower speed limit than the present fifty miles an hour. We would see some merit in this suggestion if it were possible for any speed limit to be strictly enforced, but this is not the case. We simply have not enough policemen in the Province to keep all drivers down to the present limit and a return to the forty m.p.h. limit of war-time, which the Kingston paper suggests, could not be made effective. And it is extremely important that all traffic laws should be enforced; otherwise a contempt for the law is bred in all drivers. When we speak of "drivers" as though they were a race apart from common men, we do so purposely; the mildest citizen, and the most timid woman, behind the wheel of a car, becomes a different person, and may resort to crowding, pushing, honking, daredevil tactics which are foreign to them at other times.

* * *

The Kingston paper talks of a forty m.p.h. limit for personal cars and a thirty m.p.h. limit for all commercial vehicles, after the example of the traffic laws in Britain. Frankly we do not think that such a law could be enforced in daylight here, for our roads are very different from British roads, and our police force faces a different task. But we think that the Highways Department might do two things which would contribute to the public safety:

(a) A different speed limit might be set, and carefully enforced, after a specified "lighting-up time," which might be 7:30 p.m. from May until October, and 5 p.m. from October until May.

(b) The areas which now insist on a 30 m.p.h. limit might be reconsidered so that they do not, as at present, include some miles of highway which are, virtually, in the country. The 30 m.p.h. limit should then be rigidly enforced within its appointed boundaries.

These regulations would be distasteful to a majority of drivers, for most drivers are [illegible] that they [illegible] driving safety at any speed [illegible]. But can anyone doubt that a reduction of speed after dark would reduce the number of night accidents on our roads?

Quebec Tests Drivers

Until last week the only qualification of an applicant for an ordinary driving permit was that he have the money to pay the licence fee. No driving tests of any kind were given. Suddenly last week the Quebec treasury department (which issues the licences) referred applicants for new permits to an office just opened, and they were told that they would have to pass an accepted driving school course, to take a physical examination to establish that their eyesight, speed of reaction and sense of distance are adequate, and to answer a questionnaire on rules of the road and safety regulations. Thus Quebec has at long last followed Ontario's example.

Quebec is likely to go farther in this matter than Ontario has yet done. The tests required of new drivers seem to be stiffer than what Ontario demands, and Premier Duplessis has hinted that all applicants for driving permits—both new and renewal—may be required to show their ability behind a wheel and their physical qualifications. Quebec people and government officials have become increasingly alarmed by the great number of accidents which have been occurring on Quebec roads and the recklessness and lack of skill of drivers.

If Quebec insists on all drivers demonstrating their capacity, and not only those now applying for the first time for a driving permit, a really needed reform will have been accomplished. Some western provinces have already begun a system to test all drivers before the annual permit to drive has been renewed. Ontario regulations should likewise be amended. Because many Ontario drivers took and passed a simple driving test twenty years ago is no proof of their ability to drive today, on today's crowded highways, behind the powerful machines now being produced, and when, perhaps, the automatically licensed driver's physical condition may have deteriorated in the twenty years. The present Ontario way of renewing anybody's permit automatically if he pays his money and has stayed out of police court is foolish. It is licensing to kill. As many road accidents are caused by incompetent drivers as by reckless ones; their very incompetence (whether due to lack of skill, faulty eyesight or slow reaction time) is often the cause of recklessness.

We hope that Quebec's new licensing system will be extended, and that Ontario will adopt some form of periodic re-examination of all licensed drivers.

No Happy Island

A cherished legend of mankind has for long maintained that many thousands of years ago there were a group of Islands in the Atlantic Ocean not far from the Straits of Gibraltar, called Atlantis; the largest was reputed to have been somewhat larger than Asia Minor. The legend appears to have begun with the Egyptians, and it was apparently believed by Plato. Before the beginning of recorded history, Atlantis sank into the ocean, but at all periods of history there have been people who believed in its existence and sought to find proof of it.

The latest search for Atlantis has been made by an expedition under the guidance of Dr. W. Maurice Ewing of Columbia University. He is a distinguished geologist and his reports must be given credence. The report of the expedition is that the base of the Atlantic Ocean, east of the mid-Atlantic ridge, is identical geologically with the western base. This is taken by geologists to rule out any possibility of a sunken continent in the eastern Atlantic.

We are confident that people will go on believing in Atlantis, or at least wishing that the legends concerning it were true. For those legends say that it was a happy land, full of noble men and beautiful women, where everybody had a fair deal. It was, in fact, one of the many places which imagination has chosen as the site of an Earthly Paradise.

And how mankind longs for an Earthly Paradise! A land where there are no worries about money, no worries about health, no worries about bad weather, no worries about war—a land where life is one long, splendid vacation! A land where every man is as strong and adventurous as Alley Oop, every woman as fascinating as Oola, and all the wise men as benevolent as Dr. Wonmug! (It is no accident which led the creator of the Alley Oop comic strip to base his characters in Moo, a name derived from Mu, which was one of the names of Atlantis.) It requires a considerable degree of maturity, wisdom and resignation to admit that these lands exist only in imagination, and maturity, wisdom and resignation are not particularly common characteristics.

Sad Dog Days Of Fall

Autumn is too beautiful a word for yesterday and today's weather. The soggy air chills, the grey skies glower, the trees bend bleak and black. People go about bowed and grim of face, as sullen as the day itself. Why should [illegible] of this November weather could be borne lightly if spring were not far behind. But immediately ahead is winter—the southern Canadian winter which, despite picture postcards and fond memories of childhood, is not one glorious succession of sunny days, clean snowfalls and brisk, starlit nights. None except the very young and the very foolish hail the advent of winter; they spit at it, cowering. These are sad days.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Our prudent Defence Department has purchased 1,300,000 pairs of shoes for the 100,000 men in uniform, or about ten pairs per man. Planning, perhaps, to win the next war in a walk?

A psychologist says that people get drunk to forget themselves, and when we look at the people who do it, we don't blame them.

It is estimated that man of seventy has passed five years of his life in eating. And how, may we enquire, could he pass them more innocently and enjoyably?

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

MAN-EATER FROM PETERBOROUGH: "I have been asked to find out the Peterborough background and circumstances of a man called T. C. Cunnion, a swash-buckling rip-snorting lumberman who made most of his noise in northern Ontario in the end of the last century. All I know about Cunnion is what is told in a book of reminiscences and tall tales about lumberjacks, called Holy Old Mackinaw, and here is the account verbatim:

"As a spectacular fellow, possibly the noted T. C. Cunnion, the Peterborough Man-Eater, topped everything. Cunnion was a short man, powerfully built, estimated to have been three feet across at the shoulders. The Saginaw Valley was his pasture, and it was his joy when well oiled to stand in the centre of Water Street at East Saginaw and bellow: "I am T. C. Cunnion, the Man-Eater from Peterborough, Ontario!" That was his cry, no more nor less. It was heard so often that no old-timer today speaks of 'Cunion'; it is always 'T. C. Cunnion', with full man-eating and geographical title added.

T. C. Cunnion was a dressy fellow in town. He retained his calked boots and mackinaw, but he covered his chest with a stiff boiled shirt, or a white 'dickey', made of cardboard to resemble a shirt-front. It was his concession to the genteel.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN IN TOWN (Saginaw) Cunnion liked to go into a butcher shop and get a hunk of cow's liver. Refusing to have it done up in a package, he would go out into the street, chewing at the bloody morsel. In this wise he would parade through East Saginaw, his hands, face and shirt-front smeared with blood, giving his usual cry about being the Man-Eater from Peterborough. Once when he ran smack into a shade tree on Water Street Cunnion became really angry. Shaking the hunk of liver at the tree he gave voice to the classic promise that is still revered by all students of profanity. "By the' dynamitin' ol' Mackinaw Jesus," he roared, "I'm going to let daylight into this swamp!" This oath was likely as terrible a threat as man ever uttered, but it was a woman who laid the Man-Eater low.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHO THIS REMARKABLE woman was is not known, but legend has it that she parked her baby in its carriage just outside a butcher shop, on Saginaw's Genesee Street. As the lady started into the shop, out popped T. C. Cunnion, his face already covered with blood from the liver he was munching. "I am T. C. Cunnion," he began, "the Man-Eater from . . . " The woman screamed and as she screamed she whaled Cunnion a terrific blow with her umbrella—plumb across his satanic face. The carnivore from Peterborough went down in a heap.

After such a graceless fall, Cunnion left Saginaw for good. He appears to have hung out for a time in Bay City, where he got free drinks for figuring bulldogs. He would get down on all fours and a bulldog would be set at him. Cunnion fought the dog with hands and teeth, biting and growling the while. But police put a stop to this form of saloon entertainment and the Man-Eater faded from lumberjack history."

. . . So much, and no more, for Cunnion. If anybody can give me any further information about him I should be very glad to have it.

DEAR ALPHA: If some want to get up an hour earlier to go to work, why force others (and children, too) to do the same? Never mind meddling with the clock—just go to work at six instead of seven—or five and have a real long evening to do what you want, and let the kids and farmers take their time.

RESPONSE: That would all be very well if business and factory conditions permitted a worker to choose what hour he may begin his work. On the other hand, if daylight saving time were extended—as Alpha suggested—farmers could ignore it by getting up an hour later.

D.S.T. still seems to be a contentious topic. Let's call it quits for a fifty-fifty deal—six months of D.S.T. to appease those who want it all year; and six months (e.g. November to April) of Standard Time to please those who revere Standard.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE READER who asked the definition of a word in Deuteronomy should consult a larger dictionary. I do not propose to discuss the term here.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE ELECTION OF General Eisenhower will make him the first American President to have a Canadian mountain named for him—Mount Eisenhower near Banff. The name was changed from "Castle Mountain" at the end of the war to honour the famous Allied Supreme Commander.

Without intending disrespect to General Eisenhower, Alpha ponders the advisability of rescinding the magnificent gesture (Castle Mount is a magnificent peak). Is it not carrying our monarchical noblesse oblige too far to have a republican Presidential mountain? This in a country dotted by King, Queen [illegible] streets. Why, not even a hot [illegible] in the country is named for any other president. True there is a roadside eatery in Montreal called "F. D. R." but that is operated by Frank D. Rice, and not to compliment the late President Roosevelt.

Mount Eisenhower could easily revert to its own name, Castle Mountain, by which it is best known to the local inhabitants, except that the Eisenhower name is now affixed to the peak on the new map of Canada; and American tourists might be disappointed. Now the C.P.R. transcontinental stops beside a sign "Mount Eisenhower" just to give travellers a glimpse of the mountain or the sign.

✧ ✧ ✧

SIR: What is the plural of aide-de-camp?

ANSWER: Aides-de-camp (aids of the camp). English pronunciation of the singular is exactly the same as French—ayd'ekong (with the 'e' hardly pronounced, something like a light 'uh'). But curiously enough, the plural is partly Anglicized, as if it were spelt with an 's' after camp; thus ayd-ekongz.

FOR THE RECORD: A service station in Peterborough has this sign on one of its doors:

No matter how gentlemanly may be the men in the garage and the ones who put gas into cars, I doubt that any real ladies would want their rest there supervised.

An American Opinion: CLEAR SIGN ABOVE THE FOG

Twilight Of American Communist Party

By ALASTAIR BUCHAN

LAST WEEK the American Government took further action to limit the freedom and effectiveness of the already somewhat moribund Communist Party of the United States. The Subversive Activities Control Board has issued its findings on the question of whether or not the American Communist Party exists to promote the welfare of Americans or to carry out the orders of a foreign Power.

Having decided that the Party carries out the orders of a foreign Power, the Board will shortly issue an order under the Internal Security Act of 1950 (better known as the Macarran Act, after its fanatically anti-Communist instigator, Senator Pat Macarran of Nevada), requiring it to register with the Attorney General as a "Communist Action Organisation" dominated and controlled by Soviet Russia.

The Subversive Activities Control Board is a semi-judicial body set up under the Macarran Act, consisting of five members, no more than three of whom shall be drawn from the same political party. Off and on the Board heard evidence for fifteen months from April 1951 until July of this year.

The tactics of the Communist Party's lawyers were to argue that the question of dominance by Russia could only be considered over the two years since the Macarran Act was passed, during which period they hoped to be able to show that it had had virtually no contact with Russia and that it was a political party like any other; but the Board insisted on considering its history over the thirty years since its foundation, and found that although its tactics and its name had been altered at various times, its purpose had not. The Board concluded that the Party, in order to continue its existence as a Marxist-Lennist organisation, must "abide by the Soviet Union's views and policies and not deviate therefrom: its leaders must continue to utilize the training received in Moscow on the Party's role in the world Communist movement; it must report to the Soviet Union and the Cominform; it must recognise the disciplinary power of the Soviet Union, lest the latter excoriate by its disapproval and take steps to correct the condition, as it has done in the past with the consequent 'liquidation of political heads,' the Party lives for the day when it can install a dictatorship of the Proletariat in the United States."

✧ ✧ ✧

THE BOARD'S FINDINGS will not greatly affect the position of individual American Communists, for it is already illegal for a Party members to be employed by the Federal Government, and by most State Governments. What it does mean is that the Party will have to register as the agent of a foreign power, and that every piece of literature which the Party issues will have to carry an appropriate statement to this effect. It also means that the Party will have to deposit with the Government a full list of its officers and render a detailed account of its finances.

It will be interesting to see whether this direct action against the Party itself (a number of so-called Communist "peace" and left-wing organisations have already been ordered to register as "Communist action" groups) will hasten the current decline in its membership.

According to Mr. Edgar Hoover, the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the membership of the Communist Party had dropped to twenty-four thousand by August of this year, a decline of nearly seven thousand in one year. Eighty-five of its senior members have been indicted on various charges of subversion over the last few years. Such political candidates as it puts up in local elections run under the banner of the "Progressive Party".

There is evidence to show that the Politburo no longer regards the American Communist Party as worth bothering with, and that it does not even keep it fully informed. If there is any sizeable Communist movement or adherence in the United States it is now certainly buried very deep underground.

The prospect of Victoria's retail stores closing down for a full day each week, which sales clerks have discussed, is one which will be met with grave misgivings by many in this area.

In pressing for a full day off—whether on Monday or Wednesday—the sales clerks are overlooking the debilitating effect on business as a whole; the creation of a "dead city" in mid-week.

Doesn't Pay To Raise Horses

(Lethbridge Herald)

It does not pay to raise horses on Western Canadian ranges. These ranges will produce a lot more beef or mutton per pasture unit than they will horsemeat. Horses eat a great deal more grass than cattle of the same size, and they hurt the range that much more by comparison. It's just about time the fable of cheap horsemeat passed out of the picture. We never could bear to think of Dobbin on the grid.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them.

And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth . . .

And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. (Gen. 1: 26-28, 32.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them. (Gen. 2: 1.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The Lord knoweth the days of the upright: and their inheritance shall be for ever. (Ps. 37: 18.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen. (Jude 1:24, 25.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A dapper little man applied for a separation order to be made out against his wife on the grounds of cruelty.

When asked by the magistrate if he could prove his case, he replied meekly: "One night I dreamt I won $100,000 in a football pool, and the following morning my wife nearly killed me for not putting it in the bank before I woke up."

- A Pleasing Chord

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia may be green at politics but he certainly has made an auspicious start by announcing bluntly: "We are going to reduce taxes at our first session".

That is the kind of music the taxpayer likes to hear. Immediately following the story in a Canadian newspaper was a line that read "ttRpubabdsi .; dslcous" probably the typesetter was expressing his amazement.

Mr. Bennett says one of the first changes will be to raise to $1 the tax exemption on meals. At present all meals over 50 cents are taxed and any person who has been in a restaurant or hotel for a meal in the past few years will realize that 50 cents will not buy much of a meal.

Howe To Visit South America

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe is planning a flying tour of 10 South American countries next January to bolster Canada's relations with that continent where Canadian sales have jumped 10 times in the last 13 years, it is learned.

This will be the first trade trip to South America by a Canadian cabinet minister since Senator J. A. MacKinnon, then Trade Minister, toured the continent in 1946, completing a number of trade agreements.

Federal trade officials have been urging Canadian business men to pay more attention to the Latin American market where chances of selling wheat, newsprint metals, lumber, manufactured goods and other goods have been growing.

Board To Press For 2nd Chance

TORONTO (CP)—The Board of Education decided last night not to press for a second chance in late summer for Grade 13 students who fail one or two final examinations.

The change was opposed by the Ontario Department of Education, which controls the examinations. C. F. Cannon, deputy minister of education, told the board in a letter that supplemental examinations would be impractical and would not be as effective as the present revising board, which considers the cases of students who fail in one examination but do well in others.

Say Russia Flying Plane At 1700 MPH

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is flying experimental rocket fighter airplanes at speeds up to 1,700 miles an hour and altitudes upward of 100,000 feet, American Aviation Magazine said yesterday.

Even mightier rocket planes, under Russian top-priority development, may be able to fly 2,500 miles an hour at altitudes of 200,000 feet, the trade publication added.

The known world speed and altitude records, set last year by the U.S. navy's Douglas Skyrocket, are 1,238 miles an hour—about twice the speed of sound—and 79,494 feet.

Breaks Long Ties With Liberal Party

LONDON (Reuters) — Lady Megan Lloyd-George yesterday broke her long Parliamentary connections with the Liberal party which her famed Welsh father, David Lloyd-George, led as prime minister in the First World War.

Declining an invitation to run for Parliament as a liberal candidate, she criticized the party for "a drift towards the right."

Lady Megan declined comment on widespread reports she will join the Labor party whose cause she has often supported in Parliament. The once powerful Liberal party now has only six members in the House of Commons.

Queen Elizabeth Lays Foundation Stone

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth last night laid the foundation stone of a new building for Lloyd's of London, the 264-year-old insurance concern, which has grown out of its present headquarters.

The Queen, accompanied by the Duke of Edinburgh, laid the stone on the site of a bombed building adjacent to Lloyd's present headquarters in Leadenhall Stree in the heart of financial London.

Urge Earl Alexander Go To Korea With Ike

LONDON (Reuters)—A Labor member of Parliament announced last night he will urge Prime Minister Churchill to send Defence Minister Earl Alexander to Korea with Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, president-elect of the United States.

James Callaghan, a junior minister in the former Labor government, suggested Britain should be "represented at the talks that will take place."

Callaghan's query will come up in the House of Commons Tuesday.

Sell 40 Head

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Purebred Guernsey cows last night brought an average of $350 at the Essex-Kent breeders' consignment sale. Forty head were sold at auction. Top price was $435 paid by J. J. Andrews of St. Thomas for a heifer consigned by Arthur Allan of Kingsville. Top cow price was $430 paid by Lorne H. Krantz of Tavistock for an animal sold by Lyle Pettipiece of Ruthven.

To Study Demands

HAMILTON (CP)—Judge Harold Lang of Stratford has been appointed chairman of a board of arbitration to consider demands of Hamilton firefighters local 288. The board will meet here Nov. 13. The firemen seek an increase of $5 a week and other concessions.

Perth Man Elected Association Head

QUEBEC (CP)—A. L. Code of Perth, Ont., president of the Code Felt Company, yesterday was elected president of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association, succeeding George H. Carr of Sherbrooke.

Jean-Louis Heon of Plessissville, Que., was elected vice-president.

The following from Ontario were elected to the executive committee of the association: M. B. Bowman and C. M. Harding, both of Brantford; G. Klager, Hespeler; Mr. Code; H. A. Short, Arnprior; R. M. Trow, Stratford; R. A. Graham, Paris, and A. Beaumont, Glen Williams.

Uranium Strike At Nipissing

TORONTO (CP)—Philip T. Kelly, Ontario mine minister, last night announced a uranium strike of "more than passing interest" in the Manitou Islands at the east end of Lake Nipissing.

The announcement was made after tests by Dr. J. E. Thomson, assistant provincial geologist. Best samples ran .11 per cent uranium. The strike followed several months of geiger-counter surveying by Martin Van Clieaf of North Bay, working with Jim Kenney and the Inspiration Mining and Development Company.

The government will lease the six square miles of lake bottom surrounding the find, but the group will have to negotiate their own leases with the private owners of the islands.

The islands are a group of five covering about 400 acres. Indian legends curse them and tell of Indians who used a red oxide found there to make war paint and later died of bone disease.

Lost 20 Hours

TOBERMORY (CP)—Lost 20 hours in dense bushland south of here, 74-year-old A. E. Jones, of Port Stanley, yesterday told searchers who inquired why he did not answer their directing shots: "You woke me up at two o'clock this morning but I had no more ammunition so I could not answer." Mr. Jones said he couldn't make his way toward the searchers because of thick bush separating them. Later he emerged onto a road.

Aberdeen-Angus Champ

WALKERTON (CP) — Twenty-five 4-H clubs were represented here yesterday competing for top honors at the final day of the Walkerton Christmas Fair. There were entries from Bruce, Grey, Huron, Wellington and Elgin counties. The grand champion of the show was a 4-H club entry, an Aberdeen-Angus steer weighing 910 pounds exhibited by Jack Loree of Rockwood. The reserve champion honors went to Alex McIntosh of Guelph.

Killed By Tractor

WINGHAM (CP)—Ward Sharpin of Turnberry township, north of Wroxeter, was killed Wednesday when his tractor overturned and pinned him to the ground. He was plowing one of his fields at the time.

Roller Skate To Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two Canadian airwomen roller-skated into Winnipeg Tuesday on the last lap of a six-day trip from Detroit

Barbara Mills, 18, and Gloria Zwich, 22, travelled through Detroit, Sterling, Ill., Chicago, Minneapolis and then on to Winnipeg, mostly on rolwer skates. They said it was fun but wouldn't care to make it again.

Miss Mills is stationed at Chatham, N.B., and Miss Zwich at Lac St. Denis, Que., about 60 miles north of Montreal.

They were in Detroit visiting friends when they got the idea to visit Miss Mills' father in Winnipeg —on roller skates.

Girl Four, Has Second Eye Removed

KINGSTON (CP) — Four-year-old Barbara Anne Burton had her right eye removed here Wednesday in an attempt to halt a cancerous tumor growth.

Barbara's left eye was removed some time ago but when the tumor remained she was taken to Toronto for observation.

The second operation was recommended and the little girl was brought home to be with her eight brothers and sisters.

Doctors are unable to say whether the tumor has now been checked.

Worried Over Grades Girl 13, Suicides

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 13-year-old girl, despondent because of poor grades in school, yesterday plunged 200 feet from the centre of Lions Gate bridge spanning the entrance to Vancouver harbor. She died 2½ hours later in hospital.

Valerie Northcott was fished from the water on a pike pole by a passing fisherman minutes after the plunge.

Montreal Clips Toronto With 3-1 Victory, As Boston Blanks Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The old saw about there being "always room at the top" doesn't apply to the National Hockey League today. There are just as many first-placers in the standing as stragglers. Montreal Canadiens joined the charmed circle of league leaders last night with a 3-1 win over Toronto Maple Leafs, even though the Montreal big guns—Elmer Lach and Rocket Richard—were silenced. Both were trying for league records. In the other game of the evening, the faltering Detroit Red Wings were shut out 2-0 by Boston Bruins and ended in a tie with Boston five points behind the three leaders. Toronto and Chicago—the Hawks were idle last night—are tied with Canadiens with 15 points.

The Canadiens, with goalie Jacques Plante rounding out his stint of three games as replacement for the injured Gerry McNeil, had the edge on Toronto all the way. But the Leafs kept Richard and Lach out of the goal-scoring column.

THREE-GAME FAMINE

Richard now has gone three games without a goal since tying Nels Stewart's all-time N.H.L. record of 324 goals. The 14,547 Montreal fans rooted for him all the way, but went home at least with the satisfaction of a Canadien victory. Lach was trying for the 200th goal of his N.H.L. career to put him into that exclusive band.

Doug Harvey's long shot in the opening period broke the ice for Montreal and Bert Olmstead made it 2-0 in the second. Old reliable Max Bentley got the Leafs' only goal a minute later, but Bernie Geoffrion collected the insurance goal for Canadiens in the final period.

HENRY'S SECOND

At Boston, goalie Jim Henry made his second shutout of the year for the Bruins as the once-powerful Wings fired 31 shots at him in vain. Leo Labine scored a long-shot goal in the first period to give Bruins the game and Joe Klukay rapped in his own rebound in the third to put the contest away.

The week-end schedule can change the whole N.H.L. picture. Canadiens and Chicago meet at Montreal Saturday night while the Wings visit Toronto. Sunday night, the last-place Rangers go to Detroit while Chicago plays the Bruins in Boston.

Greater Sports Promotion Urged To A.A.U.

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAMILTON (CP) — Amateur sports-governing associations that have been dilatory in promoting sports in Canada received a verbal slap yesterday from Jim Worrall of Toronto, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

In his presidential report at the opening of the three-day annual convention, Worrall said the national executive and chairman and members of the national committees of the union "must accept criticism for not having created greater public interest and support for the various sports under our jurisdiction."

The A.A.U. governs track and field, boxing, fencing, wrestling, weight-lifting and handball in the country.

Worrall, who probably will be succeeded as president by Morie Bruker of Montreal, declared that the A.A.U. and other amateur sports-governing bodies have many problems including financial support, training facilities, coaches, competition, press and public relations—"enough to support a thesis on the subject."

NO CURE SUGGESTED

He did not suggest cures but said "there is food for thought in this situation for every Canadian who has any interest in sports, recreation, physical fitness and national welfare generally."

He said "considerable progress" had been made in the affairs of the A.A.U. during the last year but warned "there is no cause for complacency."

"There is a tremendous amount of work still to be done to make the A.A.U. the progressive and efficient body of government of the amateur sports under our jurisdiction which it could and should be."

As far as A.A.U. records show "not one person in Alberta, Saskatchewan, the Maritimes or Newfoundland is interested in fencing" and "apparently no one outside Quebec and British Columbia is interested in weight-lifting," he said.

"Even in other sports, such as track and field, the picture at (A.A.U.) branch level leaves much to be desired."

Report of treasurer Jack Davies of Montreal showed a balance of $2,539 for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 compared with $675 last year.

Use Hal Murphy Replace McNeil

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens will go to local pastures again for a goalie as replacement for the injured Gerry McNeil.

This time it is Hal Murphy, now with Ste. Therese in the Provincial League. Murphy will take over from Jacques Plante, who has completed his three-game stint under lend-lease regulations and returns to Montreal Royals of the Quebec senior hockey league.

Canadiens' management said yesterday there is a possibility McNeil may be able to return in about a week. His right cheek-bone was fractured and displaced in a game in Toronto Oct. 29. The surgeon found the operation less difficult than expected and McNeil has been making a fast recovery.

DAMAGE STILL UNKNOWN

TORONTO (CP)—Hospital officials last night said they would not know for five or six days the extent of eye injuries suffered by Herb Dickenson, left-winger for New York Rangers in the National Hockey League. Dickenson was hit in the left eye with a puck during a practice warm-up before the Rangers' game with Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday night.

Beaches Name 2 For Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Johnny Pont, Oattem Fisher and Al Dekdebrun last night were nominated by Balmy Beach players of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union for the award of most valuable and gentlemanly player in the league.

Each team picks two of its own men and one opponent for the trophy. Pont started with Beaches on the half line in their fourth game and finished second to Sarnia's Corky Duchene in the scoring race. Fisher has been powerful on the Beaches defensive line. Al Dekdebrun was quarterback of Brantford Redskins.

Pont twisted an ankle yesterday when he tripped over a curb stone after leaving a movie. He ran with the team last night with the ankle taped. The only other Beach injury is Ross McKelvie, speedy halfback who broke his ankle seven weeks ago. He may return for the second Sarnia-Beaches playoff game.

Barney Bird, flying wing, and Ken Wagner, halfback, both have cases of stomach flu but are expected to be ready for the first playoff-game Sunday.

Honor Four Great Scullers

HAMILTON (CP)—Four of Canada's greatest scullers—one a transplanted Australian and another long since dead—were honored last night at special ceremonies in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

The four, all Diamond Sculls winners and whose names are indelibly inscribed in the country's sports roll of honor, received plaques in recognition of their admittance into the Canadian Amateur Athletic Hall of Fame last January.

Latest members of the hall, in addition to 17 Olympic gold medal winners and to men and women who have reached international fame in amateur athletics, they are:

The late Lou Scholes of Toronto, sculls winner in 1904 whose son, Lou Jr., received a plaque in memory of probably the best-known sculler in the history of the sport in Canada.

Joe Wright, Jr., of Toronto, 1928 sculls winner; Jack Guest, Sr., also of Toronto, who won the prized sculls in 1930 and Bobby Pearce of Australia, now a Lieutenant-Commander in the Royal Canadian Navy at Ottawa who won the sculls in 1931 and later reigned as the world's professional champion.

L. Crocker Rolls Tops

Lil Crocker rolled the season's high three and single to date in the Y.M.C.A. girls' bowling loop this week with an 809 for three and single of 348. Hurricanes blanked Tigers, as Aces, Commandos and Lucky Strikes took four points each from Glens, Bombers and Corvettes. Commandos rolled high single of 1,219 for teams and led in pinnage with 3,057.

Shirley Marshall came through [illegible] rolled 687, Olive Scott 695, Mary Johnson 674, Shirley Heckman 649 and D. Beatty 646. Good singles also included: F. Stanley 290, M. Johnson 289, D. Beatty 275, E. Pearcey 261, A. Jackson 259, L. Martin 250, O. Scott 248 and Mary Gimblett 246.

RIDES FOUR WINNERS

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP)—Jockey Tony Despirito rode four winners in five tries on a nine-race card at Lincoln Downs yesterday and boosted his 1952 total to 331. The wiry little 17-year-old apprentice from Lawrence, Mass., is gunning for the record of 388 set by Walter Miller in 1906 and equalled in 1950 by Willie Shoemaker and Joe Culmone.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Orfuns' grid opposition from here in will be plenty tough, and Coach Tony Kotowski and his crew know it. After the game with Hamilton here last Saturday, Tony Golab remarked: "We're not through yet—in fact we're just three passes away from a tie!" Orfuns have a 15-point lead for the return O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" final tomorrow in Panther territory, but they know the desperate Hamiltonians will open it up wide in an effort to whittle down that margin as quickly as possible. However, we like the local club's chances with Bill Huntley and Jerry McGillis ready for action again after injuries. They should win the game Saturday, though perhaps by a narrow edge.

* * * * * *

Should Orfuns take the provincial title, they face stiff competition in the eastern final, no doubt. Ottawa (sponsored by the Rough Riders) plays Montreal Lakeshores in Verdun on Sunday aft for the Q.R.F.U. title. This game starts at 1:30 as it must go to a decision. The two Union champs will then clash on Nov. 15—here if Peterborough ousts Hamilton—in a sudden-deather for eastern honors. Winner of that then heads west the following Saturday, Nov. 22, to seek the Canadian crown in Winnipeg. That's for the Percy Robinson Memorial Trophy—otherwise known as "the little Grey Cup". So, come on, you Orfuns, shoot the works from here in!

Looking At Their Lists

Latest Kingston lineup of senior "B" puckists we have includes: Johnson and Udall for goal; Watts, Londry, Bruce, Deans and Bender on defence; Myke Murray, McKeown, Partis, MacGregor, Dowdall, White, Gerow, Aitken, Tinkess and Potts up front. Deans was with Lyndhurst, Myke played in the Scottish loop, Dowdall hails from Perth, Johnston is a Sarnia prbduct, and Bruce played for Boston Bruins during the war. Lineup for Oshawa in our group lists these players: Naylor, Pallister, Dickens, Red Peters, Roach, Marshall, Gar Peters, Hooper, Boniface, Berwick, Wilson, Thaler, Samolenko, Holden, Nelson, Scott and Tisdale.

* * * * * *

Oddfellows pry off the lid on the O.H.A. junior "B" pot here tonight when they tackle Sixty Coombs' Lindsay hustlers. Coach Doug Mortimer has a husky bunch of young battlers sporting I.O.O.F. jerseys this season, and they're rarin' to get into action. Goalies Delahaye, Wingett and Lingard have been trying out, but we haven't heard yet which will start. Defence prospects include: Bigford, Sullivan, Burns, Sabatino, Kimball, McCormick and Newman. Up front, they have Robinson, Floyd, Frizzelle, Twist, Coyle, Ferguson, Gardner, McCracken, Allen, Snape, Doris, Stevenson, Lang and Cupoli. Maybe one or two other prospects we've missed, as well. Club officers are Herb Youngs as president, Ken Mowrey vice-prexy and Bob McCuaig the secretary-treasurer. Plus a dozen on the executive committee. Glen Edwards is manager. Tonight's opening tilt rates a fine Friday night crowd.

* * * * *

On Basketball Front

On the local basketball front, we have two games and two meetings this weekend. Lasses stage a double-header tonight in the Y.W. gym, commencing at 8:10, Collis vs. Civic, and Lindsay vs. C.G.E. There's a meeting, open to all interested, at four tomorrow aft in the Y.M. when Myron Hendricks of Niagara Falls, N. Y., will deal with interpretation of rules, new rules and the technique of cage refereeing. First of such a series of schools for hoop refs and coaches. Pick Leeson, O.A.B.A. secretary, is coming this weekend also to speak on basketball organization. A meeting is listed for the Y.M. Sunday at 1:30 p.m. to organize a city and district hoop association for teams from school age up. Open to those interested.

* * * * * *

An item from Orillia: "Pud Hammond, local lacrosse club manager, reports that Jack McLeod of Owen Sound suggests that if Orillia enters senior "A" lacrosse next year it is possible that two groups may be formed. McLeod intends to propose that Orillia, Owen Sound, Fergus, Brampton and St. Catharines play in one group; leaving Peterborough, Toronto West Yorks, Mimico and Hamilton for the other. An interlocking schedule would provide fans with a variety, with home and home games played with teams of the other group and a double schedule within the regular group. The matter will likely be argued out at the annual O.L.A. meeting in Toronto next spring. Orillia Terriers won the senior "B"

Yanks Sign Pitcher

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—New York Yankees Thursday signed 18-year-old Elvin Peaultz, fast ball pitcher from nearby Ephrata, to a bonus contract. Yankee scouts said the young pitcher will be assigned to the Yanks' farm club at Joplin, Mo., in the class C Western Association.

MAXIM TO DEFEND TITLE

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Joe Maxim of Cleveland will defend his world light-heavyweight boxing crown in St. Louis against Archie Moore Dec. 17. Managers of both boxers, officials of the International Boxing Club and the St. Louis Arena set the date at a meeting here yesterday. A contract for the 15-round bout was signed.

Ti-Cat-Ottawa Struggle Likely Tough

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The 12-game schedule of the Big Four football union winds up tomorrow and although the two playoff berths are wrapped up by Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Toronto Argonauts, these two powerhouses have provided an extra flourish by leaving the question of who'll end up in first place on the outcome of their final games.

The worst the Ticats can do is finish in a first-place tie with Argonauts since they now have a two-point lead. The deadlock can develop should the Bengals lose to the Rough Riders in Ottawa while Argonauts win against Montreal Alouettes in Toronto.

The Ticats, who eliminated the Riders' hopes of a playoff berth last Saturday by edging them 25-23, can ease their worries over the outcome of the Montreal-Toronto clash by repeating their triumph over the Riders and end up automatically on the top rung.

Carl Voyles' club expects a battle in trying to beat the Riders for the fourth straight time this season even though the Ottawa club, last year's Grey Cup Champions, is riddled with injuries and out of the race.

O'MALLEY INCIDENT

The two teams fought a rough, bruising game last Saturday at Hamilton and the bitter feeling between them is expected to be renewed tomorrow. Fuel to the strife was added last week when quarterback Tom O'Malley suffered a wrenched back when tackled by three Hamilton players, forcing him to sit out the final half and see the Ticats overcome a 14-0 deficit.

O'Malley is expected in the starting line-up and Coach Clem Crowe has Alex Lawson, former University of Toronto quarterback, ready to take over again should O'Malley's back not stand up.

The Ticats, who will play the first game of their total-points, home-and-hour playoff series against Argos at Hamilton Saturday are expected to use some of their first-string backfielders sparingly.

ALS HOLD HOPES

The Alouettes, with only one win in 11 games, hope to finish in style with a victory against Argonauts, who beat them 29-18 for the third straight time last Saturday. The Als nearly took that last game, but they couldn't stop Ulysses Curtis, the league's leading scorer, and rookie Johnny Fedosoff, each of whom got two touchdowns.

Fedosoff will see lots of action again in the backfield, but a number of regulars, such as outside Al Bruno and Billy Bass, both on the limp with minor injuries, will likely not be used unless Coach Frank Clair needs them to pull out a victory.

Trappers Whip Sault Team 5-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There is no such thing as a safe lead in Ontario Senior Hockey these days. The loss of one game could cost a team its first-place standing.

Last night saw Sudbury Wolves knocked out of top spot in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior southern group without raising an elbow. North Bay Trappers trounced Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, Indians 5-1 to take a one-point lead over the Wolves.

Sarnia Sailors are all alone in first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series but their position will become precarious during tonight's action. Three teams are within two points of the leaders—Chatham St. Clair Maroons, Stratford Indians and Owen Sound Mercurys. Sarnia has to win to stay ahead.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen visit the Sailors tonight fresh from a 9-2 win over Owen Sound Wednesday night. The Dutchmen have won only two games in five starts this season and will be seeking to even up their record.

CHATHAM'S CHANCE BEST

Chatham has the best chance of pulling up with the Sailors as they take on Hamilton Tigers who are still looking for their first win. The Indians will be in Brantford tonight and they too can move up with a win.

3 Basketball Players Barred For 3 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—Three former University of Kentucky and Olympic basketball stars convicted of [illegible] yesterday [illegible] must not engage in any amateur or professional sports for three years.

Ralph Beard and Alex Groza, All-Americans, and Dale Barnstable were placed on probation for three years after being given suspended sentences.

Judge Saul S. Streit told Beard and Groza in his chambers that their sports ban would apply through the probationary period. The same notification was sent to Barnstable, who was not present.

Judge Streit told the players:

"You have betrayed your honor, your colleagues, your college and the public. You have forfeited the right to engage in public sports, amateur or professional."

Chi-Hawks Play Unusual Game

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League and Brockville Magedoms of the New York-Ontario League battled to an 11-11 tie last night in an unusual hockey game.

The end of the first period saw Chicago up 5-0 so the Hawks helped their overwhelmed rivals out with five players and the teams traded goalies.

Al Rollins, Chicago net-minder, had six of the 22 goals scored against him, none by Brockville players. Goalie Vaughan Harris of Brockville handled 56 shots while Rollins handled 42.

The Hawks rallied in the last 20 seconds of the game to score the tying goal, but the actual scorer will never be known. For the last minute of the game both teams used most of their players in a frantic game of shinny that saw the final score come out of a scramble of 20 or more men.

Ellis Kinder Suffers Wound

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Ellis Kinder, Boston Red Sox pitcher, was reported recuperating today from a stomach wound.

Kinder was taken to hospital Thursday, but hospital authorities said he declined any treatment.

The sheriff's office reported deputies had been sent to investigate reports of a disturbance in a home on Siesta Key early Thursday. Deputy Carl Mayer said he found no indication of any law violation and made no arrest.

A policeman quoted Kinder as saying he had been cut during a scuffle at the home of Bud Warfield.

P.C.V.S. Seniors Take On Oakwood Squad

Prepping for their C.O.S.S.A. final next week, the senior "A" Collegiate gridders take on Oakwood Collegiate of Toronto at 2:15 p.m. tomorrow in Riverside in an exhibition football game. Oakwood was edged out by Humberside in Toronto quarter-finals, the Humberside going this week-end in semi-finals in Toronto.

Coach Bev Goulding has his Garnet and Grey squad in good condition while awaiting the important date of Nov. 15 when they go after another C.O.S.S.A. championship on a foreign field. Of doubtful strength as the football season opened in September, P.C.V.S. has rolled right along in convincing fashion to again take group honors up this way, and win their start in the big Red Feather tournament in Toronto. They are given a good chance of capturing the C.O.S.S.A. title once more.

Only Staff Of 8 On Duty Night Boyd Gang Escaped

TORONTO (CP) — Alex Noble, suspended deputy governo: of the Don jail, said yesterday there was a staff of only eight at the prison the night the Boyd gang escaped because "I think the department had the idea the night men had nothing to do—only punch the clock."

Giving evidence before the Royal Commission inquiring into conditions at the jail, Noble said that when the gang made their break Sept. 8 his staff included two totally inexperienced guards, one incompetent guard and another man, who, because of a war injury, suffered serious memory lapses

He said he tried twice to have guard John McNulty removed from duty on the corridor where the gang was confined but both times he had been unsuccessful. McNulty was not the right man for guarding important corridors, he said, but "my hands were tied I had to follow orders."

Jail attendance registers submitted as exhibits showed that Noble had only six men on several nights in July and on one night only five. With such a small staff it was impossible to have a man guarding the gang all the time, he said.

Noble testified he had never had verbal or written instructions about constant supervision of the Boyd gang. The first he had heard of it officially was on the day of the escape from Reforms Minister Foote.

When crown counsel George Walsh asked him how the prisoners were treated, Noble said he felt too many dangerous men were given too much freedom.

Final witness yesterday was Anne Jackson, wife of convicted murderer Leonard Jackson She denied ever receiving hacksaw blades and a screwdriver from guard James Morrison who was convicted for trying to help Jackson escape.

Titol Willing Meet Eisenhower For Talk

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP)—Premier Tito said today he would be "very satisfied" to get together with the United States president-elect, Dwight D. Eisenhower, for a discussion of mutual political and defence matters.

Tito made his remarks in response to a reporter's questions. There has been no indication from either Belgrade or Washington that an official visit would be made by either of the two leaders.

Tito has tentatively accepted an invitation from Prime Minister Churchill to visit Britain.

Saves Her Children

MARKHAM (CP)—Mrs. P. Descotaux saved three of her five children yesterday by throwing them out the window when fire broke out in her frame house in Markham, 12 miles northeast of Toronto. The other two children were at school. Firemen said the fire raged out of control when a hydrant wouldn't work.

Only Stomach Ache

WITH U. S. 2ND DIVISION, Korea (AP)—A Communist artillery shell hit a United States soldier in the leg. The shell bounced up and belted him in the mid-section, but did not explode. The soldier, whose name was withheld, went to hospital with a stomach ache.

Quebec Knocks Barrie Flyers Off 4-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League are faring badly in their interlocking schedule games with the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association.

Quebec Citadelles entertained the visitors last night, using them as a ladder to climb into a first-place tie with Montreal Canadiens in the Quebec section. The Citadelles took a 4-2 decision after a wild third period that saw fists and penalties flying.

It was Barrie's second loss in two games on their Quebec tour and endangers their hold on first place in the Ontario section. The Flyers now are just two points ahead of Toronto St. Michael's and Galt Black Hawks. St. Michael's play Toronto Marlboros tonight and Galt moves into Guelph.

Quebec led 2-1 at the end of the second period after Don McKinney opened up for Barrie, then Gabby Alain and Ray Cyr moved the home-towners ahead.

An even dozen penalties were called in the third, including three majors and a 10-minute misconduct. Gilles Thibeault of Quebec and Fred Pletsch and Doug Mohns of Barrie got the thumb for fighting. The misconduct went to Barrie's Ken Robertson.

Alain scored again for Citadelles and Rollie Leclerc got the other. John Martan made it two for Barrie.

TRADE HITS SNAG

GALT (CP)—Galt Black Hawks and Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series have run into complications in a recently-engineered trade.

The switch would have taken Doug Thiel, a defenceman and wing, to Galt while the Greenshirts received Alfred Buddy Horne, a wingman, and Douglas Vaughan, a defenceman.

Horne, who lives in Toronto, refused to report to Kitchener and has been suspended. Theil turned out to practice with Galt but informed coach Red Hamill he had a steady job in Kitchener and would have to commute. Hamill did not favor this.

Peace Body Renamed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Without a division the United Nations Assembly yesterday approved a Canadian resolution that the 14 member countries of the U.N. Peace Observation Commission be re-appointed for two more years. They are China, Colombia, Czechoslovakia, France, India, Iraq, Israel, New Zealand, Pakistan, Sweden, the Soviet Union, Britain, the United States and Uruguay.

Plowmen To U.K.

TORONTO (CP)—A group of Ontario plowmen, winners of the recent international plowing match at Carp, are to leave Montreal by air today for a British Plowing Association match at Falkirk, Scotland, Nov. 12. They are Douglas S. Reid, 26, of Brampton, tractor plowing champion; Algie Wallace, 35, of North Gower, near Ottawa, horse plowing champion, and Roy Shaver of Finch, also near Ottawa, trip manager.

Turkish Officials Resign

LONDON (Reuters)—The Turkish ministers of defence and labor have resigned, Ankara Radio said last night. Houloussi Keuymen resigned as defence minister after being elected chairman of the Parliamentary group of the Democratic party. He has been succeeded by Seyfi Kurtbek, formerly minister of transport. The radio gave no reason for the resignation of Labor Minister Nuki Ozsan.

Dislikes UN Building

LONDON (Reuters) — Viscount Samuel, Liberal party leader in the House of Lords, said last night he found the new United Nations headquarters in New York "architecturally repellent." He described the building as an "enormous, upright, unrelieved slab of windows" ... gracious and friendly ... zation."

Tanker Refloated

HALIFAX (CP)—The oil tanker Imperial Goderich was refloated yesterday from the harbor of Grand Bank, Nfld., after running aground during the second storm of the traditional gale season The weather office here said the storm, which first struck the eastern seaboard Wednesday night, was blowing itself out over central Labrador last night.

Transport Out of Fuel

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist China's chief, Mao Tze-Tung, congratulated Premier Joseph Stalin today on the "colossal successes" of the Soviet people in the "incessant struggle" for world peace. Mao's message marked the 35th anniversary of the Russian revolution.

Drinking More Beer

LONDON (Reuters) — Britons drank more beer last August than ever before, a government report says. Total number of barrels consumed was 2,680,000—670,000 more barrels than in July. But consumption of liquor fell from 770,000 gallons in July to 720,000.

Give Women Right To Vote In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Prime Minister Khalid Shehab's government issued a sweeping new election decree last night giving educated women the right to vote, almost halving the number of Parliamentary seats and revising the basis of representation.

New elections appeared to be the next step after the electoral law changes, one of the principal demands of opposition groups which forced the ouster last September of President Bechara El Khoury.

The new law reduced the number of seats in Parliament to 44 from 77, gave all women with elementary education the right to vote and abolished the previous electoral system whereby lists of candidates prepared by the major political leaders were elected in blocks.

To Sell Estate

MUTTONTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—The Long Island estate that former King Zog of Albania bought a year ago but never lived in is scheduled to be sold for taxes. The 60-room property was sold to the exiled Balkan monarch for a reported $105,000. Officials said Thursday the estate will be sold for tax arrears listed as $2,654.

Alaska Bush Pilot Walks Out After Six Days In Wilderness

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A bush pilot walked out of the Alaska wilderness Wednesday and told of a six-day battle to reach civilization after his plane was forced down in a snowstorm.

Joseph Cook related how he made a last ditch takeoff from a strip he hacked out with a hatchet, only to run out of gas in flight.

The Alaskan flier had been sought since he vanished Oct. 30. As many as 20 planes had joined in the search for him in hazardous weather

Cook said he landed on a sandbar when he lost his way in snow flurries a week ago. He got into the air again, but snow forced him down on a hilltop. His plane was damaged.

For four days he worked with a hatchet to clear a 1,500-foot strip through brush. Then he made three takeoff attempts. Each time the plane skidded into brush and suffered more damage.

GOT INTO AIR

Although the fabric on the plane was badly ripped he managed to get into the air on the fourth attempt.

Cook said he was in sight of the Yukon River when the plane ran out of gas.

"I thought I could glide to the river but, without the engine, the damaged plane dropped like a streamlined rock," he said.

He crashed and was thrown clear.

Although exhausted and bruised, he walked two days and two nights. After reaching the Yukon River bank across from the village of Tanana, he lay on his back and fired a pistol.

A villager heard the shots, flew over and picked Cook up.

Begin Removal Work On Gut Dam Project

CORNWALL (CP)—Work of removing the Gut Dam in the St. Lawrence River near Cardinal, got under way Thursday after equipment was moved in by Canadian Dredge and Dock Company of Toronto.

The removal of the dam was ordered last week by the International Joint Commission as one of the conditions for its approval of an application to develop power resources in the international section of the river.

... THE BAG, said vice-president candidat Richard A. Nixon as he cast his ballot with Mrs. Nixon. And he was right. He and General Eisenhower were swept into office on a tidal wave of votes.

Using Sweepstake Idea For Coronation Tickets

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON (CP)—Three Commonwealth countries—Australia, New Zealand and South Africa—will let "Lady Luck" decide the distribution of ringside seats available to them for next summer's glittering Coronation procession.

London spokesmen for the three dominions reported yesterday the tide of applications for seating accommodation was mounting so rapidly that provisional allocations would come nowhere near satisfying the demand.

To meet the situation it is planned to place all applications from the three countries in separate common pools and then determine the lucky winners by a modified sweepstake draw.

"The proposed plan of distribution is bound to cause many disappointments," said an official at Australia House, "but it seems the only fair way in the circumstances of handling a particularly difficult problem."

DECISION UP TO OTTAWA

Officials of Canada House expressed interest but stated that any decision dealing with the handling of Canadian applications and allocation of seats would have to come from Ottawa.

Meanwhile, the advance guard of an army of workmen has moved into the Mall, leading from Buckingham Palace to Admiralty Arch, to start erecting the miles of government stands that will flank the coronation route.

Supplementing private undertakings, the government's total stand accommodation will provide some 100,000 seats, with about 35,000 set aside for overseas Commonwealth, colonial and foreign visitors

Of this space it is understood Canada has been provisionally allotted 9,000 seats.

The question of a Canadian role in the actual Coronation rites may come before Canada's Coronation executive committee, which has not met for some time but will convene later this month.

Truman Eligible For $95 Pension

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Truman returns to private life Jan. 20 he will be eligible for a government pension of $95.66 a month.

The $95.66 could be drawn by retired colonel Truman because of his First World War military service and his later service in the U.S. army reserve. Qualified reserve officers start drawing a fraction of their active duty pay upon reaching 60.

There is no compensation of any kind that Truman will be entitled to as a former president.

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Grand Master Visits Lodges At Bonarlaw

BONAR LAW (ENS) — Oddfellows from the lodges comprising Madoc District No. 45 were present in goodly numbers at Springbrook Orange Hall on Tuesday evening to welcome Grand Master T. R. McFadden on his official visit.

These lodges are Campbellford No. 248, Stirling No. 239, Tweed No. 290, Thomasburg No. 293, Madoc No. 179 and Springbrook No. 429. A turkey banquet was served in the basement of the hall by the Women's Association of Springbrook United Church.

The Grand Master referred to the fact that Grand Lodge was made up of representatives of lodges in Ontario. No subordinate or district lodge was unimportant to Grand Lodge. Using a pyramid as an illustration, he declared that the whole foundation of Grand Lodge is its lodges and their membership. At the close of his remarks D.D.G.M. G. Thompson asked the Springbrook installing team to stand to receive his tribute for duties well performed.

Adjournment then took place to the auditorium of the hall where the D.D.G.M. resumed the duties of chairman. Community singing was led by Frank Cocbery with Barbara Meiklejohn as accompanist after which the Noble Grand of Springbrook Lodge, Phil Beaudrie, welcomed the group.

The duet, "Santa Lucia" was sung by the Misses Barbara and Mary Meiklejohn following words of good wishes from P.D.D.G.M. Harry Mawson of Trenton (former member of Springbrook Lodge who left the district 39 years ago) and P.D.D.G.M. G. Harris of Peterborough. Violin solos were played by Phil Beaudrie. The next highlight for the host lodge, P.D.D.G.M. E. T. Nayler of Madoc presented Springbrook Lodge with the S. R. Beatty shield for the year. This shield goes annually to the lodge in the Madoc district which shows the greatest increase in membership excluding those admitted by card and is the gift of Dr. S. R. Beatty of Madoc. P.D.D.G.M. of the district on behalf of the winning lodge the Past Noble Grand, Raplh Wellman received it and suitably returned thanks. Mrs. Walter Warren of Harold then sang "Where'er You Walk". The chairman, asking any 50 year vetteran present to stand, had one response. Thomas Spry of Stirling with 56 years' membership to his account, rose to receive an ovation.

Having read a poem on Friendship, the Grand Master said that the slogan to be seen elsewhere, "It is the team work which counts", was fitting for Oddfellowship. He elaborated on the suggested objectives as given by the Sovereign Grand Master.

Mrs. McFadden was then presented with a bouquet of red roses by Mrs. George Thompson. This was followed by a piano ... violin selections by Ph... Beaudrie. Two more presentations followed at the hands of the Grand Master. Hiram Mumby of Springbrook Lodge received a 25 year jewel and P.D.D.G.M. E. Naylor of Madoc and P.D.D.G.M. Jewel. Both made appreciative replies.

X-Rays Compulsory For Certain Workers

TORONTO (CP)—Chest check-ups and X-rays are compulsory for workers exposed to silicosis, a lung disease caused by inhaling particles of rock and metal dust, Dr. J. G. Cunningham of the Ontario department of health, said today.

He told a conference of community health officers today that the department has established travelling clinics to examine exposed foundry workers, granite cutters, enamelware workers and steel furnace liners. Some 15,000 employees are involved.

"No one will be allowed to work in these four industries unless he has a certificate issued by the department after a physical examination," Dr. Cunningham said.

Canadian Plan For POW's Gains Support

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y (CP)—The United Nations Assembly gradually is getting down to brass tacks on the war prisoners issue blocking a Korean truce.

The initial oratorical skirmishes are almost over, intermediary countries are talking to both sides in the conflict, and resolutions are coming in, with more on the way.

Indian diplomatic sources, who have one of the few pipelines to Communist China, say their information makes them "very hopefull." Western diplomats, wary of Communist intention, still have their fingers crossed.

Assembly President L. B Pearson, Canada's external affairs minister, has talked privately with many Western and Arab-Asian delegates about the problem. As an impartial Assembly president he can take no open role at this point in negotiations. But he would have the opportunity to make recommendations after a Communist reply to the proposed 21-country call for a cease-fire on terms which include non-forceable repatriation.

Another Canadian, Health Minister Paul Martin, as leader of what is considered one of the most objective of Western delegations, has been working hard to put over a Canadian suggestion.

There has been a favorable response at least from the Arab-Asian group—which is playing a key role in mediation efforts—to the Canadian idea for a neutral commission to take over war prisoners in a de-militarized zone where they would decide whether or not to return home.

While delegates await a reply from Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky to pointed questions on Russian views, they are studying four formal resolutions now before the political committee of the General Assembly:

1. A 21-country Western proposal, presented by State Secretary Dean Acheson and backed by Canada, which calls on the Chinese Communists and North Koreans to accept a truce which avoids force in repatriating prisoners. So far the Communists have demanded that all prisoners be repatriated.

Most Arab-Asian countries and some Latin American countries are cool to his resolution on the grounds it calls for approval of the United States conduct of the war on behalf of the U.N. without a full accounting of U.S. action.

2. The Russian plan to set up a new Korean Commission "for the peaceful settlement of the Korean question." Western delegates consider the Soviet resolution vague and have asked Vishinsky to clarify his aims. The Western powers would object to any commission which would discuss political problems before an armistice is signed.

3. The Mexican resolution under which prisoners who do not wish to return home would be given sanctuary in U.N. member countries. Some Western delegates see objections to this proposal because it does not come to grips directly with the Communist charge that prisoners have been forced to say they do not wish to be repatriated.

4. Peru's call for a commission to take over prisoners who do not wish to be repatriated. This resolution comes in for the same criticism as the Mexican proposal and in addition is termed "vague."

Indonesia has been privately circulating a draft proposal which would attempt to amalgamate the 21-country and Russian plan. However there is Western opposition to the Indonesian idea of setting up a commission which would discuss political questions before an armistice. The Indonesian plan also provides for a neutral commission to handle war prisoners, but its suggestion for an over-all commission loses its Western force.

India is expected to come forward shortly with a resolution which would embody the Canadian suggestion, which boils down to a re-screening of all prisoners in a demilitarized zone by a neutral commission.

Ernest Ridout Real Estate Expands To Big New Office On First Anniversary Here

J. M. BOWES, Branch Manager

Nov. 7, 1952 — Peterborough's largest and best-known real estate firm today followed the example of its clientele by moving to larger quarters more suitable for its extended operations in the district. The move came just one year after Ernest Ridout officially opened this Eastern Ontario branch of the growing organization.

Like so many of its clients, the company was faced with a shortage of space because of the steady growth in its family of employees, and like so many of our friends and customers, we decided our best solution was to find a new home.

Into this new office there have been built all the features necessary to conduct an efficient, reliable real estate service. Private offices have been provided for discussion of confidential information with buyers and sellers of property. A switchboard with four trunk telephone lines has been installed to handle the large volume of incoming calls in response to property advertisements. The spacious general office is tastefully decorated to provide a pleasant atmosphere in which to work and do business.

We are proud of our new office and we invite everyone interested to drop in and look it over while we are having Open House tomorrow. But we are even more proud of the staff of hard working, well-informed sales representatives of this firm who have made this move necessary and possible.

We believe we have the best group of trained real estate experts ever assembled in one organization in a city the size of Peterborough. Through intensive advertising and the countless contacts supplied by out-of-town offices we are able to supply our agents with a steady stream of prospective buyers for Peterborough properties as they come on the market. It is no wonder that so many individuals and business firms turn their real estate problems over to Ernest Ridout.

Similarly, the man who wants to find a home or other property has found that the local Ridout office has such a large choice of listings in all price ranges that he can very often find exactly what he needs on his first call to the office. The sound advice of our real estate counsellors helps everyone get the home they need at the price and terms they can afford to pay.

Most people will recognize one or more of our staff members, since they are all from Peterborough and district. Each one is ready to serve you to the best of his ability, and each has access to all the listings and all the facilities of the company.

If you have plans for buying, selling, exchanging, financing or developing properties anywhere in Ontario, it will pay you to know your Ridout men. We are at your service.

LAWSON LEAVES OPP

Ray Lawson of Lindsay, for five years a constable in the Ontario Provincial Police, is leaving the force for a job as real estate salesman. He was born in England, lived in Alberta for many years, and in 1938 moved to Picton where he became a town constable. He was on loan to the 6th Airborne Division (British) during the Second World War and remained with them until his discharge in 1945. Then he joined the OPP at Belleville. For seven months he was stationed in Haliburton and for the last five years he has been on the Lindsay detachment.

Board Ends Annexation Hearing

Board To Take Time Before Decision On Smith Land

The Municipal Board at 12.20 p.m. today ended its hearing on the application of the City of Peterborough to annex 1,256 acres of Smith township land for housing development. Chairman George A. Lister said that the arguments pro and con were too involved for an immediate decision, so the decision was reserved.

Ralph Standish, who was counsel for Smith ratepayers opposed to annexation, said he was not arguing against the annexation of the Queen Elizabeth subdivision of 26 acres. Work is going ahead there on the construction of 126 houses.

TOO MUCH, TOO SOON

"They've already got started at the Queen Elizabeth," he said, "so I'm not arguing against taking it over . . But a city growing at the rate of 800 people a year doesn't need all that land.

"My theme is too much and too soon.

He was strongly opposed to any annexation of the extreme eastern part of the land, including the farm property owned by Stuart Meiklejohn.

Lots on 520 acres of choice Smith farmland were bought under the Land Assembly scheme to provide cheap lots for housing. Federal and provincial authorities are partners in this scheme, along with the City of Peterborough.

The city would pay for the services up to the edge of the Land Assembly property and then as development goes on inside, the city would instal the services and be paid for them.

W. W. Scott of the housing branch of the Department of Planning and Development predicted that "assuming normal development the land can be sold in five or six years." Cross questioned by Mr. Standish, at the first hearing of the Municipal Board on Sept. 8, he stretched the time limit to seven years. But he thought 10 years was too much.

The Board heard evidence for half a day last September and the hearing was resumed on Thursday —lasting all day and part of Thursday night. The hearing ended at noon today.

Smith township council were a passive third party at the hearing. They recommended that the annexation go ahead and even enlarged the size of the original territory being taken in. Alex Edmison, Smith clerk and treasurer, said the council had urged the city to take in all of School Section No. 13, rather than part of it, and also the eastern section of the land.

However, he said that in 1949 the township had asked the city

Announces Dates X-Ray Survey In City Zones

Clinic locations and dates for the mass chest X-ray survey of Peterborough were announced at a meeting Thursday night of the Peterborough Tuberculosis X-ray Council in George St. United Church.

First of the clinics will be Nov. 13 and 14 at Mark St. United Church, to serve the area east of the Otonabee River.

Second will be held in the south zone—all that area lying south of a line running west from the river on Rink, Albert and Frank Sts. Dates are Nov. 17-21 inclusive, and the clinic will be in St. James' United Church.

Clinic for the north zone will be held in George St. United Church from Nov. 24 to Nov. 28. It will serve the area north of a line running west from the river along Brock, Elm and Hopkins Sts.

Centre zone clinic will be held in Knox United Church, Dec. 1-5. It serves the area between the north and south zones, west of the river.

NAME COMMANDERS

Zone commanders for the south and east zones were appointed Thursday night. They are Mrs. Earl McNabb for the east zone and Mrs. W. A. Poast for the south. Mrs. D. A. Harwood will assist Mrs. McNabb. Other appointments are to be made for the north and centre zones.

Also to be covered by the city survey are parts of the various townships touching on the city, and the village of Bridgenorth. Mrs. W. G. Waterman and Mrs. Owen Murray are in charge of the North Monaghan canvass, Mrs. A. Hancock in charge of Smith, and Mrs. Cliff Hartman at Bridgenorth.

Others are to be appointed for Otonabee and the southern section of Douro.

Meeting chairman Ron Balaam said that a few more canvassers were needed for each zone.

Three Plead Guilty To Cheque Forging

GUELPH (CP)—Three Kitchener men pleaded guilty today to a series of charges of forging and uttering cheques in Guelph and Wellington county. They were remanded a week for sentence.

Douglas C. Whitney and Paul Kieswetter jointly faced five charges of forging $45 cheques, and five charges of uttering the cheques. Whitney and David Kieswetter pleaded guilty to one charge each of forging and of uttering $45 cheques.

The offences charged occurred in Guelph, Guelph township, Dorking, Ariss and Glen Christie.

Old Leaves Can Have Use As Fertilizer In City Parks

Don't burn that pile of dead leaves you just finished raking off the front lawn. If you think that dead leaves are as useless as a used bottle cap or soup tin, you're wrong.

Operation Leaves is a big job with both householders and Board of Works employees every autumn. Far from being just so many tons of waste that has to be disposed of somehow, leaves have a definite value if they are properly handled.

Remember how attractive the lawns and flower beds were in city parks last summer. It was leaves that helped make them that way.

Gardeners know that leaves, mixed with manure and earth and left to rot in a compost pile add valuable humus and nitrogen to the soil.

NEW SWEEPER HELPS

The new mechanical sweeper purchased by the city two years ago, has eliminated a good deal of the manual labor required to collect the leaves in the fall. It rolls along tree-lined streets, brushing the leaves into piles. Then, a tractor with a bucket loader on the front comes along and loads them into trucks. The trucks haul the leaves to the Parks Department yard at the foot of King St., where they are dumped.

Fall rains wet the loosely packed leaves through and later in the fall they are mixed with manure and earth (about a third of each) and built into a compost pile. The pile is worked over in the spring and again the following fall to stir the mixture thoroughly.

The following spring, the aging process is complete. Then, it is used to enrich the soil of flower beds, as a top dressing for park lawns and to start seedlings in the Parks Department's greenhouses on Townsend St.

By collecting the leaves and working them into the huge compost pile, the Parks Department is making use of the tons of leaves that fall from the city's thousands of trees every fall.

The soil enriching qualities of decomposed leaves complete the life circle of nature. During summer, as well as shading residents from the hot sun, they draw food from the atmosphere for the deciduous trees that line Peterborough streets, adding a touch of natural beauty to the urban scene.

In autumn, for a few days, the leaves take on their blaze of color turning trees into a Joseph's coat of many colors. Then, they flutter down to blanket lawns and streets and if they escape the fate of being burned to ashes in a curbside bonfire, eventually stimulate the growth of plants and flowers in the city's many parks.

Find Truck Dumped In Canal By Thieves

WELLAND (CP)—A truck believed to have been used to transport a safe stolen from [illegible] post office [illegible] hauled from the bottom of the Welland ship canal 1½ miles north of here.

The safe, said to have contained $4,900 in cash and stamps and money orders valued at approximately $40,000, was not in the truck and has not been located.

Canal workmen who observed tire marks on a sloping concrete retaining wall directed police to the truck.

Safe Crackers Loot Two Dairy Vaults

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Safe crackers sliced open two safes at Gold Seal Dairies Limited last night and escaped with almost $2,000 in cash from one and overlooked $800 in the other.

Roy Henning, president of the dairy said the amount taken from the looted safe is undetermined so far, but that it would be "less than $2,000."

The second safe belongs to the dairy bar in the same building.

Police said entry was gained by forcing a loading chute door on the west side of the building.

Paul Hickey Gets Finance Post

A former Peterborough resident, Paul Hickey, has recently been appointed assistant commissioner of finance for the city of Hamilton. He started his new position on November 1 and this week is becoming acquainted with his responsibilities.

Prior to his Hamilton appointment, Mr. Hickey worked for three years as supervisor of municipal auditing and accounting for the Department of Municipal Affairs, Queen's Park.

Since Mr. Hickey became a chartered accountant after serving his five-year student period with a Toronto firm, he has become recognized as a specialist in municipal accounting theories and procedures.

PAUL HICKEY

Youngest son of Mrs. Barbara Hickey, 306 Simcoe St., Mr. Hickey went to St. Peter's elementary and high schools, transferring to P.C.V.S. for his senior matriculation. After high school, he attended the Peterborough Business College and then entered the chartered accountant's course. Soon after he received his C.A. papers, Mr. Hickey accepted the government position.

Book Circulation Reaches Record

[illegible] the Branch Library [illegible] during October was the highest on record since the branch opened three years ago.

William Graff, librarian, reported that this branch department had reached a peak circulation in October of 3,757 at the Library Board of Directors meeting Thursday night.

The librarian also reported that there had been an increase in circulation in all the other departments.

The total October circulation in the adult departments of both libraries was 12,339 as compared to 11,137 in the same month last year.

The increase in the two boys' and girls' departments over October 1951 was 3,820. The total in October 1952 was 14,887 and in October 1951, 11,067.

At the end of eight months of this year the figures show a total increase in circulation of 27,343 as compared to the same period in 1951.

Mr. Graff also reported that 10 organizations had met in the library auditorium during October and 11 organizations in the committe eroom during October.

Value Of Survey Educational —Dr. W. P. Wells

The value of present mass chest X-rays is largely educational, Dr. W. P. Wells, medical officer of health, told a group of X-ray canvassers Thursday night.

Held in George St. United church, the meeting was designed to select key personnel for the forthcoming city-wide survey and door-to-door canvass. About 40 attended.

Mass X-rays will really become valuable, said Dr. Wells, when people go to have their X-ray as keenly as they do to cast their ballot. When that happens, people will be doing as important an act of good citizenship as if they were voting.

FEAR DANGEROUS

In his brief, informal talk to the canvassers, Dr. Wells urged them not to use fear phychology.

"Fear is a delicate instrument and should be used only by highly skilled persons," he declared. The reaction of a person frightened by a scare story of tuberculosis might show itself in three ways:

"He might rush to the chest X-ray clinic, he might just stand and shake, too frightened to do anything, and he might be so frightened that he would try to influence others against going to the clinics.

To frighten a person was to insult their intelligence. Avoid the use of fear phychology, said Dr. Wells, it might have more bad effects than good.

James Heffernan, president of the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association, also spoke. He mentioned the great need for educational work and of the excellent job he expected the Junior Chamber of Commerce, who were organizing the canvass, to do.

Frank Booth of the Jaycees, general survey chairman, outlined the plan for the canvass, and told the canvassers that they must never undervalue the part they play in the fight against tuberculosis.

Two films on TB were shown: "Goodbye Mr. Germ," and "They Do Come Back." Chairman for the meeting was Ron Balaam of the Junior Chamber.

Missing Sergeant May Be Prisoner

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—U.S. Army headquarters said tonight that an American sergeant absent from his unit since Wednesday may be a prisoner in the Soviet zone.

An army announcement said the sergeant was riding a jeep on an authorized mission near the Hessian town of Fladungen when he disappeared.

West German border police said [illegible] as Master Sgt. Vilas H. Legoy was seen driving across the border by two farmers and a forest worker. The German witnesses said that two Communist police stopped and climbed into the jeep after it had gone 300 yards inside Soviet zone territory. The three were observed heading for the east zone town of Melpters, one mile from the border.

Woolworth-Owned Block At Charlotte, George Sts. To Be Demolished By Spring

Bought By Store In 1945 For $222,187
New Building To Be Two Storeys
Six Stores, Five Apartments Get Notice

Demolition of standing buildings at the northwest corner of George and Charlotte Sts., is expected to start some time late in winter or early in spring. The tearing down of the large corner-business block is to make room for a new F. W. Woolworth store. Tenants of six stores and five apartments in the block have been given notice to vacate the premises by Feb. 1, it is understood.

The property changed hands in 1945, being purchased from the now defunct Toronto Savings and Loan Co. for $222,187.50 by the F. W. Woolworth Co. In the block are six stores and 13 apartments; eight apartments are vacant.

TWO STOREYS

The building to be erected will probably be no more than two storeys tall, an authoritative source said. This would follow a pattern set in Toronto, where the trend among such store builders has been to go no higher than three storeys.

The lane which leads onto Charlotte St. at the west side of the block will remain. Woolworths will have the use of the lane, but the property does not extend to the west limit of the lane.

Included in the building to be torn down are the stores of LeBarr's Sporting Goods on Charlotte St. and on George St. McDermid and Jury druggists, War Surplus store (in two stores), Hooper's Confectionary store and Eric Howard's men's shop.

Construction of a modern building at this corner would be another step in the modernization of downtown Peterborough.

Students Teach Rural Schools

Student teachers from Peterborough's Normal School are experiencing this week just what it's like to teach rural school classes for a full week.

Every year the students from the Normal School spend about five weeks' continuous teaching in both urban and rural schools. This new system was adopted last term to give the students longer periods in the classroom.

This week is the first week of continuous teaching for the students and they have been placed in rural classrooms nearest their homes. In the first week of December, they'll be in urban schools nearest their homes.

The students are scattered in an area bounded by Kingston on the east, the lakeshore on the south, Orillia to the west, and Bancroft to the north. The whole student body, 145 boys and girls, are teaching.

During the week the masters from the Normal School are visiting the students, observing the teachers-to-be working with the students and assisting whenever needed.

In October the students went through the annual orientation period. They spent periods observing in the city public school classrooms then taught one half-hour period a week. The remainder of the time they attended classes in the Normal School.

Neighbors Help Fitzgeralds Back On Feet

It's good to have neighbors, say Ray and Joe Fitzgerald of Otonabee township.

Their home burned to the ground on August 24. The loss was a blow and came at a difficult time. The harvest was on and soon after that they would have to begin their fall plowing.

They started work on the house, re-building it. Without the help that came from neighbors, they couldn't have done it, say the brothers and Ray's wife. As the house stands now, insulation must go on and a few more finishing touches before they are ready to move in "soon."

On Tuesday, seven of their neighbors turned up with tractors and plows. Four and a half hours later, the Fitzgerald's fall plowing was done.

The seven neighbors had plowed 25 acres, 22 furrows at a time. Running the tractors were: Joe Porter, Bill Porter, Joan Webster, Frank Lynch, Earl Petrie, Frank Sullivan and Joe Sullivan.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Forums Well Attended as New Winter Series Opens . . . "Farm Women in Public Life" Subject for Mon., Nov. 10 . . . Royal Winter Fair Begins Friday, Nov. 14 . . . Annual Meeting of Central Ontario Spring Show Here Nov. 24 . . .

Forum subject for Monday, November 10: Farm Women in Public Life, affirms the place they have already established and implies a question of the scope of its extension.

Rural womanhood of Canada, meeting in many hundreds of groups, have this opportunity of expressing their own views of the extent of their participation in public affairs. The Women's Institute, which began with a little group of women at Stoney Creek, Ontario, in 1897, has become an international organization since 1933. Its first president was Mrs. Alfred Watt, a Canadian, and its present membership is estimated at more than three million women in 21 countries.

The Women's Institute branch of the Ontario Department of agriculture has developed the junior home-making clubs for girls. Some 7,000 girls were members of the clubs which are sponsored by the Institute. Their projects, which in the first place cultivate leadership, include projects in clothing, house-furnishing, gardening, hospitality and other interests.

In Northumberland last week, these club leaders and their assistants attended the training schools for the club project. "Working With Wool." Miss Jean Noble is home economist in this area of four counties.

Those attending the training school were: Baltimore Jr., Mrs. Lyle Ball; Baltimore Sr., Mrs. L. Mulhall; Castleton, Mrs. Fred Warner; Colborne, Mrs. T. M. Gresham and Mrs. H. McLaughlin; Elmview, Mrs. G. B. Read and Marie Philp; Grafton, Mrs. Kathleen Archier and Anne Heenan; Harwood, Mrs. F. Stephens and R. E. Drope; Percy township, Mrs. Norman McCubbin and Doreen Greenly; Seymour East, Mrs. Fred Thomson and Mrs. Everett Parr; Seymour West, Mrs. Thomas Campbell; Wicklow, Vernonville, Mrs. J. Devinney; Wooler, Mrs. Roy Putnam and Mrs. E. Scott.

The leadership training in Northumberland is mentioned as a local and grassroots enterprise which is entirely directed by rural women, from the original inspiration of the Institutes.

Women's influence has become enlarged in the promotion of church and school, Federation and Forum. These are phases of public life. The Women's Federation has been established for years. They are accepted partners, and the success of the Farm Forums of the land would not have been attained without the co-operation of rural women. That is not the whole story of accomplishment, which has also reached out into community health programs and co-operative medical services.

At any rate, the women have the floor Monday night, and coming up for the following week is the subject: "Are We Over-Mechanized?"

Reports From Forums

Stewart Hall in Otonabee and Westwood Forums report attendance of 22 at their opening meetings last Monday night. Neil Cameron was discussion leader at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A Wood in Asphodel. The secretary, Mrs. W. W. Graham, sent the following summary on the subject: To farm or not to farm—"We think the farm is a wonderful place to live and has advantages over living in the city, that many of the quoted disadvantages are rapidly disappearing due to the rural electrification program, modern cars, radios, and television, but a young man should choose farming as a career only if he has a reasonable amount of farming knowledge and experience, and is really interested in the work. Of course, this restriction also applies to entering any other private enterprise or profession.

The farm wife must also have a great inerest, but necessarily the experience. She is a very active partner in the business and as such must know as much as possible. This is true of wives, in most single ownership businesses. Since the farmer is alone at his work, it is essential that he have congenial company, who talks his own language, with whom to discuss problems as they arise."

Frank Savigny was discussion leader at the Stewart Hall Forum meeting at the Lloyd Massey home. Twenty-two persons attended. Mentioned on the appealing side of farming were: personal independence, security, close co-operation with nature, creative ability satisfied, and not the least factor "a proud occupation."

Springville Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Whitfield, 20 attending. Rev. A. E. Larke was appointed leader. Reporting as secretary, Mrs. Whitfield wrote: "Success of the farmer is 75 per cent due to farm wives who have faith, stability and co-operation." That distaff dictum recalls something of the spirit of Barrie's charming comedy, "What every woman knows."

Other credit points were: "Of prime importance is—a genuine love of the job." . . . "Life on a farm offers interest and security which no urban job could offer, but it is not the independence attributed to the way of life but rather, a figment of the imagination." That no doubt means an idealism constantly challenging the farm family.

Coldsprings Forum, Otonabee, met at the home of Mrs. Jean Tully with Wellington Sutton leader of 15 members in two group discussions. They mention some essentials such as: seek a good immediately productive farm; have reasonable financial support, basic knowledge and good managership; faith and patience.

Eleven men and women attended Central Smith Forum at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Scott, with Milton Clark, discussion leader. One of their comments was: "A farmer's wife can make or break a farm. She needs to be a willing partner and take an interest in the farm."

Recommendations on the favoring side of the subject "To Farm or Not," which were repeated in most of the reports stressed health as essential and also as reward; "a good place for bringing up a family"; ideal domestic co-operation. Probably something was said, too, of the responsibility that confronts the farmer if he is to be successful; he has to make his own decisions in policy, farm management, and so on; and he requires a breadth of knowledge of soils and crops, marketing both buying and selling, and in many other branches of his daily and seasonal work.

Farm Forums Report

Carman Atkinson is chairman of West Dartford Forum for the new season. Officers were elected at the first broadcast Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Broadworth.

Cecil Yokum is vice-chairman; Mrs. Donald Pollock is secretary-treasurer; and press reporter is Mrs. A. McCracken. Next week's meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Yule, with Mrs. Clifford Broadworth and Mrs. C. Yokum as group discussion leaders. Refreshments were served by Mrs. S. Atkinson, Mrs. McCleary, Mrs. A. McCracken and Mrs. Ward.

Dartford group recommended farming to young men for their life work because it was the most independent calling, requiring broad experience, courage and ambition for real success. His wife can be a big help by being a good manager, interested in farm life.

AT TRENT VALLEY FARM

A wife who does not like farming can bring about her husband's failure. That was one of the observations of Trent Valley Farm Forum at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. McCulloch. Their Monday night meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nicholas.

Soil Samples Now

Farmers who intend to plant spring grains and wish to have their soil analyzed before planting should take soil samples now, advises Professor N. R. Richards, head of the soils department, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Although the soils department has several thousand soil samples on hand, submission of soil samples before freeze-up will ensure a report in good time for spring planting.

Soil boxes and instructions for taking soil samples can be obtained free of charge from the offices of agricultural representatives or from the soils department, O.A.C. The questionnaire on the back of the instruction sheet should be filled out, and samples must be taken according to directions in order that the soil test may have any value.

Dr. T. Childs President

Farmers may have seen the press report that Dr. T. Childs, of Ottawa, Canada's Veterinary Director General, has been elected president of the United States Livestock Sanitary Association. He is the first Canadian to receive that honor. His election took place at the association's convention in Louisville, Kentucky. It serves as a co-ordinating body in the study of animal diseases and research in prevention regulation, control and eradication. It also makes recommendations to the U.S. government regarding movement of livestock internationally in the interests of avoiding the movement of diseased animals.

Scholarship Candidate

Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, announces that Ronald Albert Cameron, Thamesville, Ontario, has been selected as Ontario's candidate for the T. Eaton Company Agricultural Scholarship to be awarded at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

The scholarship will entitle one boy in Canada to attend the Agricultural College of his choice for a four-year period provided the winner at least secures second class honours in each of the first three years.

Ontario's candidate was selected by a committee by the Agriculture Minister. Winner of the scholarship will be selected from boys nominated by the various provinces. All the boys will be interviewed and the final selection made.

Members of district 4-H Clubs should be interested in the background of Ronald Cameron, and his record of things undertaken and done which recommended him to Col. Kennedy's attention and approval. He is 16, has an excellent scholastic record and helps in the operation of his father's farm in Kent county. He has been active in Ridgetown 4-H Grain Clubs, and is president of that group this year.

These Cavan and Manvers farmers have been in turn winners of the Durham County 500-Bushel Potato Club since 1944. They are potato "kings" in the popular title of press bestowal, and several of them have won corresponding provincial honors. By their enterprise in new methods and with modern machinery they have been making ten (or more) potatoes grow where only one grew before. This group picture was taken at the club dinner at Millbrook last week in tribute to the 1952 winner, Fenton Fallis. With the years of their championships they are, left to right, front: Alfred Johnston, 1944; Ernest Cavano, 1945; Henry Blakely, 1946; Delbert Olan, 1947; back row: Melville Strong, 1948; Thomas Ward, 1949; Albert Olan, 1951; and Fenton Fallis, this year. Missing from the picture is Milton Weatherilt, club winner in 1950. Mr. Cavano had the top production score of 660 bushels an acre this year, but the quality of Fenton Fallis' 580 bushel score moved him into top place. These men have all been prominent in the Ontario Crop Improvement Association.

As an exhibitor of soybeans at the Royal, he placed second in his class in 1950 and sixth in 1951.

He represented Ridgetown Rotary Club at the Ottawa Rotary Club's "Adventure in Citizenship" panel this year. That recognition was based on his leadership in good citizenship and his academic standing. Ronald has also found time to take part in baseball, track athletics, soccer and hockey. He is an officer in the school cadet corps and has won awards for marksmanship.

Hastings 4-H Clubs

Hastings County 4-H Clubs won firsts in the Calf and Swine Clubs, and also in the Potato and Grain Club, at Ottawa Winter Fair last week. They also brought home the reserve grand championship.

In the Calf Club show, in which over two hundred calves were exhibited, Ted Burnside, Madoc, was exhibitor of the reserve grand champion Holstein calf, and was a very close contender for the grand championship. Forty-two 4-H Calf Clubs in Eastern Ontario entered a group of three calves in the Holstein section, and Hastings captured first, fourth and fifth on the three groups that were exhibited from the county. The Madoc 4-H Calf Club with Douglas, Ted and Isabelle Burnside's calves won first place in very keen competition.

Six gilts from the Hastings 4-H Swine Club were taken to the show, and in the group placings Lyall Leavens, Corbyville, had his two gilts placed in the first-class group, as was one shown by Harold Harris of Madoc.

In the potato section, Billy Krier of North Hastings 4-H Potato Club placed first; and in the same section, Frank Harry of Trenton, R.R. 5, placed first also in the grain competition.

Subsidiary of N.Y. Farm

Glenoden Farms, of Mountainville, N.Y., have been establishing since last spring a Canadian subsidiary at Vankleek Hill in Prescott county, near the extreme east end of the province.

Owner of the U.S. Glenoden Farms is R. E. Ogden, and manager there is W. W. Lynn.

Manager of Canadian Glenoden Farms is Stanley McRae, formerly of Norde Farms in the Vankleek Hill area. Norda and Glenoden are, however, separate properties.

At the Ottawa Holstein cattle sales this week, it was noticed that Glenoden bought some of the good cattle at a price that appeared to be favorable to the buyers. Canadian breeding lines are found at Mountainville, N.Y. The manager, W. W. Lynn, is a son of H. H. Lynn, who was herd manager of the A.C. Hardy Holstein herd at Brockville. It appears to be an interesting development that a prominent U.S. breeder would set up a Holstein farm on this side of the line, somewhat after the manner of industrial companies.

It was reported that Glenoden had recently shipped twelve heifers from the New York farm to Colombia, South America.

Odds and Ends

Hydro-Electric Commission has indefinitely deferred for farmers the increase in electric power rates which impends at the turn of the new year. Cecil Belyea made that statement to the board of the Federation of Agriculture Tuesday night. They hardly blinked at it, possibly because they thought the exception of themselves might not be realised. Remonstrance by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture was made to Hydro Chairman Saunders. First annual meeting of the Central Ontario Spring Show membership will be held here November 24. This is the show succeeding the old Quinte District Seed Fair. What did Joseph's coat have in the way of kaliedoscopic colors that Mel Johnston's shirt hasn't? Prices at the Ottawa Holstein cattle auction this week appeared to reflect uncertainty. Bids were rather slow, and quality of the animals suggested quite a number of bargains. Harold Inman says Norwood Fair has one of the best presidents in the county. Annual meeting of the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture will be early in December, probably again at the Y.M.C.A. The executive is to decide date and details.

Grass Cheapest Source Of Digestible Nutrients

In 202 tests conducted by the Canadian Department of Agriculture, it has been established that proper fertilization of pastures will almost double the grass yield. In check plots untreated with fertilizer, the average yield was 5.39 tons green weight per acre. In areas treated with superphosphate, average yield was 8.10 tons green weight per acre. Pastures treated with superphosphate and potash produced an average of 9.05 tons per acre, while area fertilized with a 0-11-6 mixture plus nitrogen produced 9.90 tons of grass per acre.

Grass is the cheapest food that can be fed cattle, according to J. A. Oakley of the Agricultural Chemicals Department of C.I.L. The cost of producing one ton of digestible nutrients from grass is $8.81; from clover hay $13.76; from corn silage $24.36; from mangels $41.54; from oats $56.24.

World planners believe that grasslands offer a workable solution to one aspect of the problem of feeding the earth's millions of people. From the mass of information they have acquired, these simple facts stand out: With improved feeding, fertilization and management, production of grasslands on most farms can be doubled and possibly tripled.

How this can be achieved is outlined in "Farmers' Grassland Guide" by Aubrey W. Hagar, agricultural scientist on the staff of O.A.C. It describes the growth persistence, palatability, soil and climatic preference and feeding value of common grasses and legures. Seed mixtures are suggested with instruction on the proper time and method of seeding.

Special emphasis is placed on the importance of adding plant food in the form of commercial fertilizers and manure for high yielding, high quality pasture, and hay and grass silage. The author stresses value of having soils tested and consulting local agricultural authorities. Methods of application are discussed and probable returns from ffertilization set down.

With 40 acres out of 100 of Canada's agricultural land in grass, this book should be of interest to a large and important segment of this country's population.

Garments 100% Synthetic Future Textile Prospect

Soon the foreseeable future fabric weavers and garment manufacturers alike may be stitching to their products labels bearing the declaration "Guaranteed 100 per cent. synthetic".

That doesn't mean that such natural fibres as wool and cotton are going to be displaced almost entirely as, for example, nylon displaced silk in hosiery. The natural fibres always will have a place in the textile industry. The volume used may increase. But economists expect man, of necessity, to turn more and more to man-made fibres. As consumption of all fibres rises, they expect the increase to be taken up by synthetic fibres.

This trend will not be due entirely to the synthetics' possession of superior qualities. It will be due also to the compelling force of some basic economic laws.

Last year, for example, the population of Canada increased by 420,000. The whole world gained about 25 million. These additional people require food and clothing. Not only is a rising population pressing on the world's agricultural resources for its food supply, but the pressure is being further increased by higher living standards. Food requirements, say economists, therefore are going to gain first priority on the world's arable acres. Textile requirements will have to look elsewhere.

It is estimated that farm or ranch land can produce 1½ pounds of wool per acre per year—and the production from grazing land would be considerably less. Cotton requires the best type of arable land. The world's average pre-war yield of cotton was 174 pounds per acre. Rayon is made from wood pulp from the forests. Forest land — on a perpetual yield basis — can actually provide enough pulp for 280 pounds of rayon per acre. Nylon requires only the acreage covered by the manufacturing plant which is infinitesimal. This infinitesimal acreage requirement for nylon is of considerable significance today when the increased production of food is the world's most basic supply problem.

In the United States there were 3.25 acres of cultivated crop land per capita in 1920, while there were only 2.50 acres by 1940 and 2.25 acres by 1950. If the present rate of population growth and increased food consumption continues then the cultivated crop land per capita will be down to 2.0 acres by 1960. If this is becoming a problem in countries like the United States and Canada, where the science of agriculture is advancing rapidly, what must it be in the less progressive parts of the world?

It may well be a full time job for the land to keep our stomachs full without, at the same time, covering our backs.

These two animals were the top priced male and female at the annual All-Canadian Holstein sale, Oct. 27, Toronto, when 68 head averaged $840.

At the left is Romandale Re-Echo Reflection, a six-month-old bull calf bought by Massey-Harris Farms, Milliken, Ont., for $5,100 from S. B. Roman, of King, Ont. His dam is the Canadian champion yearly milk producer, Re-Echo May Burke, with 35,314 lbs. milk containing 1,261 lbs. fat. (L. to R.) George Roman and Stephen B. Roman of Romendale Farms, King; Ed Jones, Massey-Harris Farms, Milliken, and Maurice Wilson, herdsman at Romandale. In a previous summary of the sale it was recalled that Re-Echo May Burke was sold to John Houck of Brampton, and from him she went to Romandale Farms. A three-quarter brother of Reflection was sold by Mr. McConkey to Maple Cattle Breeders Association.

Million Dollar Machines Take Place Of Men In Goldfields

By STEPHEN SCOTT

DAWSON CITY, Y.T. (CP)—Million-dollar machines have replaced man in the famous gold fields of the Yukon.

The machines are giant dredges whose long arms dig as deep as 60 feet below the bottom of a river or creek to find gold—the same type of alluvial or free gold that drew thousands to the north during the Klondike Rush of 1898.

The dredges replaced the miner's shovel and pan in the early 1900s when most of the surface gold was removed by the Klondikers.

Compared to hardrock mining, the dredging operation is comparatively simple. Thousands of tons of gravel are moved through the dredge and between 10 and 30 cents worth of gold is taken from every ton.

VALUABLE YIELD

By this method, Yukon Consolidated Gold Corporation, largest of the several companies in this area, ships out between 60,000 and 80,000 ounces of gold valued at $2,000,000 to $2,500,000 a year.

The company operates six dredges on the Bonanza, Klondike and other rivers and streams in the area. These take up from between 30 to 60 feet of the earth's surface [illegible] screens, then spew it out again.

[illegible] is found in the three feet of hardpan that is dug up.

Big complication in mining here is perma-frost. The ground three feet below the surface is frozen the year round and must be thawed before the dredges can operate.

This is done in mid-summer with water. Pipes are driven into the ground and for eight weeks water at about 50 degrees fahrenheit is pumped into the ground.

Once thawed, the ground will never permanently freeze again. After the thawing, an enormous pressure of water blasts off three feet of the surface on the banks. Then the dredges—making a pond before them and filling in behind them—come in.

A MILE A YEAR

Big scoops carrying between seven and 16 cubic feet of gravel at one time eat down to bedrock. Everything goes through a giant revolving screen, where water washes off the heavy gold which is caught in cocoa matting.

Once a week the matting is shaken out and the gold taken to a refinery where it is melted down into bricks and shipped outside by air.

Winter freeze-up, which lasts about four months, will shortly close down the dredges.

Gets One Month

SIMCOE (CP) — Frederick Parker, 25, of Welland yesterday was convicted of criminal negligence and sentenced to one month in jail. The case arose from the death of Mrs. Nellie Bell, 40, of Simcoe, who was killed Oct. 1 when a car driven by Sidney Sankow crashed into the rear of a transport driven by Parker. The transport had stopped on the highway four miles east of here.

To Take NATO Course

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department yesterday named three senior officers—two from the army, one from the air force—to attend the third course of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization defence college in Paris, starting early in 1953. They are Group Capt. Lawson H. Randall, 37, of Saint John, N.B., and Lt.-Cols. William M. Arnold of Winnipeg, and C. B. MacFarlane, 37, of Hamilton. Col. MacFarlane, born in Jarvis, Ont., rose from the rank of sergeant.

Bancroft Evening WA Plans Special Supper

BANCROFT (ENS).—November meeting of St. Paul's United Church Evening W.A. was held on Tuesday night at the church. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. E. A. Eddy and about 25 members were in attendance.

It was announced that a spaghetti supper would be held at the church on Nov. 19. A committee was formed under Mrs. Art Hewitt, including Mrs. Stapley, Mrs. P. Labarge and Mrs. D. Grant for the purpose of selling Christmas cards as a means of raising funds.

The parsonage committee noted the need of new floor coverings for the church. Details of the purchase and installation of these items were left to the committee.

It was reported that the Evening W.A. play "No Hand But Mine," presented at Maynooth United Church on Oct. 29, was favorably received.

A short period of recreation led by Mrs. Ellis Mather followed the business period. Lunch was served by Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Vardy, and Mrs. Hayton, at the conclusion of the meeting.

To Resume Relations

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt and Japan have decided to resume diplomatic relations, severed since 1941, a foreign ministry announcement says.

Profit-Sharing Can Work Well–Expert

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — Harold V. Lush of Toronto said today he does not know of one instance where profit-sharing with employees has failed, when its principles "have been understood thoroughly and applied sincerely."

Mr. Lush, president of Supreme Aluminum Industries, Ltd., addressed the annual conference of the Council of Profit-Sharing Industries.

For success in profit-sharing plans, he prescribed, among other things, "complete understanding and acceptance of the principles of true profit-sharing by top and active management, including directors and general manager and staff.

"ACCEPTANCE IS MUST"

"Unless there is complete accord in all phases of top management, chances of success are slim. And 'to understand' the principles is not enough—there must be acceptance."

A profit-sharing plan, he said, "must keep in proper balance the interests of stockholders, employees and consumers. . ."

Get First Boats

LONDON (Reuters)—The first of a fleet of combined gas turbine and diesel motor torpedo boats will be handed over to the Royal Navy tomorrow, the Admiralty announced last night. The boat carries a crew of two officers and 16 men and is equipped to carry four 21-inch torpedo tubes and a small gun.

Driven Too Far

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A young woman told police after tossing a pan of scalding water on her husband: "Several times lately he's made me stop my housework and stand on my head right in the middle of the floor. I got to thinking about it this morning and got so mad I threw the first thing I could find right at him." Hubby, in hospital, declined to press charges.

Ask Budget Cut

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia Thursday agreed to a British proposal asking Secretary-General Trygve Lie to cut down the 1953 United Nations budget by about $735,000. The vote for the cut was 44 to 0 in the budgetary committee. It would shave the total down to $48,700,000.

Actor In Jail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Broderick Crawford spent four hours in jail last night after his arrest on a drunken-driving charge police reported. They said a car driven by Crawford smashed into two parked automobiles.

New Volcano Active

TOKYO (AP)—The new Pacific volcano, Myojin, was erupting violently today and belching smoke nearly 9,000 feet high, a U.S. air force officer reported. Capt. John Fahr of Chicago estimated the volcano 210 miles south of Tokyo was about 500 feet above the water.

W. C. Davidson Dies Of Polio

At the early age of 36 years, after a three-day illness with polio, Wm. C. (Bill) Davidson, well-known Holstein breeder at Listowel, died suddenly.

Bill Davidson had lived all his life on the farm where he was born, just half a mile outside Listowel. He was a Director of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada and a former Secretary-Treasurer of the Perth County Holstein Breeders' Club. For several years he was Secretary of the Perth County Junior Farmers and was a leader in district boys and girls Calf Club work.

In conjunction with his father, J. Percy Davidson, who just last February was honored by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada as a Master Breeder, he had developed the Q.T.P. herd of Holsteins to the point where they were well known throughout the Dominion.

Surviving are both his parents, his wife, the former Beryl M. Verner of Straford, and three daughters, Mary, six; Sylvia, three and Carol, eight days.

Howe Suggests Way To Get More Engineers

KINGSTON (CP)—Trade Minister Howe last night said there are ways of ending the shortage of trained engineers in Canadian industry.

Speaking to a group of industrialists, engineers and engineering students at Queen's University at the engineering faculty's open house dinner, Mr. Howe said the shortage is due to the rapid growth of Canadian industry since the end of the war and the fact that many industries are using their engineers in executive positions.

Two ways to remedy the situation, he said, are to induce more high school students to enter universities for applied science and to find a workable way of reducing the attrition rate during the course.

Mr. Howe, former engineer himself, said another way would be to get good science teachers in high schools who would encourage students to take up engineering and for universities to initiate a program to attract students while still at high school.

Find Perth Hunter Shot By Own Gun

BELLEVILLE (CP) — George E. Cain, 42, of Perth, was found dead yesterday, apparently shot by his own gun, in the bush in north Frontenac county about 50 miles north of Kingston.

He was on a hunting trip with several other men and was stationed alone at a lookout. When he did not show up at the hunting camps the others set out to look for him. It is believed the gun was accidentally discharged.

Urges Controls Kept On Radio

YORK, England (AP)—The Archbishop of York, the Church of England's second-highest official Thursday urged continued government control over both television and radio.

"Few of those who have experienced in America commercialized broadcasting or television would wish to see this system reproduced in England," Dr. Cyril Garbett told the York diocesan conference. "The greatest hope of avoiding the misuse of television is to allow it to continue as at present a national service under the control of the BBC."

Parliament recently voted the BBC a new 10-year lease over radio and TV in Britain, but left the door open to future commercial programs by private operators when broadcasting facilities are available.

The archbishop said TV viewing "may occupy far too much time" and that there is "a danger that television may become a substitute for intelligent thought and reading."

Ex-Stock Dealer Given $800 Fine

TORONTO (CP)—Melvin F. Burrows, a former Toronto stock dealer, yesterday was fined $800 and $257 costs for selling securities while not registered with the Ontario Securities Commission.

Burrows' licence was cancelled in 1946.

W. W. Cameron, counsel for the commission, said Burrows' record was "a history of refusals and cancellations" by the commission.

Urge TV Censorship

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial motion picture censors said yesterday television programs should be subject to existing censorship laws which affect motion pictures. The censors, ending a three-day meeting here, said television, regardless of whether it is direct or by the film method, is a motion picture vehicle.

Half U.K. Homes Have No Children Under 16 Years

LONDON (Reuters)—More than half of Britain's homes have no children under 16, census figures disclose. The figures are based on a one-per-cent sample of the national census taken last year.

One of every five married women in the country is childless while only 4.4 per cent have five or more children. In 1911 census figures showed 21.9 per cent had at least five children.

Officials said that a declining birth rate is common to all industrial countries.

CHANGING PATTERN

A government report crammed with statistics shows this changed pattern of British family life:

Three million married couples have no children, while 3,100,000 have only one child.

Eight million of the country's 14,500,000 homes have no children of school-age.

The average family size is 1.72 children, but in London it is only 1.56, while in Scotland it is 2.03.

Doctors, lawyers and other professional men have the smallest families.

The statistics show there were a mere 178,000 domestic servants now in England and Wales compared with 706,000 in 1931.

A new generation is growing up in Scotland and Wales without troubling to learn the ancient languages of its fathers, the report showed. Twenty years of radio and newspapers in the Welsh valleys and the Scottish glens have blunted tones of Welsh and Gaelic.

Two Britons Awarded Nobel Chemistry Prizes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Two Britons were awarded the Nobel prize in chemistry, it was announced yesterday.

Dr. Archer Martin, 42, of the National Institute for Medical Research, London, and Dr. Richard Synge, 38, of Rowett Research Institute, Aberdeen, Scotland, won the chemistry award for their discovery of partition chromatography—an ingenious method for separating compounds.

Heart Disease Leads

TORONTO (CP)—Heart disease killed more than twice as many persons in Ontario during September as any other disease, Health minister Phillips reports. Chief causes of death were heart disease, 1,163; cancer, 525; vascular lesions affecting the central nervous system, 433, and violent and accidental deaths, 285.

SOUTH AMERICAN DEMOCRACY TAKES A BEATING—As shown by Newsmap above, strong man governments are becoming the vogue in South America where it is generally considered good politics to run on a "Throw the Yankees out!" platform. Poverty and other internal disorders have been blamed on the United States, and the Communists join with the ultra-nationalists in screaming "Yanqui Imperialism." Colombia, the only South American nation with troops in Korea, is on the verge of a political civil war.

Lakefield P.S. Board Hires New Teacher

LAKEFIELD (ENS). — The Board of Trustees of Lakefield Public School approved the attendance of pupils at the film "Royal Tour," to be shown in the village Nov. 26, when they met this week for their November meeitng. Chairman A. G. Buchanan presided and trustees Mrs. H. D. Wilford, the Rev. W. B. Walker and Ralph Jackman present.

At a special meeting of the board held recently, the resignation of Mrs. G. Watt of Peterborough, a member of the teaching staff, was received and accepted, and Mrs. Erma G. Watt, also of Peterborough, was engaged to replace her.

Principal E. G. Sloan reported attendance for October as 336 pupils, an increase of two over September. He stated that Mr. Ward of the Film Board had contacted him about film service for the coming year and the board decided to contact for the films at a cost of $50 yearly. Mr. Sloan also spoke of the teachers' convention, being held in Toronto at the same time as the Royal Winter Fair.

Accounts totalling $543.46 were authorized for payment.

Hamilton Has Atomic Meeting To Study Plans

TORONTO (CP)—The fires from an atomic bomb exploded over Hamilton could be stopped from spreading and brought almost under control within four hours, it was estimated yesterday.

The hypothetical bomb was exploded at the second Canadian tactical fire study forum in the fire marshal's office. The meeting was designed to teach fire chiefs and marshals the fundamentals of fire defence. It was conducted by Fire Marshal W. J. Scott and his staff under D. E. Barrett.

Operation Hamilton involved problems arising from explosion of a bomb 2,000 feet over the Westinghouse plant, affecting industrial, mercantile and residential areas.

Pictures displayed at the tactical forum showed the explosion of an atomic bomb over Confederation Square in Ottawa would not flatten the Parliament Buildings but would kill everyone within a radius of 3,000 feet.

Auction Mills After Easter

LONDON (AP)—Winston Churchill's Conservative government will put British blast furnaces and steel mills up for private auction any time after next Easter.

The period for the sale of Britain's industrial backbone was made known yesterday when the government published its bill to reverse the 1949 steel nationalization law of Clement Attlee's Labor government.

The industry will remain under strict government control—just as it has been ever since the Second World War broke out in 1939.

A new official agency will be set up in place of the current national iron and steel board to govern all branches of policy. It will even be able to fix maximum selling prices.

Eisenhower Begins Drafting Plans For Truman Meet

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gen. Dwight Eisenhower plowed into a mountain of mail today and began drafting his plans for the "conversations and conferences" that he said must precede his meeting with President Truman.

He also planned another round of golf this afternoon.

The new president came to Augusta for a rest, settling into a cottage near the first tee of the National Golf Club course. But affairs of state are crowding in on him more rapidly than he expected.

This was made necessary largely by Truman's suggestion for a meeting "at your early convenience" to discuss the problems attendant on the transfer of government to a new president and a different party.

ASKS FOR TIME

Eisenhower messaged back agreement, and suggested the week of Nov. 17 as the date. He added:

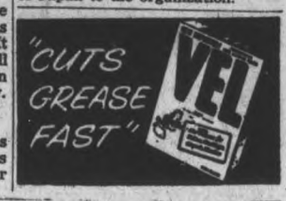
"I obviously require a reasonable time for conversations and conferences leading up to the designation of important assistants."

The general's intention seems to be to ask his confidantes to go to Washington for conferences "in several departments of the federal government."

The men he selects for those talks may well be the ones he has in mind for cabinet assignments. It is generally believed that he will keep with him some of the men who helped carry him to victory.

SHOCK TROOP LEADERS

The leaders of his shock troops then were Governor Thomas Dewey of New York, Governor Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, Senator Frank Carlson of Kansas, Senator Fred Seaton of Nebraska; Paul Hoffman former director of the Economic Co-operation Administration, and Senator James Duff of Pennsylvania.



Among his close associates were Gen. Lucius Clay, former military governor in Germany, and John Foster Dulles, foreign policy advisor.

U.N. Allows Japan Join Aviation Group

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations General Assembly Thursday voted to permit Japan to join the International Civil Aviation Organization.

The vote was 53 to none with six abstentions—the Soviet bloc plus the Philippines.

The vote came on a resolution submitted by Canada, Peru, the United States and Venezuela. It formally expressed the assembly's wish "to inform the International Civil Aviation Organization that it has no objection to the admission of Japan to the organization."

BUY A POPPY
FOR REMEMBRANCE DAY

Poppy Day Is Tomorrow Sat., Nov. 8

Saturday, Nov. 8 has been designated Poppy Day by the Canadian Legion. It is a privilege for each one of us to purchase a Poppy in memory of those who have laid down their lives in the service of their King and Country.

This year Remembrance Day comes to find us facing ang- ing this challenge as did those brave Canadians in past years. In such manner is democracy defended. Not by depriving others, and ourselves of liberty, but by defeating those who would deprive us. Today we are mustering all of our might and joining forces with our allies. Today we are meeting this threat to liberty in all parts of the world, fighting this many - headed monster of decadence wherever we can, aware that our kind of liberty never loses.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Soup Encourages Appetite For More Solid Food

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Soup is the best food to win uncertain appetites, and frequently serves to encourage an appetite for more solid food.

From the Jubilee Guilds of Newfoundland and Labrador comes this recipe for an onion soup that's fairly packed with nourishment:

Ingredients: Five small onions (thinly sliced); three tablespoons butter; six cups brown stock or water (bouillon cubes may be used).

Cook onions in butter until soft. Add stock. Salt to taste and simmer at least 30 minutes. This soup is best when prepared the day before.

POPULAR DISH

A recent survey of Canadian eating habits showed 63 per cent of Quebec's families serve soup at the noon meal. The average is higher than for the whole of Canada. Two out of five Canadian families serve soup at noon, and one in four serves it at night.

Another recipe from the Jubilee Guilds, for potato soup, may sound interesting to housewives elsewhere.

Ingredients: Three small potatoes, one quart milk, two slices onion, three tablespoons butter, one tablespoon flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon celery salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, few grains of cayenne and one teaspoon chipped parsley.

Cook potatoes in boiling salted water. When soft rub through a strainer. Scald milk with onion. Remove onion and add milk slowly to potatoes, mixing well. Melt half the butter, add dry ingredients, stir, until well mixed and then stir into hot soup. Boil one minute. Add remaining butter and sprinkle with parsley.

YOUR SPECIAL TREAT

Home economists of the consumer section, Canadian department of agriculture, suggest "stuffed cucumbers" as a distinctive luncheon touch.

Ingredients: Six cucumbers (about six inches long); two cups sausage meat (one pound), two-thirds cup finely chopped celery leaves; one-third cup chopped onion; 1½ teaspoons salt; one teaspoon sage; two cups soft bread crumbs.

Cut cucumbers in half lengthwise, remove seeds and soft portion. Cook cucumbers in boiling salted water for 10 minutes. Drain well. Brown sausage meat in hot frying pan. Add seasonings and crumbs and mix well together. Pile stuffing in cucumber shells.

Place in a greased baking-dish and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) for 35 minutes or until cucumbers are tender. Yield: six servings.

May Be Two New Women In House Of Representatives

By RUTH COWAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—There will be one, and perhaps two, new women members in the newly-elected United States House of Representatives, while one familiar face will be missing.

The record of 11 women lawmakers in any one session of Congress will be broken if Mrs. Gracie Pfost, a Democrat, wins her fight to unseat Representative John Wood, Republican incumbent, in the first district of Idaho.

A Pfost victory would put 12 women in the new congress, 11 in the House of Representatives and one in the senate.

Returns from all but nine precincts give Mrs. Pfost 54,575 votes and Wood 53,889. Wood has refused to concede, and indications are the outcome won't be decided until the official canvass.

Mrs. Pfost, if elected, would be one of the two new women legislators. The other will be Mrs. Leonor Sullivan, widow of a former representative from Missouri and a Democrat. She won a first-term House seat.

All of the 10 women in the present House, six Republicans and four Democrats, were up for re-election. Representative Reva Bosone, a former judge in Salt Lake City, Utah, and a Democrat, was the only loser.

For the first time in American legislative history a mother and son will serve together in the house.

Representative Frances Bolton, who represents a Cleveland district, won her eighth term, while her son, Oliver, was elected from Ohio's 11th district for his 1st term.

St. Peter's Mothers Given Lecture On Teen-Ager

Monthly meeting of the Mother's Auxiliary of St. Peter's High School was held Thursday evening in St. Anne's school auditorium. Mrs. J. L. Paquette, president, was chairman. Prayers were said by the Rev. J. Coughlin.

Minutes were read by Mrs. L. Martyn and Mrs. Leo Sullivan with the treasurer's report stated the membership is 145. As soon as a membership list is compiled it will be sent to Mrs. R. Gravelle who is in charge of a forthcoming series of card parties to be held by members.

Miss M. Scanlon, teacher, reported 148 gym suits have been purchased. She also announced the coming of monologist Miss Phoebe McKellar of Montreal. Miss McKellar is to appear in St. Peter's auditorium Wednesday afternoon, November 19th, under combined sponsorship of the Student Council and the Mother's Auxiliary. Her program will include Julius Caesar, Merchant of Venice, Marguerite Bourgeoys, and Brefeuf and his Brethren. The tickets will be available through High School students.

The speaker, Dr. J. R. Epping, was introduced by Mrs. A. Feeley. His topic was "Help of the teenager." Dr. Epping said: "Particularly in the teen-ager there is more than physical well being. It is portrayed in his emotional, psychological and personal status—in his sex problems and in independence. He demands understanding from parents and teachers. He is a human personality, human in mind and soul as well as body.

"Great changes take place at the ages of 13, 16 and 19" continued the doctor. "These are wonderful experiences but at the same time difficult, confusing and bewildering. New sensations and new desires are felt. Our Holy Father the Pope says "It is imperative that parents tell their children of these dogmatic changes."

The doctor explained further "It is up to parents to tell children of their sex life—not the teacher or pastor—but those who know their own children best. Tell them in an atmosphere of decency to God and themselves," he urged. "This is better explained soon than too late and much easier."

"At 13, young people should be allowed to stand on their own feet, mentally, morally and physically" stated Dr. Epping. "Parents may advise but should never command, and if the home atmosphere is what it should be, their decisions will usually lead them in the way God intended". He advised that when punishment is necessary it should be done quietly and gently, so that tender feelings may not be hurt.

Mrs. G. Snape thanked Dr Epping.

Father Coughlin spoke briefly and said that more information along this line could be used by parents and teachers.

Urges Interest In Canada's Relics

TORONTO (CP)—W. H. Cranston, publisher of the Midland Free Press, told the 50th annual convention of the Central Ontario Area Women's Institutes yesterday that more interest was needed in preserving relics of Canada's past.

He said Ontario has been asleep on the job as far as preserving historical assets is concerned. Several years ago the provincial government set up the provincial historical advisory board but no action had been taken on its recommendations.

Artisans of St. Andrew's WA Have New Effects For '52 Tea

New reserves of talent in the St. Andrew's Women's Association are brought forth each year to decorate for the giant bazaar and tea. The 1952 event, on Thursday afternoon, in the Sunday school hall, displayed to an admiring crowd of nearly 500 ladies the work of Mrs. James Heffernan and Mrs. C. B. Waite.

These artisans spent more than a week on their preparations and evidently whent foraging in garden and country field and wood for their props. Golden ripe oat heads and autumn brown maple leaves were made into a border around the stage tea room where the tea table centrepiece was a strange sort of "bird", having the general appearance of a penguin but with a variety of color in its make-up.

This bird, which was attracting so many comments, came into being with the finding of a green squash which curved into an orange stem cut in the shape of a bird's bill. A cluster of grapes became his head plumage and the penguin-like coat front was achieved with two bananas. (Though not resembling the duck family in any way, he was surrounded by painted decoy ducks partly hidden in the border foliage.)

A formal tea table setting was used in the ladies' parlor with a handsome silk damask cloth the base for a charming arrangement of beautiful golden bronze chrysanthemums and Talisman rosebuds, spiked with stalks of ripe wheat. This was in a milk white china bowl, bordered with large 'mums and grape clusters, the bowl being complemented by the white tapers. More of the colored leaves and flowers effectively decorated the room.

Bazaar tables needed no decoration for they were laden with such variety of home-made things, varying from aprons, shopping bags, hand-woven kerchiefs, dolls clothes to home cooking and a country store. Glitter and glamor of the Christmas season was in the table decorations and unique "snowman" gift boxes for sale at the Flower Guild's table. There was also a table of "white elephants."

General convener of this affair was Mrs. Harold Baker and she was overseeing throughout the afternoon. Mrs. Harry Northrop was in charge of the serving in both tea rooms.

Mrs. C. C. Pilon, president of the W.A., and vice president Mrs. H. Tremain were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Henry Cotton. Mrs. Victor Hamilton and Mrs. Roy Lewis were at the treasurer's table.

A check room was operated by Mrs. E. Frost and Mrs. R. Walsh and a nursery for guests' children was in charge of Mrs. E. Bacon with Mesdames D. Brown, R. Menzies, G. Crompton and W. Fowler assisting.

The table of aprons and general articles was convened by Mrs. D. Ketcheson and Mrs. A. Hutchinson, and their assistants were Mrs. F. H. Collins, Mrs. D. F. Lambe, Mrs. J. Gillespie and Mrs. W. Griffin. Mrs. J. S. Boyd convened the bazaar table of so many useful articles, all made by members of her group: Mesdames E. Hawley, F. W. Moeser, W. Swanger, C. B. Waite, H. Davis, M. Carr, and J. A. McKone.

Miss H. Brown convened the "country store" and her assistants were Miss Mary Hall, Mesdames ... and ... table was in charge of Mrs. E. Baggs and Mesdames F. Batten, G. A. Gillespie, C. W. Holman, R. J. MacNab, G. W. Mason, J. D. Young, and T. Gaskell.

Mrs. Jack Richardson was convener of the flower guild's table and assistants there were Mrs. H. Hawley, Mrs. K. Robertson, Mrs. W. Turner and Mrs. Grant Gillespie. In charge of the variety articles was Mrs. E. Cragg with Mrs. G. Breckenridge.

Hostesses at the tea room entrances were Mrs. Ford Turner, Mrs. M. Heffernan and Miss E. Scott.

The tea pourers were Mrs. Hugh Waddell, Mrs. Harland Keefer, Mrs. C. B. Waite, Mrs. James Heffernan, Mrs. Angus Munro and Mrs. I. R. Rattenbury.

Supplies for the tea tables were convened by Mrs. J. Turnbulll and Mrs. F. Walker and their group members: Mesdames H. Mann, L. Wood, T. Skinner, G. Ball, M. Weir, G. W. Mason, C. H. Wishart and James Wharry.

The servers were Miss Marion Manning, Miss Helen Burgess and Mesdames L. McNeil, D. Praskey, L. McLaren, R. Hardy, E. Braund, J. Archibald, J. Baird, F. Gillespie, K. Kingston, L. Bearne, F. Life In Japan Described To W.A. Members

GORE'S LANDING— (ENS)—In the final celebration of their Silver Jubilee, the members of Harwood St. John's W. A. and the W. A. of St. George's of this village met at the home of Mrs. Clare Harris on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. R. J. Meggs, president of St. George's W. A. was chairman and welcomed the guests which included the guest speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Victor Spencer of Port Hope.

Mrs. Spencer, whose husband was a missionary in Japan for 30 years, spoke on missions generally, with her life in Japan as a background for the address. She mentioned her girlhood in Port Hope as the niece of the late Dr. Oswald Rigby, who was rector of St. Marks and also headmaster of Trinity College School, and recollected various trips to Gore's Landing, which included an open air concert, with Gore's Landing's famous brand of mosquitos taking vigorous part in the proceedings on a hot summer evening.

Referring to her home in Japan, Mrs. Spencer said that the blitz of eight years ago, had completely destroyed the beautiful church in which her husband preached as well as their home but rebuilding has been taking place. She told of the difficult time, a woman eperiences in Japan in becoming a Christian. A young couple rarely see one another until their wedding day and then the bride is taken to the home of her husband's parents, in which she becomes a maid of all work. In relating the history of one young bride who had become interested in Christianity, this girl was finally thrown out of her husband's home after having been beaten, and she made her way to Mrs. Spencer. Her in-laws had found a Bible, hymn book and finally a small silver cross in her possession and in their hatred of all Christian religion, they had cast her out.

Miss Lottie Drope read a short address in presenting to St. George's W. A. a mymn book for their use in commemoration of the silver anniversary.

Mrs. Meggs thanked Mrs. Spencer and Miss Drope, then called on the rector, Rev. A. W. Smith to speak and also to express thanks. Mr. Smith pronounced the benediction and the hostess served refreshments.

Federations Hear Rev. W. H. Tonge At Trinity

Trinity Women's Federation members were hostesses to the sister organization of George St. Church Wednesday evening in the Trinity Church hall. Guest speaker for the occasion was the Rev. W. H. Tonge of Lakefield, former missionary to China.

"Sisterhood" was the appropriate theme of this meeting and Mr. Tonge's subject "Brotherhood" fitted nicely with adjustments. He stressed the point of seeking after true peace at home and in foreign lands and referred to this subject through experiences while serving in China. "China is willing to pay any price for peace, and is paying dearly," he said.

Mr. Tonge mentioned the tremendous economy expanse in China—extreme wealth to dire poverty. "Culture and fine arts and beauty of China are beyond your imagination" he told the ladies. "Also the individualistic outlook." He closed with a restatement of his beliefs: "Through Christianity, communism will be defeated."

Dr. Frances Stewart, pianist, entertained with several classical numbers. Mrs. L. Croft delighted with informal accordion selections.

Devotional service was in charge of Mrs. D. Skitch and her group. Scripture from Ephesians was read by Mrs. J. S. Hendry. Articles on Sisterhood were read by Mrs. Skitch and Mrs. M. Latimer. Mrs. S. Heard read a poem "She hasn't time." The period closed with prayer by Mrs. S. Johnston.

The introduction of Mr. Tonge was given by Mrs. V. Skitch. He and the others taking part were thanked by Mrs. G. Hamilton.

Following a business discussion, dainty refreshments were served and a social half-hour concluded the evening.

Fairy-Tale Career Traced In Biography Of Lady Louis

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—If King Edward VII had had his way, the baby girl born into the restless pre-First World War era would have been called Edwardina. Instead, the future Countess Mountbatten of Burma was christened Edwina.

This is one of the sidelights in a new biography by Dennis Holman entitled 'Lady Louis'. It traces her fairy-tale career from the time she and her husband were leaders of London's smart set in the 1920s to her voluntary efforts during the Second World War.

Dame Edwina Ashley, granddaughter of financier Sir Ernest Cassel, from a German banking family, was born to wealth. But the girl who became an accomplished hostess in a mansion that cost Sir Ernest £17,000 a year to maintain was usually short of money. Before her wedding in 1923, she borrowed £100 from a great-aunt to follow Lieut. Louis Mountbatten to India, where he went as aide-de-camyp to his cousin the Prince of Wales, now Duke of Windsor.

INHERITED FORTUNE

Marriage, with the Prince as best man, changed all that. Lady Mountbatten inherited part of the Cassel fortune and moved into a 30-roomed mansion in Park Lane.

Those were the dizzy days of the flapper era and Lady Louis and her husband became almost a legend as part of the smart set headed by the young Prince of Wales.

Parties held in what became the largest private ballroom in London made headlines in many countries, as did the Mountbattens' jade and crystal carvings, and the old masters, hanging on the walls, some given by King Edward VII who was Lady Mountbatten's godfather.

Then came the Second World War. Lord Louis served as a naval officer and rose to become Supreme Allied Commander in Southeast Asia.

FEARLESS WORKER

Lady Louis, commander-in-chief of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, slept in jungles, cut red tape, argued with ministers for much-needed supplies and travelled incognito, third-class, in a leave train from Dimapur, Assam. Once she found doctors and nurses coping with primitive conditions in ill-equipped hospitals without fans. She gathered 40 fans within the hour of seeing one over every chair in a Calcutta club.

Related to both the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, the Mountbattens lent the ancestral home of Broadlands for the royal honeymoon.

DOROTHY DIX

Soldier Friend's Birthday What Would Be Good Gift?

DEAR MISS DIX: My problem is one that I am sure faces many other young people. I have been going with a boy for over a year. In a few weeks he will celebrate his 21st birthday. The problem is —what can I give him? He is in the service, which puts a limit on what I can buy.

A SOLDIER'S GIRL.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your gift should be something of comparative permanence, as I presume you'd like him to have it as a keepsake, It can't be too expensive, or too personal. Those are your limitations. The possibilities beyond them are quite extensive. You need not confine your gift to something he can use while in service, since he will be back in civilian life before too long, and perhaps would appreciate something he can anticipate using then. If he has a hobby, buy something in that line. For other suggestions: wallet, pipe, cigarette case or lighter, personally blended tobacco, writing case, leather folding photo frame with, perhaps, pictures of you and a picture of his mother. If he's away at camp, nothing will be more appreciated than a home-made birthday cake which can be packed in popcorn, boxed, marked fragile, and will, surprisingly, travel quite nicely.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Due to poor health I have taken up golf. I like being outdoors. The problem is that it leaves my wife very much alone most of the time. We are both employed and have no children. TIM

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: What in the world is the matter with your wife playing golf, too? It's an ideal sport for people situated as you are. Or are you afraid she'll prove a better player than you?

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 16 and very fond of a boy 19, whom my father has forbidden me to date. I don't know why. He's the only boy I've dated and I would feel terrible if I had to give him up.

DISCOURAGED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Being much too young to take such matters into your own hands, you should abide by your parents' decision. I'm sure they have a sound reason for their decision and will tell you what it is if you will listen patiently. There's no reason for you to feel that life has passed you by simply because, at 16, you aren't deluged with dates. They'll come fast and plenty any day now or later.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For sometime I have been baby-sitting for a very nice couple. They want me to stay with them, and I'm sure I would like it very much. I haven't said anything to Mother and Dad yet. I'm 16.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You would be a very foolish and ungrateful child to leave your parents' home because someone offers you a few extra attractions. These people are nice to you now, but living with them day in and day out might prove more trying than you think. Stay with your own Mom and Dad.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: The wife of one of my sons has been going out with another man while her husband is working nights. Should I tell my son?

A. W.M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Before you go any further, I advise that you consult your pastor. Knowing all parties, he is in a better position to tell what would be the best course. Carrying tales is never a role of a mother-in-law; you son is as apt to be as resentful of your conduct as your daughter-in-law.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a boy 14½. Do you think I am old enough to date?

D. J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Generally speaking, no. There might be exceptions such as a dance or something else in school, but I suggest you postpone dating for at least another half year.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A friend who is 50 years old would like to adopt a child. She can afford it, and the child would have a good home. Can you tell her how to go about it?

T. T. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I am almost certain that it would be impossible for your friend, at her age, to be given a child in adoption unless directly from a mother herself. A child available for adoption today must be assured of two parents in most, if not all, states. She can seek further information from the Family Service Association, or other counselling agency, to be located through the local telephone book.

Readers' Friday Column By Mary Moore

LETTER: I wonder if I will be the first or the hundred and first to tell you that "Langmay your Lum reek" is indeed a Scottish tribute. I remember being confused by the same wish when it was expressed in telegrams from Scotland on our wedding day. A "lum" as you likely know by now is a chimney, and the expression simply wishes you plenty, so that your chimney will always smoke. My Scottish husband tells me that often the phrase "with other folks' coal" is added. My, my! I continue to enjoy your column and was tickled by your mention of our little tea date last May. We are settled in our new house now... our new daughter Donna Jean arrived practically in a dead heat with the moving men! I am enclosing recipe for "Currant Bun" sent by my husband's mother in Scotland. I wonder if it is what your reader is looking for...I am assured it is used for just such occasions as "W.W.P." mentions—it is very spicy...best wishes from Marion S.

ANSWER: Your letter recalled memories of a pleasant day, etched on my mind as typical of all-out Western hospitality. I received 16 letters telling me what "lum reek" meant. Such a good warm-hearted wish—I hope my chimney smokes a long time too—"all the longer to enjoy you, my dear".

Following are three different recipes for Currant Loaf for W.W.P.'s benefit—all sent in by friendly readers.

CURRANT or Scotch) Bun (contributed by Marion S.)

Crust: 2 cups flour, ¼ lb. shortening or margarine, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, pinch salt.

Cake: 2 cups flour, 1 lb. each seedless raisins and currants, 2 oz. mixed peel, 1 tablespoon each brown sugar and ground almonds, 1 teaspoon each cream of tartar, baking soda, ground ginger, cinnamon, mixed spice, Jamaica pepper (this was name for allspice in 18th century, but in 19th century became name for paprika), pinch salt. Mix with lukewarm milk to a stiff dough. Grease tin, line with pastry and put cake dough into lined tin. Cover top with pastry also and press well into edges. Brush top with egg, prick all over top with fork and bake in moderate oven 3 ot 5 hours. Use round tin 7½x3½ inches if possible.

Scottish Bun (Contributed by Mrs. M. McP.)

One and one-half breakfast cups flour, ¼ lb. butter, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 lb. flour, ½ lb. sugar, 2 lbs. raisins, 3 lbs. currants, ½ lb. almonds, ¼ lb. orange peel, ½ oz. ginger, ½ oz. cinnamon, ½ oz. Jamaica pepper (paprika), 1 teaspoon each baking soda and cream of tartar, ½ teaspoon black pepper, 1 breakfast cup milk. Directions: Take 1½ breakfast cups flour and rub in ¼ cup butter and ½ teaspoon baking powder. Mix to a firm paste with water. Roll into a thin sheet. Grease cake tin and line the tin reserving a piece of dough for top. Put together all the other ingredients and a breakfast cup milk or as much as will moisten the fruit and flour. Mix thoroughly, put into lined tin and put on the lid, prick over with fork and brush with a little beaten egg. Bake 2½ to 3 hours in moderate oven. I wish you success.

Thank you Mrs. M. McP.

Fruit Loaf (Contributed by Mrs. H.E.N.)

Three pounds bread flour, 1¾ lbs. butter, 1½ lbs. granulated sugar, 1 yeast cake or package dry yeast, 6 eggs, 2 oz. lemon peel, 1 nutmeg grated, 2 lbs. currants, 1 pint warm milk, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons vinegar. Rub butter into flour, add salt, nutmeg, sugar fruit. Blend yeast and a little sugar, mix in with beaten eggs and warm milk, add soda in a little hot water. Add to yeast, egg and milk mixture, then add vinegar and stir into flour mixture; put in loaf tins and let rise 1 hour. Bake 1½ hours to 2 hours at 350 deg. Fahr.

Thank you too Mrs. H.E.N.

A letter from M. G. gives a Currant Loaf without any spices, and since W.W.P. said what she wants is highly spiced I will not print it being at the end of my tether anyway.

Thanks everybody for coming to my rescue—and I hope all of your lums reek lang.

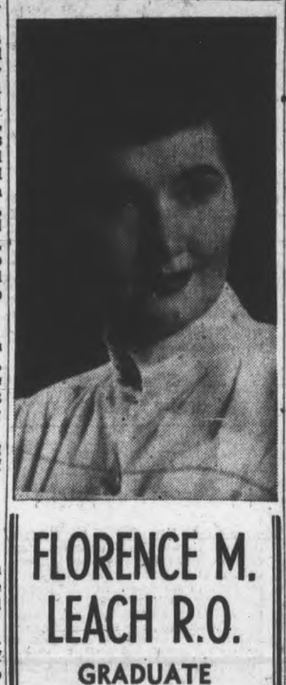
Mrs. A. Brown I.O.D.E. Secretary

LAKEFIELD (ENS). — Mrs. A. J. Brown was named secretary of the Catherine Parr Traill Chapter, I.O.D.E., when they met at the home Mrs. L. J. Delaney for the October meeting. This appointment was made necessary as the former secretary, Mrs. William Croft, has left the village to live in Toronto. Mrs. A. W. Newson acted as secretary for the meeting. The regent, Mrs. K. Lichty presided.



Parcels are being sent to England in time for Christmas. This project is under the convenership of Mrs. L. Quackenbush. Educational secretary, Mrs. T. W. Chaplin gave a paper on "Silkworms" and told of the ones now engaged in manufacturing the silk threads that will be used in the coronation gown to be worn by Her Majesty, Quen Elizabeth II.

Mrs. Earl Orr, corresponding secretary, was given a vote of thanks for the job she is doing.

Mrs. A. J. Brown, Empire study convener, gave a paper on communism in which she claimed that public credulity led to communism. Child and Family Welfare convener, Mrs. L. Quackenbush, reported that help was being given to a needy family in the village.

It was decided that a short condensation of an autobiography or any current book would be given at each meeting.

The raffle prize donated by Mrs. Quackenbush was won by Mrs. G. Winder-Smith. Mrs. B. Q. Dench and Mrs. Smith assisted the hostess in serving tea.

Campbellford

Mrs. A. B. McDonald of London has been spending some time visiting her son, R. D. McDonald and family.

Mr. Earl Hinton and Mrs. M. L. Hinton, brother and mother of Mrs. C. L. Bland, have come to Campbellford to spend the winter with Mrs. Bland.

L. A. C. and Mrs. Glenn Brunton and their infant son, Dennis, of Rockliffe, are spending a week visiting relatives in town and at Stanwood.

Mrs. Harold Spencer has returned from Niagara Falls where she attended the eighth annual convention of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ontario. Mrs. Spencer was a delegate from the local club.

A farewell dinner party was given Miss Joan Robertson by Eva Smith and her class-mates at the Trent House on Monday evening. Those present were Caroline Wilkes, Beverley Beaudoin, Lorraine Hines, Barbara Clark, Geraldine Kellogg, Nancy Island, Jean Hogle and Isobel Chadwick. After the dinner, Joan was presented with a cup and saucer. The family, Mr. and Mrs. Borden Robertson, plan to move to Oshawa in the near future.

6 Months Free Transportation Only at Harry Goodman's

Can you purchase a car on this sensational plan.

Any car purchased from us during the month of November may be turned back in on another car for the price you paid for it . . . six months later.

Buy a car in November . . . trade it back to us next May and you don't lose a penny.

Drive all winter without losing a cent in depreciation. Never before has anyone had an opportunity to buy a car on this new plan.

All cars sold during this great sale can be driven all winter and turned back to us next May and get full purchase price allowed on any car in our stock at regular price. Don't miss this great opportunity of all time to choose a car from the finest selection of all makes and models now being offered by HARRY GOODMAN.

This offer good only during the month of November and does not apply to car dealers, taxi companies, or where cars are used for rent or hire.

Cars returned to us for exchange must be in same condition as when sold with the exception of the usual wear and tear . . . no restrictions on mileage.

You can't afford to miss this chance of a lifetime to get six months free transportation.

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL.

Confederation Home and School Association held open house this week and once again a record attendance was made. An added attraction was the hame bake table which was financially successful.

The meeting opened with the singing of O Canada followed by a short devotional period led by Mrs. J. G. Pollock, religious convener.

Mrs. W. Warren, health convener, announced that the first meeting to make cancer dressing would be held at the school Nov. 18th at two o'clock in the nurses room.

The parents interviewed the teachers in their class rooms and saw the work of the students

The home bake table was convened by Mrs. H. Moore, Mrs. J. Grierson, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Dawson and Mrs. Thibideau.

Athletic Union Studies Press Relations

By JACK SULLIVAN

HAMILTON (CP)—The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada today recognized that the success of the union in the future depends on the establishment of good relations with the press and radio of Canada. At the same time it chided "some newspaper men" who find the union "a convenient whipping post when they have some grievances on amateur sport which they wish to air."

A report of the public relations committee, presented at the A.A.U.'s annual meeting said, however, that "we encourage these attacks as long as we pursue a policy of non-communication of our activities and policies on a national basis."

The report, presented by chairman Fred Rowell of Vancouver, urged that the union take "positive" steps to encourage better relations with the newspapers and radio.

The report warned that "the continual barrage of criticism of officials in amateur sport will have the inevitable result of eliminating many officials who have interested themselves in promoting amateur sport at their own expense—and deter would-be officials from giving amateur sport the necessary stimulus to raise the national performance of our athletes.

"This negative, critical, attitude might be eliminated or modified if the press and radio were kept informed of our activities and policies at frequent intervals, and might be replaced by a positive attitude which would encourage and stimulate the union to further efforts," the report added.

Former Ottawa Mayor Frank H. Plant Dies

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank Henry plant, chairman of the Ottawa Hydro Electric Commission and a former mayor of Ottawa, died suddenly early today at his home.

Mr. Plant, a native of London, Ont., was taken ill late last night and died three hours later. He is survived by his widow, the former Ethel Louise Low, and a son, Frank Jr.

Annexation

to annex part of the built-up section of Smith bordering on the northern edge of the city. That was after the city was no longer able to provide fire protection for the area. And the problem of school accommodation was growing more acute.

EXPECTED ANNEXATION

"We prepared to hang on indefinitely but we expected that annexation would come sooner or later."

Strong opposition to the move came from Smith ratepayers, shortly before the first sitting of the Board. The ratepayers understood their assessment and taxes would take a big jump and they would receive few if any immediate benefits.

A group of some 30 veterans, who built under the Veterans' Land Act, felt they were particularly hard hit.

Allan McNabb, regional supervisor of V.L.A., said that the veterans coming under this act were allowed a minimum of half an acre of land up till 1946. Then the minimum was raised to two or three [illegible] of the farmlands at the surrounding community rates.

"We try to settle them in rural areas where taxes would be about $60 a year, for at least 10 years," said Mr. McNabb.

CAN'T SELL LAND

(The veteran does not own the land until he has fulfilled his contract after a 10-year occupancy. He cannot sell any part of it.

(Most of them have at least a 200-foot frontage on Sunset Boulevard or Harper St. and if local improvements cost 94 cents a year per foot frontage (City Engineer Chalmer's estimate), their local improvement tax alone would total at least $188.)

Michael Sullivan, one veteran who testified on Thursday night, has 227 feet of frontage on Sunset and another 382 feet on Harper.

"I can't see any benefits coming to me," said Mr. Sullivan. I have a drilled well—better than water the city can provide and lots of it—and a toilet. I object to the annexation."

W. F. Huycke, counsel for the city, intimated that the veterans would get special consideration. Similar annexation problems have arisen and been surmounted at Guelph and Kitchener.

Mr. Meiklejohn who has a 140 acre farm with two houses, two barns, and outbuildings is now assessed $5,600 and taxes are $270.

According to a tentative assessment made by City Assessor Ed Davis, his new assessment would be more than $14,000 and his taxes about $1,000.

Under Section 35 of the Municipal Act he may be exempted if he has not proper services, Mr. Huycke said. There is also a method of assessing his [illegible]

Recruiting Stays At Rate Over Average

Recruiting for the 50th H.A.A. Regiment (reserve) continued at an above-average rate during October, the regiment's instruction and administrative staff said today. Twelve recruits were processed into the reserve army unit while two others were transferred from other units.

Men who joined in October were: R. B. Caldwell, A. Bromley, R. J. Cooper, R. A. Corp, B. W. Crowe, F. E. Crowe, R. J. McClennan, R. W. Nicholls, W. S. Scott, W. F. Young, and F. C. Fuller. Transferred from other regiments were V. E. Nelson, Essex Scottish Regiment, Windsor, and M. F. Clarke, 28th Technical Squadron, Peterborough.

The 13 additional men in October is rated high for reserve units, according to the I. and A. staff. So far indications this week point to a better recruiting total for November.

SECOND LARGEST UNIT

With the September and October recruits the 50th Regiment is reported to be about the second largest reserve unit in the Eastern Ontario army area.

Approximately 100 of the unit's strength will take part in a scheme to Cobourg's rifle ranges on Sunday. There the men will shoot to obtain their annual range classification.

Using .303 rifles, the men will fire about 50 rounds for their classification which is based on grouping, rapid fire, application and other requirements.

The shoot will be under the direction of Capt. L. D. Foster and will take most of Sunday to complete. The men will be served lunch and dinner by the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps.

Church Council Considers Asking Gambling Ban

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Council of Churches will consider asking a ban on all kinds of gambling when it holds its ninth annual session in London, Ont., Nov. 11-14, it was learned today.

"State gambling soon degenerates, into vicious corruption and personal exploitation," one resolution on the council's agenda says. "The licensing of gambling has not been, is not, and never will be a substitute for the proper performance of duty on the part of responsible officials."

In the proposed motion the federal government would be asked to repeal the section of the criminal code which allows prizes to be raffled at church bazaars.

"No church or Christian organization should seek to raise funds by lotteries," says a statement from the convention's resolution committee.

The council also will be asked to back a resolution urging a ban on obscene literature and stiffer opposition to commercialized Sunday sports.

Lovers Quarrel One Takes Poison

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A brilliant refugee from Austria, upset after a quarrel with his young American fiancee, ate poisoned cookies to kill himself, a detective said last night.

The cyanaide suicide occurred in a University of Texas science laboratory. Elizabeth Tracht, 22, found her fiance, 27-year-old Heinz Berger, dead.

Berger and the co-ed were to have been married next week, but had quarreled yesterday.

Miss Tracht returned later to see Berger again.

Detective Merle Wells said Berger, Miss Tracht and another co-ed, Maria Donada, had been working on insect experiments and that the man professors called "very brilliant" had smeared cyanide on cookies and ate them.

• If you're miserable from the "hot flashes," and accompanying irritable, restless feelings of "change of life"—you may be suffering unnecessarily!

For, in tests by doctors, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought relief from such functionally-caused suffering—in case after case! Complete or striking relief.

Yes! Research has proved Lydia Pinkham's thoroughly modern in action . . . has shown you where to look for relief from those distressing, nervous, "out of sorts" feelings of mid-life "change"!

So get Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, or new, improved Tablets. Both are grand, too, for functional pains and "weak" feelings of monthly periods.

It acts through a woman's sympathetic nervous system to relieve distress of these awful "head waves"!

Ask Smoking In Bed Criminal Offence

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba Hotel Association has asked that smoking in bed be made a criminal offence.

The association, in annual session here yesterday, requested the change in the fire prevention act after considering a Saskatchewan regulation which now provides a minimum fine of $25 for the offence.

Advises Toronto Follow Hamilton Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Lloyd Jackson of Hamilton yesterday advised Toronto to follow the example of Hamilton and St. Catharines and plan homes for the aged in the Toronto area.

Toronto's Mayor Lamport said the plan was a challenge to Toronto service clubs and pledged the city's support. He said the city would join in an appeal to the Ontario government for amendments to the housing act so that the five-per-cent provincial aid, now available only to municipalities, could go to service clubs.

Mayor Jackson said in his city each service club forming a limited company could undertake individual projects of 20 units costing about $100,000. The club would be required to raise $5,000 to $10,000.

The club contribution would be an investment which would be returned, with limited dividends, over a long period.

Merchants Work With Examiner For Christmas

Special activities for Christmas 1952 in Peterborough will get under way the last week of November.

The Retail Section of the Chamber of Commerce, The Examiner and Peterborough merchants are co-operating in a Christmas Jamboree program.

James Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said today that the program will include street decorations, Christmas music and food hamper draws.

Cross-the-street red and green lights will be hung and Christmas trees with lights will be placed on every lamp standard in the main shopping district.

Christmas music will be broadcast from the town clock tower and roving groups of costumed carollers will sing Christmas carols on the streets.

Customers in Peterborough stores will be given free coupons on draws for 100 food hampers during the pre-Christmas shopping period. Shoppers in the city for the three Saturdays before Christmas will be able to send their children to one of the city's theatres free of charge.

Special Christmas shopping editions of The Examiner will be published on each of the four Wednesdays before Christmas.

Salary Tripled

ETE, England (CP)—The statutory salary of the mayor of this Suffolk town at £75, is believed to be the smallest in the country. Now it's going to be tripled.

Sugar Beet Industry Said Hard Hit

CHATHAM (CP)—The Chatham News says in a newspage story today that the Ontario sugar beet industry may be seriously curtailed because of heavy imports of refined sugar from Cuba.

Price of beet sugar has dropped from $10.80 a hundredweight to $8.60 in 16 months and $1.30 since Cuban sugar began to move into Canada in quantity last February, processors said today.

Farmers, who grow some 31,000 acres of beets annually in this district, are expected to meet soon to discuss the situation. The News said acreage may be severely curtailed next year.

The story referred to a recent conference at Ottawa between representatives of farmers and processors and Trade Minister Howe. The processors objected to the volume of imports from Cuba and urged a system of quotas for refined sugar imports, similar to that in the United States.

NO MORE STOGIES FOR JIMMY—Jimmy Parmenter, 23-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Parmenter, of Jacksonville, Fla., must give up smoking. Juvenile Court Judge Walter Criswell ruled that cigars were bad for the child's health, and that Jimmy, who has been smoking since he was 13 months old, set a bad example for other children. From now on, Jimmy will ask in vain for a light from his mother, left, above.

Cattle Trade Active During Week

TORONTO (CP)—Cattle trade was active this week at the Ontario stockyards and prices were $1-2 higher on top grades and $1-1.50 higher on cows, bulls and lower grade steers. Calves, hogs, sheep and lambs were unchanged. The holdover at the close was 300 cattle.

Cattle receipts were 6,180 head. Choice heavy steers sold at $26-$27.50 with good to choice weighty steers at $24-26 and plain downward to $15. Good light steers were at $22-23.50 with common at $12-16. Good heifers brought $20-21 and choice fed yearlings $24-25 with medium at $18-23. Good stockers made $20-22 with plain as low as $15. Medium to good cows sold at $11-13.50 with canners downward to $10. Good heavy bulls were at $14-15.50 with common light at $10-13.

Calves totalled 2,742 head. Choice veal calves sold strong at $26-29 with common to medium at $14-25 and grassers for slaughter at $11-12.

Hog receipts totalled 4,066. Hog prices were unchanged at $26 for grade A with sows at $17 dressed.

Lamb receipts were 2,556 head. Good ewes and wethers sold at $22 delivered by rail and at $21 by truck. Bucks and heavies were at $19-20 and culls at $10-17. Good light sheep made $8-10 with culls and heavies downward to $4.

Say Wandering Pigs Set Off Border Firing

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — An army statement Thursday said a 30 minute exchange of fire between Turkish and Bulgarian soldiers on the frontier Tuesday was set off by wandering pigs.

The statement said Turkish troops opened fire in the direction of the Bulgarian frontier when they heard suspicious "noises." In the morning soldiers found the dead pigs. Prior to the army explanation, some Turkish newspapers had called for retaliatory measures.

Big Three Of West Meet For Talks On Korea War

Escaped Convicts Yield Meekly, Fled From Train

OTTAWA (CP)—Penitentiary convicts Jean Paquin, 29, and Real Poirer, 21, meekly yielded to police last night, almost 48 hours after they had plunged through the window of a moving railway coach into the night and the northern bush country near North Bay, Ont. Wearing grey prison denims, with steel bands around their ankles, they were picked up by two police constables as they stood on the main street of suburban Eastview trying to hitch-hike a ride to Montreal.

"We don't want any more trouble. We've had enough," one of them told police.

An Ottawa motorist, Jacques Paris, who gave them a ride into town from Cumberland, 15 miles east of here, tipped police where the convicts could be found.

Poirier, named as ringleader of the Aug. 1 Bordeaux prison riot in Montreal, and Paquin were being transferred with other prisoners from St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary, Montreal, to Stoney Mountain penitentiary in Manitoba.

PLUNGED FROM TRAIN

On Wednesday night, as the Canadian Pacific Railway's crack continental limited travelled between Chalk River and Sudbury, they crashed through a window and rolled down an embankment. The train had slowed to about 45 miles an hour and the two men were cut and bruised in the escape.

Not until after their escape, they told police, did they break the chains between their ankles, pounding them with rocks. They hid in the bush the rest of the night and then began a haphazard two-day journey back down the Ottawa Valley, getting rides from a series of motorists. During all that time, they said, they had nothing to eat.

Paquin, convicted on a series of thefts, was serving an eight-year sentence. Poirier had been given a seven-year term for armed holdup.

Mr. Paris said he suspected their identity as soon as he picked them up in his car at Cumberland. He asked them to get out when he reached Eastview, and they did. He then drove to the police station and reported to police. Police picked up the convicts without a struggle.

Eisenhower May Pick Southerner For U.S. Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower is expected to name a Southerner—and possibly a Democrat—to his cabinet in recognition of the unprecedented vote he rolled up in the south.

While the general hardly has had time since his landslide victory in last Tuesday's election to make progress toward picking any cabinet member, friends here said they believe he will make it clear by such an appointment that he intends to deal the South in on his administration.

Eisenhower's three top supporters in the South were Governors James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, Robert Kennon of Louisiana and Allan Shivers of Texas. None of them may want a cabinet post, but all might be consulted about the selection of a Dixie colleague.

MIGHT NAME WOMAN

A Texas woman, Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, already has been mentioned as a possibility if a woman is chosen.

However, selection of Mrs. Hobby probably would not represent the kind of recognition for the South that some of Eisenhower's advisers have in mind.

These strategists are looking at the vote polled by the general in Dixie as the possible basis for revival of the Republican party in an area where it has been only a skeleton organization. Eisenhower carried Virginia, Florida, Texas and apparently Tennessee.

21 Internees Hurt In Pusan POW Riots

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—The United Nations prisoner-of-war command reported today that 21 Communist civilian internees were injured when South Korean guards entered a compound Thursday to quell a demonstration.

The Allied command said the internees are on Pongam Island, south of Koje Island.

The internees shouted insults to the South Koreans and resisted them when the guards were ordered in to restore order, the prisoner command said. None of the internees was injured seriously.

Reds In Malaya Pressed For Aid

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters)—Malayan guerrillas are hard-pressed to replace casualties in their jungle war with British forces, a former high-ranking Communist leader said today.

Wei Keiong, 28, an active Communist since 1948, was the only survivor of a British ambush last July. He escaped but later surrendered with his wife.

He told reporters today that the guerrillas are having great difficulty finding recruits, helpers, and arms and ammunition as a result of the intensified government drive and the resettlement of 500,000 Chinese squatters in new villages.

He said one half the guerrillas joined out of fear of police action for their wartime activities and not because of a belief in communism. Later recruits joined to avoid "conscription for Korean fighting"—a Communist-inspired rumor which was spread throughout the country.

Italian Reds Losing Members

TURIN, Italy (AP)—A member of a pro-Communist political party last night said Turin's Red-allied Chamber of Labor has "lost tens of thousands of members" to anti-Communist trade unions in recent months.

Speaking at a general meeting of the chamber, Nazario Nazzari, a member of the small pro-Communist party of Christian Unity, said:

"Something must be wrong, otherwise we wouldn't have lost tens of thousands of members. If our basic policies are not wrong, what is needed is a radical change of methods of activity."

Five Reported Killed In U.S. Bomber Crash

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Italian authorities said today the death toll in the crash of a United States B-26 yesterday now is believed to be five. Three bodies have been recovered. Carabinieri have been told two more were in the plane.

Italian informants said the military plane slammed into Mt. Lo Spagnolo west of Salerno during a storm that struck during Allied war games. They reported also that two other Allied planes crashed up: [illegible] near Capodichino airport in Naples. No one was reported hurt. The other, unidentified, plunged into the Sicilian straits during a mock attack. Its crew of three was rescued from rough water.

N.Y. Meetings Set Policy On War, U.N.

Acheson 'Lame Duck' After Democrats' Loss In Elections

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (AP)—Foreign ministers of the Big Three western powers scheduled meetings in New York today and tomorrow for top-level policy discussions on Korea and other major problems facing the United Nations.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain is due to arrive today to take part in the Korean debate.

The other two ministers—France's Robert Schuman and the United States State secretary, Dean Acheson—already are on hand. Schuman arrived in New York Friday and Acheson returned to the U. N. for his first appearance since he went to his Maryland home to vote in the U.S. election.

DELAY ARRIVALS

Eden and Schuman purposely had delayed their arrivals at the U. N. until after the American voting. Now they are confronted with the fact that Acheson is in a "lame duck" position as a result of the Republican victory.

As yet, there were no plans for all three to get together today or tomorrow. American delegation spokesmen said Acheson had scheduled separate meetings with both Eden and Schuman.

Debate on the deadlocked Korean armistice question was suspended during the week-end. Russia's Andrei Vishinsky returns Monday as the initial speaker in the political commitee.

Schuman is scheduled to speak later Monday in a General Assembly plenary session.

Eden hopes to present Britain's policies to the Assembly Tuesday. During his visit to the U. S., he also may seek a meeting with president-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower to discuss joint British-American problems.

Inheritance Tax Is £7,582,119

LONDON (AP)—Inheritance tax collectors today took a bite of £7,582,119 from the estate of Viscount Portman, who died in 1948. The death duty, amounting to 75 per cent of the estate of the wealthy landowner, was the second-biggest levy in recent years in Britain.

The value of the portion of the estate subject to levy was fixed at about £10,100,000 after four years of negotiation. The Viscount's successor, the 49-year-old eighth Viscount Portman, has disposed of many properties and will sell an additional 20 acres of real estate in the St. Marylebone section of London—an important business district—to pay the tax.

The highest death duty ever paid was about £20,000,000 reported to have been assessed on the estate of the late Sir John Ellerman, shipping magnate who died in 1936.

Miners Refuse Shift

of miners in Scotland and South Wales today refused to work a Saturday shift in protest against the rejection of their claim for a weekly wage increase of 30 shillings.

A SURPRISE LIGHT SNOWFALL blanketed Peterborough and district between 3 a.m. and dawn today, the first to lie on the ground for any length of time this autumn. This, according to amateur weather forecasters, should be followed by Indian Summer. It brought picturesque scenes to early risers, such as a view of the Duck Pond looking south, and later, as it melted, a rash of minor car-skidding accidents.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Don Guards Lost Control Before Escape Of Boyd Gang

TORONTO (CP)—Discipline at the Don jail for three or four years before the Boyd gang's escape Sept. 8 became so lax that guards no longer had control, George A. Heath, chief turnkey at the jail, said yesterday. "If a guard said the wrong word, the prisoner would lay a charge," he said before the Royal Commission inquiring into conditions at the jail. "But when a prisoner abused us, we knew it was no use laying a charge."

"You mean you weren't backed up?" asked Judge Ian Macdonell.

"That's right," Heath replied.

"The governor might give the prisoner a little lecture, but nothing more."

He testified that discipline has tightened considerably since the escape and guards can now command a prisoner's respect.

Following the escape of the four members of the gang, Edwin Boyd, Steve Suchan and William and Leonard Jackson, jail Governor Thomas W. Brand, Deputy Governor Alex Noble and several guards were suspended.

George Hutchison, a guard at the jail for 16 years, said the gang must have known of the existence of a special microphone leading to the governor's office.

"I was up there one day when Governor Brand called over the mike, "Suchan, your lawyer will be up to see you this afternoon." I was very surprised because I thought it was only a one-way system."

$300,000 Fire Razes Warehouse At Picton

PICTON (CP)—Fire early today destroyed the warehouse of Sun Joy Foods, Limited, at nearby Bloomfield, with a loss estimated at more than $300,000.

The one-storey building, of sheet-metal construction, was filled with the year's pack of canned vegetables. The flames gutted the in[illegible]

Firemen and volunteers from the Royal Canadian School of Artillery at Picton, 18 miles southeast of Belleville, helped keep the fire from reaching the factory a few yards from the warehouse.

Truck Overturns 3 Dead, 2 Hurt

MONTAGUE, P.E.I. (CP)—Three persons, including two teen-agers, were killed today when a half-ton truck overturned on the highway at New Perth, about six miles from here.

The dead: Cecil Naddy, 23, Greenfield; Gerald Dunn, 17, Victoria Cross and Edith MacKinnon, 17, Militown Cross.

Rotterdam Idle, Ship Blocks Port

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (Reuters)—This great Dutch port lay idle today, its traffic cut off by the wreck of the 6,379-ton freighter Faustus, which sank in the entrance to the harbor last night.

No ships could leave. At least eight others, including the 15,000-ton Holland-America liner Maasdam, hove to in heavy seas outside the port, or steamed for shelter elsewhere.

High waters smashed the Faustus over a breakwater last night. Today she was completely submerged. Salvage experts said the only way to clear the channel quickly was to blow her up.

The Faustus, lying directly across the seaway, wrecked the [illegible]

"Economic Saboteur" Flies To W. Germany

BERLIN (Reuters)—Fritz Rohrmann, East Berlin bus operator who said he faced trial as an "economic saboteur" because he owned three buses, was safe in West Berlin today—with one of his buses.

After sending his family on by train he labelled the bus "special" and drove unhindered across the border. Police even stopped other traffic to wave him on.
